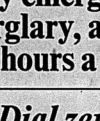
PICTON (Staff) — The old accident trail, Prince Edward County Road 18 from the Outlet Park to Cherry Valley, now has a new makeup.

At one time very bumpy with some almost 90 degree turns, the road had a very high accident rate.

One night in the summer of 1967 saw five accidents occurring on the six mile stretch itself and a few years ago two motorcyclists were killed in an accident on the road.

Now, after six months of construction, the Moffatt Construction Company of Ottawa has almost completely finished rebuilding the road.



The $409,374 contract is for rebuilding and paving almost six miles of road beginning two miles south of the Outlet Park entrance and continuing into Cherry Valley.

Because of poor weather, there is still some grading and curbing to be completed.

However, it was not intended that the stretch of road be paved before the early months of the summer of 1970.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

FIRST CARMEL GIRL GUIDES

The First Carmel Girl Guides held their enrolment ceremony recently when eight tenderfoots were enrolled by their Captain, Mrs. D. Howes; assisted by Lieut. Elizabeth Howes and Lieut. Betty Bannon. Doug Mitchell, a Guide father, presented each tenderfoot with a book mark bearing the Guide Law.

Second class badges were presented four guides, while at least 15 guides received their first or second year stars.

At the ceremony, leaders of the Thistle and Pansy Patrols received their stripes, and seconds of the Thistle, Trillium and Daffodil patrols received their insignia.

The Guides then entertained the parents with a program.

The annual first Carmel Christmas party was held at the home of patrol leader, Vicky Clarke. Patrol leader, Regyna Armocos thanked the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, for opening their home for the party.

Newly Divorced Can Really Swing

TORONTO (CP) — If you want to celebrate your divorce, three young University of Toronto students can help make it a really swinging bash.

Operating out of a wildly decorated basement in suburban Etobicoke, Ross Vipond, Bruce Roberts and, Michael Hodgins plan parties with a difference — for about $300 a party plus food and drink.

So far they three-month-old company, People for Special Occasions, has designed 15 parties for Torontonians and is booked up for at least 13 more this month, including a divorce celebration with a Christmas fairy-land theme.

"We want to give parties . . . total involvement through decorations and ceremonies," Ross said in an interview.

The business is intended primarily to pay the three students' tuition fees. But, says Hodgins, it's also a needed diversion.

For one party they planned a Bavarian beer festival using $1.50 toys, sauce barrels, posters, flags and a cheese-wheel packing case for decorations and beer and cold meat for food.

At a car rally party they had guests begin a scavenger hunt by travelling by car to the local police station to ask for copies of the Highway Traffic Act. The catch was that all drivers were supposed to return by making an illegal U-turn in front of the station.

They had to tone down one planned Grey Cup party because the hostess wouldn't go for carting the guests outside to a barbecue in a chuck wagon.

The three figure that since people have more money and time on their hands these days they are on to a profitable and needed business.

So far they've been little more than bartenders at some of their parties, but, says Michael, "we plan to get more creative."

The Coat Dress: Ideal For Every Occasion

NEW YORK (CP) — The coat dress is rapidly becoming almost a daytime uniform with many women, and is even invading the late-day scene.

Functional and versatile, coat dresses are ideal for the travel wardrobe, since in many climates they can substitute for a coat worn with a lightweight shaped dress underneath.

They can be the complete coat for shopping or similar activities in Canadian spring weather, although some are intended as daytime dresses only and make no pretension of real coat qualities.

Some extremely smart variations of the coat dress are included in the New York winter collections. The Originals salon used black gabadine for a side-closing style with a wide, four-button self-belt and a neat little collar. This style, with the accent on the coat, could carry through spring.

On the other hand, Kimberly has a double-buttoned wool knit, intended only as a dress, in a magnified black-and-white glen plaid, completely edged in black and black-patent-belted. And the coat dress invaded the late-day field with Samuel Winston's taupe velvet in a broad-tail print with rhinestone clasp closing and sporting patch pockets. This could even be worn as a theatre coat. Adele Simpson also designed a coat dress in simulated broadtail.

Even this season's popular tweed gets into the coat dress act. Donald Brooks scored twice by adding a quilted leather girdle-belt to his tweed coat dress. Cinched-in waists are the latest news. And Junior Sophisticates also used the step-in coat dress in tweed in plaid style. Mrs. Simpson binds a flicker tweed coat dress with leather, another popular fall-winter accent, also popular with a number of designers. Gaston Berthelot of Christian Dior-New York likes bachelor button bright blue for his version. He also introduced a black velvet coat dress with white pierrot ruffle neck.

Coat dresses take to every fabric, even to denim. The Denim Council showed a couple in its winter collection, one in navy with Eton collar and the other in a copper plaid fitted style with patch pockets.

Coat dresses evolved away back in the mid-1940s when a new silhouette gave coats a dress look. There was a demand for a soft dressmaker coat—the softer the better—and these soon came to serve as either a dress or a coat. By the end of the 1950s the easy coat dress was appearing in late-day wear as well.

In the spring of 1960 fashion authority Eleanor Lambert told the press at the New York showings that the coat dress was a top favorite in crisp wool, silk-and-wool or cravat silk. By the fall of '61 it was appearing in suiting or coating fabric for daytime and heavy silk otomas for evenings. And each year since, it has steadily consolidated its own place in fashion.

COAT DRESS GAINS GROUND — A double-buttoned wool knit coat dress by Kimberly of New York. In a magnified black-and-white glen plaid edged in black it is black-patent-belted. The coat dress is being worn by more and more women, and is even invading the late-day scene.

Manual Draws A Blank

VANCOUVER (CP) — There's a section in the police training manual on how to handle a woman — but it is blank Alan Rossiter, former traffic superintendent, told of returning home one night.

"What's that on your arm," his wife asked. "A set of teeth marks — I was bitten by a woman" — through four layers of clothing.

Women's Institutes

RIVER VALLEY W.I.

The Christmas meeting of the River Valley Women's Institute was held Thursday, December 8, at the home of Mrs. Albert Wilhelm, Rainbow Fishing Lodge. Twenty-three ladies were in attendance.

Mrs. Gerald Irvine, president of the Hastings West District paid an official visit. She gave an interesting report of the field work in the North. There are 13 northern Institutes in the Mackenzie District of the Yukon. Mrs. M. E. Lambert, a field worker, has recently organized Coppermine W.I. for Eskimo women.

Mrs. Ross Bush voiced thanks to the District president for her message and made her a presentation of a gift.

Mrs. Glenn Bush convened the programs. Mrs. Harry Morrow read a selection and Mrs. Vernon Harry gave a hobby demonstration, and showed the group how to make a bouquet of fantastic blooms in a wide range of colors.

Gifts for mental health patients were gathered to be taken to Belleville for distribution. Mrs. Percy MacMullen, friendship list secretary, gave the members their individual Christmas gifts from Abbots Leigh W.I. in England. A Christmas gift exchange was an added attraction.

Mrs. Gerald Brooks and Mrs. Roy Irven are the leaders for the 4-H Club project in 1966. Mrs. Vernon Harry will be hostess for the next meeting, in January. Those assisting with the program included Mrs. Roy Tucker, Mrs. S. McIntosh, Mrs. S. Irvan and Mrs. Roy Irven.

Ann Landers

Children Gain Respect By Keeping Silent

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in the letter from ABC, the teen-age girl whose father was cheating on her mother. You told her to keep her mouth shut and suggested the possibility that her mother probably knew what was going on and pretended not to see. You added, "When a mother is confronted with such information she may be forced to ask for a divorce which she doesn't want, as a matter of pride."

ANN LANDERS

I was glad you gave that advice, Ann, because I am the wife of a cheating husband and my children are aware of their father's unfaithfulness. Several weeks ago I overheard my 10-year-old daughter tell her 17-year-old brother she saw daddy's car again — parked on a side street by Mrs. J's house. But they've never said anything to me.

I appreciate my children's silence more than they'll ever know. It shows strong character and genuine consideration. I am aware, too, that just because a man is unfaithful does not mean he is rotten to the core and deserves to be thrown out. My husband happens to be a wonderful father and he has many fine qualities. Unfortunately, he's not quite grown up in some ways. This is not his first affair. The poor fellow has been involved with at least three other young women. Like so many other immature males, he uses extramarital sex as a prop for his sagging ego.

Living with the problem is not easy, but it's better than the alternative. — UNDERSTANDING HELPS.

DEAR UNDERSTANDING: I admire the breadth of your understanding and the absence of hostility. Not every wife could accommodate to such a situation, but apparently you have weighed and measured and made your decision on the basis of what is best for you and your family. Congratulations.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The woman (I should say girl) upstairs asked if I would watch her baby Tuesday night. I had a bowling date and didn't want to break it so I said no. She tried her best to talk me into it. (She and her husband had been asked by another couple to help celebrate their wedding anniversary.) I refused to change my mind, however.

A couple of days later I found out the girl and her husband took the baby with them and left him in the back seat of the car while they went from tavern to tavern. They got home at 3:00 a.m.

If anything had happened to that baby I would never have forgiven myself. I am a nervous wreck just thinking about it. What can be done about parents like that? — MIDDLETON, N.Y.

DEAR MIDDLETON: If the police had found that baby in the seat of the car the parents could have been charged with neglect. Some parents can lose their children.

It's a shame a mother would have to be pulled into line through fear of police action, but I suggest that you tell her about the risk she is running. It could do some good.

Successful Living

Al-A-Teens Helping Young People Across Canada

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: So many people read your column — may I impose on you to give a boost to an organization which is doing a fine job in several Canadian centres?

It is the Al-A-Teen group, an offshoot of A.A. Young people who belong are getting great help with a social problem — in their own homes— which has been too much for many an older person. Here's a typical case (but no reference to any real teen-ager, living or dead):

Susie Canuck is 13. After years of living with an alcoholic father, she is a pretty mixed-up kid. School achievement is suffering. Home relationships are negative, to say the least. She hates and scorns her father; she clashes with her mother.

At Al-A-Teens she learns, for the first time, that alcoholism is a disease; that her father is not responsible for his failing, which affects his health — physically, mentally spiritually. For the first time she realizes that her mother is also under great stress.

She begins to understand. She shares pent-up feelings with others in the same boat. And she finds she can cope better. — Sponsor of Al-A-Teens.

Dear Sponsor: Which in turn gives Susie a better chance of functioning happily in this mixed-up world.

Teen-agers: If you share Susie's dilemma, The Al-A-Teens where you are want how to give them a chance to help. The A.A. (Alcoholics Anonymous) group can lead you to them; and your family agency or social planning council can lead you to A.A. Pick up the telephone.

If there is no Al-A-Teens group in your community yet, how about starting one? The A.A. leaders would get you going.

Dear Doris: My problem is finding suitable games for church get-togethers where adults and children participate. Would your party sheet help me?

Two games which were a great success were (1) Masquerade Without Masks. I cut out the faces from pictures of people in our church, members of parliament, T.V. actors; pasted them on bodies of cartoons, baseball players, etc. It was really funny! Some Granny's face on a bathing suit model or a stout man's head on a skeleton. I numbered each picture and pinned them up and the one who got the most right won a prize.

(2) People's Names. I made a list of surnames, mostly of guests, then I made clues for each name such as Jack's lad — Jackson; to secure a boat — Moore; tall chapeau — Hyatt; one who uses dough—Baker; part of wind instrument — Reid.

I have had different game books but found they were either too hard for children or too silly, for adults; or they didn't get the people mixing together. — Looking For More

Dear Looking: The Party Games and Refreshments leaflet (10 cents and stamped envelope) has a few good ones. Perhaps other readers will write in with their own bright inventions for mixing all ages. Yours sound hilarious — and thanks!

* * *

Dear Wondering: No reason why not. If this is her habit.

(Leaflets mentioned by Doris are available to readers for 10 cents and a large stamped, less otherwise specified.)

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Baby screams every afternoon all through his bath. I think he's afraid of being wet."

Mother: "I've started giving the baby his bath in the morning. He's not so hungry and fussy then."

A baby usually enjoys his bath. If he's too unhappy about it, question the method and the time of day. A change in routine may solve the problem.

A Change of Pace-Hamburg Stew

By MARY MOORE

On Remembrance Day this year I remembered Victor, my mother's oldest brother's boy. He returned from World War I with a spine wound that he had to endure all the rest of his life. But Vic liked Hamburg Stew and it was at its best when "Elsie left the lumps in the gravy."

In remembrance of Vic I made Hamburg Stew on Barby for dinner on November 11 and we all talked about Vic and his good cheer. It was a wonderful supper and today's column is a good break in the Christmas food columns I have been giving here.

VICTOR'S HAMBURG STEW ON BARLEY (serves 4)

¼ cup pearl barley
3½ cups cold water
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. MSG (Accent)
1¼ lbs. ground chuck beef
1 tsp. salt
1 onion chopped (or 1-3 cup bottled flakes)
1 Oxo cube
4 tsps. flour
1½ cups water (second amount)

Put dinner at six o'clock, at noon in large heavy saucepan soak the barley in the water (first amount) for four hours. Then add the ¾ tsp. salt and MSG and cook, covered two hours or until tender, when barley will have absorbed all of the water.

One-half hour before mealtime sear the ground chuck (without adding any fat) in hot frying pan, breaking it up as it cooks. Stir in the salt (second amount) onion and Oxo and sprinkle flour over and stir in. Add water (second amount) stirring until slightly thickened. Cover and simmer one-half hour.

When serving time arrives, spoon a liberal amount of hot barley onto centre of each warmed dinner plate. Spoon Hamburg Stew over Garnish with parsley or freeze-dried chives.

I served ours with a circle of Brussels sprouts around the barley. It was good on a cold evening. Need I add — cheap?

U.S. Seeks to Curb Use of Swiss Bank Accounts by Americans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Informal discussions have begun with Switzerland to curb the use of secret bank accounts by Americans intent on avoiding taxes and restrictions on stock market speculation, justice department sources say.

These sources said the talks probably will be continued by the incoming Nixon administration with the aim of negotiating a treaty that would limit what was described as widespread abuses.

The House of Representatives banking committee heard testimony Monday that numbered bank accounts, guarded by Swiss laws guaranteeing secrecy, are being used by:

—Gangsters and loan sharks concealing illegally acquired money;

—Salesmen doing business abroad and putting some of their commissions out of reach of U.S. tax authorities;

—Enormous numbers of stock market investors trying to circumvent either the tax laws or the restrictions on trading on margin.

Chairman Wright Patman (Dem. Tex.) said at the close of the hearing he will introduce legislation making it a crime for a U.S. citizen to deal with a foreign bank not allowing U.S. government inspection of its records relating to American accounts.

Patman, who said the hearing will be reconvened after January, indicated he also will press for legislation to put all foreign banks operating in the United States under supervision of federal agencies.

He also indicated he will ask the Federal Reserve Board to make certain that margin requirements for exchange trading are being met by domestic and foreign customers.

And he said he will poll for annual audits by the bank regulatory agencies of all commercial banks.

TV No Substitute for Family Says Educator

TORONTO (CP) — Will today's children, raised with television, space satellites and computer education, discover they have outdistanced the need for a family?

Dr. Margaret McCready, who retires next year after 20 years as dean of Macdonald Institute at the University of Guelph, does not think so.

The educational environment will produce people with the freedom to think things through, to recognize alternatives in tradition and to make decisions.

"But eating a bag of potato chips and thinking exciting thoughts isn't enough. . . . Someone has to make a solid sleeves, should come from the basis for living, someone has to have that knowledge of growing up to provide the groundwork — rest, food, a home, privacy, cultural stimulation, understanding."

That basis for living, she believes, should also help China build grain storage facilities and promote the use of bread instead of rice.

Alberta farmers faced a financial crisis and farm people had to look for new ideas and new ways of doing things, Dr. McCready said.

"Men and women are in this deal together and should know the basic for living together and trying to interpret physical, spiritual and mental living."

Dr. McCready quotes French novelist Simone de Beauvoir, who wrote in The Second Sex that men and women cannot achieve humanity until they affirm their brotherhood.

Dr. McCready says the family has done a "super job" of surviving throughout the centuries.

"A lot of non-action by parents-shouting at their children to shut up and doing little else —comes from ignorance," she said in an interview Monday.

Dr. McCready is on a year's leave of absence before she retires as dean.

She considered job offers from the department of Indian affairs and northern development and with UNPAAO but instead decided to attend meetings of the Internation...l Federation of Home Economists in Stuttgart, Germany, in January. After that she will spend two or three months near Dijon, France, to learn French.

Macdonald Institute was established in 1903 as a division of home economics at the Ontario Agricultural College. In 1952 the first degrees were conferred in household science by the university.

Farm Union Head Wants to Woo China

EDMONTON (CP) — Paul Babey, president of the Farmers' Union of Alberta, wants Canada to establish diplomatic relations with mainland China so that wheat sales can be increased.

He told the FUA annual convention Monday that Canada only way to live with existing markets.

A computerized system, currently being designed, would increase efficiency in farming and be available to all farmers to help them analyze marketing trends, he said.

U.S. Sprinters Will Address Toronto Black Power Rally

TORONTO (CP) — Two United States sprinters who shocked the Mexico Summer Olympics by raising their fists in a black power salute will attend a rally here Friday sponsored by the Afro-American Progressive Association.

Jose Garcia, association president, said Tommie Smith, first-place finisher in the 200-metre race, and John Carlos, who finished third, will be two of the speakers at the rally at the Ontario College of Education.

Smith and Carlos were dropped from the U.S. Olympic team after they raised their fists and bowed their heads while the U.S. national anthem was being played to celebrate their victories.

The rally will be in honor of Huey Newton, a Black Panther organizer convicted in September for voluntary manslaughter in the death of a white policeman in Oakland, Calif. Mr. Garcia said Newton is appealing the conviction.

The meeting will also be a memorial for Ted Watkins, a Chicago-born Negro end with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football League who was slain in June in a California liquor store.

Fugitive Is Caught

OTTAWA (CP) — A man who escaped Sunday after a church service here in which 38 prisoners took part is back in custody, Solicitor-General George McIlraith said Monday.

"The lost has been found," Mr. McIlraith told Heath MacQuarrie (PC—Hillsborough) in the Commons.

The 30-year-old prisoner was one of 26 from Joyceville medium-security prison near Kingston and 12 from the Leclerc prison at Montreal who sang with 15 Mounties in a service at Christ Church Cathedral.

The man quietly ducked out a door during a basement reception later at the Anglican cathedral.

He had been serving a four-year sentence due to expire in December, 1970, for robbery and possessing stolen goods, the spokesman said.

Pepin Stresses Economic Tasks

MONTREAL (CP) — Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin said Monday Canada should find practical answers quickly to its basic constitutional and fiscal problems and get on with the job of economic expansion.

"We must manage our affairs, political and economic, in a way that attracts the necessary savings, domestic and foreign, to invest in our future," he said. "Otherwise the action will go elsewhere."

He told the Montreal Canadian Club that Canada must narrow and then close the productivity gap with the United States.

Canada had world advantages in resources, power, communications, and access to markets. But its productivity trailed the United States by 30 to 35 per cent, and it had a lower percentage of its population in the labor force than most industrial countries.

Oak Hills Flying Club Hub of Activity in Winter

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

OAK HILLS — Despite the snow and cold air of winter, the Oak Hills Flying Club is a hub of activity.

As a matter of fact, the journey by car to the club, located near Oak Lake in the hills north of Belleville, is probably more hazardous in the winter on the back country roads than actually piloting a plane down a snowy runway.

The flying club has a present membership of 80 and winter does little to dampen the spirits of the members.

The Oak Hills Flying Club came into existence in 1964, with a small club house and one 1,500 foot turf runway.

At that time there was one aircraft and 10 members — members who worked diligently on the clubhouse and the runway.

According to Alan Lawes, president of the club, approximately 80 per cent of the work was done by the membership that year.

Since 1964, the membership has steadily increased and so have the facilities of the club.

In 1965, the turf runway was extended to 2,500 feet and was licenced at that length.

The following year the Oak Hills Flying Club was incorporated as a non-profit organization. Just last summer a new, 2,000 foot runway, running north and south was built.

Since the club's beginning four years ago, runway lighting has been installed to enable pilots to land at night.

Along with the increase in membership, was the growth from one airplane to 10. Seven are privately owned and three are owned by the club.

The club has turned out 30 licenced pilots. Two have gone on to earn their commercial licences and their helicopter rating.

CFB Trenton has used the airfield as an emergency field between Toronto and Ottawa.

Oak Hills central location is excellent for flying training, and the club provides Government approved private pilot training courses.

On staff at the club are Ray Irwin, the air engineer who works with two apprentices. Jack Bond is the chief flying instructor with assistance from John Burbidge.

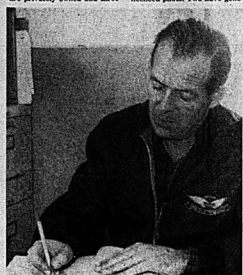
Mr. Lawes said an average of 50 hours a week in the air is the general situation at the club, "but if the weather would co-operate that average would be better."

Since the club's inception a number of hangars have been constructed on the site.

The hangars are one of the rules for flying clubs initiated by the Department of Transport in Toronto.

The operation of the club has been extended now to enable flying seven days a week. Previous activity was restricted to weekends.

When it comes to pilot training, all students are briefed on the ground before taking off from the airstrip. In this way a day's lesson is discussed prior to take-off and the ensuing practical application.



To obtain a licence a student pilot must spend a minimum of 35 hours in the air, an on top of that, he must spend 20 hours in ground school.

There's a fair amount of investment to get a flying club operating. Airplanes themselves usually cost $12000 to $13,000.

Another element of flying club activity is its social functions. The club has participated in last hosted breakfast fly-ins and has a social evening every two weeks.

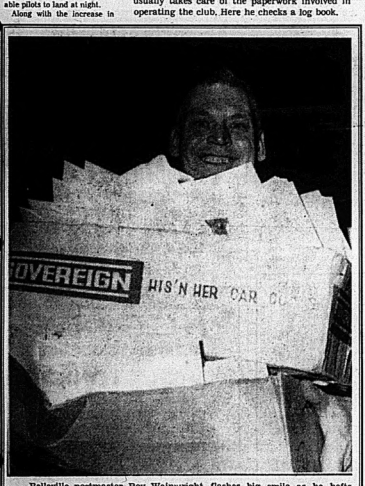
The Oak Hills Flying Club is expanding. Just ask the club president.



Refueling Is Part of Job

Jack Bond and John Burbidge refuel an airplane that has just flown into the club. It's mighty cold work during the winter, but obviously it has to be done.

Paperwork Involved

Oak Hills Flying Club president, Alan Lawes, usually takes care of the paperwork involved in operating the club. Here he checks a log book.

Belleville postmaster Roy Wainwright flashes big smile as he hefts boxes of Christmas mail awaiting sorting in city. But beneath grin there's also an unspoken urgency shared by every mailman these days: Mail early!

Mail Early Is Call At City Post Office

It's a demonstration that's been under way for a good two weeks and will likely last at least another two.

Downstairs, meantime, officers and men of the Royal Canadian Postal Corps are performing similar service with similar urgency.

Belleville is the headquarters postal depot for the armed forces' postal system. Right now, 200-250 bags of mail a day is deposited at the depot — triple the normal volume.

Now being assorted as the seasonal mail for servicemen in Europe and Cyprus. Guaranteed dates of delivery have run out for other destinations aboard.

Corps officers estimate by the time the rush recedes their staff will have despatched 200 tons of mail overseas — and processed another 150 incoming tons for domestic delivery.

But upstairs or downstairs, the plea right now is the same from both postal operations:

Mail early!

For Bellevillians who are civilians postmaster Wainwright warns that the deadline for guaranteed local delivery is Dec. 17. For the rest of Canada, city dwellers should mail greetings by Dec. 13.

Work on 12 PE Dams Suggested

PICTON (Staff) — Water in Prince Edward County, especially the flow and level of it, was the target of 17 recommendations by the Ontario department of energy and resources management in their conservation report to the Prince Edward Regional Conservation Authority.

Recommendations in two other fields, wildlife and lands and forest were also made.

Notable in the report was the fact the authorities felt it necessary to recommend that dams be built or reconstructed and improved at 12 different locations to improve the water conditions in the county.

At least one of those recommended for reconstruction, the Consecon Lake Dam, has been built up again.

The reason for the recommendation was to build the lake up for recreation and to maintain ground-water levels in the area.

Another dam that should be rebuilt for recreational purposes according to the report, is the structure at Demorestville. The report said it could also provide water for fire fighting.

Those two dams took care of human recreation. For wildlife the report stated the dilapidated Fish Lake dam be rehabilitated so it will provide a beneficial fish and wildlife habitat.

Other dams hopefully scheduled for construction or reconstruction are located at Melville, in Bloomfield and Gilbert Mills. Other seasonal dams and special weirs were also recommended for construction at various locations throughout the county.

Stream and level gauges and rain gauges were also recommended for installation throughout the county at different points.

Naturally all of the dams cannot be rebuilt at the same time due to financial restrictions but plans have been made to fulfil as many of the Conservation report's recommendations as soon as possible.

Although the installation or reconstruction of dams took up most of the 17 recommendations in the water portion of the report a few other points were also of interest.

A working knowledge of the precautions necessary to minimize flood damage, the report said, would solve some of the flooding problems in the county.

It was also recommended the PERCA should encourage the use of farm ponds as a means of water conservation.

According to the report most of the 300 square miles that comprise Prince Edward County suffers from an insufficient supply of water.

Naturally all of these areas are rural and it is thought that more farm ponds would be a step in the correction direction.

Community Colleges Are Target

Potter Questions Education Costs

TORONTO — Dr. R. T. Potter, striking out at Ontario's education costs yesterday drew cheers in the Legislature — from the opposition.

Critical of "expensive frills" the Quinte MPP also proposed tighter government reins on community college expenditures.

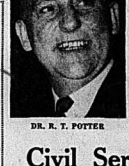
Insufficient government control and a desire for fast growth had prompted some abuses at the colleges, he charged.

Dr. Potter's blunt remarks, during debate on the throne speech, were underlined by the fact his riding is home for Loyalist College — one of Ontario's 20 community colleges.

Government policy is to leave management of the colleges in the hands of local boards, he said.

"Unfortunately, in some cases, we find an abuse of these powers. Not enough consideration is given to a control of expenditures, and perhaps there is too great a desire to grow too fast."

Staff costs may be disproportionate to enrolment, he added.



"I believe a review of some of these institutions may show that the cost per student — particularly in the administrative staff — is far out of line," said Dr. Potter.

More economy in general school construction also was imperative, he told the government.

He drew opposition cheers when he added: "Are all the expensive frills, such as murals, sculptures and spotlights really necessary? Do they really add sufficiently to the quality of our education to justify the added expense?"

Further economies could be achieved by enrolling student nurses in community colleges during their first two years of training.

In Belleville, Judge J. C. Anderson chairman of Loyalist College board of governors, declined comment on Dr. Potter's opinions on community colleges.

DR. R. T. POTTER

Tax Review Urged

TORONTO — The Ontario government must carefully weigh any moves that threaten increased taxes, Dr. R. T. Potter cautioned the Legislature today.

Welcoming a new economic awareness indicated by the throne speech, the Quinte MPP said it is time to review all provincial government expenditures.

The need for more economies with money being redirected to priority projects, was a necessary defence against higher taxes, he believed.

"I'm sure that there are things planned that without any undue hardships, can either be postponed or cancelled," said Dr. Potter.

The government must decide what new projects can be financed by cutbacks on existing programs. Costs might also be reduced by using existing facilities.

Dr. Potter said he was "heartened" by the government's decision not to impose church taxes or extending the sales impost to food and children's clothing.

"I sincerely hope . . . that all spending is carefully scrutinized, that a careful review will be made of all departments before consideration is given to any increase in present taxation . . ." concluded Dr. Potter.

Welfare

line with present-day values. "Our present guide lines are completely outmoded and sadly in need of revision."

Basic shelter exemption — Costs of this program is by far exceeded benefits. Not only does it subsidize the wealthy, but provides foreign property owners with tax-free summer cottages. "Far too many landlords are raising rents if tenants ask for their rebate and we find a great abuse of this plan as . . . with the student loan and grant program.

Pollution — Promise of priority for pollution control programs is encouraging. Too often, the only solution to a local problem is the closing of an industry. "This fact must be faced, and a suitable alternative found, since we all are agreed that pollution must be stopped now if our country will not be fit to live in tomorrow."

Medicare — The universal federal scheme promotes subsidization of the wealthy over those in need — before "the disabled and handicapped are provided with sufficient funds for a reasonable living standard."

Crash Plan For Doctors

The Quinte MPP said he was disappointed deans of medicine at the province's universities were only lukewarm to a recent government call for a speed-up program to train more physicians.

While the highest training and research standards were necessary, the province needs "a large number of well-qualified general practitioners."

"Surely this goal can be achieved by the excellent training schools in our province," he said. "What can be accomplished in wartime can certainly be accomplished now. It's not an insurmountable difficulty. The only question is when are we going to begin."

Civil Servants Said Uncivil

TORONTO If it's an unwritten rule that reigning politicians don't rake the civil service, the tradition has now been rapped.

Accepted tradition usually screens civil servants from exposure to the turmoil of politics. Now, the Belleville physician has used the throne speech debate to take the service to task. And he hasn't minced words.

In fact, he says some civil servants are so uncivil the government should launch a public relations scheme to polish up their public attitudes.

There's a growing tendency by civil servants to assume responsibilities that belong solely to the elected government, he warned.

"... It might be well to review the civil service generally," he told the Legislature.

"Far too often, our citizens have been subjected to some very uncivil service indeed, at the hands of government employees," charged Dr. Potter.

"Many times, I myself have found their attitude overbearing — to put it mildly."

"It seems to be only pragmatical to suggest that the government should run a course in public relations for all such personnel."

The government should consider more careful screening of new employees to assure their tactfulness in dealing with the public, he advised.

"I feel that these qualities are of as great importance as efficiency and ability," added Dr. Potter.

Fit to be Tiea

Percival Fuming At Soviets' Offer

TORONTO (CP) — Fitness expert Lloyd Percival of Toronto said today that Russian coaches, who have offered to teach Canadians to play hockey, will be using techniques he gave the Soviets more than 10 years ago.

"This has to be the supreme insult of all time, especially to me," he said. "There is no Russian alive who knows more about conditioning a team than I do."

Percival said the Russians, who have dominated international amateur hockey for the last 10 years, have been only applying the techniques outlined in his Hockey Handbook, published in 1950.

"The Russians haven't done a thing we can't and aren't able to do," he said, "They've just done it and we haven't."

Percival has trained a number of teams and individuals including tournament golfer George Knudson of Toronto, the 1958 world hockey champion Whitby Dunlops, Detroit Olympics of the National Lacrosse Association and Minnesota North Stars of the National Hockey League.

He was commenting on a statement by Gordon Juckes of Winnipeg, manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, who said in an interview in Moscow last week that two top Russian coaches have offered to go to "Canada as advisors . . . next year."

Percival said the Russians began to develop sports in a big way in the early 1950s.

"They searched the world and did a massive job of investigation, studying all the latest techniques of sports development— not just hockey."

He said part of their collection of literature included his Hockey Handbook and he has a letter, written to him in 1955 by N. Onolin, director of the Central Research Institute on Physical Culture in the U.S.S.R.

The letter says the institute had been made aware of Percival's research into physical conditioning and says, in part:

"We would be glad to establish contact and scientific interchange with you."

Percival has been asked only once to outline a conditioning program for a Canadian representative to a world hockey championship. That was the year he worked about six weeks with the Whitby team in 1957 and gave it a program of continued conditioning for use while aboard ship for Europe.

That was the last year Canada won the international title.

"I'm not saying it was all a result of my program," he said. "I just think it's significant."

Juckes said during his interview that coaches Anatoly Tarasov and Arkady Chernishov have offered to "show us how they train their players—differently from ours—and how they get their physical conditioning."

Percival says there is no secret formula involved in the Russians' attack.

"They simply work on fundamentals first—skating, puck control. Their plan is to keep control of the puck 70 per cent of the time. They do this by better skating—agility skating. If they lose the puck, they can wheel and go after it. They aren't confused, frustrated into kicking out in a vain attempt to trip the other player.

"Their plan is to put all out—the minute of action—and keep the pace hot—hotter than the opponents. That's how Tarasov would have his team beat a National Hockey League club. He would set a line people like Bobby Hull by overpowering them for a short period and sending in a replacement fast."

Percival says the emphasis in Canadian hockey is on playing and play patterns.

"Teach the player fundamentals and then he can fit into any play pattern," he said.

"Canadians have not changed their approach to conditioning in hockey since the 1920s and only now does the national team realize that it is the Russians' key to success.

"First of all it was a team effort with the Russians in order that they could compete with stronger countries. Now, they're developing individuals. They're getting better and better. The top Russian hockey team would finish first or second in the NHL's Western Division right now and first or second in the Eastern Division in a few years."

Nats Limp From Accident Scene

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's national hockey team returned to Canada Monday after a disastrous exhibition tour in the Soviet Union.

The national team arrived in Montreal and 13 of the 20 players headed for the club's home base in Winnipeg. The remaining seven travelled to Ottawa to join the Ottawa-based eastern section of the national team.

The national team managed only a 1-3-2 against Finland —in five exhibition games in Moscow. Canada lost 4-0, 8-1 and 5-4 to the Soviet No. 2 team and 6-0 to the Soviet No. 1 squad.

TORONTO (CP) — Alfie Phillips Jr. and his Toronto rink earned a measure of revenge Monday in the CBC championship curling series' by trouncing Doug Wankel's Saskatchewan rink 13-5.

Last year Wankel's rink, a last-minute replacement for Ron Northcott's Calgary foursome, lost its first game, then swept the 13 series and defeated Phillips, winner of the A series, 6-4.

In a playoff, Wankel won again, this time on an extra end, 7-6.

Trade Pays

Ullman's Play for Leafs Makes Imlach Look Shrewd

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Norm Ullman is doing his best to make manager-coach Punch Imlach of Toronto Maple Leafs look like a shrewd trader.

Ullman, obtained by Toronto in a National Hock-y League trade with Detroit Red Wings early last March, started slowly this season.

As a result, it seemed as if Imlach may have made a mistake in sending forwards Frank Mahovlich, Peter Stemkowski and Gary Unger to Detroit for Ullman and wingers Floyd Smith and Paul Henderson.

But last weekend Ullman scored three goals and assisted on two others to lead the Maple Leafs to a pair of victories.

The effort raised Ullman's point total for the season to 23 on 12 goals and 11 assists and put him far ahead of any other Maple Leaf in the scoring race. Ullman, a centre, will return to action Wednesday night when the Maple Leafs play host to Montreal Canadiens. In other games, Boston Bruins visit New York Rangers, Detroit Red Wings play the Kings at Los Angeles, St. Louis Blues face the Black Hawks at Chicago and Minnesota North Stars welcome Pittsburgh Penguins.

Because Unger, Mahovlich and Stemkowski all are playing well for the Red Wings, Imlach was delighted to see Ullman, 32, come alive last weekend.

"That Ullman is some hockey player," he said Saturday night after the Leafs downed the Rangers 5-2 behind Ullman's three goals. "He owned the puck practically all the time he was on the ice."

With George Armstrong back in action and Bob Pulford and Paul Henderson recovered from the flu, Imlach has 12 forwards available for Wednesday. Most likely candidates to sit out the game are Armstrong, who needs further conditioning, or Bill Sutherland.

The Maple Leafs announced Monday that left winger Wayne Carleton, assigned to Phoenix of the Western Hockey League 10 days ago, will be kept in touch with a leg injury.

The injury may spell Carleton's chances of returning to the Maple Leafs this season. He had scored four goals and assisted on four others with Phoenix.

The Best Kind of Therapy

Peter Molaski, a member of the Smith Fuels' All-Ontario Peewee hockey champions last winter, gets some consolation for his crutches from Canadian Women's Archery champion Carol Armstrong and Ken Carr-Brairt, chairman of the City of Belleville's Honors and Awards Committee. Peter, Carol, and the other city athletes who brought Belleville provincial or higher championships were honored at the first banquet of its kind in the city last night. (Story on page 11.)

For The Record

BOSTON (AP) — The American League made it official today. Denny McLain of Detroit Tigers was the best pitcher in 1968.

President Joe Cronin announced official figures confirming that McLain became the league's first 30-game winner in 37 years as he fashioned a 31-6 record in pitching the Tigers to the pennant.

The 24-year-old right-hander also led the AL in six other categories—most starts (41), most complete games (28), best percentage (.838), most innings pitched (336), most batters faced (1,308), and most home runs surrendered (36).

In becoming the first 30-game winner since Lefty Grove won 31 for Philadelphia Athletics in 1931, McLain also had a 1.96 earned-run average, fourth best in the league. He struck out 280 and walked only 63.

A Dead Heat?

Maybe this time, as Albert College senior girls' basketball team centre Margi Monroe keeps pace with Dennis O'Connor Collegiate's Annie Van Dyke (32). But the Whitby team downed Albert 24-23, ousting them in the first round of Saturday's C.O.S.S.A. Class 'A' championship tourney at Oshawa. The Whitby girls went on to take the senior title. Miss Monroe was an Albert bright spot, counting 18 points in the game, highest of either team.

Top City Athletes Given Recognition At Initial Banquet

STAFF — The awards were all identical. But the achievements represented a varied from drawing a bow string to hefting 224 pounds over one's head.

The idea of honoring major athletic achievements by city athletes was not a new one, but last night's informal banquet at the Tops Motor Hotel was the first time the idea had taken shape.

The newly-formed City of Belleville Honors and Awards Committee, consisting of Ken Carr-Brazil (chairman), CJBQ Sports Director Jack Devine, former Intelligencer Sports Editor George H. Carver and city council representative Ald. Richard Ellis — convened the jousthering of those who had brought the city provincial "or better" championships in 1968.

A modest budget prevented broadening the list of eligible participants and for this year, excluded the public's attendance. Indications are that the public may be invited to take part in future instalments of the awards dinner.

Acting as master of ceremonies was Jack Devine loaded city clerk Adam Stalker for his behind-the-scenes efforts in making the dinner a reality.

Recipients of scroll-shaped plaques for bringing athletic honors to Belleville were:

— Bruce Miller and Gerald "Gerry Hyde, Ontario Lawn Bowling Pairs champions for 1968, and runners-up for the Canadian title.

— Mrs. Carol Armstrong, Canadian and Ontario women's archery title - holders, and a member of Canada's world championship team.

— Royce Dorrister, Reg Asselstine and John Widdicks, members of Canada's International Trophy Shoot team.

— Bob Walt, another Apollo Club weight - lifter, who this year established the British Empire junior two - handed "snatch" record of 224 pounds for the 148 - pound class.

— Members of the Smith Fuels All-Ontario Pewee hockey championship team for 1967-68: Brent Goegan, Mark Carter, Andy Richetta, Steve Kirby, Wally Dainard, Peter Lee, Bruce Hamilton, Peter Rocks, Tim Whelan, Peter Crawford, Scott James, Bruce Sutherland, Peter Schmidt, Chris Edwards, Martin Thistle, Donnie Morphet, Terry Marsh. Booby Moore. Coach: Murray Hunter; Manager: Don Wheeler.

Scouts Aid 'Army'

STAFF — Toronto Maple Leafs' captain George Armstrong is getting more than a renewed contract to keep him smiling these days.

Over the weekend, the general membership of the Maple Leaf scouting organization presented "Army" with $500 to assist his work with underprivileged Indians in Northern Ontario.

Belleville's Dave Scott, one of the Maple Leaf organization scouting fraternity in attendance at the informal get-together, said Armstrong's work largely involves distribution of hockey equipment to Indian youngsters, and that the $500 contribution would probably be used to help defray the high costs of delivering the equipment into the more remote regions of the province.

Clay to Crash Title Bout Weigh-in PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Heavyweight Joe Frazier and Oscar Bonavena may have an uninvited visitor when they appear for their pre-fight weigh-in at the Spectrum at noon Tuesday.

Cassius Clay, the deposed heavyweight champion, has promised to be at the ceremony "to tell both off and make it known that he is still champ," according to promoter Lou Duva.

Lucchesi said Clay telephoned him from Chicago Monday and said he would fly into Philadelphia in order to crash the weigh-in ceremonies.

"They're bums I'm the champ, and I'll prove it," Clay was quoted as saying.

Frazier is a 2 to 1 favorite.

He is unbeaten in 21 fights and won the heavyweight title of New York, Massachusetts, Maine and Illinois last March 4 with an 11th-round technical knockout over previously unbeaten Buster Mathis. Later, his home state of Pennsylvania recognized Frazier's title claim, followed by New Jersey.

In his first defence, Frazier knocked out Manuel Ramos of Mexico in the second round and thereby added Mexico to its domain. Jimmy Ellis of New York, World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, is recognized as king elsewhere.

Only two opponents have gone the distance with Frazier since the 1964 Olympic heavyweight gold medal winner turned professional. They were Bonavena and George (Scrap Iron) Johnson.

Both of these ranked the champion, especially the Bonavena decision. Frazier wants to be the first man to keep the gritty South American.

The only other time Frazier has hit the deck was in his second fight, when Mike Bruce sent him down for an automatic eight count with a right to the chin.

Bo May Go

OTTAWA (CP) — Bo Scott rejected Monday the latest contract offer from Ottawa Rough Riders and the Grey Cup champions said in a news release they believe the all-star fullback "will play elsewhere next year."

Scott, 25, played out his option with the Eastern Football Conference club this season when he couldn't come to salary terms.

Off to Sudbury

Nicholls Sets Pace For District 5-Pinners

STAFF — Belleville's male bowlers have made a clean sweep of the three spots on the district singles team which will compete in the Ontario Carling 5-pin bowling championships in Sudbury April 4th to 6th.

Jim Nicholls of Belleville led all bowlers with a 7321 total and a 256 average in the 30-game roll-off. Following Jim were Ed Lugtenburg with 7050 and Wally Knepp with 7410.

Terry Thompson of Trenton, with a 7113 total for 30 games and an average of 237, more than a 300-pin advantage over Mary Slaght of Brighton with 6907 and Mildred Robinson of Kingston with 6778. These three ladies will compete in the ladies' singles event and the team event at Sudbury.

In all, nineteen local bowlers, including ten men and nine women will compete in Sudbury with the top three men and the top three women each competing in the singles event, the top six men and women competing in the team event, and the remaining standing up a mixed team.

Two husband and wife teams will represent this area at Sudbury. Les Thompson of Trenton qualified both with the men and will join wife Terry, the women's high qualifier, on the team; while number eight was a lucky one for Les and Shirley Tyrick of Kingston who both qualified in that position.

Women — Terry Thompson (Trenton) 7112, Mary Slaght (Brighton) 6907, Mildred Robinson (Kingston) 6778, Madeline James (Belleville) 6753, Earla Crossman (Trenton) 6728, Bea Hunt (Belleville) 6719, Audrey Aziz (Trenton) 6617, Shirley Tyrick (Kingston) 6603 and Lorraine Cassidy (Trenton) 6580.

The group will travel to the Easter weekend event by bus from Belleville.

Crucial Call

Referee Suspended For Cheating Rams

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Rozelle, commissioner of pro football, announced Monday the suspension of the six game officials whose mistake cost Los Angeles a down in the Rams' crucial 17-16 National Football League loss to Chicago.

The officials were referee Norm Schachter, umpire Joe Connell, head linesman. Burl Toler, line judge Jack Fette, back judge Adrian Burk and field judge George Ellis.

Rozelle issued the following statement:

"National Football League game officials erred in not permitting Los Angeles one more down near the end of the Rams' game with the Chicago Bears Sunday.

"A penalty against Los Angeles on the first down of its final series nullified an incomplete pass play. Following three additional incomplete passes by Los Angeles, the ball was turned over to Chicago, thus depriving Los Angeles of a fourth down play to which it was entitled.

"Los Angeles would have started the fourth down from its own 47-yard line with 35 seconds to play and 21 yards needed for a first down.

"All six game officials are equally responsible for keeping track of the down.

Gordie Howe's HOCKEY

Many strange things are done with hockey equipment. In some instances, even the lack of equipment.

We have a youngster on the Detroit Red Wings who skates in his bare feet. In fact, we have two players who do it.

Danny Lawson, a first-year pro, plays in my favorite position — right wing. Last year he was with the Red Wing Juniors at Hamilton, Ontario, and set a team scoring record with 52 goals.

If I thought I could get that many goals I'd go bare foot myself.

Bart Crashley, a young defenceman with Detroit's Central Hockey League team in Fort Worth, Texas, also skates bare-footed.

Both Danny and Bart deny their feet get cold. Both also claim they feel far more comfortable than wearing socks inside their skate boots.

For myself, I like a thin pair of wool socks.

Lawson explains one reason he uses without socks is that he has a high arch and stockings seem to bunch under the tongue of his boot, making it uncomfortable.

Skate boots, of course, fit tight. They should fit like a glove and should be one size smaller than your shoe size. Skate boots run narrower than dress shoes, too, because as a sharp boot you wouldn't want to be skating on the side of your boot.

There is one item, or perhaps I should say one garment, in a hockey uniform that every player tailors to his own satisfaction — that's the Long Johns. Some wear them as they come. Others cut the arms off while others cut the legs off. Still others cut both the arms and legs off. There is still another group that throws them away all together and uses T-shirts instead.

Back when Paul Henderson was with the Red Wings — before he was traded to the Toronto Maple Leafs — he had a pair of Long Johns with three stars stenciled on each shoulder.

Paul had a habit of scoring the winning or tying goals in games and he was tagged with the nickname "Mr. Wonderful." In recognition of this, some practical joker stenciled the stars on the Long Johns. For Paul they became sort of a good luck charm.

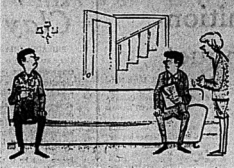
Mohawks at Cornwall Are Angry As Customs Man Works on Island

CORNWALL (CP) — Many of the young bucks on the Mohawk Indian reserve here went forthhy to throw out the customs man on the reserve.

Now and then he checks the purchases they make in the United States and compels them to pay duty to the Queen, an Indian spokesman said Monday.

As an expression of frustration by an individual or a group against authority it could be handled on the local level.

But the customs man—men, really, as the customs office is open 24 hours a day—is smack in the middle of the bridge that links Cornwall with Massena, N.Y. That makes it an international matter. And the bridge is on land allocated to the Mohawks to be theirs forever—and that makes it a problem for the Indian affairs department.



The Indians, whose reserve covers part of Ontario and Quebec and a bit of New York state, claim that the Jay treaty of 1794 guaranteed Indians the right of free passage across the international border and exemption from paying duty on goods bought in either Canada or the United States. The Supreme Court of Canada in 1966 declared that Indians are liable for duty.

Maybe, said speakers at a protest meeting on the reserve Sunday, but the customs men on the bridge have enforced the ruling only periodically. It is only in the last three weeks that a strict clampdown has been put into effect.

"I appeal to the government of Canada to consult with the Queen as to what obligations she has assumed from the King, her grandfather."

Canadian Fertilizer Is Cheaper in U.S.

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — George Morris of Merlin, Ont., who uses about 80 tons of fertilizer a year on his farm, said in an interview here before departing early Monday that the slogan of the trip was to "buy Canadian."

"That's exactly what I am doing. Too bad I had to get up in the middle of the night to travel to Ohio to buy a fertilizer which contains Canadian components and which I can buy cheaper in Ohio than in Canada."

Eight members of the group bought 2,100 tons of fertilizer for $1,306.50, paying another $42.15 in duty charges at the Canadian border.

The fertilizer was bought earlier Monday from The Andersons, a large grain-dealing firm that buys potash from Saskatchewan as well as some phosphates from New Brunswick and gypsum from Ontario.

group of about 30 southwestern Ontario farmers arrived home Monday night after travelling to Maumee, Ohio, to prove they can get fertilizer cheaper in the United States than in Canada.

Consumer Body Urged to Make System Work Better

OTTAWA (CP) — The newly-formed Canadian Consumer Council should concentrate on trying to make the present market system work better through improved information between manufacturers and consumers, council chairman David Leighton said Monday.

The London, Ont., business consultant ruled out seeking basic reforms or better specific products at the inaugural meeting of the government-appointed council of 24 members. He elaborated at a press conference later.

Mr. Leighton told reporters the most serious problem in consumer affairs is inadequate information about the goods and services available.

"I feel personally that given good information about consumer wants and needs the manufacturers will respond to them. That's their business.

"I think it's awfully easy for us to get misled into trying to legislate better products."

Mr. Leighton said the first session was devoted to organization. A committee of five was appointed to recommend an agenda and administrative details at the next council meeting in February.

He said the council, which plans four meetings a year, has a 1969-70 budget of $65,000, plus amounts to be established as salaries for a fulltime administrator and a secretary.

Communications Satellite Costly

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General Eric Kierans said Monday the first stage of Canada's communications satellite project could cost anywhere between $60,000,000 and $160,000,000.

The first satellite of the program, which would relay voice and picture signals across Canada, is expected to be launched in 1971 or 1972, he told the Commons transport committee.

Mr. Kierans said his cost estimate was "vague" because decisions had not yet been made on how sophisticated the first satellite should be.

John Chapman, head of the planning group of the proposed department of communications, said the cost would depend on the number of television channels to be serviced by the satellite, and the number and kinds of earth stations built.

The two-game low score was registered by a rink of Howard Shugg, Bert Salisbury, Doug Bennett with Ralph Graham on the front end. A rink of Bob Burkitt, "Ab" Wonnacott, Don McKinnon with Dr. "Corky" McCorquodale as skip was in the second spot.

Art Bannon and his committee were in charge of the draw, with Bill Gault in charge of the kitchen. The boys enjoyed homemade bread and chili for their dinner and a full course roast beef dinner was served for the evening meal. Many of the boys ate better than they curled.

A mixed bonspiel for curlers will be held on Saturday with only two games to be played and a party will follow to wind up the day. There will be dancing, a sing song and other features. Unfortunately this draw has been filled but those not playing are welcome to come to the party. The committee has promised a gala day.

Our Town
Third Play Ambitious Production

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The Belleville Theatre Guild this week keeps up the record pace with which it expectantly launched its 1967-68 season.

That adage is barely two months old). Already, the Guild, for openers, has produced a three-act comedy and a one-act award-winning festival drama.

Now its third production is ready for public viewing.

Thursday night the curtain goes up at Centennial Secondary School on Thornton Wilder's Our Town, the play will also be presented Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 p.m.

It unfolds the intimate history of—what was once—a typical small town scene in the years 1901-13.

The bare, uncurtained stage, set with a few tables and chairs, comes alive with the activity of the townspeople enacting their ways of life.

A critical and public success on its first production, the play's popularity for theatregoers has never waned.

The Guild production also will give its audiences an introduction to the man responsible for its busiest season on record — its resident artistic director Richard Howard.

Mr. Howard, who already has directed Mary, Mary and the award-winning Impromptu for the Eastern Ontario Drama League one-act festival, also appears before the footlights in Our Town.

In the key role of stage manager, he visibly directs the play's characters, linking its episodes with commentary.

Our Town calls for a cast of 18 and this production also utilizes a 17-member choir. Among the leading players are Catherine Wilson, Lois Summerville (who played the title role in Mary, Mary) Jack Archer, Ernst Kneisel, Beverly Seemungal and Allen Kelly.

The Gibbs Family

The Webb Family

Playing the Webb Family, characters in "Our Town" by Thorton Wilder are Jack Archer, Lois Summerville, Catherine Wilson and Allan Kelly. The production is by the Belleville Theatre Guild.

Diversity Can Be Found

TV Column

NEW YORK (AP) — It is hard to complain about a lack of diversity in television programming when, within an hour, the viewer can watch the Supremes tossing out Mrs. Robinson in close harmony and move without pause to a dramatic reconstruction of the battle of Gettysburg by merely turning a dial.

So It was, with two special programs Monday night, one on NBC and the other on ABC.

The Supremes, led by Diana Ross and aided by another excellent singing group, the all-male Temptations, took over the NBC hour. The show was called TCB, which stands for Taking Care of Business, presumably given to the show for policy reasons since it really starred Miss Ross, backed up by the other two members of her group and the male quintet.

The mood ranged from flip to romantic and even when the song was old, the sound was new and compelling. The color of the backgrounds and of the costumes were visual delights, and so was the music.

The Road to Gettysburg, which followed, was a sort of cram course on the cause and early progress of the war between the states from 1860 to 1863 when the North-South encounter on the fields of Gettysburg left 51,000 casualties.

The location shots at Gettysburg were magnificently photographed and the technique of reconstructing battle scenes by men in silhouette and by a shot of a hat lying in the mud or a musket lying in the grass was effective.

In the most recent Nielsen report, for the week of Nov. 25 through Dec. 1, Laugh-in on NBC continued to top popularity list with Bonanza, also on NBC, in second place.

Other programs in the top 10 were CBS's Ann Margret Show, Miss Teen-age America Pageant and Gomer Pyle, NBC's Bob Hope Special, CBS's Frank Sinatra Special and NBC's Dean Martin Show.

Recommended tonight: A Guide to the Swinging Bachelor, ABC, 8:30 9:30 EST, comedy-variety with Joey Bishop, Noel Harrison and Dean Jones; 60 minutes, CBS 10-11, news show with a demonstration of illegal football tactics and a report on prison life.

IT WORKS BECAUSE IT SWINGS!

That's the principle behind the pendulum clock, invented in 1657. Earlier clock were found only in cathedrals and public squares; today it is a rare home that doesn't contain at least one time-keeping device. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are gone and the modern world depends upon accurate clocks.

If the days of your older clock are gone in your house, chances are that it hasn't gone anywhere in this area worth speaking of.

YOU MAY NOT OWN A TALKING PIANO!

But if your piano could talk, it might tell you that its first salesman was invented in Florence, Italy in 1709, and that by 1800 it had supplanted the harpsichord and clavichord. And it would tell you Mozart and Haydn were among the first composers to write for the piano. Your piano might also remind you that if you have neglected it, it would prefer to be sent through a Intelligencer Want Ad so that it could get back to work. Call 962-9171 today.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were fractionally up in active mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

The industrial index gained .03 to 187.74, which is almost level with its record last week.

Oshawa A rose ¾ to 44¼, Southam ¾ to 63¾ and CPR ½ to 78.

Among the heaviest traders, Brinco and Dominco rose ¼ each to 5¾ and 21¼.

Harvey's Foods jumped 2 to 34 after the directors proposed a 3-for-1 stock split.

Revenue Properties was up ⅛ to 20 after rising 1¾ Monday. The company announced development plans for a city with a 32,000 population in Uxbridge Township, about 25 miles northeast of Toronto.

Leitch recovered 15 cents to $2.80 and Highland-Bell 10 cents to $3.00. Both stocks have slumped over the last week in trading sessions after losing their law suit against Texas Gulf Inc. of New York for possession of the base metal deposits at the Kidd Creek mine near Timmins.

On index, base metals gained .43 to 112.26 and western oils .24 to 240.96. Golds fell .10 to 233.58. Volume by 11 a.m. was 1,227,000 shares compared with 1,302,000 at the same time Monday.

The market picked up steam in late trading Monday and the industrial index closed within a fraction of its record last week.

The index gained .71 to 187.71 and the total number of advances exceeded losses 291 to 245.

Western oils continued to edge up with the index touching an all-time high at noon. The group's strength is mainly due to hopes of a major oil discovery in the Canadian Arctic.

Akaman jumped 3 to 15¾, Home A to 38½, Home B 1¼ to 28¾ and National Pete 40 cents to $7.40.

Canter Oil lost ¼ to 16¾. The Ontario Securities Commission has banned several Individuals and firms from trading in the stock until Dec. 19.

In industrials, Canadian Pacific Investments preferred advanced 2 to 30¾, Seagrams 1⅛ to 50½, Canadian Tire A 1¼ to 48¾ and James United Steel 1 to 12¾.

Revenue Properties, the most active industrial, gained 1¼ to 19¾. Buying followed the news that the company would make an announcement Monday night.

Harvey's Foods rose ¾ to 32. The company has proposed a 3-for-1 stock split.

Mt. Loeb slipped ¼ to 11¼ after reporting lower profits for the latest 40-week accounting period.

Among mines, Leitch dropped 10 cents to $2.80 after base-metal prices were knocked down by the Kidd Creek mine near Timmins.

On index, golds rose .62 to 233.68 and western oils .31 to 240.72. Base metals fell .12 to 112.26. Volume was 5,171,000 shares compared with 5,363,000 Friday.

Slide Rubble

Price Support Asked

Vegetable Oil Industry Troubled

ALTONA, Man. (CP) — Ray W. Siemens, president of Co-op Vegetable Oil Ltd., sees trouble ahead for the industry unless measures are taken to stabilize prices.

"Canadian farmers and the vegetable oil industry are in urgent need of price support if they are to withstand pressures exerted by the world market," he told the company's annual meeting.

He blamed a decline in world prices mainly on high production by Soviet-bloc countries.

His annual report said sales of $5,376,000 for the fiscal year ended July 31 were down from $5,459,000 the previous year.

Co-op also markets a number of products developed from the oils and operates a cannery.

At its inception in 1943, the company was given only six months life by many businessmen and government officials. It grew into a facility that pioneered development of margarine and polyunsaturated cooking oils.

Mr. Siemens says problems now are centred on three main issues—equity versus indebtedness, a trend to declining prices and expensive freight rates.

He said research has shown that co-operatives do not compare favorably with other industry in terms of assets, total equity and equity percentage of assets.

"The user-member must have more investment in the future if we are to have a viable industry," he said.

He said sunflower oil has been the hardest hit by world price declines, dropping $100 a ton to $165 since 1965. Recent months have seen a slight rise in prices "but it is too early to tell whether this will develop into a resurgent trend."

He said CVO approached the agricultural stabilization board twice this year for a change in anti-dumping regulations—an "unsatisfactory solution." There has been no word on the proposals, he added.

In addition to declining prices, Mr. Siemens said, farmers and the area are faced with lower crop yields this year as a result of poor weather.

Land for New City Acquired Near Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Revenue Properties Ltd., a Toronto-based real estate development firm, said Monday it has assembled 3,200 acres of land—enough for a city of 32,000—in Uxbridge township, 25 miles northeast of downtown Toronto.

Alex Rubin, president, said the company hopes to develop the city in stages. The first would accommodate about 1,000 persons on 900 acres, and would take about four years to complete. Estimated cost is $110,000,000.

The company said it holds another 4,800 acres on which a city of 150,000 could be built eventually, at a total cost of $1,600,000,000.

A house which would cost $15,000 in Metropolitan Toronto would sell for $26,000 in the new city because of less expensive land costs, Mr. Rubin said.

Revenue Properties says it will apply to the Ontario Municipal Board for permission to have the southwest quarter of Uxbridge township, where it holds its land, declared an improvement district.

This would enable it to start development, assuming costs normally borne by the municipality.

Its stock was the most active industrial issue on the Toronto Stock Exchange Monday, trading at $19.84.

Spastic Colon Usually Due to Tension

By Dr. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain what a spasmodic colon is. Does it affect the bowels? How is it treated? — A. C.

Let's use a different term: rather than "spasmodic," the proper term is spastic colon, one which is overactive.

The colon finishes extracting the nutrients from what we have eaten and moves the waste matter along toward the rectum and anus by a process of rhythmic contraction and relaxation.

A spastic colon contracts too often and too much. The result is cramps and, subsequently, either constipation or loose stools.

The spastic colon is found in tense individuals. Some folks react to tension by having headaches, or upset stomachs, or hives, or back aches, or some other physical manifestation. For many, the reaction is in the colon — the spastic colon.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me the difference between colitis and a disease I cannot spell rightly, something like diphtheritic-ulitis. The diet seems to be the same for both. As I see one, my sister has the other. We are treated alike.—S. L. C.

I should caution that X-ray of the colon and stool examination are essential to make sure that no other condition is causing the trouble, but in the great majority of result of nervous tension.

Another aid is a bland diet, meaning a diet with a minimum of roughage, since cereal fibres, husks, or seeds can irritate the colon and induce still further cramping. If it is a sort of nervous colon anyway.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a girl of 14. About an hour or two after I eat breakfast, lunch, or dinner I am starved again. I don't go and get something to eat then because I know I will become overweight. I am not overweight or underweight and am not overly active. I do eat enough at mealtime. Why am I always hungry? — V. C.

That's a hard one to answer without more information.

One question is your choice of foods. You may be eating more carbohydrate (starches and sugar) and less protein than will your individual body chemistry. You might try changing the proportion and eating more protein (lean meat, eggs, fish, cheese) and less starch and sugar.

Or you may be underestimating the amount you really need. A talk with your family doctor might help. A sugar tolerance test might show you have hypoglycemia (low blood sugar.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does an adult have to continue medication for life when low thyroid devices? — Mrs. R. C.

The answer is "probably yes," although there can be a change in the condition.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Thosteson uses readers' letters in his column whenever possible.

He has written a booklet, "Diverticulitis and Colitis," which explains these conditions and tells how they are treated. Others who want a copy should send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, un-stamped envelope, plus 6 cents for postage for a copy of it.

Commons Will Debate Plans To Change Procedural Rules

OTTAWA (CP) — Proposed revisions of Commons procedural rules were to be debated in the Commons today but parliamentary expert Stanley Knowles invoked precedents Monday that may upset the timetable.

Mr. Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) argued that the rules must be discussed in committee of the whole House so that each proposal can be debated, amended, rejected or approved individually.

The government wants to bring in all the suggested rule changes at once as reports of the special Commons rules committee.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux will rule on Mr. Knowles' argument after the House sits at 2:30 p.m. EST. If he rejects the argument, debate on the new rules can start immediately. If he accepts it, the opposition can insist on 48 hours notice which would delay the start of the debate until Thursday.

Mr. Knowles cited precedents since Confederation to support his contention that rules of the House cannot be changed by "sudden death" motion.

Government House Leader Donald Macdonald said there are also precedents for the government's view.

Opposition parties are in general agreement with most of the rule changes but have threatened to do everything possible to stop one of them—a rule which would permit the government to cut off debate on any measure within two hours if government and opposition can not agree on a time limit.

Since June, 1965, the House has been operating on provisional rules drawn up by a committee headed by former Commons' Speaker Allan Macnaughton. The proposed new rules are the result of several months of work by a special, 12-member committee under the chairmanship of Gordon Blair (L—Grenville-Carleton).

The Commons sat past the usual 10 p.m. adjournment to approve the $908-69 spending estimates of $1,375,000,000 for all departments of government not previously passed.

Throughout much of Monday, opposition MPs from the Maritimes attacked Rural Development Minister Jean Marchand over operation of the Cape Breton Development Corp. as they dealt with its $31,450,000 spending estimates for 1968-69.

Donald MacInnis (PC—Cape Breton East Richmond) claimed the corporation's report differs from the intent of legislation early this year setting up the Crown corporation to rehabilitate the Cape Breton economy.

Mr. MacInnis, a former miner, said the corporation is trying to close the island's mines too quickly.

He said the legislation was aimed at rehabilitating the mining industry. The corporation should be concerned with protecting the life of the mining communities as well as with the jobs of the miners.

The Cape Breton member said an early retirement scheme devised by the corporation pays pensions below what the Economic Council of Canada considers the poverty level.

Edward Broadbent (NDP—Oshawa-Whitby) said railway workers are going to suffer if forced to retire at age 60. He said they should receive the amount they would get if they continued working.

Mr. Marchand castigated those who, he said, have tried to "minimize" efforts on behalf of Cape Breton miners.

He cited the case of the Lauzon, Que., shipyards where workers were left with "no protection of any kind," when the yards closed.

He wished the treatment being given the Cape Breton miners could be assured to all Canadian workers.

Robert Muir (PC—Cape Breton-The Sydneys) asked how the early retirement pensions of $2,400 for a single man and $3,000 for a married man had been arrived at.

He also asked what the corporation is doing about raising the pensions of some 2,000 retired Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. employees "some of them on pensions as low as $35 a month."

Manpower Minister Hightands-Canso, said there had been a general acceptance of the idea that coal mines should be closed in stages while alternative employment opportunities are developed.

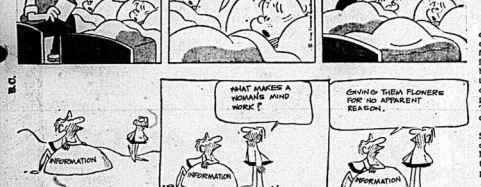
Opposition Leader Stanfield, premier of Nova Scotia when the corporation was first being discussed a few years ago, said he hopes emphasis will be placed on development, not simply on closing coal mines.

Ulster Is on Brink of Chaos

BELFAST (Reuters) — Prime Minister Terence O'Neill warned Monday night that Northern Ireland is on the brink of chaos with neighbor against neighbor in age-old religious bitterness and strife.

In what was billed as a "State of the Nation" television address, O'Neill appealed for a swift end to growing disorder.

He spoke against a background of increasing bitterness between militants in the Protestant majority and the Roman Catholic minority in Ulster, which stayed tied to Britain as a semi-autonomous area after the rest of Ireland won independence in 1921.



O'Neill poured scorn on ultra-Protestant extremists who want to break with London because the British government insists on a fairer deal for the Roman Catholic.

He said Ulster has no armed forces to resist Britain and in any case Britain pays Ulster £100,000,000 ($280,000,000) annual budget deficit.

O'Neill told viewers it would be useless to hold out until Conservatives replaced the Labor government in Britain, as some Protestants have suggested, in hopes that it would be less insistent on liberal policies.

He said he received a letter from British Conservative Opposition Leader Edward Heath assuring he would take a similar attitude to the Labor government over Northern Ireland.

Basic Facts About Jesus

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Someone was saying the other day that people don't know much about the candidates they vote for, which set me to wondering how many people in this overwhelmingly Christian land of ours know the basic facts about Jesus. Try this on yourself:

1. What was Jesus' last name? (Many people will say "Christ," not knowing that there were no last names in those days, and "Christ" is simply the Greek version of the Hebrew word meaning "messiah" or "savior.")

2. What language did Jesus speak at home? (Neither Hebrew nor Greek, but Aramaic, which was the demotic language of his region.)

3. By what name did Jesus' mother call him? ("Joshua", which is the Hebrew name out of which the Greek "Jesus" was adapted.)

4. Was Jesus born on December 25—in the year beginning the Christian Era? (Almost certainly not — the year was closer to 4 B.C., and the month was probably August.)

5. Did Jesus call Himself the Messiah? (Not in the Synoptic Gospels — Matthew, Mark, and Luke — but only in the Gospel of John is He credited with this assertion.)

6. Did Jesus intend or expect to start a new religion named after Himself? (There is no indication anywhere in the Bible that He wanted to do anything but reform and expand the Judaism of His day, taking it out of the hands of the legalists and returning it to the spirit of the ancient prophets.)

7. Was Jesus Himself a "Christian"? (He was born, lived, and died a Jew; the apostles were Jews, the disciples were Jews, with one possible exception, who prayed in the temple, observed Jewish vows and observances, and celebrated Jewish festivals.)

8. When Jesus said "I bring not peace, but a sword," was He not justifying the use of force? (Quite the contrary: this phrase, usually lifted out of context, continues with the statement that it is better to break with your own family or tribe or nation and follow His way in grace and love; His "sword" divided families into those members who remain with the old laws and rituals, and those who accept the new spirit.)

9. Did Jesus claim perfection for Himself? (Not at all — He rebuked His young follower by saying, "Why callest thou me good, for there is none of us good except our Father in heaven.")

10. Where can the above information be found? (Most concisely, in the "Dictionary of the Bible," edited by John L. McKenzie, S.J., one of the most respected Biblical scholars in the Catholic Church.)

David's Furniture Is Gutted by Fire

By Harry Mulhall

Fiery Fight For Control

Firelines snake up Front Street as battle is joined at crucial moment in furniture store blaze. Total loss of building was signalled at this point as front and roof collapsed, scattering bricks and debris in street.

Cause Is Not Known

By Lenny Williamson and Harry Mulhall
Staff Reporters

Fire gutted David's Furniture and Appliances store at 312 Front St. this morning. No one was injured.

City Hotel, adjacent to David's at the south suffered heavy smoke and water damage, but a fire wall between it and the burning store prevented flames from spreading.

Smith Hardware across an alley to the north also suffered smoke damage, but a fire-wall and prompt action by firemen in pouring water on the walls at the rear prevented fire damage.

The fire, cause of which is not known, was reported at 7.44 this morning and was under control by 8.30. At the height of the blaze the roof and store front of David's fell in, narrowly missing three firemen manning a hose on the sidewalk in front.

Brian Ware, a Brewers' Warehousing Co. worker, was cleaning draught-beer lines in the City Hotel before 8 a.m. when he was startled by an explosion.

"It just shook the whole building," he said.

He rushed to the front of the hotel and looked into the street.

He saw the reflection of flames in shop windows in the opposite side of Front Street.

Suddenly he remembered he had parked a company station wagon in front of the burning store. He rushed out, found flames already had scorched the rear of the vehicle and hurriedly backed it to safety.

David Mason, night manager of the City Hotel, was in a second floor room when the window exploded and he saw flames.

Britain Launches Drive For Ceasefire in Biafra

LONDON (CP) — Britain has launched a two-way effort to obtain a ceasefire in Biafra before Christmas, it was learned today.

Two high foreign office officials, now in Lagos and Addis Ababa, are carrying confidential messages from Prime Minister Wilson urging a ceasefire which could be supervised by a hurried expansion of the existing international observer group, informants said.

Lord Shepherd, a minister of state, is in Lagos and will attempt to use his influence on federal Nigerian leader Maj.-Gen. Yakubu Gowon. Maurice Foley, foreign office undersecretary, is in Addis Ababa with a message for Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie.

Foley will also confer with members of the Organization for African Unity and with the four African countries which have recognized Biafra. Foley will attempt through these chan-

Meanwhile, a London-based Biafran children's appeal organization plans full-page advertisements in major London and New York newspapers Thursday calling for greater aid to rescue dying Biafran children.

Susan Garth, a wealthy sociologist who heads the appeal, said Biafran children are dying at the rate of six every minute. She said in an interview that if a temporary ceasefire does materialize, her organization would help evacuate children to ensure them against the threat of starvation and death.

Red Cross Protests Bombing of Hospital

GENEVA (Reuters) — The International Red Cross has strongly protested to Nigeria over the alleged federal bombing of a Red Cross hospital in Biafra which killed three persons and injured more than a dozen, an IRC spokesman said today.

Ten Biafran Red Cross workers and several children were among those wounded when a Soviet-built Ilyushin bomber attacked the hospital Monday, the spokesman said.

It was earlier reported that the raid spear A w o-O m a n a about 2½ miles from Biafra's Uli-Ihiala airstrip, took place Tuesday.

The hospital was not in a military zone and there were no Biafran troops in the vicinity, the spokesman said.

In the last few months the Nigerian Air Force made a series of raids on Red Cross hospitals, all of them clearly marked, and eight or nine hospitals were hit, the spokesman said.

Bertrand In Hospital

Neighborhood Vendetta Leads to 6 Fire Deaths

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — City officials said six persons were unaccounted for today after arsonists ignited a fire that swept through the second floor of an old hotel where about 25 persons resided.

At least 10 persons were treated at hospitals, but none was reported in serious condition.

Deputy Police Chief Solomon Reines said the fire was "definitely arson." He said there has been a "neighborhood vendetta" against occupants of the hotel before the fire described as mostly elderly transients.

Officials said there was a minor fire at the hotel recently which was extinguished without injuries to any occupants.

Fire Commissioner Edwin Englehardt said witnesses told authorities they saw a band of young men throw gasoline-soaked rags into the building before the fire broke out.

Busloads Tour Quinte

The Housing Search Is On

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The biggest house-hunt in city history is under way in Belleville — unofficial proof of an official decision still in the offing.

Today, two busloads of Unemployment Insurance Commission employees from Toronto gave a mobilized once-over to the city that will be their new home community — more than likely.

More busloads are expected tomorrow in a movement operation that has been partly tongue-in-cheek, partly cloak-and-dagger.

The offbeat aspects are added the situation by official procedure — painstakingly outlined last night to Belleville real estate men by top UIC officers.

Key personality in the situation is J. Lester Stevens, regional UIC director for Ontario.

Mr. Stevens explained it this way:

After an economy - decision to move the big regional UIC offices from Toronto, Belleville was his choice as the operation's new home. The decision was referred to federal works department officials who now are awaiting tenders on a new building. Then the Treasury Board must give its approval to the winning contractor. Only then can the move be officially certified.

This situation earlier was coupled with the need of secrecy to guard against land speculation in selection of a new site.

Hence the enigmatic note of most official announcements to date surrounding the project.

But, meantime, Mr. Stevens and his officers are faced with a big human problem — the transfer with minimum dislocation of a work force numbering more than 300.

Hence the bus tours — and the meeting with realtors last night.

While still awaiting Ottawa's final approval "we have to get on with our planning now," said Mr. Stevens.

David's Furniture Is Gutted by Fire

By Harry Mulhall

Fiery Fight For Control

Firelines snake up Front Street as battle is joined at crucial moment in furniture store blaze. Total loss of building was signalled at this point as front and roof collapsed, scattering bricks and debris in street.

Cause Is Not Known

By Lenny Williamson and Harry Mulhall
Staff Reporters

Fire gutted David's Furniture and Appliances store at 312 Front St. this morning. No one was injured.

City Hotel, adjacent to David's at the south suffered heavy smoke and water damage, but a fire wall between it and the burning store prevented flames from spreading.

Smith Hardware across an alley to the north also suffered smoke damage, but a fire-wall and prompt action by firemen in pouring water on the walls at the rear prevented fire damage.

The fire, cause of which is not known, was reported at 7.44 this morning and was under control by 8.30. At the height of the blaze the roof and store front of David's fell in, narrowly missing three firemen manning a hose on the sidewalk in front.

Brian Ware, a Brewers' Warehousing Co. worker, was cleaning draught-beer lines in the City Hotel before 8 a.m. when he was startled by an explosion.

"It just shook the whole building," he said.

He rushed to the front of the hotel and looked into the street.

He saw the reflection of flames in shop windows in the opposite side of Front Street.

Suddenly he remembered he had parked a company station wagon in front of the burning store. He rushed out, found flames already had scorched the rear of the vehicle and hurriedly backed it to safety.

David Mason, night manager of the City Hotel, was in a second floor room when the window exploded and he saw flames.

Britain Launches Drive For Ceasefire in Biafra

LONDON (CP) — Britain has launched a two-way effort to obtain a ceasefire in Biafra before Christmas, it was learned today.

Two high foreign office officials, now in Lagos and Addis Ababa, are carrying confidential messages from Prime Minister Wilson urging a ceasefire which could be supervised by a hurried expansion of the existing international observer group, informants said.

Lord Shepherd, a minister of state, is in Lagos and will attempt to use his influence on federal Nigerian leader Maj.-Gen. Yakubu Gowon. Maurice Foley, foreign office undersecretary, is in Addis Ababa with a message for Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie.

Foley will also confer with members of the Organization for African Unity and with the four African countries which have recognized Biafra. Foley will attempt through these chan-

Meanwhile, a London-based Biafran children's appeal organization plans full-page advertisements in major London and New York newspapers Thursday calling for greater aid to rescue dying Biafran children.

Susan Garth, a wealthy sociologist who heads the appeal, said Biafran children are dying at the rate of six every minute. She said in an interview that if a temporary ceasefire does materialize, her organization would help evacuate children to ensure them against the threat of starvation and death.

Red Cross Protests Bombing of Hospital

GENEVA (Reuters) — The International Red Cross has strongly protested to Nigeria over the alleged federal bombing of a Red Cross hospital in Biafra which killed three persons and injured more than a dozen, an IRC spokesman said today.

Ten Biafran Red Cross workers and several children were among those wounded when a Soviet-built Ilyushin bomber attacked the hospital Monday, the spokesman said.

It was earlier reported that the raid, near Awo-Omama about 2½ miles from Biafra's Uli-Ihiala airstrip, took place Tuesday.

The hospital was not in a military zone and there were no Biafran troops in the vicinity, the spokesman said.

In the last few months the Nigerian Air Force made a series of raids on Red Cross hospitals, all of them clearly marked, and eight or nine hospitals were hit, the spokesman said.

Ameliasburg Farmer Has Revolutionary Proposal

By ELMER BONTER
Staff Correspondent

AMELIASBURG — A local farmer here has produced a revolutionary proposal to ease both housing and education problems: An apartment complex with penthouse schoolrooms.

The advanced concept in urban living was conjured up last night for township council here by Howard Weese, prominent Albury fruit farmer.

Howard Weese has suggested its realization on his property on the Carrying Place road across the Bay of Quinte from the Canadian Forces Base, Trenton.

It could also be the site for the exciting new project which in "10 years ahead of its time" he told Ameliasburg township council last night.

Mr. Weese says he is considering a tenant-owned apartment project and already has received interested reaction from possible future tenants.

He envisions:

(1) Four six-storey apartment buildings each housing 25 apartments.

(2) A condominium operation — tenants would purchase their apartments outright.

(3) Each apartment block would include school facilities enclosed in a penthouse.

Mr. Weese told council he would make his land available under a renting arrangement permitted in provincial housing legislation.

He said he also has a fresh water supply from a drilled well producing more than 10,000 gallons hourly. The sewage disposal he would designate an area 1,500 feet away where the land slopes toward a swamp.

Mr. Weese understood he would require permission from local health authorities and the Ontario Water Resources Commission before proceeding with the project.

Mr. Weese estimates the 100 families living in the complex would add some 400 new residents to the area population. Of that total approximately 150 would be children.

Mr. Weese, however, said he did not expect the township to provide all facilities for the youngster's education by any real estate undertaking he inspires. Hence, the inclusion of penthouse classrooms on the roof of each of the four apartment blocks as his contribution.

Mr. Weese said he also looks for TV to change the system of present day teaching methods. "The days of sending children to marble edifices for schooling is about to end," he remarked.

To learn more about the assistance made available by the province for such developments, including financ-es, Mr. Weese said he intends meeting with Economic and Development Minister S. J. Randall.

If the condominium enterprise became a reality the families involved would enjoy the benefits of a swimming pool, bayshore marina and children's playground within the confines of the development, according to Mr. Weese.

In the condominium set-up the owner of the land realizes returns by leasing it, else, the property required for sewage disposal and services be provided to the provincial corporation undertaking the development. Prospective tenants are obliged to buy the apartments from the corporation.

One of the first steps council would have to take would be to make application to have the land rezoned from single dwelling status.

Northern Hastings

Rate Increase Opposed

Reeves from the northern part of Hastings county are not taking too kindly to the new increased subscribers rates proposed by Bell Telephone.

The consensus seems to be that there would be little opposition to the increased rate if at the same time increased service was offered.

But apparently that is not the way it is.

Wollaston Reeve William O'Brien said the 170 subscribers in his township have to pay toll charges to the Bancroft exchange where all doctors and government services are located.

And it was the same in Tudor township where Reeve Ross Sprackett said there were only 100 subscribers.

"We wouldn't mind paying more — if we received any service," he said.

"Every time you pick up the phone all you hear are the weirdest noises — and it is that way most of the time.

The inference was in relation to a resolution passed by Hastings county council back in the spring of 1967 asking that the provincial government do something about the increasing wolf population which was said to be decimating the deer herds and sheep flocks.

Rawdon Reeve Burton Morton claimed the department had not paid much attention to the county resolution.

In fact he claimed the department seemed more interested in increasing the wolf population then it was in protecting the deer.

By way of proving his point he told of reading a magazine article relating to government sponsored tours into Algonquin Park "to hear the wolves howl."

During the afternoon session Bell manager Charles Buckley appeared before council to briefly resume for the proposed rate increase but the northern reeves felt some effort should be given to improving service before any new rate schedule went into effect.

Mr. Buckley said he realized the service being given in the north was not up to par.

He said that his company had taken over the Coe Hill exchange about a year ago and "duress" and had already spent considerable money on the system.

In answer to Reeve S. J. Carr of weird noises on the phone at almost all times, Mr. Buckley said if phone are out for any appreciable time his company was only too glad to give a rebate to subscribers.

Power Project Has Great Potential

New Ontario Hydro Project Will Put 1,800 Men to Work

Good times are the result of a marriage between resources and development.

But there are work rules to the partnership if the romance is to flourish — as the Quinte district was reminded yesterday.

The area is still in the first flush of happy reaction to last week's Ontario Hydro proposal to build a $250,000,000 power station near here.

With all that money and hired manpower — peak employment will put 1,800 to work — pouring in, community boosters in the three Quinte counties look forward to new development opportunities.

The potential development situation was tacitly confirmed here yesterday by D. B. Cliff, Hydro first vice-president.

He told Napanee Rotarians that the new station could form the core of an "industrial magnet" and could also be an exhibit to the industrial potential of the area.

But, he cautioned: "Hydro's responsibility is to build and operate the plant. Your responsibility — and your opportunity — if you wish to benefit fully from our entry into your area, is to show that you want the people who will become your neighbors."

To use the new potential, surrounding municipalities must also zone accordingly — "to plan for industry, particularly in a rural area."

Neither industry nor urban dwellers wants each other as neighbors, he emphasized.

But, Mr. Cliff believed the district was ready to adapt to a new economic pattern — "from a largely agricultural one to a richer blend of agricultural and industrial assessment."

"It is up to you . . . to give serious consideration to the effect of this plant on your community. Whether you wish to develop its potential as a magnet for industrial growth, and to make necessary adjustments and provisions for growth, is a matter for you to decide."

The need for realistic community planning also was emphasized by Norris Whitney, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox, who introduced Mr. Cliff to the Rotarians.

Mr. Whitney was more chullient in his optimism about area development fired by the new generating station.

"I think the potential is terrific," he enthused later. "It'll help the whole area."

But, he stressed, municipalities in Lennox and Addington County should now form an area planning board to ready for future growth.

Pooled resources would place development — its costs and benefits — on a more equitable basis, he felt.

Most of Mr. Cliff's address was devoted to outlining the logistics of the Hydro decision to build on Highway 33, eight miles southeast of here.

Exhaustive studies were made of the Highway 33 area west of Bath and Wesleyville, near Port Hope.

"It was not an easy decision because so many factors must be considered," he said.

"For a time, I admit, It looked as though Wesleyville would win out, but now we have selected Bath for some important reasons."

"Our engineers estimate a saving of several million dollars in choosing this site over Wesleyville," he added.

The site also has good harbor features for the station's projected coal docks, plus excellent road and rail transport facilities.

The station likely will bring other, unexpected, bonuses.

During the seven - year construction phase — scheduled to start in 1970 — a spur track may be needed from the main CNR line here. This later could be an advantage in attracting industry.

The station on the Lake Ontario shoreline is situated on a prime scenic route. Construction will be geared to the esthetics of the surrounding landscape, promised Mr. Cliff, and will be a tourist attraction.

"This has been shown to be the case at existing projects, which attract thousands of visitors each year," he said.

Police Power

Councillors Defeat Resolution

Hastings county councillors admit that vandalism at times seems to get out of hand but they want no part of giving police unlimited powers.

This was indicated Tuesday at the one day December session of council when members turned down a resolution from Kent county requesting that all police forces be authorized to and instructed to defend themselves at all times and to use whatever force was necessary to carry out those duties.

Reeve Delbert Harvey of Tyendinaga admitted that vandalism at his town's park was "getting out of hand" and that additional protection was needed. But he didn't agree that police should be authorized to come in with unlimited powers.

Clerk - treasurer and administrator Carl Bateman said the same resolution had come up at the mayors' and reeves' convention and had been turned down.

"It sounded too much like a police state," he said.

"The trouble is that houses nowadays lack that little woodshed on the back," he said.

Neither do county councillors feel that the Ontario Government should take over the administration of all welfare as was suggested in a Frontenac county resolution.

Reeve Rodgers, as chairman of the county social services committee said the Hastings and Prince Edward Welfare Unit was giving good service.

"How remote do you want to get?" he asked, noting that with a county unit there was at least some local involvement. He doubted if the province could do the job any cheaper than was being done at the county level.

And Reeve Donald Armitage of Deseronto pointed out there already was a regional aspect to the Hastings and Prince Edward unit.

"If the government does it all for you, the Lord knows what you will end up with."

And county welfare administrator Reginald Tucker felt that such a move would mean a person to person contact would suffer.

"In my opinion it would be a retrograde step," he said.

Warden Calvin White suggested that what had occurred in education was an example of what could happen.

"We've been asking for years for the government to take over more responsibility and now when county boards are a reality there is objection.

"You just can't have your cake and eat it too," he said.

But these were among pertinent details that emerged from the 60-minute discussion between both groups:

● Several key UIC officers will be drafted into the city between February and April to lay organizational groundwork for the new operation.

● Big influx will come in summer — after schools are closed and personnel can be moved with the least difficulty.

● All types of accommodation will be needed — homes for purchase and rent and room and board for junior staffers.

● For Belleville, the economic dividends include a work force of about 300, earning an average $7,000 income. For an annual payroll of over $2,000,000. (The local city wage average is $5,400).

Besides the income injection and immediate flow of funds from house sales, there are other bonuses.

The UIC regional operation which logistically handles one-third of unemployment insurance business in all Canada, also is a training station.

This means the city financially benefits from the temporary stay of UIC teams and personnel sent here for training, emphasized Mr. Stevens.

Mr. Stevens also briefly outlined some of the reasons why he chose Belleville. These included accommodation costs — for both offices and housing, community amenities and the availability of college-trained business staff.

The city also is on the main East-West CNR line and rapid mail service for an operation that processes a third of Canada's unemployment insurance cheques was a major consideration.

Weed Inspector Appointed

County construction safety inspector Earl Mackey has a new responsibility in addition to his regular duties—that of county weed inspector.

The appointment was made by county council this week following the retirement of Harry Coulter who resigned his position this fall.

The county personnel committee decided it would be advantageous to the county to have a permanent employee in the position and the job was offered to Mr. Mackey.

The county is also soon to have an assistant administrator. He is Glen Whitehead, 41, Stirling restaurant operator, who will begin his new duties Jan. 2.

Indians' Problem

No man, however strong, can amount to much, or long endure as an effective self-respecting person, if he does not enjoy the support and respect of his fellows.

Consider in this light the problem of Canada's Indians. It is obvious the descendants of the first inhabitants of this country have not enjoyed the universal respect of the white race. And for this white Canadians must accept much of the blame.

Ronald Knight, the Liberal MPP for Port Arthur described recently something of the feelings of Indians vis-a-vis the white population. Mr. Knight said he had discovered recently his great-grandmother was half Indian and that his own daughter of 11 years was called a half-breed when she used Indian words in a Port Arthur school.

The member said he was extremely proud to realize he had the blood not only of the two founding races — English and French — but that of the original Indians as well. As a result he set about learning the Ojibway language.

Telling members the time had come to "honor our Canadian Indian people by introducing the Indian language in this legislature," Mr. Knight went on to describe Indians as a people who honored their elders and held leadership, God, motherhood, family and self-respect at a high degree of importance."

The major problem of the Indians, he said, was the low esteem in which they were held. Many of his Indian friends were ashamed to be Indian.

And why? Because of consistent prejudice and ill-will of successive generations of whites, many of whom are as has been so amply demonstrated in recent weeks — are more concerned with the problems of native peoples overseas than they are with poverty and the interests of the Indian and Eskimo peoples of this country.

Offbeat Pleasures

Ever walk along a beach in the dead of winter? It may not be the dead of winter yet, but it was cold enough last weekend and believe it or not there are some people who derive pleasure and satisfaction from walking along a lonely beach in December.

A Belleville couple took a stroll along such a beach as a wan sun set over Lake Ontario, for to do they presumably were breaking the law, for on this particular stretch of sand, near Consecon, there is a wire fence stretching almost to the water's edge, as well as rocks and fencing across the track used by vehicular traffic during the summer season.

Granted, there may be good reasons for a general ban on out-of-season visits which could come under the general heading of spoilage. Park personnel have enough to do as it is, maintaining the beaches and grounds in summer, without having to clean up winter's litter and possible damage to park facilities as well. But a simple, law-abiding walk . . . what's wrong with that?

In any case there is one of the beach approaches were the ubiquitous signs which proclaimed: No Trespassing. Signs like this are an affront; after all, people have difficulty enough in finding even amid such vastness as this country affords, an area to take an old-fashioned walk. The irony of it is that there are still some countries left, infinitely smaller in size, (Ireland is one) which still have the appearance of a much broader aspect in which to indulge the simple pleasure of life — like walking along a beach in winter, without some impersonal sign saying: "Thou shalt not . . ."

To borrow from one of Prime Minister Trudeau's concepts of what constitutes the "just society," one could say that the State "has no place in the perambulations of the populace."

The Name Game

Those names the pop groups give themselves these days. It is difficult to know whether the performers are altruist designers, business executives, space men, or fugitives from the American civil war. You know — The Jefferson Airplane, The Association, The Fifth Dimension, Gary Puckett and The Union Gap, that sort of thing. But take away their eccentric clothes, beards and long hair and they would all look rather alike. Some of course are white and some are black, but the sounds and the decibel output and the beat and the rhythm all have much the same rather excruciating and ear-piercing quality.

UN's Perennial Confrontation With Problems of Africa

By STEPHEN SCOTT

UNITED NATIONS (CP)— For one brief moment recently Western observers saw a glimmer of hope that Afro-Asian countries were moderating their annual hard-line attitudes in respect to questions that they bring up in the United Nations year after year.

That was on a resolution condemning Portugal for not giving the right of self-determination to the peoples of her African colonies.

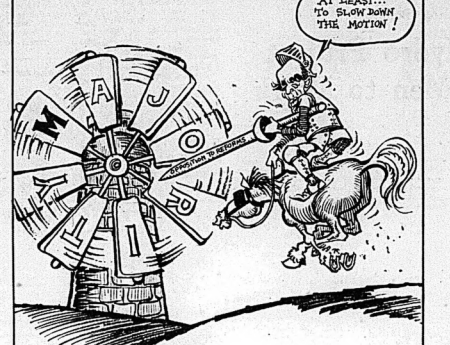
The language of the resolution was moderate to such a degree that some Western powers, including Canada, could support it, while others could abstain instead of casting their usual negative vote.

Then came Tuesday night's vote on dropping South Africa from a UN trade organization, passed in the General Assembly's economic committee despite warnings of illegality from the UN counsel and dire warnings of consequences from Western powers.

The resolution called for the dropping of South Africa from the UN Conference on Trade and Development because of its policies of racial separation. The move to remove a country from a UN organization open to all 126 members was unprecedented.

So anxious were some African powers to get a vote Tuesday that they ignored requests for a delay to permit some delegations to get instructions from their governments on the complicated legal question.

They rejected Western statements that countries that abhor such others' policies should be able to sit at the same UN table to keep dialogue alive.



Dictatorship and dominance of one race over another are by no means confined to the white-ruled areas of Africa. Charges of repression of minorities have been made in several Negro-ruled African countries, and elsewhere in the world, including the much publicized Nigerian-Biafran civil war. Black-ruled Haiti, which incidentally was absent for this vote, has a repressive dictatorship.

Each year the UN debates virtually the same resolutions on Afro-Asian problems — apartheid, Rhodesia, South-West Africa, Portuguese colonies, other colonies and similar other matters.

Each year most of the resolutions on these matters are passed, with the help of the Soviet bloc which loves to embarrass the West. Each year countries such as Portugal and South Africa ignore the resolutions.

The question is can the UN afford to spend so much time each year dealing with the same questions? Can the UN be really effective when the developed, mature countries must continually vote against the tough-worded Afro-Asian resolutions? Can it afford to keep passing resolutions it cannot enforce short of war?

It would seem that there must be some change in attitudes. South Africa gives no appearance of changing hers.

Epilepsy: A Team Approach

Fresh Light on an Old Problem

United Press International feature in the Sunday Sun, Toronto

A unique epilepsy project, which could become the prototype of a string of regional centres across the nation, has been established at the University of California medical centre.

The major goal of the program is to provide treatment for those adults and children with complex diagnostic problems, according to Doctor Robert A. Fishman, director of the experiment.

"An unusual feature of the program is the team approach to treatment," he said. "It is used because the social, vocational educational and psychological problems of the patient with poor self-control are often important."

A neurologist, social worker, and public health nurse evaluate the patient's needs to determine his medical treatment and plan the rehabilitation requirements of both the patient and his family.

Psychological and neurosurgical care is obtained when needed and other medical problems are referred to various specialists. Counselling services are also available.

"Epilepsy is a term used for not one, but a variety of basic conditions," Dr. Fishman explained. "They all share one common symptom: Recurrent seizures.

"When a seizure occurs, the orderly electrical activity of the brain is disrupted. There are several forms of seizure including generalized convulsions (Grand Mal), minor staring spells (Petit Mal), and complex behavioral changes (Psychomotor Seizures).

"At least 50 per cent of epileptics can have their seizures completely controlled by medical means. Another 35 per cent respond so well to treatment that their attacks are markedly reduced.

"Even the remaining 15 per cent with severe difficulties can be greatly helped by appropriate treatment, Fishman said.

The majority of epileptics have average intelligence, and Fishman cited several outstanding historical figures who had epilepsy: Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar, Napoleon. Alfred Nobel, Fyodor Dostoevski and Vincent Van Gogh.

"Another major aim of the program is to disseminate accurate information about epilepsy and to eradicate the superstition and stigma still attached to the disease," Fishman continued.

"Epilepsy comes from the Greek word for seizure. To the ancient Greeks the term also meant possession by the Gods. In the dark ages, possession by evil spirits or the devil became the popular notion.

"Not so many years ago, almost every area of normal life was denied the epileptic. In many states, laws removed sterilization, and forbade marriage. It was difficult, if not impossible, to get into schools and colleges.

"If an epileptic managed to get a job, he promptly lost it if his disability became known. Life insurance was unobtainable except at exorbitant cost. Epileptics were not permitted to drive cars.

"Although attitudes are changing, the epileptic is still discriminated against. Laws prohibiting marriage and requiring sterilization remain on the books in three states. Epileptics often have a difficult time getting or holding jobs."

Letter to the Editor

Community Organizations Could Back Arena Concept

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

From reports in the local paper the recent vote taken on the community arena complex was a disappointment to the people hat worked so hard to promote this project. Their disappointment was understandable. However, the idea that the construction of a new arena is a dead issue is not the correct conclusion of this vote.

I believe that the proper conclusion is simply that the home owners of Belleville rejected the idea of a million dollar arena to be paid for and perhaps subsidized with their money.

The trend in arena construction throughout the province is to buildings with regulation size ice, small seating capacity, and banquet room facilities. The reasoning behind this trend is that hockey other than professional hockey has become a participant sport rather than a spectator sport.

A building such as this provides a maximum number of recreational facilities with minimum building and operating costs.

Do we need an arena such as this and could one be built by this community?

In answer to the first question, this year in minor hockey we have 62 teams, an increase of 10 from last year. We can estimate an annual increase of at least four to six teams. There are several other hockey leagues, senior teams, a junior team and a figure skating club using the present arena. Family skating at the arena will soon be lost a memory. It is obvious that the present arena facilities are overused and cannot satisfy future requirements.

In answer to the second question, could such an arena be built? There should be no problem. Belleville is very fortunate to have service and fraternal organizations that have an unequalled record of community achievement. Recently a local community service organization successfully completed a fund raising campaign using a large number of volunteer workers.

There are eight minor sport organizations that provide a year round recreation program for our youth, operating entirely with volunteers.

I feel that a well-organized campaign co-ordinating all the facilities of the above mentioned groups, plus assistance that would be forthcoming from various government levels, could not help but be successful.

Heart Myths

Windsor Star

Transplanting of human hearts has been proved possible beyond doubt. This is despite more than half the patients having died, often due to causes unrelated to their new hearts.

One recipient now has lived a year. If a man can live a year with a new heart there is no real reason he can't live several years.

This remarkable achievement does call into question many beliefs, or myths, about the human heart. Down through history it has been considered a seat of having a hard heart, or praised for having a soft one. The heart is supposed to be the seat of love, charity, tenderness and other estimable emotions.

There appears no evidence that a new heart alters the fundamentals or characteristics of the recipients. We have to seek elsewhere in the mystery of man for an explanation of many attributes previously allocated to the heart.

Pensioners Must Wait For Cheque

Windsor Star

Health Minister John Munro appears to have adopted the role of a "modern Scrooge. His pensioners apparently can't expect their December cheques before Christmas.

Why not? Does the Government think the old folk will frivolously waste the money on buying presents for others or goodies for themselves and have none left to do them for the next month? Or is it a part of the just society to deny the elder citizens one extra bit of joy at Christmas?

Bonnie and Clyde—How Violence Begets Violence

By ZENA CHERRY
in the Globe and Mail

During the past two weeks, for the first time in well over a year, Metro Toronto has been without the film Bonnie and Clyde. Today it opens again at the Norman — to show this very young, attractive and seemingly misunderstood couple who were shot 34 years ago near Gisland, Louisiana.

Alan Rubin, a Warner Brothers and Seven Arts executive, told me it has grossed more than $25-million in the United States and Canada since. In Canada more than 1½ million people have seen it.

I've talked to many teen-agers about this movie. When one 17 year-old was raving about it, I asked her why she liked it so much.

"I don't know," she answered. "Try to tell me. Try. Why?"

She told me: "They were so attractive. They had fun together and they really loved each other. The police never gave them a chance at the end but just shot them in cold blood. That was not justice."

"Sweetie pie," I said "facts tell us Bonnie and Clyde lived and died in depravity and misery. They murdered 14 men in cold blood, as you say. That day when they were killed, the police couldn't take the chance of trying to capture them alive."

"I never thought of that," she said.

According to the critics Clyde is handsome; Bonnie is beautiful. They are fun-loving, cute, exhilarating and very human. You can sympathize with them. The movie is touching, heartbreaking brilliant, realistic.

That final word is the one word that isn't realistic, or that it is realism.

Realism means to face facts. The 18 victims of the real Harrow Gang were women and children. What about that fact? It's never mentioned in the movie — I guess it would be too real.

I wondered about these people, and practiced a new "No."

The movie Bonnie and Clyde has been shown at many Canadian universities. Now it is being booked into high schools.

Recently Dr. John Spiegel, director of the Lemberg Centre for the Study of Violence at Brandeis University, was asked if the movie would encourage violence. The movie Bonnie and Clyde encourages violence.

His answer: "Movies such as Bonnie and Clyde are both a cause and effect of violence. Because we seem to like violence and romanticize it, we are provided with such movies. Seeing such pictures seems to whet the public appetite for more of the same and a vicious circle is started."

Government Takes Over

County Landmark Changes Hands

PICTON (Staff) — A landmark in Prince Edward County's possession for the past 130 years is changing hands.

The county court building and gaol is being taken over by the Ontario government as part of their takeover of the costs of the administration of justice throughout the province.

However, the old building will remain unchanged.

It will still be used to house the county jail as well as the court rooms and offices of the high court.

Negotiations concluded between the county and the provincial government have provided the Ontario government pay Prince Edward County $1 per square foot in the building per year for the next 10 years.

It means the county will be receiving almost $10,000 annually for the next 10 years.

No deed has changed hands as yet, and it is doubtful that title will be changed for at least a couple of years.

County clerk Thomas Walker in Picton said "it is not clear yet exactly what the procedure will be.

"So far, it's just an agreement but we expect the deeds will eventually be transacted.

"The agreement is just plugging the hole until the paper work can be done."

Across Ontario the same thing is happening. County justice buildings are being taken over by the provincial government and this accounts for some of the delay in transactions.

Picton was also fortunate in that the county offices and court were in a separate building.

Office Location Discussed

Prince Edward Board Expects to Be Busy

PICTON (Staff) — Members of the newly elected county - wide school board have a busy few months ahead of them.

This Friday they will be going around looking at various locations to install the new county school board offices.

Although the Interim School Organization Committee has recommended that the old Bloomfield school be used for the offices, the town of Picton as well as some of the board members feel that perhaps Picton would be a better place to locate.

It was pointed out at the board's first meeting on Monday night that Picton, being the county seat with all county offices, is perhaps the logical location.

However, the board will be examining all possible sites.

At the next meeting of the board it will also be decided which bank will handle the accounts of the Prince Edward School Board.

Briefs from all of the major banks have been submitted and are being examined.

A suggestion from board member James Plomer that the county board make known its future hiring policy resulted in the issuance of a statement from the board.

It said that all former non - contract employees of the school boards in the area would receive first consideration.

Mr. Plomer had told the other 13 board members that many of the staffs janitorial and others, in county schools had been worried about their future positions in the school system being jeopardized by the changeover to a county system.

And after having filled the position of administrator by hiring Ernest Shortt Monday night, the board still has to deal with the hiring of a director of education.

A motion by Mr. Plomer that the board advertise immediately for a director was passed.

Under law the county board does not have to hire a director of education until next summer.

Still another important piece of business taken care of at the first meeting was the question of the three standing committees required by law.

These are the advisory vocational committee, the French language committee and the advisory committee for trainable retarded children.

Since all three of these committees are presently standing at the Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, Mr. Shortt was asked by the board members to bring a list of the committee members with him to the next meeting.

That way according to board member Douglas Ceasley, the board will have a chance to look over the committees to decide if they want to add or delete someone from the committee list.

THANK YOU

I sincerely appreciate your support in the election on Monday, Dec. 2nd.

UCS Director Resigns

Robert Porter has resigned as executive director of the United Community Services.

Mr Porter has held the position for more than three years — when the organization was first formed.

The new director, now being sought by the UCS, will be "expected to carry on this work," said Msgr. Sullivan.

"Just so we need physical planning if a city is to develop properly, so we must have social planning if the people are to be adequately serviced," he added.

Msgr. Sullivan emphasized UCS directors were concerned for the continued success of the organization. They wished to assure all participating agencies there would be "no slackening of reorganizational effort during the transition period" preceding a new appointment.

"If necessary, a person competent in the field of community fund-raising will be engaged until Mr. Porter's successor is on the job and adjusted to the position," he said.

Air Canada Talks to Resume

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Negotiations between Air Canada and representatives of 2,200 members of the Canadian Airline Employees Association were to resume today in Montreal after a meeting of the parties failed to produce a contract settlement.

Air Canada's flight scheduled across the country continued to run smoothly Tuesday despite a second consecutive day of work-to-rule tactics by association members, passenger agents, communications personnel and switchboard operators.

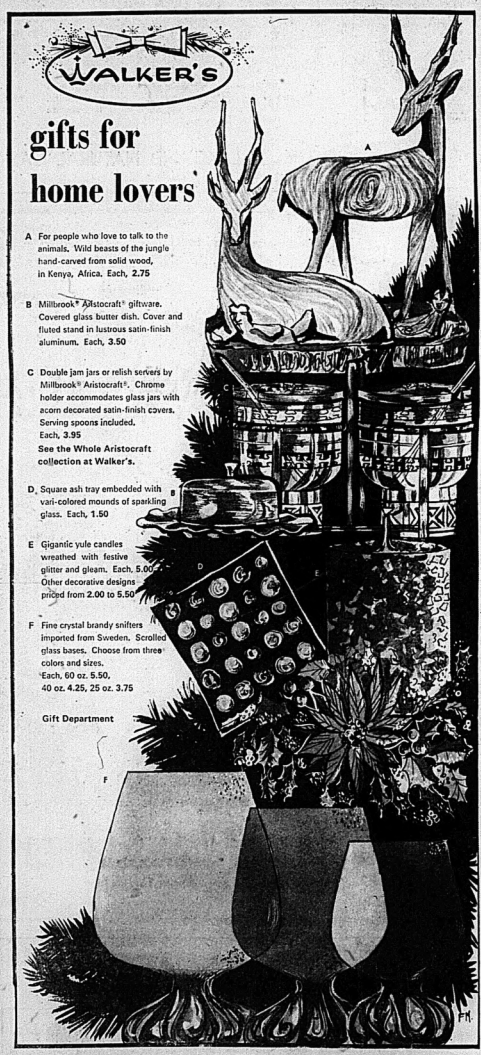
Only four flights were delayed about 20 minutes each Monday on the busy Montreal-Toronto run.

The employees began the work-to-rule campaign after mediation sessions between the union and Air Canada broke down Sunday night. They said they will maintain the slowdown until a settlement is reached.

Norm Selwood of Edmoton, unit chairman of the employees' association, said the slowdown "couldn't fail to have an effect" after Dec. 19, when extra flights are scheduled to be put into operation to meet the Christmas season rush.

Andy Launon, chairmsn of the Ottawa local of the union, said the employees' campaign has not produced noticable results at Uplands Airport but delays might crop up on weekends.

"We just want to make the company back our demands and said.



Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Tuesday the transport department is doing all in its power, without breaking the law or interfering in a labor dispute, to ensure that all safety precautions on behalf of Air Canada passengers are being carried out while the slowdown is in progress.

Major areas of dispute are wages, working conditions, employee transfer clauses and duration of the new contract.

The association wants salary increases ranging from 19 to 35 per cent in a one-year contract. Air Canada has offered 15 per cent over two years.

Under the last contract, which expired July 31, passenger agents earned from $325 to $550 a month and switchboard operators from $260 to $382 a month.

Gang-busting Lawyer Likely to Succeed Rusk

NEW YORK (Reuters) — A gang-busting lawyer virtually unknown outside the United States today appeared almost certain to become state secretary in Richard M. Nixon's new administration.

Qualified sources said the president-elect chose former attorney-general William P. Rogers, 55, for the job.

Nixon will present his cabinet at 10 p.m. EST tonight on a half-hour television hook-up with the three major U.S. networks.

Rogers, attorney-general in the Eisenhower administration from 1957-61, first made his name as a tough government lawyer fighting organized crime in New York almost 30 years ago. In five years, he prosecuted more than 1,000 gangsters.

Now a private lawyer, Rogers has been one of Nixon's closest confidantes for many years.

Rogers's experience in diplomacy has been limited to three brief missions. In 1960, he made an African tour as an Eisenhower emissary. In 1953 he attended a United Nations conference on prison conditions and last year he served as a delegate on the UN committee debating the future of South-West Africa.

Reliable sources said Nixon, whose Republican team takes office Jan. 20, was expected to appoint Congressman Melvin R. Laird, 46, a hardline conservative who shares his view that the U.S. must strengthen its military arsenal, as defence secretary.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, 61, a self-made millionaire who launched a brief bid for the Republican presidential candidacy this year, was expected to become secretary of housing and urban development.

John N. Mitchell, 55, a partner in Nixon's law firm and his chief election campaign strategist, appeared certain to become attorney-general.

Another close friend, Lt.-Gov. Robert H. Finch of California, 43, will be given a major domestic post, probably as secretary of health, education and welfare.

Informed sources said other $35,000-a-year cabinet posts appeared likely for the following, although last-minute changes still are regarded possible:

Commerce Secretary — Former budget bureau director Maurice Stans, 60.

Agriculture Secretary — Clifford M. Hardin, 53, chancellor of the University of Nebraska.

South Africa Storm Centre

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The proposed expulsion of South Africa from a UN agency has become one of the most contentious issues of this session of the General Assembly.

It seems to be developing into an Afro-Asian vs. Western powers debate, with the Soviet Union playing it cool for the present.

Behind-the-scenes discussions are in progress. Ambassadors Lord Caradon of Britain, Armand Berard of France and J. F. Wiggins of the United States made a rare joint visit to Secretary-General U Thant to express their concern over the matter Tuesday.

Thant himself may be lobbying to prevent passage of a resolution on the subject when it reaches the General Assembly.

On Dec. 3 the General Assembly's economic committee passed the resolution which would drop South Africa from the UN Conference on Trade and Development—called UNCTAD—because of its policies of apartheid or racial separation.

The committee voted 49 to 22 for the predominantly Afro-Asian-backed resolution with most of the Western powers—including Canada—against it and the Soviet bloc among the 22 abstainers.

The majority went against the advice of the legal counsel of the UN that a country could be dropped from a UN body only through joint agreement of the General Assembly and the Security Council.

To the Western powers the question is purely a legal one. They say the resolution must be defeated because the action it contemplates is illegal.

To the Afro-Asians the question is more and more becoming a moral one. South Africa has ignored all UN resolutions condemning apartheid and therefore has no right to sit on UNCTAD, they say.

The decision of the committee must be ratified by the General Assembly. It is expected that somebody will demand that the resolution be considered an "important question" needing a two-thirds majority for passage.

UNCTAD is a semi-autonomous body whose primary function is to help developing countries in matters of trade and tariffs. Thus South Africa's expulsion cannot hurt the country, already an industrial state and the world's No. 1 gold producer.

But Western countries are concerned that the resolution, if passed by the assembly, would be the thin edge of the wedge, allowing UN members to expel other countries whose policies are disliked.

K. B. Asante of Ghana complained about the behind-the-scenes action this week when he said in the economic committee that certain bodies outside the committee—"some distinguished and others not so distinguished"—were taking part in the debate on the question.

Brudi Nehwera of Kenya asked why the Western powers were so "legalistic" on the issue while they were silent on other more important questions dealing with South Africa.

Femininity Of the East Shown in Lounge Items

In the Middle East many women may not have the vote. . . . But, around the world eastern women get the vote . . . the universal vote for femininity, fashion and fascination.

This year, as the holiday and cruise seasons approach, the mystic femininity of the east invades the loungewear fashions of Canadian women.

To treat herself to ode of these languorous lounge items, it isn't necessary for a Canadian woman to be planning a cruise or even a glamorous Christmas party. They make wonderful winter-long at-home outfits for every woman from Halifax to Victoria.

In challis, knits, and tricot sheers, in wild and wonderful prints, they are light in weight yet warm enough to scare away western winds and snows. Exotic and eastern as they may appear, they are hardy fashions and easy to care for since they are made of "Orion" acrylic fibre and "Antron" nylon.

For the very latest in loungewear, look to the east for inspiration and to Canadian manufacturers for the finished fashions.

THAT HAREM GIRL FEELING — comes to the fore in this culotte lounge item in a fine challis fabric of "Orion" acrylic fibre. From Elizabeth Allen, Toronto, it has multi-hued eastern-type print which is part of the Middle East approach Canadian loungewear designers are taking this year. Jewellery by Coro, Canada.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

BAYSIDE LOCAL ASSOCIATION

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The Bayside Local Association for Brownies and Guides held the first meeting of the term at the Lower Bayside School with a good attendance.

Business relating to Brownies and Guides was discussed. It was decided to sell boxes of chocolates before Christmas to contribute towards Local Association funds.

Following the meeting, on behalf of the Bayside Brownies and Guides and the Local Association, a presentation of a cup and saucer was made to retiring Brown Owl Marian Ackerman to show their appreciation.

The next meeting will be held in February. Lunch was served to close the meeting.

SHOULD BE ACCURATE

Baroness Enjoys Her Work

TORONTO (CP) — Tamara Siepowyk is a beautiful blonde who speaks five languages, is well travelled and has a German title.

She is a baroness, but her business card for her new day nursery identifies her as Mrs. Siepowyk. She says she got into the business because "I love children, especially those whose mothers have to work."

She has turned space in a shopping plaza into a home-like setting. Some of the children arrive as early as 8:30 a.m. and are given breakfast. At 10:15 there's juice and cookies, lunch is served at noon, milk in the afternoon and a substantial snack of sandwiches and fresh fruit or vegetables at 4 p.m.

"I know my own daughter (Talitha, 3) is hungry at 4 o'clock. Most of the children are picked up between 4:30 and 6, and they'll be hungry again at 6 p.m."

There's a formal pre-school program in the morning and a nap, then play outdoors and indoors in the afternoon. "One group may be singing while another paints. They don't seem to mind the noise."

She says her philosophy is that the more you do, the more you learn, whether it is cooking or travelling.

"I could work as a translator or a cook or a cleaning woman. It doesn't bother me."

Childless Couples Not Always 'Whiners'

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was upset by the person who described childless couples as "whiners" because they went through life moaning that they were not blessed with babies.

Adoption was the perfect solution, according to the writer, and anyone who did not choose to solve the problem in this way was either "selfish, lazy or both."

My husband and I wanted children badly. We were not blessed, but then we were married later than most people (I was 37, he was 38). When we attempted to adopt we ran into obstacles which turned out to be insurmountable. First, ours was a mixed marriage. Second, younger couples were given preference. Third, I had a history of heart trouble.

Yesterday's mail brought me two copies of your column from anonymous "friends". I think I know who sent those columns but under no circumstances would I attempt to defend myself. It would help those of us who are childless but not by choice if you would print this letter. — PENNSYLVANIA PEGGY.

DEAR PEGGY: Here's your letter and I hope your anonymous "friends" see it and learn something.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was saddened by the letter about the delivery boy who was hit by a truck. However, your plea that bicycle manufacturers meet tougher safety standards would solve no problems. A safer bicycle does not necessarily mean a safer cyclist. If the National Safety Council and the parents of America are concerned it's time they passed a few laws similar to the ones they have in Europe. (1) All bicycles must have front and rear lights after sundown. (2) All cyclists must travel with the flow of traffic and must keep to the inside lane nearest the curb. (3) Cyclists must give hand signals when turning left or right.

Kids all over the world ride bicycles. Americans have the accidents. It is not surprising since they need not study the highway code or obtain a license to operate a bicycle. I've had some mighty close calls because of stupid cyclists. Had I not been alert I could have killed at least two kids that come to mind at once. I'm willing to bet the blame belongs on the delivery boy and not on the truck driver who wrote that sad letter. — M.S.S.

DEAR M.S.S.: Thanks for writing. Your letter makes sense, and, of course, the truck drivers will love you.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please settle an argument, and don't tell me to go look it up. If I knew where to look I wouldn't be writing to you.

My brother-in-law says anyone (male or female) who is not a United States citizen can become one, automatically, by marrying a person who is a citizen.

I say he is wrong. I say a person who wants to become a United States citizen must apply for citizenship papers and pass certain tests. Who is right? — THE FLEA.

DEAR FLEA: Marriage to a U.S. citizen will not produce Instant Citizenship. It takes five years to become a U.S. citizen, unless citizenship is proffered by a special act of Congress.

A non-citizen who marries a U.S. citizen may remain in this country indefinitely — but as an alien.

Successful Living

Reader Asks: Is School Sex Instruction Valid?

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Nowadays they teach the facts of life to grade seven and eight students by records of films. Some children are not ready for this at 12 and 13 years of age. Not when they just show reproduction and sex and fail to teach the right and wrong of it.

Some students understood from a record at school that premarital sex relations were not wrong, provided that the couple was about to get married. Since when was that habit moralized? I was taught that the sex act, or marriage act, was a part of the sacrament of matrimony instituted by Christ, and any sex before marriage was a mortal sin against the sixth commandment of God.

Any Christian of any faith must know it's as wrong one day before the wedding as it is a year or two. Some brides are left standing at the altar. Some couples break up shortly after they become engaged. Would the fact that they are about to be married lessen a girl's shame or guilt? Would the baby be any less illegitimate?

If the teaching of sex to the young children is so good, how come the rate of unwed mothers is going higher every year? I still think the subject of sex should be taught by parents when they think the child is ready for it, or when the child asks, don't you? — Worried Mother.

Dear Worried: Wouldn't the child be asking, well ahead of 12 or 13?

According to me, the complaint is that teaching the physical facts is not enough. Boys and girls need to know the emotional and spiritual implications. Parents and teachers would do well to open the subject up in discussion between them, and decide who teaches which, and how.

Some parents have been lax in waiting too long. Some children get their earliest curiosity satisfied by asking around the neighborhood. What they learn is apt to be more fiction than fact.

* * *

Dear Doris: I am in grade eight and have no friends. While my classmates boast of how many times they've been drunk, I have nothing to tell them except I never. If they tell of all the cigarettes they've had, I feel ashamed to say I can still count the few I've had. I'm a pretty good dancer but no one will ask me to find out if I am.

Don't say they will come to their senses after a while and notice me because I know they won't. — Unpopular.

Dear Unpopular: Time and again the popularity polls prove that friendliness counts more than any artificial kind of sophistication. All drinks and fags do is give the insecure ones the sensation of being big time.

Let's hope they will come to their senses, and soon enough to avoid ruining their health. Noticing you would be nice, too.

Stick with your friend, but make new ones; girls, I mean. Look to your grooming. And extend some warmth and helpfulness to the next girl or boy who looks a little self-conscious. There are times when a feller needs a friend. If you are observant and sympathetic enough, you can be it.

* * *

Dear Doris: I recently became engaged. My parents have no complaints but want me to finish school first.

Is it poor taste to wear an engagement ring on your finger to school? My mother feels it is and I have been wearing my ring on a chain around my neck. — In Grade Eleven.

Dear Grade Eleven: A good deal depends on how public your engagement is. Probably not very, and if you have two years to go, wearing the ring openly would almost certainly set you apart from your classmates. I'd say keep it under cover.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Sweet-tasting Delicious Treats

By MARY MOORE

Of both of these confections I can say that they are easy but you need a candy thermometer.

DIVINITY DROPS (six dozen 1½" to 2" "drops")

NOTE: 1) Be ready and work quickly. 2) Have three buttered cookie sheets ready.

20 chopped drained maraschino cherries
two-thirds cup chopped nuts
2 rings chopped candied pineapple
72 tiny dice of candied orange peel (for decorating)
2 cups granulated sugar
½ cup water
½ cup corn syrup
2 medium large egg whites
one 3-oz. package (two-third cups) orange or strawberry or raspberry or lemon jello powder.

Prepare fruits and nuts first and have cookie sheets buttered.

In heavy saucepan combine sugar, water and corn syrup and stir to blend. Place over medium-high heat, insert candy thermometer and boil to 254 deg. Fahr. Immediately remove from heat.

Meanwhile in beater bowl beat egg whites until fairly stiff then slowly add jello powder as you beat until stiff. Slowly add boiled syrup in a stream beating all the time until it will hold its soft peak. At once add fruits and mix in. Drop from heaped silver teaspoon onto buttered cookie sheets. Top each with a piece of candied orange peel or a quartered cherry.

SUGAR 'N SPICE NUTS (about 2¼ cups)

2½ cups walnut halves (or 1¼ cups each walnut halves and almonds) ¾ cup each granulated sugar and freshly squeezed orange juice 1 tablespoon orange rind, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt

Spread nuts on cookie sheet and bake for 10 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr., stirring twice. Be careful! Do not burn them. Have ready a large buttered platter. In heavy saucepan combine remaining ingredients stirring only to mix in sugar. Insert thermometer and boil over medium heat to 236 deg. Fahr. Remove from heat at once and add nuts. Stir constantly with wooden spoon until mixture turns creamy and nuts look "frosted". Tip mixture out on buttered platter and separate nuts before they set.

Instant Breakfasts May Lack Essential Requirements

OTTAWA (CP) — So you'd rather catch that extra wink of sleep some mornings than get up in time to make a good breakfast? Join the club.

But you don't have to dash off to work only to sit listening to your stomach growling because it misses those calories.

The failing has become at least common enough for breakfast substitutes to join the ranks of such products designed for the rush generation as instant tea, coffee, whisky sours and mashed potatoes.

It is, says a memo from the consumer division of the federal food and drug directorate, a "convenience food" for persons who occasionally lack the time to sit down to a good breakfast.

An instant breakfast made according to directions, the memo says, provides one-third of the daily requirements of protein, iron and listed vitamins.

But the products now on the market do not supply all the necessary nutrients and bulk which a well-balanced breakfast meal would contribute to healthful eating.

In short, that teen-ager of yours who likes to play basketball needs more than the 300 calories in a breakfast substitute.

These are not standardized foods. That is, food and drug regulations do not specify the composition of these products.

As with other unstandardized foods, however, a list of ingredients in descending order of proportion must be shown on the label.

The food and drug directorate has established minimal nutritional standards with which all manufacturers must comply.

These regulations require each serving of an instant breakfast product to contain: not less than four mg. of iron; vitamin A, thiamine, riboflavin, niacin or niacinimide and vitamin C — within specified limits; and a good dietary source of protein.

MR. AND MRS. ALBERT A. YOUNG

Young – Bain

St. Thomas Anglican Church Belleville, was the scene of the December 7 wedding when Archdeacon A. S. McConnell united in marriage Beverley Susan Bain, daughter of Sgt. A. Bain of East Africa and Mrs. A. Bain of Trenton, to Albert Arthur Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Young, of Belleville. Rendering appropriate nuptial selections was organist Don Davenport.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother Ronald. She wore a floor-length gown of white embossed pan velvet with an empire waistline and matching coat with elbow length sleeves. Her four tier bouffant veil was gathered with a flower of chiffon petals and trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible covered with red sweetheart roses with a flowered white ribbon.

Matron of honor was Mrs. D. Hunter of Welland, Ontario, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were the Misses Janet Cunliffe, cousin of the bride, and Mary Elizabeth Young, sister of the bridegroom. All the attendants wore floor length princess style gowns of burgundy velvet, with matching capes. Their headpieces were circlets of burgundy velvet, with net adorned with a touch of leaves and flowers. Bouquets of red carnations, circled with white muma, completed their ensembles.

Best man was Ronald Young of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom. The ushers were Wayne Campbell of Brampton and Gary Millar of Trenton.

For the wedding reception, held at St. Thomas Parish Hall, the mother of the bride received the guests attired in a mint green crimpolize dress which featured elbow-length sleeves. Brown accessories, and a pink and white corsage completed her ensemble. Assisting her, the mother of the bridegroom wore a navy sheath crimpoline dress with navy and white accessories, completed by a pink and white corsage.

Upon their return, the couple will reside in Toronto.

The Champagne Set

Iced champagne sets a party mood in brocade designed by John Warden for Hudson Cloak Co. The coats have flared open collars. One is tunic length worn over a companion satin-topped dress. The other is knee-length, worn with soft easy pants.

Aims of VON Given at W.I. Meet

The December meeting of the Canniffon and Corbyville WI meeting was held recently at the home of Mrs. Gerald Wilson with ten members and two visitors. The president, Mrs. G. Moore presided and conducted the opening exercises.

The usual business and plans for several banquets to be catered to by the ladies was discussed. Reports of standing committees were given by Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Bowers and Mrs. Milton.

Mrs. G. Wilson, convener for health, took over the meeting. Readings pertaining to health and the Christmas season were given by Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. D. Windsor, Mrs. G. Wilson and Mrs. Bowers.

At this point, Mrs. Wilson introduced the guest speaker, Miss Norma Gundal, VON from Belleville. Miss Gundal gave an interesting and enlightening address of the aims and duties performed by the VON. Mrs. Morris thanked the speaker and presented her with a gift.

The meeting closed in the usual manner, after which a social time followed.

Anglican Church Women Hold Tea, Bazaar

CAMPBELLFORD — An exceptional and attractive tea was held on Saturday afternoon at the Anglican Parish Hall by the women of Christ Anglican Church.

Accenting the theme, "story book land," and the "fair," the decorations were appropriately colored sketches, and each booth was commanded by a storybook character.

Rev. Larry O'Connor and Mrs. O'Connor, son of Mrs. C. A. O'Connor, and the late C. A. O'Connor, of Campbellford, now of the Church of the Messiah, Toronto, opened the event.

Guests were welcomed by conveners of the tea, Mrs. A. C. Newman and Mrs. E. Swift. Tea tickets were sold by Mrs. W. Skinner and Mrs. H. A. Lawrie.

The bake table proved to be one of the most popular spots, with Mrs. Harry Bennett, the "queen of hearts" presiding, assisted by Mrs. W. Westlake and Miss Muriel Mills. The variety table carried an assortment of gift items for Christmas giving, including ceramics and huge candles.

Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. B. Runions, Mrs. B. McComb and Mrs. Pyrke supervised a large table full of baby clothes, helping shoppers make their selections.

For the two to four year old Mrs. M. Collins as "Jill" and Mrs. H. Ritchie were busy salesladies. This table also included stuffed toys. At the apron table, there was both an interesting and unusual display, modelled and sold by Mrs. W. Buchanan and Mrs. J. Williams.

Pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. J. Herd, Mrs. W. Archer, and assisting in serving were Mrs. B. Elmhurst and daughters, Misses Janice and Nancy Elmhurst.

Apollo Moon Flight One of Man's Most Dangerous Missions

HOUSTON (AP) — Apollo 8's Christmas-time flight around the moon will be among the most dangerous missions ever attempted by man.

During the seven-day flight, Apollo 8 will streak 250,000 miles to the lunar vicinity, orbit the moon for 20 hours and then return to earth.

The Apollo 8 crew, Col. Frank Borman, Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Maj. William A. Anders, will become the first humans to be captured by the gravitational pull of another celestial body.

Their lives will depend on the performance of a single 20,500-pound thrust rocket engine. If that engine fails, they will orbit the moon long after their oxygen supply fails, beyond help.

Even if that rocket engine performs perfectly and Apollo 8 starts for home, the re-entry poses new hazards.

The spacecraft will come flashing back from the moon at about 24,000 miles an hour. The on-board computers must guide it across 250,000 miles of space into a 25-mile wide "window" or corridor through the earth's atmosphere.

Just before re-entry, the command module, containing the crew, is separated from the service module, which contains most of the oxygen supplies. This leaves about seven hours of oxygen on board for the crew.

If the spacecraft undershoots the corridor, or comes in too steeply, the extreme braking pressure of colliding with the atmosphere could cause the craft to break up.

If the spacecraft overshoots the corridor, it could hit the atmosphere and skip, like a pebble across a pond, back into space. This skip trajectory, space officials believe, would most likely be fatal to the crew because their oxygen would run out before the spacecraft's new orbit returns it to earth.

Even after the crew hits the corridor, their problems are far from over. The automatic re-try system must roll the spacecraft's angle of attack to the atmosphere precisely correct or the spacecraft could still skip out into space again.

Earth orbit flights are, at the most, three hours from safety. In extreme emergencies, a spacecraft in earth orbit could return to earth somewhere in 30 minutes.

As Apollo 8 glides toward the moon, however, its ladder to safety gets longer and longer, until, in the lunar vicinity, the spacecraft is up to three days away from home.

To offset these risks, the astronauts have several factors going for them.

First is the proven reliability of the flight machinery.

Redundancy of systems is another big safety factor. Most systems and subsystems on the complex command and service module have at least one back-up, or alternate. Some systems have several back-ups.

Another big factor is the open-ended approach to the mission. There are go-no-go decisions which would allow a safe retreat at more than a dozen points along the path to the moon and around it.

Regional Disparity Will Be Stressed by Atlantic Provinces

HALIFAX (CP) — Next week's federal-provincial constitutional conference in Ottawa will bear a great deal about regional disparity from Atlantic provinces spokesmen.

"I plan to make a pitch in that regard," said Premier Louis Robichaud of New Brunswick.

Premier G. I. Smith of Nova Scotia, who underscored his province's worry about regional disparity at the last federal-provincial constitutional talks in February, said: "Our position hasn't altered at all."

Only Prince Edward Island, among the four Atlantic provinces appeared to be heading for the conference without feeling that regional disparity should be the top issue.

A spokesman for Premier Alex Campbell said the P.E.I. delegation was still discussing its plans, but there was a feeling that nothing much new could be said about the economic gap between the Atlantic provinces and most of the rest of Canada.

Three of the premiers head Liberal governments. Mr. Smith, successor to former premier Robert Stanfield, is the only Progressive Conservative. All four plan to attend the three-day meeting, which opens Monday.

The four provinces, with about 10 per cent of the country's overall population of 20,000,000, have consistently lagged behind the other six provinces in a wide range of public services.

Mr. Smallwood said in an interview from his home outside St. John's that constitutional matters, while important in themselves, were less important "to the people of Newfoundland and I believe to the people of a lot of other provinces" than the question of regional disparity.

Mr. Smith said Nova Scotia "will take the line that our two major problems, one relating to language and culture and the other to regional disparities, are of equal importance."

New Brunswick, with about one-third of its population French-speaking, does not have "strong views" on the Canadian constitution, Premier Robichaud told a television audience this week.

The British North America Act, which had served for more than a century, should not be "thrown into the wastepaper basket to start from scratch as some people would advocate," he said.

Three of the four premiers will enter the conference satisfied with Prime Minister Trudeau's proposed formula for federal-provincial sharing of offshore mineral rights. Only Mr. Smith has questioned it.

THE BETTER HALF — By Bob Barnes

Resolution Disappears Provokes House Row

OTTAWA (CP) — The disappearance of a committee resolution en route to the Commons has produced a full scale parliamentary investigation provoked by Conservative MP James McGrath.

Rising in the Commons Tuesday on a question of privilege, the Newfoundland member said the resolution passed by the Commons transport committee was "deliberately omitted" from its report to the Commons.

The representative for St. John's East, a member of the committee, said the incident infringes on the rights of committee members who voted for the resolution.

Speaker Lucien Lamoureux accepted the protester's right to raise the question and all parties gave voice-vote assent to a McGrath motion for an investigation by the Commons committee on privileges and elections.

Supporting Mr. McGrath's motion, Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) suggested there was "hanky-panky" on the part of the Liberals, who form a majority on the committee, in the removal of the resolution.

The resolution, an embarrassment to the government, was rammed through the transport committee Nov. 28 by opposition MPs when some Liberals were absent.

Mr. Woolliams said the only way to find the culprits is to place the Liberals involved under oath before the investigating committee. Omission of the resolution was a dictatorial act, dangerous to democracy.

Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) said he wants to find out who drew up the committee report and what authority the drafters had in presenting it to the Commons. It was not presented to the transport committee for approval—as is customary—before tabling in the Commons.

Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West), a former Commons Speaker, said committee reports must reflect "the true state of affairs" as regards resolutions passed by committees.

David Lewis, the NDP parliamentary leader, said the misbehavior and misconduct charges against officers of standing committees must be looked into.

The Liberal House leader, Donald Macdonald, told Mr. Lewis that the tradition is for members to resign their seats if such personal charges are disproved.

At the same time, Mr. Macdonald accepted the investigation idea and with this lead, government members voted for it.

Gustave Blouin (L—Manicouagan), absent from the House during the resolution debate, was chairman of the transport committee when the resolution got through. Pit Lessard (L—Montreal Lasalle) has since replaced him. The vice-chairman is Pat Mahoney (L—Calgary South).

Mr. Blouin is said to have been admitted to hospital for surgery.

The original resolution called on the Canadian transport commission, a federal agency, to postpone implementation of its decision to permit the CNR to abandon rail passenger service in Newfoundland until the transport committee had gone to the province for a first-hand look at the situation.

Poll Tax Lingers In Several Areas

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vestiges of the poll tax, one of mankind's oldest forms of taxation, linger on in Central and Western Canada but only in the Atlantic provinces does it still hold much importance as a revenue source.

There is no provincial poll tax as such in Nova Scotia but its provision is included in the province's assessment act and all municipalities levy it on male and female persons over 21 years of age. It is up to each municipal government to decide whether to levy the poll tax on real property owners.

In 1967 it brought revenue of $2,027,600 to the province's three cities, 39 towns and 24 rural municipalities.

In Digby, N.S., last week, a Negro was released after publicity about the five months he spent in jail for non-payment of his poll tax. Nova Scotia rates vary from $15 to $35 a year per person.

New Brunswick's poll tax was abolished during the 1965 66 legislature session, but most Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland municipalities levy it on males and females alike.

In Newfoundland, it is called a municipal service fee and may be levied against male and female residents of municipalities who are 19 years of age and who earn $600 or more annually.

Prince Edward Island calls it an educational or personal property tax and in most communities all persons between the ages of 21 and 65 for males and 21 or 60 for females may be required to pay the tax.

Steinberg's Ltd. Buyers Got Loans from Firms

TORONTO (CP) — A chief buyer for Steinberg's Ltd. borrowed $2,500 from the owner of a produce company and only repaid $50, a public inquiry into marketing and sales practices in the Ontario produce industry was told Tuesday.

Arthur J. Richmond, owner of Levy Produce Ltd. of Toronto said he gave the loan to Hyman Perzow in 1963.

Mr. Perzow, chief produce buyer for the Ontario division of the Montreal-based chain, earlier this year was dismissed by the company for alleged kickbacks and under-the-table payments.

Mr. Richmond, testifying under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act, said he also gave two loans totalling $2,000 to Mac Gifford, the chain's former assistant produce buyer. Mr. Gifford has also been fired by Steinberg's.

Travel Questions, Answers

BY THE ONTARIO MOTOR LEAGUE

QUESTION: If I buy a used car in Toronto how can I be sure there is not a lien against it?

ANSWER: You would have to check it for liens in every county in Ontario. Even then you couldn't be sure it was free, as it might have a lien registered somewhere out of the province. In Nova Scotia, there is a requirement that all transfers of ownership in used cars sales bear a slip indicating whether money is still owing on that car. In California, all cars on which money is owing have pink licence plates, so there is no way a car can be sold without the purchaser knowing about it. Ontario is now studying ways and means by which a central registry can be set up, so that used car buyers won't get stuck, but it could be five years before a solution is found.

QUESTION: We are driving to Miami, Florida, in January in Toronto. How long will it take us to drive down and which is the best route at this time of year?

ANSWER: It takes usually three days to drive to Florida. The western route through Detroit, Lexington and Atlanta, though 60 miles longer, is probably your safest bet in January. Using it you can go most of the way along a superhighway comparable to our 401. You also avoid the snowy mountain driving which can be a hazard when travelling the northern section of the eastern route. Biggest change on the western route this year is the completion of interstate 75 in the mountains near Knoxville, Tenn., replacing one of the slowest and most dangerous sections of the old road. Going by way of Niagara Falls and highway 15 down through New York state and Pennsylvania continues to be a drag, especially in January and February when it is snowing. You won't hit much toll road driving along either route but it will cost you about $4.25 if you use the Sunshine Parkway through Florida to Miami.

There was a time when the Florida-bound driver faced a forest of speed traps, and some of them in notorious, backwoods towns where the sheriff, arresting officer and judge all shared in the traffic fine. This was mostly cleaned up when the states between here and Florida found out how much tourism meant to them, and forced municipalities to lay off out-of-state drivers. There are still four areas on these two routes that the Ontario Motor League warns members about speed traps. Two are on the western route between Mount Vernon and Corbin, Kentucky, and north of Oak Ridge, Tennessee. On the route via Niagara Falls there is one in New York state on Highway 15 just south of Bath. The other one is between Petersburg, Virginia, and the North Carolina border on Highway 95 and 301.

The best way to make the fastest time is to get on the road at 6 a.m. and drive until 8 a.m. when local traffic and school buses take to the highway. Then stop for breakfast and give the traffic time to clear.

Driving to Florida will cost the average motorist about $75 for the return trip, not counting motels and meals along the way.

Farmers' Union of Alberta Wary About National Body

EDMONTON (CP) — The Farmers' Union of Alberta rejected Tuesday a resolution that would have made them part of a national farm organization and decided to spend another year of study before making a decision.

The 400 delegates attending the 20th annual FUA convention overwhelmingly rejected the resolution which would have put the five provincial farmers' union under one national farm organization.

A submission from the National Farmers' Union council and a plea from its President Roy Atkinson of Saskatoon that the Alberta union join for the sake of farm policy was ignored.

Ed Nelson, a former FUA president, said the set of super organization structure envisaged by Mr. Atkinson would not work without the support of every individual

Mr. Atkinson met Monday unions in British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Ontario had indicated support for a new national union.

There are two national groups under the present setup—the National Farmers' Union and the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Commons Hears Protest

CBC Program on Algonquin Park Criticized as Misleading

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC was accused Tuesday of emphasizing the views of wildlife enthusiasts and misrepresenting the forestry industry.

Leonard Hopkins (L—Renfrew North) told the Commons that the CBC public affairs program, The Day It Is, on Dec. 1 portrayed forest operators as uncouth lumberjacks and made no attempt to portray the economic situation that would result in the upper Ottawa Valley if the industry were forced to close down in Algonquin Park.

Tiplier that is not harvested rots and is a lost resource, he said during an adjournment debate. "Conservation and forest management are one and the same."

Mr. Hopkins said 82 per cent of the fires in the park are caused by visitors, but it is the roads built by the timber operators that allow the fire-fighting equipment to get in to fight the blazes.

He said he CBC has an obligation to depict some of the constructive things being done by the forest industry.

Filion Sets World Harness Mark

MONTREAL (CP) — Herve Filion, the young but veteran harness racing driver from Angers, Que., has broken a record that he believes will stand for years and has set his sights on bigger things before 1968 is over.

Filion, 28, shattered the world record for most harness racing victories in one season as he posted three victories at Blue Bonnets Raceway Tuesday night, boosting his total wins to 387 for the year.

The record-breaking performance came four years after Eddie Freundt of Dusseldorf, West Germany, posted 384 wins.

"I believe my record is going to be there for a lot of years to come," the jubilant Filion said after the evening's 10-race program in zero-degree temperatures. "Now my goal is to get 400."

"It's going to take a lot to break the record because I know what I've been through to get it," he said.

He raced at 16 different race tracks in Canada and the United States, racing 1,556 times in 343 days.

"Whoever breaks that record is going to have to double-dash somewhere," he said.

Nats' Fate Hinges on Meeting

Holdup of Government Grant Irks Amateur Hockey Bosses

OTTAWA (CP) — A meeting today between Health Minister Munro and Earl Dawson, acting president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, likely will decide the future, if any, of Canada's national team.

Mr. Dawson has said he will press the health minister for an explanation of why the federal government grant to the association for 1969 has been held up.

The team likely will have to be disbanded unless the federal government gives an immediate guarantee of financial support, Mr. Dawson said Tuesday in an interview.

"I want to find out from Mr. Munro what the sticking point is," he said.

Mr. Dawson said he has already written to the minister explaining that the association will have to give up the national team unless federal support is continued. The CAHA has been trying without success for two years, he said, to have a non-profit organization take over the team's operation.

Federal aid to the CAHA for the national team was about $100,000 in 1968.

The Canadian team, made up of players from squads in Ottawa and Winnipeg, was winless in an individual tournament in Moscow last week.

The Canadians were beaten once by the Soviet national team, twice by the Soviet second team, and they tied with Finland.

If the team continues to operate, Mr. Dawson said, the Russians may give some coaching assistance.

"The CAHA is certainly going to discuss it," if it continues to operate the national team.

The Canadian national team was established in 1963-64 but so far has failed to regain the world amateur and Olympic hockey crowns for Canada.

Canada last won the world title in 1961, when the Trail, B.C., Smoke Eaters captured the award.

Russia has won the title every year since 1963.

The federal government has been assisting amateur sport for several years through its advisory council on physical fitness and amateur sport.

The government now has named a special committee of people outside the government to investigate the general conditioning of amateur sports and look into ways of improving Canada's performances in international competition.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Kathy Whitworth Tuesday was named Player of the Year by the Ladies Professional Golf Association, the third consecutive year she has been selected.

Miss Whitworth won four of the last six tournaments and finished third in another to help accumulate 130.5 points to 128.5 for runner-up Carol Mann, LPGA headquarters announced.

NEW YORK (AP) — Centre Orland Kurtenbach of New York Rangers underwent spinal-fusion surgery Tuesday, the National Hockey League club announced. The operation requires a six-month recovery period, but the Rangers were assured that Kurtenbach would return to action next season.

"The government is supposedly interested in investing in track and field, yet government armories are holding us up with a demand for $280 for just one night of training," said Hudson, who will be Canada's national track and field coach for 1969.

The $280 was the price last year when Paul Poce, Toronto Olympic Club coach, asked to use facilities at Fort York Armories.

Strike Looming

Players Deplore Inactive List

NEW YORK (AP) — A rule which could deprive a player of his salary because of illness or non-baseball injury has widened the gulf between major league players and club owners.

The players, threatening to strike next spring unless their pension demands are met, announced Tuesday they plan to take legal action against a "vicious anti-player rule" passed by the owners during last week's winter meetings.

The rule, passed Friday by joint action of the American and National leagues but overshadowed by the resignation of commissioner William Eckert, creates a temporary inactive list.

It provides for a player to be placed on the list, for at least 21 days and not necessarily with pay, if he is "unable to render service during the championship season due to bona fide illness or any injury not related to baseball." A team can return a player to the list any number of times.

The rule has been called the Lonborg Law. It stems from a skiing injury that kept Boston Red Sox pitcher Jim Lonborg out of action for most of the 1968 season.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players' Association, said the players group had informed the owners it was opposed to the new rule prior to its passage.

The players group, Miller said, told the owners "that since the rule was inconsistent with the basic agreement between the clubs and the players association, we would, if it were passed, take legal steps to enjoin its performance."

Frazier Gets Ring Oscar

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Frazier retained his five-state heavyweight title, but failed to knock out or even deck Oscar Bonavena Tuesday night.

There was no doubt that Frazier, 24, tried every punch in the book to try to knock out Bonavena, but he wound up a tired, frustrated winner by unanimous decision of the two judges and referee.

Judge Nate Lopinson scored it for Frazier 74-64 under the Pennsylvania system of five points must for the winner of a round, and four or less for the loser. Judge Dave Beloff carded it 72-64, and referee Joe Sweeney 70-67.

The strong-jawed challenger left the ring with both eyes almost shut and blood jelling from cuts around the eyes. His nose was red and he looked a loser.

Bonavena, 26, did not protest the verdict that deprived him of a chance to lift Frazier's five-state title — New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Maine.

Frazier, of Philadelphia, weighed 203 and Bonavena 207 for their second meeting in two years.

Bonavena had some problem with locating his punches in legal areas. Four times he was warned by Sweeney to lift his blows and he had the eighth round taken away for hitting below the belt.

Watching the fight was Cassius Clay, considered champion in many parts of the world. Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., the World Boxing Association champion, is recognized in most states.

Holmes' Yeoman Service Not Enough For Mo-Hawks

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Three of them were goals, and about a dozen others would have been, were it not for some unbelievable acrobatics by Mo-Hawk pipe-tender Larry Holmes.

The Wellington native was a big factor in a Mo-Hawk performance that playing - coach Davey Jones, said was the club's best on the road this season. "If we play like that at home Friday, we should beat Orillia," he added.

On the scoreboard, last night's game added up to a 3-1 loss for the Belleville seniors — their fifth in a row — and dropped them six points behind the youthful Aces in the battle for the loop's sixth and last playoff berth with the season about half over.

But on the ice, it was a different story — the type of game that sets you counting the number of goalposts you hit in the pub post-mortem.

Obie Opts Out

O'Brien, who has not played since Dec. 1, has expressed interest in playing with another team, but Oaks officials have refused to grant him a release.

In his third season with Oakville, O'Brien was fourth in the nine-team league's individual scoring race last week with 29 points on 14 goals and 15 assists.

The Mo-Hawks had four of them, and missed chances to take a lead in the first and second periods on a number of

DOUG MURRAY

But Holmes was the big story, keeping the high - stepping Aces off the scoresheet through a 17-shot first period barrage, and until Johnny Mercer's close-in high shot at 13.17 of the second period gave Kingston a 1-0 edge.

Kingston had things pretty much their own way until the second, when Mo-Hawks like lofty Doug Murray began to deploy some "policing" tactics to keep the fleet Aces from thinking they owned the ice.

Playing-coach Jones notched his 11th goal of the season on a breakaway with 14 seconds remaining in the middle frame while penalty - killing with Godson.

But it was the "one that got away" that bothered Jones.

The Mo-Hawks had argued vehemently that Jones scored in the second minute of play in the period on a rising shot that appeared to bounce right back out from inside the goal frame. A goal at that point would have broken the scoreless tie in the Mo-Hawks favor and given them a chance to break the home-team win syndrome that has developed in the clubs' six meetings to date.

Wayne "Weiner" Brown demonstrated his recuperation from a leg injury by digging up a handful of scoring chances, and gave the crowd of 681 heart failure when he rattled one off the post with the Aces' Bob Brown serving a penalty just past the midway mark of the third period.

On the rest Kingston rush, Holmes robbed Johnny Mercer of the go-ahead goal on a clean-cut breakaway, and did likewise for Charlie Convery a minute later.

Then Holmes gobbled up Rod Graham's tip of a point shot to still preserve the tie.

And hustling Bob Clayton put the damper on Mo-Hawk chances for a points spilt when he picked up the puck in the Belleville end and fired it in at 19.5 with Holmes removed for a sixth attacker.

Wrestling Clinic

Welcome Mat Extended

The welcome mat is out to anyone interested in attending a wrestling officials' clinic at Moira Secondary School Saturday, Dec. 13.

Last year there was a shortage of wrestling officials in the Bay of Quinte area and the clinic will be an instructional one designed to train and qualify officials to judge high school wrestling matches and tournaments.

Dave Bell and Dan Leitzer of Moira will be in charge of the clinic and aspiring officials will receive instruction in rule interpretation and mat procedure. A written test and a test on mat procedure will be carried out to qualify the officials. The clinic is an all day affair and starts at nine o'clock Saturday morning.

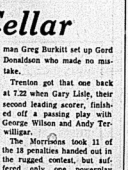
Aces Net First

Belleville Aces broke their early season slump and hit the winning trail last night when they travelled to Trenton Air Base and dumped Trenton C.F.B. 69-59 in Bay of Quinte Men's Basketball league action.



The Aces initial win of the season left them tied for third place with Trenton in the five team basketball loop. Both teams have won one game and lost two.

John Chalmers was the big gun for the Aces, who led 28-25 at halftime, netting 23 points. Mark Sheridan scored 13 points, Tom Lornie added 12, Rick Graham eight and Don McCormick seven.

Don Brennan topped the Trenton scorers with 15 points, Al Lukr hooped 14 and Joe Theriault and Ned Rainboth each tallied eight points for the Trenton squad.

Loss to Trenton Sinks Morrisons Into Junior Cellar

Trenton Golden Hawks rode four second period goals in just over five minutes last night to a 5-1 victory over the Belleville Morrisons, and undisputed possession of third place in the Eastern Ontario Junior "B" Hockey League, with 15 points in 13 games.

Morrisons who remained in the league cellar with seven points in 13 games, were only outshot 32-30, but it was Trenton's second period blitz which decided the outcome of the game after a scoreless first period.

Don Potts, the Golden Hawks leading scorer, started Trenton on the road to victory when he combined with Bim McFaul and Peter Ulman on a powerplay at 5.08 to beat Belleville netminder Paul Hopkins.

Trenton's Randy Castellerin scored his unassisted goal at 9.17 to give Trenton a 2-0 margin and just one minute later George Wilson widened the margin to three goals.

Trenton made it 4-0 at 11.10 when Castellerin tallied his second goal of the night on a pass from Don Potts.

The Morrisons came back in the third period and outshot Trenton 12-9, but were only able to beat Trenton goaltender John Garrett once.

The Morrisons are off until Monday when they travel to Cobourg to tangle with the fifth - place Cougars, whom they trail by only three points in the standings.

Sidelined Only 28 Career Games, Delvecchio Sits Out Pair This Week

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One of the most restless guys in the National Hockey League tonight will be Alex Delvecchio of Detroit Red Wings.

The 37-year-old centre will not participate when his team visits Los Angeles Kings tonight and Oakland Seals Thursday night.

Inactivity is something Delvecchio dislikes, and he will be anxious to return to action Saturday when the Red Wings play Oakland at Detroit.

Delvecchio injured his ribs last Thursday night in a game against New York Rangers. He missed weekend games against Boston Bruins and New York, the first he has sat out in the last four seasons.

The Red Wings had hoped the stocky forward would be available for the two mid-week games in California, but the ribs have been slow in healing.

In other games tonight, Toronto Maple Leafs are on home ice against Montreal Canadiens, Boston is at New York, St. Louis Blues visit Chicago Black Hawks and Minnesota North Stars play host to Pittsburgh Penguins.

Delvecchio has missed only 28 games—22 of been in the 1966-67 season—since joining Detroit on a permanent basis during the 1951-52 season.

The Fort William, Ont., native was off to a fine start this season before the injury. He had 12 goals and 15 assists for 27 points in 22 games.

Playing on the same team as Gordie Howe has prevented Delvecchio from gaining his legitimate share of recognition.

The Red Wings also announced Tuesday that goaltender Roy Edwards has been recalled from Fort Worth of the Central Hockey League to replace injured Terry Sawchuk.

Detroit sent goaltender Gerry Gray, originally recalled to replace Sawchuk, back to Fort Worth.

Sawchuk broke a finger on his catching hand recently, and is expected to be sidelined at least another week. Edwards was not recalled at the time of Sawchuk's injury because he also was hurt.

Edwards, 31, started the season with Detroit, but was sent to Fort Worth Nov. 5.

Elsewhere, Toronto assigned rookie defenceman Rick Ley to Tulsa of the CHL. Ley, in Toronto on an emergency recall basis, was returned to the minors because defenceman Jim Dorey has recovered from an eye injury.

The Maple Leafs also must decide soon whether to keep another rookie defenceman, Pat Quinn, on the roster. Quinn was recalled from Tulsa to replace the injured Marcel Pronovost who is almost ready to return.

London 'Tomahawks' Lead Junior War Party

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

London Knights traded one lance for two tomahawks and may become the terror of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

London trounced Kitchener Rangers 8-1 Tuesday night, led by Bob Channell, one of two St. Catharines Black Hawks London acquired Monday in a trade.

Channell scored two goals and Guy Delparte, the other former Hawk, picked up one assist. London traded right-winger Allan Young in exchange for the two St. Catharines players.

In the only other series game, Toronto Marlboros overcame a 2-0 first period lead and upset Niagara Falls Flyers -4 at Niagara Falls.

At London, the Knights jumped into a 2-0 first period lead, upped the margin to 3-0 after 40 minutes and exploded for five goals in the third.

Captain Don Tannahill scored his 22nd goal of the season for Niagara Falls, and slipped into third spot in the league scoring with 43 points. He is tied with Dennis Gianinni of St. Catharines.

Toronto Coach Gus Bodnar replaced backup goaltender Bill Woodyatt at that point with regular goalie Cam Newton. Newton has been sidelined with a pulled leg muscle since Friday.

The St. Catharines at Montreal game was rescheduled for Jan. 10.

Liston Knockout Win Could Be Key To Crack at Crown

BALTIMORE (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston—high on the comeback trail—hurtled what may have been the last barrier to getting a crack at the crown again by knocking out Amos Lincoln Tuesday night.

The 36-year-old boxer made no bones about it. He's ready and eager to take on Joe Frazier, who successfully defended his five-state heavyweight title against Argentina's Oscar Bonavena in Philadelphia Tuesday night.

Liston said after flattening Lincoln in 2:46 of the second round that he wants to win back the championship and "put boxing back on its right feet."

Liston weighed 215, Lincoln 209.

Liston won the heavyweight crown from Floyd Patterson Sept. 25, 1962 and lost it Feb. 25, 1964, to Cassius Clay by failing to come out for the seventh round.

The powerful fighter has posted 11 straight knockouts since he was knocked out in the first round of a rematch with Clay in 1965.

Lincoln was knocked to his knees and took the mandatory eight count. A handler threw in a towel in a futile attempt to stop the slaughter, but referee Benny Goldstein let it continue.

Liston dug in with another flurry of punches and Lincoln was knocked down. He was landed on his back, shoulders across the bottom rope.

Liston's manager, Dick Sadler, complained that the referee should have stopped the fight immediately after the first knockdown.

A crowd of 6,000 paid about $30,000 to see the scheduled 10-round fight.

Two For The Show

TORONTO (CP) — An unprecedented two consolation daily doubles were paid Tuesday night at Greenwood Raceway when two horses were scratched.

The racing oddity occurred after National Anthem and Davey Barnes were scratched in the second race. National Anthem was scratched when he jumped the outside rail, landing between the outside rail of the harness track and the inside rail of the thoroughbred course.

The scratching of Davey Barnes came under the recall rule when he broke stride twice in two starts.

The combination of Snowball Direct, winner of the first race, and Donna Cloud, produced a $9.50 daily double. The consolation daily double of Snowball Direct and National Anthem returned $3.40 and the second consolation double, of Snowball Direct and Davey Barnes also paid $5.40.

Ron Feagan of Goderich, Ont., who drove Donna Cloud to victory in the second, moved closer to his fourth 200-win season. He now has 193 wins this year. The season ends Dec. 21.

Shulman Says Workers Subjected to Chemicals

TORONTO (CP) — An official of International Nickel Co. Ltd. of Canada Tuesday denied reports that workers at the company's smelter in Copper Cliff near Sudbury are being subjected to dangerous concentrations of sulphur dioxide.

The charge, first made in the Ontario legislature Monday, was repeated Tuesday by a union official in Sudbury who termed the situation at the smelter "intolerable" and said it could have contributed to a death rate among Sudbury males higher than the national average.

Dr. Morton Shulman, NDP member for Toronto High Park, told the legislature Monday that Mark Starowicz had sneaked into the smelter Aug. 29 and found sulphur dioxide concentrations of more than 40 times the accepted safe level.

"It's a long list of charges, and all I propose to say about them is that they're untrue. The evidence . . . is all second- and third-hand."

In Sudbury, Kenneth Valentine, a representative of the United Steelworkers of America, said the situation at the smelter was "intolerable." He said it may have contributed to a death rate among Sudbury males over age 55 which was 50 per cent higher than the Canadian average during the years 1961-1961.

He said conditions at the smelter made some new workers quit without finishing a single shift.

Homer Seguin, president of Local 6500 of the Steelworkers in Sudbury, said the union has held numerous meetings with Inco and provincial authorities during the last several years to remedy the situation at the plant, but with no result. The union at one point had even offered to install monitors if the Ontario government would man the machines.

Mr. Valentine said the union, in its own tests, had found gas concentrations of more than 200 parts of sulphur dioxide per million of air, and that American standards adopted by the Ontario department of health recognized five parts per million as being the maximum level acceptable for safe working conditions.

"We think the provincial government has completely abdicated its responsibility in making sure of safe gas levels at the smelter," Mr. Valentine said.

Mr. Starowicz, a reporter for the Toronto Star, said in a report Tuesday from Copper Cliff that he entered the smelter Aug. 29 with a gas-measuring device and found gas concentrations of 200 parts sulphur dioxide per million of air. When he visited the same spot the next day with a company official he found the air clean.

Mr. Starowicz said he later was told by two workers that dampers had been opened before his visit to allow gas to escape.

Mr. Valentine said the smelting process produces sulphur dioxide and dust, which contains valuable minerals later recovered through electrostatic precipitators. He said the dampers are not always left fully open because the precipitators can only process dust at a certain rate.

...Sopha Denies Statements

TORONTO (CP) — Elmer Sopha (L—Sudbury) Tuesday told the Ontario legislature that statements attributed to him by Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) about pollution at International Nickel Company's smelter, had not been made by him.

Noting that Dr. Shulman, in a speech Monday, had said Mr. Sopha wanted to remain anonymous, the Sudbury member said the NDP spokesman had been "perfectly in character . . . using the ordinary gutter-snipe tactics at which he is master."

Dr. Shulman, in his speech on sulphur dioxide pollution at Inco's Copper Cliff smelter, used a quote larded with profanities which he said had been made by Mr. Sopha to a university student.

The Liberal member said "to my knowledge I have never spoken" to the student and had never met him.

"But I rise on privilege because the attributed remarks include expletives which I am not accustomed to use."

Robarts Opposes Proposed Changes in Constitution

TORONTO (CP) — Premier John Robarts expressed opposition Tuesday to a federal proposal that a bill of rights be written into the constitution.

In a statement read to the Ontario legislature by Labor Minister Dalton Bales, Mr. Robarts said:

"I would much prefer to have the two levels of government intensify their activities in the field of human rights under the present constitutional arrangements."

Premier Robarts, ill in London, Ont., with the flu, made the statement on the 20th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

Mr. Robarts said treatment of Indian and Eskimo populations "is something for which every Canadian must feel deep concern and deep shame," but "under the constitution the welfare of Indians is the-chief responsibility of the federal government."

He said the, province is ready to "co-operate wholeheartedly" with the federal government in launching a massive attack on the Indian and Eskimo problem.

In other legislature business, newspaper comment on an abridged financial statement for the government led Liberal Leader Robert Nixon to demand either an explanation from Treasurer Charles MacNaughton or his resignation.

Mr. MacNaughton was not in the legislature at the time.

Copies of the statement were released Monday, but apparently none was sent to legislature members.

Mr. Nixon said that if newspaper comment about the statement is factual then the treasurer "is guilty of misleading the house and the public and should be severely censured by the house."

The statement showed the government "has found $55,000,000 it didn't know it had," he said.

The report indicated a deficit of $149,748,000, when the government had predicted in the spring a deficit of $192,000,000.

The legislature also was told federal-provincial agreements for flood control protection in Ontario will be renegotiated as soon as a special committee formed in January, 1967, has completed its work, the Ontario legislature was told Tuesday.

The committee, composed of three representatives each from the federal department of energy, mines and resources and the provincial department of energy and resources management, has held 10 meetings.

In other legislature business:

—Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond said costs of heart transplants are covered under provincial legislation if they match the approved rates for operations, Health Minister Matthew Dymond said Tuesday.

Eddie Sargent (L—Grey Bruce) asked in the Ontario legislature if the government would establish a special fund to pay costs of heart and kidney transplants.

Dr. Dymond said no special legislation is needed.

—Approval of provincial contributions for urban renewal plans in Kitchener and Hamilton were announced by Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough.

The province will pay 25 per cent of the estimated $16,385,000 cost of a renewal project covering 82 acres in downtown Kitchener.

Labor Left Wing Attacks Suggestion of Coalition Government

Such advocacy, they asserted, "has moved, with Mr. Cecil King, from the International Publishing Corp. to Printing House Square."

This apparently was a reference to the Nov. 27 announcement that King was to be a consultant to Times Newspapers Ltd.

Long an advocate of coalition government for Britain, he was until last May chairman of IPC, which controls The Daily Mirror.

On Monday The Times said in an editorial that the "disastrous" record of the present Labor government had led to the need for "a coalition or national government to overcome the emergency."

The Labor MPs, in their new motion, asked the Commons to declare it "believes that the nation's economic difficulties stem largely from the government's acceptance of the disastrous policies advocated by certain newspapers, notably The Times and The Daily Mirror."

One of the MPs, James Dickens, said there already is too much of a coalition on post-devaluation economic strategy between the government front bench and the Conservative Opposition.

Reginald Maudling, deputy leader of the Opposition, said in a speech Tuesday that Britain's economic ills required a cut in public expenditure, revision of the law on trade unions to prevent "industrial anarchy" and implementation of controls on incomes as well as on prices.

The Labor left-wingers, in a verbal slap at Britain's leading financiers, said the national interest should be placed "before the private gains of the City of London."

King told a television audience he does not "pretend for a moment there's the slightest prospect" of a coalition.

But he suggested that "when eventually a crash comes," a coalition would serve to "spread the responsibility of the very unpleasant measures that will be necessary."

It also would serve to avoid the need for a general election, he said.

Few Interested in Nickel Beer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Killarney Community Centre offered a night school course in how to make beer for only five cents a bottle. But only five persons signed up for the 10-week course and it was postponed. Organizers said they couldn't understand the lack of interest.

Hong Kong Flu Has Not Yet Crossed U.S. Border Into Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Hong Kong flu which has invaded the United States has not crossed the border to Canada.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that medical officers of health have found no victims of the virus and if the bug does cross the border they expect to be ready for it.

Health officers in Nova Scotia and Manitoba report some flu in their areas, but not of the Hong Kong variety. Other provinces report only the normal rash of colds, with no unusual incidence of flu.

Dr. Vytautas Pavilanis, chief of virology at the University of Montreal's institute of microbiology and hygiene, said adequate vaccine will be available if Hong Kong flu reaches Canada.

He said the institute has been making and testing the vaccine since September, and "very limited quantities" have been released.

So far the new species has been mild; Dr. Pavilanis said. It has caused few deaths, even in the Orient where it was first noticed.

A spokesman for the Saskatchewan health department said of the flu: "It's mostly February, March or April when it comes along."

Dr. A. Roger Foley, director of epidemiology at the Quebec health department, says there is no Hong Kong flu yet in the province.

In Manitoba, Dr. Emmanuel Snell, director of preventive medical services, says large numbers of Manitobans have been hit by flu but most are not going to doctors.

His department has supplied all health units with throat swab kits and swabs to send to the province's laboratory for identification of the flu bug.

In Regina, Dr. L. M. Hanna, medical officer of health, said, "We're not worrying about it at all."

British Columbia say they are geared to meet any outbreak by identifying it quickly.

In New York, a survey of leading businesses showed that 40 per cent of those polled reported unusually high absenteeism. Ten per cent said the high number of sick employees was due to Hong Kong flu.

Saigon Police Arrest 320 Viet Cong Suspects in 3 Weeks

SAIGON (Reuters) — Saigon police have arrested 320 Viet Cong suspects, including four district political commissars, in the last three weeks, police sources said today.

Police sources said the guerrillas were trying to win support for the North Vietnamese and the National Liberation Front—political arm of the Viet Cong—at the Paris peace talks, and create incidents.

More than 20 Chinese-made weapons, 300 pounds of plastic explosive and hand grenades were also seized.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands reported ground clashes up and down the country in which they said 156 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers were killed Tuesday.

During the night guerrilla forces also attacked at least six government military bases and towns with mortars, cannon or assault troops. Seven South Vietnamese were reported killed in the latter attacks and 45 were wounded.

The U.S. command reported another American artillery attack on the demilitarized zone Tuesday after North Vietnamese troops there fired on a small U.S. reconnaissance plane. The plane was not hit.

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. mission today claimed that 73.3 per cent of the population of South Vietnam is living in relatively secure areas controlled by the Saigon government.

It was the most optimistic report on the pacification program ever given.

The report showed an increase of 3.5 per cent since November in the number of persons living in relatively secure areas. It was the largest monthly increase ever claimed.

The U.S. mission estimated that another 13.3 per cent of the South Vietnamese are living in "contested" hamlets, and the remaining 13.4 per cent are under Viet Cong control.

Leaky Valve Halts Mission

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A leaking valve halted the 103-hour practice countdown Monday for the Apollo 8 mission just two hours before it was scheduled to be completed.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the trouble would not affect the scheduled Dec. 21 blastoff of Apollo 8 with its three-man crew to circle the moon. Officials said the final nine hours of the practice mission was being rerun Tuesday.

The countdown started last Thursday with five extra days for the launch crew to correct any trouble. Officials pointed out that four extra days remain in case additional trouble pops up.

The leak was discovered in a heat exchanger valve on the launch pad service tower. The exchanger cools helium which feeds into the third stage of the Saturn V rocket to pressurize fuel lines.

Pony Express Breaks Down

RICHMOND HILL, Ont. (CP) — An American pony express rider was fined $50 Tuesday on a charge of being in Canada illegally while he tried to finish a Centennial project started two years ago.

Al LeGate, a United States citizen, entered British Columbia on horseback from the U.S. on Dec. 27, 1966, after completing a 2,600-mile trip from Mexicali, Mexico.

LeGate was carrying a scroll from the president of the Mexican Charros horsemen which was intended as a gift for Queen Elizabeth during her visit to Exno 67 in July.

Judge Russell Pearse was told LeGate obtained sponsors to help him organize a pony express service soon after he arrived in Vancouver to carry the scroll across the country.

The scroll left Vancouver March 22 and arrived in Montreal in late June after being relayed by more than 3,000 horsemen along the route. LeGate said he could not be cleared through security in time to present it to the Queen.

To complete his project, he said he has been living near this community, 13 miles north of Toronto, and sending certificates to each of the riders who took part in the pony express.

LeGate ran into trouble when he went to work making and selling saddles and bridles to raise money to send certificates to riders in B.C. and Alberta.

Judge Pearse said LeGate's present status with Canadian Immigration officials is still unclear.

Officials Applaud Rasminsky

OTTAWA (CP) — More than 200 government officials and cabinet ministers turned out at Rideau Hall Tuesday to applaud Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada and recipient of the 1968 outstanding achievement award of the public service of Canada.

"The people of Canada are more secure and more prosperous today because of Mr. Rasminsky's activities in those fateful days last March," said External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, who was finance minister when Mr. Rasminsky, 60, played a prominent role helping Canada weather a financial crisis last spring.

Decorations Galore Dominate Apartment Of Mrs. Bertha Couvert in Wellington

By DONALD MacKENZIE
(Staff Reporter)

WELLINGTON — Old Santa Claus must think he's back home at the North Pole every year when he walks into the five room apartment of Mrs. Bertha Couvert every Christmas.

For certainly there are enough Christmas decorations crammed into those five rooms to decorate a half dozen 100 foot Christmas trees in Rockefeller Centre.

As a matter of fact there are even 10 Christmas trees in the apartment although none of them is quite that large.

Mrs. Couvert, whose husband is deceased, says she has been decorating her apartment for Christmas for the past 20 years.

And it takes her two months to get everything up and in place.

Bells of peper, silver and gold, angels, Santas and candy canes hang all over the apartment from the ceilings down the walls to the floors.

You can't even see the ceilings for the bright, cheery Christmas decorations.

All 10 of the Christmas trees are completely decorated and alight. Nativity scenes in every room remind visitors of the real meaning of Christmas.

Where all of the decorations came from is as much of a puzzle to Mrs. Couvert as to visitors.

"I bought some of them, found a few and was given others," she said. "Well, I guess they just got here."

Some of the decorations go back quite a few years and would perhaps be valued as antiques — if there is such a thing as an antique paper bell Christmas decoration.

"I wouldn't know what is antique, but I like all of them," she said.

In addition to the collections of Christmas decorations there are collections of collections throughout the apartment.

Some of the china tea cups that completely fill another cabinet are also antique and there is even a collection of miniature plastic, glass and china Santa Clauses.

Mrs. Couvert just picks them up and finds spots for them in the cabinets. Of course, most of the decorations have to be packaged carefully and stored for the next 10 months.

"There are quite a few of them that come in here during December and they never get tired of seeing Christmassy things."

Even though all five rooms have been completely decorated this year the biggest job still lies ahead for Mrs. Couvert.

And it arrived at 3 p.m. last night — a ceiling high Christmas tree which when decorated is described by Mrs. Couvert's Wellington neighbors as "one of the seven wonders."

"That, I start on tomorrow," she said, "and then the job is finished."

Not quite, Mrs. Couvert — you still have to take everything down.

"Oh yes," she said, "and that even takes me more time."

'Trying to Agitate Community'

McFarland Lashes Out at Evans

PICTON (Staff) — Mayor H. J. McFarland and two other prominent Picton citizens lashed out verbally this morning at the man who has called for a Picton probe by the Ontario Municipal Board.

"Some people are just trying to agitate the community," said Mayor McFarland. "One thing is for sure in Picton, we are not going to let people say things that aren't," he added.

A columnist in the Picton Gazette and a Cherry Valley farmer, Harry Evans, announced Tuesday that he had written a letter to the OMB calling for a probe into the town's municipal affairs.

He stated that he was "fed up," that Picton people had to walk in fear.

Mr. Evans' action followed a political advertisement published in the Gazette which traced council events for the past 20 years. The advertisement, published by the Citizens Information Committee in Picton, touched off a storm that resulted in a threat of resignation from both the town clerk, Andy Jarvis, and Mayor McFarland.

Two other prominent Pictonians also had something to say about Mr. Evans' comments and actions this morning.

Jess Mason, and Jack LeHup, who between them have lived in the community for 80 years, criticized Mr. Evans, for his actions.

Said Mr. LeHup, about walking in fear, "I've never.

"Mr. Evans has a right to speak for himself, but he has no right to speak for me, a citizen of Picton.

"If I wasn't leaving town today, I would be going out to see him myself. I've lived in the community a long time and I don't really see anything wrong with it.

Mr. Mason said he felt it was wrong for someone outside the community to speak for it.

"I'm quite happy with the administration."

Both men told The Intelligencer that they felt they were speaking for a large number of the citizens of Picton.

"Mr. Evans has just gone too far, especially since he doesn't even live in the town," said Mr. LeHup.

After Mr. Evans announced his request for a probe, he said that he was not afraid of anyone, "They may burn down my barn, but I don't care, I have $10,000 worth of insurance on it anyway."

He likened Picton to a town in the old West with a sheriff to run things, and he said that the marshall had to be called in to set things straight.

Evans Wants Town Investigated

PICTON (Staff) — Harry Evans, a dairy farmer in Athol township, has asked the Ontario Municipal Board to launch an investigation of the town's municipal affairs.

Mr. Evans says he is "fed up" that people must walk in fear in Picton.

He said he has mailed a letter to J. A. Kennedy, OMB Chairman, asking for the investigation.

Picton, he said, is fast becoming "a town of the old west," where the sheriff runs the town and the townsfolk have to call in the marshal to set things right.

The formal complaint follows a report that the Citizens' Information Committee in Picton might request a probe of municipal affairs.

The committee touched off the current situation by publishing a quarter page advertisement in the Picton Gazette which questioned the conduct of business in the town.

Mr. Evans said people are afraid for their jobs, afraid for their mortgages and they generally live in fear of harassment.

He said if the people in control in this community have done no wrong, "then they should welcome a probe and have nothing to fear."

He was recently elected to Athol Township council after two previous unsuccessful attempts.

Township Buys Lot On Water

AMELIASBURG — Council last night resolved to recommend to the incoming council the purchase of part of Lot 25 in the village of Rossmore from the late Fred Juby estate.

County clerk Tom Walker representing the estate, asked $1,500 for the land and permission to remove the building from it, valued at approximately $500. Council approved the arrangement as proposed.

The acquisition with 23 feet frontage on the bay would allow access to the water from a piece of property that can be developed into a township parkette.

A fresh water well is included with the deed, council was told.

County Home

Utility Rate Increase Creates Problem

Hastings county councillors don't appreciate receiving a city utilities bill in December which more than doubles the annual charge for Hastings Manor.

Yesterday county clerk treasurer and administrator, Carl Bateman, tabled a city tax bill for $4,077.10, representing a one mill levy being collected this year from both city property and on properties outside the limits which use city sewer service.

The special one mill levy being collected goes into a reserve fund to pay the capital costs of the proposed city secondary sewage plant.

Mr. Bateman said the manor bill for water and for the special sewer charge would amount to $7,200 this year as compared with $2,812 last year.

An amount of only $3,000 had been provided in the year's budget.

Bancroft deputy reeve Earl Hawley said the customary goodwill aspect between municipalities seemed to be lacking in this instance.

He said it would have been only reasonable to expect the city would have discussed the increased rates.

Tyendinaga reeve Delbert Harvey, chairman of the county manor committee said he was "unhappy" over the vill.

Warden Calvin White agreed there must have been a communications breakdown.

On the recommendation of Deputy Reeve Hawley council agreed that the Hastings Manor Committee should meet with city officials and have the matter clarified.

He rang the hotel's fire alarm and ran to rouse the hotel's 10 or 12 guests.

Mrs. Vivien Lloyd, a guest in the hotel, said she was awakened by noise in the street below, smelled smoke and raced down the stairs in her night clothes. Firemen and a Salvation Army officer accompanied her back into the building about an hour later to recover her belongings.

Steve Gulis, proprietor of the near-by Olympia restaurant, also telephoned an alarm to the fire department after a youth ran into his restaurant to tell him David's was ablaze.

Fire Chief T. E. Poste said the fire had probably been smoldering undetected for several hours before it erupted into a blaze.

Technicians from Lakeland Natural Gas Company were on the scene shortly after 8 a.m. to turn off gas mains leading to stores along the street. Hydro crewmen cut electricity leading into David's and City Hotel.

Traffic on Front Street was cut off above the Bridge St. intersection, as the Belleville Fire Department rushed five pumpers and its aerial truck to the scene. Trenton Fire Department dispatched its aerial truck and a pumper to the fire and the Point Anne fire truck stood by at the Moira St. Firehall for emergencies.

David's Furniture Gutted by Fire

"We are watching the firewalls at the rear very closely," said Chief Poste. "As long as they hold we'll keep things under control.

Nearby stores reported a slight amount of smoke in their basements, but none on the street level. Firemen placed smoke ejector machines in the basements, and business continued as usual.

Traffic was expected to be blocked on Front St. for most of the day as firemen continued to pour water on the smoldering ruins.

Building Permits Total $275,000

AMELIASBURG — Building inspector Harry Bisdee reported to council he is still issuing permits for new construction in the township.

In fact last night he claimed business in his line was brisk for this time of year.

By the end of November, the total new construction in the township amounted to over $275,000.

Firemen Battle Blaze from All Angles

Bishops Criticized

'Radio Priest' Denounces Detractors

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (CP-AP) — Rev. Charles C. Coughlin denounces liberal priests, bishops and "loud-mouthed clerical advocates of armed riot and draft card burning," in his first pamphlet published in 26 years.

The Canadian-born priest was one of the most controversial figures in the United States in the 1930s and early 1940s when he drew an audience of several million as the crusading "Radio Priest."

Father Coughlin also accuses his superior, Roman Catholic Archbishop John F. Dearden of Detroit, of "under-the-table approval" of dissident priests whose aim is to "upset Pope Paul."

"Bishops must assume the major responsibility for the moral predicamen in which the members of the Catholic Church find themselves," Father Coughlin wrote in a 54-page pamphlet entitled Helmet and Sword. The pamphlet was released Tuesday.

He also attacked churchmen who have criticized the church ban on artificial birth control.

It was Father Coughlin's first publication since Social Justice, a weekly magazine published from 1936 to 1942. The government banned Social Justice distribution in the mails after U.S. Attorney-General Francis Bid-die denounced it as "traitorous."

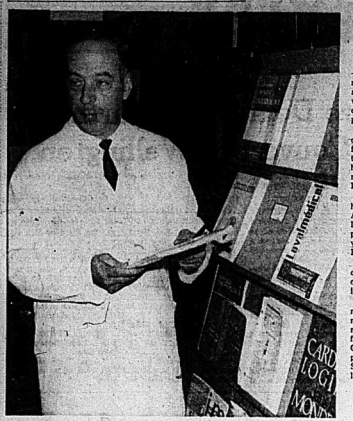
The government said it "mirrored the (Nazi Germany, Italy and Japan) axis propaganda line."

The 77-year-old priest claimed a radio audience in the 1930s of 30,000,000. He heaped invective on "international bankers," Communists and the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.



Under pressure from the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Detroit, he ceased his radio program in 1940.

Father Coughlin said the pamphlet was the first section of a book on the "crisis in the Catholic Church."

He retired two years ago, after being pastor of the Shrine of the Little Flower in Suburban Royal Oak.

Father Coughlin was born in Hamilton, Ont. He was the son of an Indiana-born Great Lakes seaman, Thomas Coughlin, who married Amelia Mahoney of Western Ontario, and settled in Hamilton, where the future priest live ' in a house adjoining St. Mary's Cathedral.

Father Coughlin was educated at St. Michael's College in Toronto and the University of Toronto and, after his ordination in 1916, taught at Assumption College in Windsor, Ont.

TALKS SHOULD RUN

VANCOUVER (CP) — A retiring labor leader says labor and management must learn to get together continuously. Bill Black, an official of the British Columbia Hospital Employees Union since 1944, says it's not enough for both sides to meet once a year at the bargaining table.

Moment of Crash

Ernie Lee, a London Free Press photographer aboard a CNR turbotrain on an inaugural press run from Toronto to Montreal Tuesday, was in the observation dome ready to take a picture of the train's meeting another turbotrain coming from Montreal when he got this shot of the train slicing a trailer-transport in half at a Kingston level crossing (CP Wirephoto)

Preview Run of New Turbotrain Almost Turns Into A Nightmare

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A preview run of a streamlined $2,000,000 turbine-powered Canadian National Railways passenger train almost turned into a nightmare Tuesday when it sliced through a meat truck on the outskirts of Kingston.

The collision at a level crossing was witnessed by many of the 150 reporters and officials aboard the train, en route to Montreal from Toronto, through a closed-circuit television camera focused on the tracks ahead.

The trip was designed to demonstrate the fastest and most luxurious means of rail travel in North America.

Two persons were slightly injured, including Roy MacLean, 50, of Kingston, the driver of the truck. Frank Bordeaux, 31, a CNR signalman from Montreal, who was working at the cross-ing, suffered minor injuries when struck by flying debris.

The accident occurred just before two preview trains—the other bound to Toronto from Montreal—were scheduled to pass each other.

Just before it reached the crossing, the Montreal-bound train had reduced its speed because a Rapido train Monday struck a truck at the same crossing a little western ap-proaches to Kingston, halfway between Toronto and Montreal.

The truck's five-ton cargo of meat was strewn around the crossing and a signal standard was knocked down. The train was not badly damaged and continued to Montreal after a delay of 1½ hours for tempo-rary repairs in Kingston.

Officials said it will take about a week to complete the repairs, but the accident will not affect the inaugural passen-ger service Thursday by four other turbo-trains.

Ernie Lee, a London Free Press photographer, said he was looking out a window to catch a picture of the train coming from Montreal. Mr. Lee said:

"I saw this truck approaching the tracks at right angles to the truck and said to the guy beside me, 'my gosh, where does he think he's going.' Then I saw the debris flying up over the train."

The impact of the collision severed the tail end of the track, leaving it on one side of the tracks and the driver and the major portion of the vehicle on the other. Passengers felt a slight jolt and a swaying action.

The CNR has leased the six-en-car trains from United Air-craft of Canada Ltd. to augment the Rapido service on the Mont-real-Toronto run. The new trains will cover the 335 miles at an average of 84 miles an hour, completing the run in three hours, 59 minutes, an hour faster than the Rapido.

The window was in the dome of the rear car of a turbine-pow-ered passenger train making an inaugural press run from Toron-to to Montreal.

The time was as the Canadian National Railways train was ap-proaching a level crossing on the outskirts of Kingston.

The picture was of the train slicing a trailer-transport in half at the crossing.

Mr. Lee said Tuesday night he was watching out of the only clear window in the dome wait-ing to catch a picture of the train passing a companion tur-botrain coming from Montreal.

"I saw this truck approaching the tracks at a right angle to the train and said to the guy be-hind me, 'my gosh, where does he think he's going?'

"Then for a second I couldn't see him and I thought he must have made it. But then I saw the debris flying up over the train and I had my camera on one hand and I just whipped it up and shot, didn't focus or anything. . . ."

Mr. Lee said he was the only one of dozens of photographers on the train to record the im-pact. "I had the window to my-self. I was the only one who could shoot it."

As a result, he had "all kinds of offers" for his film.

Others on the train saw the accident on closed circuit televi-sion, which had only shortly be-fore been focused on the track ahead of the engine, Mr. Lee said.

Reforms to Be Pushed

PM of Northern Ireland Dismisses Minister

BELFAST (Reuters) — Prime Minister Terence O'Neill of Northern Ireland today dis-missed his controversial home affairs minister, William Craig.

Craig was a hard-line Protes-tant in a current turmoil over civil rights demands by the Roman Catholic minority in this self-governing British province.

His dismissal followed reports of a rift between him and the prime minister who warned this week that recent rioting pushed Northern Ireland to the brink of chaos.

Craig, 44, angered civil rights marchers when he ordered a crackdown on demonstrations and reinforced police.

This followed rioting in Lon-donderry—where the Catholics are in majority—and massive demonstrations and counter-demonstrations in Armagh, which brought demands from the civil rights groups for Brit-ish government intervention in Northern Ireland.

Monday night, Prime Minister Terence O'Neill warned the peo-ple that Northern Ireland was on the brink of chaos.

He promised that civil rights reforms which he has initiated would be pushed through the Northern Ireland Parliament.

Pollution Documentary Criticized by Committee

TORONTO (CP) — A CBC television documentary on industrial pollutants in the Port Maitland area was severely criticized on Tuesday by a government-appointed committee report.

The 355-page document, tabled in the legislature, denied pollutants posed a health problem in the area and labelled the program made "unwarranted, untruthful and irresponsible" statements.

The program, Air of Death, was shown Oct. 22, 1967, and the committee was appointed Nov. 6, 1967, to study the air, soil and water pollution problems in Haldimand County.

The report said farmers in the Port Maitland area had been compensated for loss of crops and cattle, and added:

"Presumably, the Dunnville residents will take such action, through the courts, as they may be advised."

The committee also found domestic drinking water "is within normal limits and causes no danger to human health."

The CBC program suggested residents of the area were suffering from fluoride poisoning as the result of operation of a fertilizer plant by Electric Reduction Co. of Canada Ltd.

The report dealt at length with effects of the television program on the area's economy.

"Through the careless use of the name Dunnville, the residents of that area have suffered financial loss which is just as real, and more easily identified, as the losses suffered by those within the 'polluted area', the report said.

The three-man committee was comprised of Chairman Dr. G. Edward Hall of Orillia; Dr. W. C. Winegard, president of the University of Guelph and Alex McGuire, a Guelph area farmer; Dr. Hall is a former president of the University of Western Ontario, London.

The report added:

"The committee has no other alternative but to record that unwarranted, untruthful and irresponsible statements were made by the publicly-owned and publicly financed corporation, the CBC.

"They treated a complex problem in a way designed to create alarm and fear. Their treatment was not in keeping with the standards of which the public is entitled to expect from the corporation.

"... The evidence before us makes it crystal clear that the 'pollution' problem related only to the immediate area of Port Maitland and that no damage was caused to vegetation or livestock in the immediate vicinity of Dunnville.

The CBC, in a news release, said research for the program was "extensive and thorough".

The television network added that more than 30 experts, including doctors, scientists and engineers, were brought into the research for the program.

One of the doctors, Dr. George L. Waldbott of Detroit, said last year that fallout from the plant was not just killing cattle and crops, but had started to claim human lives.

The report said the two major pollutants were found to be fluoride and sulphur dioxide.

"Neither of these is present in the air in sufficient amounts to produce any danger to health."

Family of Eight Dies in Fire

WEST LORNE, Ont. (CP) — A family of eight died early Tuesday in a fire that engulfed a two-storey frame farmhouse near here, 34 miles west of St. Thomas.

By late afternoon firemen had recovered the bodies of three adults and five children. They were to be sent to the forensic sciences laboratory in Toronto for identification.

Dead are Mr. and Mrs. David Haskell and their five small children, Patrick, 7, Carol Ann, 6, Judy, 5, David Jr., 4, and Shigley, 3, and Josh Bebenese, in his early 70s, foster father of Mrs. Haskell. Mr. Bebenese had been bedridden for a week with a broken hip.

While firemen searched the charred remains of the 30-year-old farmhouse, the family dog, a part-collie which was the only survivor of the blaze, sat watching.

Fire Marshal Robert Kaufman of London, Ont., said no cause has yet been determined for the blaze, first spotted about 3 a.m. His officials investigated remains of the home's electrical wiring and the wood stove as possible sources of the fire.

The fire was first spotted as a glow in the sky by Raymond Tebo, a provincial police constable driving along the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway.

OPP Constable Robert Squire at Dutton, 10 miles east of West Lorne, telephoned the West Lorne fire brigade and arrived at the burning house at 3:40 a.m. as the first fire trucks wheeled into the farm yard.

Constable Squire said later the home was in flames. He saw no sign of life and no indication that family members had time to attempt an escape.

Early-morning temperatures hovered around the zero mark in the area.

The 24-man volunteer West Lorne fire department was unable to control the blaze which levelled the house by early morning.

The house was owned by a neighbor, John Aldred, who employed Mr. Haskell as a farm worker when the family moved here 4½ years ago from Thamesville, Ont.

Mr. Haskell has a brother, Harold, living in Glencoe, Ont., another brother Clinton, at Chatham, and a sister, Grace Poumb, at Charing Cross, Ont., besides relatives in Thamesville.

The blaze was the worst in Ontario since April, 1966, when fire destroyed a three-room house on the Parry Sound Indian reserve, killing two adults and nine children.

IT WORKS BECAUSE IT SWINGS!

That's the principle behind the pendulum clock, invented in 1657. Earlier clock were found only in cathedrals and public squares; today it is a rare home that doesn't contain at least one time-keeping device. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are gone and the modern world depends upon accurate clocks.

If the days of your older clock are gone in your house, chances are that a home somewhere in this area will love to use it.

'Learning Tree' Excellent Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It's the story of two boys who grew up in the border state of Kansas." They could have been white, but it so happened that they are Negroes. One has learned to hate, one has been taught the love of family by his mother. One of the boys, perish the, and one survives, largely because of the tremendous influence of his mother."

Gordon Parks was describing his first film, The Learning Tree. The Warner Brothers-Seven Arts release is a remarkable project for a number of reasons:

It tells of the growing up of a Negro boy in the 1920s. Rarely has Negro youth been portrayed on the screen, except in terms of the pickaninny stereotype.

It is being produced and directed by Parks, thus marking the first time a Negro has so functioned on a major motion picture. He has also written the screen play from his own novel, and is composing the musical score.

"And I even rode a horse in the early scenes of the picture," Parks admitted.

The Learning Tree has its roots in Gordon Parks' childhood, when he was one of 15 children on a dirt farm near Fort Scott, Kan. His mother died when he was 16, but her lessons have lasted a lifetime. He recalled:

"She used to tell me, 'Don't ever come to me with the excuse that you've failed because you're black; if a white boy can do it, you can do it.' Above all, she taught me that I always had a family to stand on. Even after she had died and I had started to travel, that assurance stayed with me.

"It helped me to survive many times — like when I was homeless and riding the streetcar all night between St. Paul and Minneapolis during the weather—and reporting to school early so I could go down to the furnace with my clothes and thaw out."

During his wanderings, Parks worked at anything from busboy to lumberjack. He found his field in 1937 when he watched a newsreel of the Japanese bombing of the U.S. vessel Panay in China. He was struck by the impact of photo-journalism, and he taught himself how to use a camera. After serving in the Navy, he went to government and industrial firms, he became a star photographer for Life magazine.

A restless creator, Parks also turned out poetry, concertos and symphonies, an autobiography and the novel based on his boyhood, The Learning Tree. Directing his own movie seemed a logical challenge.

Actor John Cassavetes provided an introduction to Kenneth Hyman, production head of Warners-Seven Arts. Parks outlined his ideas about filming The Learning Tree and "the whole thing was settled in 15 minutes." Somewhat reluctantly, he wrote the script after Hyman urged him to do so. Much of the $2,000,000 film was shot in and around Parks's home town of Fort Scott.

"I hope to achieve what Prokofiev has done in music: To combine modern technique with classical film. Predictably enough, I want the look of today's new cinema, but I also seek the discipline of the world's classics. And I'm not afraid of sentiment. A man cries because he has lost his soul. There's nothing wrong with that."

Swinging Bachelor's Guide Called Tasteless Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Joey Bishop, host of Tuesday night's ABC special, A Guide to the Swinging Bachelor, drew a deep breath and observed: "It's hard to believe that this is the same network that brings you, Lawrence Welk."

He had a point. The program, broadcast in family time, certainly proved some new ground in early evening entertainment. The show was a form of variety built loosely around the fabled life of the carefree single man and had the general air of an adolescent ball session behind the barn.

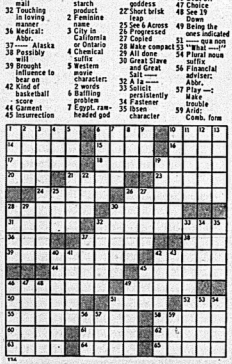
Producers Saul Wilson and Ernest Chambers, who helped launch the Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour, took a giant step into the over-forbidden blue. They had an embarrassing sketch about a nervous customer and a swishy masseur. They pulled together another big about a gay blade ducking matrimony with a long time amour. They retreaded the oldie about the fallen housemaid threatening to jump out a window unless the master of the house makes her an honest woman.

The entire hour had a peep show, snigging air that was not improved by a parade of scantily clad girls called Playmates. TASTELESS SHOW

It was, by and large, tasteless. The talents of Dean Jones and Noel Harrison were put to good use in some attractive musical numbers, but the comedy, using Larry Storch and Shelley Berman, was just plain vulgar. Presumably Laugh-in and the Smothers Brothers won't take this lying down.

On another plane was CBS's 60 Minutes, which pulls together, smoothly a variety of short feature subjects for a good show.

U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, chief U.S. representative of the Paris peace talks, was interviewed by the negotiator. He recalled some tough adversaries of days past.



There was, too, a factual, shocking report on sexual assaults in prison.

Probe of Bank Profits Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — Trust companies should demand an investigation of the high profits made by chartered banks, John Gilbert (NDP—Toronto Broadview) suggested in the Commons Tuesday.

The banks had argued that competition from trust companies had made necessary the lifting last year of the six-per-cent interest ceiling on bank loans.

When the ceiling was removed by the new Bank Act, the profits of chartered banks rose as much as 46 per cent Mr. Gilbert charged.

He made his suggestion as the House debated a bill to increase the capitalization of Canada Trust Co. to $20,000,000 from the $5,000,000 figure set by Parliament in 1899.

Gordon Blair (L—Grenville-Carleton), sponsor of the bill, said Canada Trust is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Huron and Erie Mortgage Corp. which is almost entirely Canadian-owned.

The House gave the bill second reading—approval in principle—and sent it to the standing committee on finance trade and economic affairs for study.

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) said Canada Trust is an indication that Canadian-owned finance companies can operate successfully.

Illness Is Not Defect

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Addressing the British Medical Association this fall, Dr. R. E. Hoe-Simpson said he believes that "the flu virus is always in the human body, waiting for activation by an outside force."

I am happy to hear a reputable medical man express this view in public, for as a kind of "lay crackpot" on medical matters, I have long held that this whole business of "catching" diseases is much overrated.

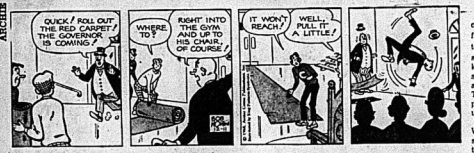
Not that measles, or mumps or such, are not catching; there is overwhelming proof that they are. But I have always doubted that we "catch" a cold from someone else in the same way, or that many ailments supposedly transmitted by contact are really got in that manner.

Many potential illnesses are "inside us," awaiting some external trigger that will make the body more vulnerable to their attack. This can be seen most obviously in the case of "mental breakdowns", where a sudden crisis or increased tension causes a fissure, as it were, in the personality.

And the latest research in antibiotics reveals some disquieting evidence about the longer-terms effects of these medications. In some cases, they disarm the antibodies in the bloodstream, making it easier for toxic micro-organisms to overwhelm us.

Illness lurks within us, as a perpetual threat, once the normal homeostatis of the body is overcome — that is, once the balance is thrown out of whack; and the recuperative powers are no longer able to muster enough forces fast enough to repel the invader.

It is an optimistic over-simplication to say that "health" is the natural state of the body; rather, its natural state is that of a nice degree of balance between health and illness, a tug-of-war, with each waiting for the other momentarily to relax its grip on the rope. Illness is not a defect in the body, it is as much a part of the body as death is a part of life.



If we can understand and accept this, and not regard illness as some alien interloper we should resent, then we are prepared to wage a more rational (and, thus, more fatalistic) war against the ravages of disease. Those people who who battle it most ferociously, are precisely those who succumb to it most easily and frequently.

All flesh is "corruptible," and the corruptness is as "natural" as birth and growth and health. This does not mean disease should not be resisted — but, like any old enemy, it cannot be fought successfully until it is understood. And understanding, in its way, is a form of forgiving.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For Dec. 12th,

Your birthday today: The coming year brings you superficial success. The challenge is to see beneath the circumstance and work steadily for solid knowledge, savings, relationships. It is not enough just to go along with the turbulent times. Today's natives: pleasant people willing to live and let live until seriously impeded.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): With relative quiet and few tensions, keep rocking along with the rhythm of the day. Do the easy things. If time is available use it for your hobbies.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Unusual conditions are a drag going experience today but result in higher rewards later. Promises are not kept. Leave your funds alone.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): An undercurrent of unrest begins in your home and neighborhood. Avoid stirring up animosity. Meet your mate halfway before the squabble grows into a full-blown argument.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Unscheduled flips of circumstance suddenly change all your plans. Help others bear up under emergency conditions. Little to do at the moment but pray.

LEO (July 23 — Agu 22): Your information is outdated or out of context to the point of unreliability. Speculation gets out of hand, overinvolved, so the parlay does not pay out.

VIRGO (Aug. 23—Sept. 22): People have misunderstood you somewhat; firmly try to prevent any unjustified criticism of you. Financial matters are cautious; hold fast.

LIBRA (Sept 23 — Oct 22): Care is essential today! Chemicals, medicines require proper handling according to instructions. Intuition (fortunately) runs ahead of impulses, so you reflect before acting.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Financial matters are out today. Use caution in any travel, however brief or local. Act as if nothing were awry; ignore discrepancies in your environment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Whims imperil your friendships. One extra word blurted out, wrongly taken, may lead to recriminations. Your job turns tough — stay with it!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Erratic change is in order! Schedules go by the board; people arrive outside regular habits. There will be an extra dividend you had not thought about.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Long journeys are difficult to start and promise poor results. Spending gets completely out of hand if you do not exercise strict vigilance.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Those who associate with you seem to have come to a point of no more tolerance. Your understanding of them is not the same as their view of you. The discrepancy must be bridged — and soon.

Rules Fight Begins

OTTAWA (CP) — Opening salvos were fired Tuesday in a battle on a controversial government plan to overhaul Commons rules of procedure and it seemed to presage a lively scrap.

Prime Minister Trudeau argued that the government measure is in line with the thinking of Canadians who are "impatient" for reform of Parliament.

Opposition Leader Stanfield said it would have the "ominous effect" of building the power of the government at the expense of individual Canadians.

Spokesmen for all three opposition parties zeroed in on a government proposal to allocate time for debates. Under it, apportionment of time would be arranged by an all-party committee.

But in the event of a boycott of the committee by the opposition parties, the government member—House Leader Donald S. Macdonald—could constitute himself a quorum of one and draw up recommendations for presentation to the House. And if the committee met and failed to agree, the government could set its own time limit on debate.

"This rule must not be written into the standing orders of this House," declared Stanley Knowles, the NDP House leader.

"It just has to go," said Mr. Stanfield.

Gilbert Rondeau (Creditiste—Shefford) said rule changes are needed to improve the Parliament's public image. But democracy would be the main victim if the rule passed.

The contentious debate-limiting proposal is contained in the report of a 12-man special committee on rules of procedure headed by Gordon Blair (L—Grenville-Carleton).

Mr. Blair, leading off Tuesday's debate, said that unless the government exercised its responsibility for proposing solutions where disputes arise on time allocation, prolonged debates would take place which would prevent the House from going on to other important business.

Mr. Trudeau said Canadians must not shrink from making "necessary adjustments" in their institutions. "It is not sufficient to cherish our heritage . . . We must restore it so that in our time it will serve us well."

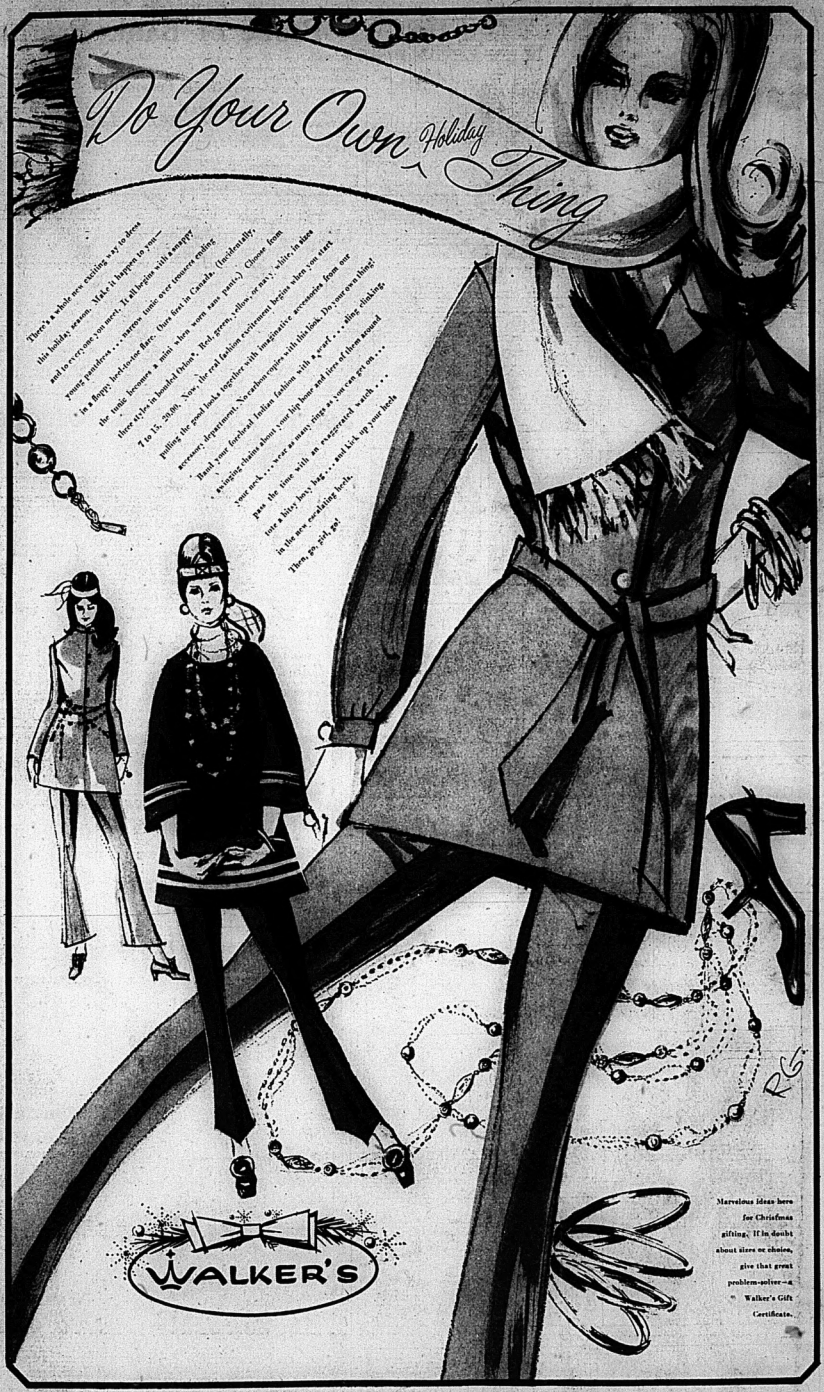
He said the government is open to suggestions but cautioned opposition speakers against resorting to a filibuster.

"Those who would extend the debate indefinitely have misjudged the temper of the Canadian people," Mr. Trudeau said.

He noted that only nine measures have been passed by the House since Parliament convened three months ago.

The Canadian people "expect us to revise the rules with all deliberate speed and get on with the business of the House."

"We support the reform of Parliament enthusiastically and out of conviction," said Mr. Stanfield. ". . . But we draw the line at changes that would deform Parliament and make it ineffective."



The intention of the government plan was clear: "To make closure the routine rather than the exception." Closure is a device for cutting off debate on measures before the House.

Mr. Knowles, the NDP rules expert, termed the government proposal "beyond the ridiculous." He added: "This is a rule that we simply cannot stand for. I hope the government will listen to reason and agree to its being changed."

Both Mr. Stanfield and Mr. Knowles referred to Mr. Macdonald's position under the proposed new arrangement as that of a "dictator."

Mr. Macdonald said Commons debate of a time limit in event of disagreement among House leaders was simply in keeping with the democratic principle of allowing a majority of MPs to decide the best way to handle parliamentary business.

Gerald Baldwin, the Conservative House leader, rejected Mr. Trudeau's suggestion that the opposition planned a filibuster on the rules question. But the Conservative party was "so bitterly and adamantly opposed" to the time-allocation rule, it will fight.

Nixon Picks Old Friends For Cabinet

Nixon presented his 12-man team, most of them virtually unknown on the national scene, to the country in an unprecedented television broadcast.

The new cabinet included a leading member of Congress, three Republican governors, a lieutenant-governor, two prominent academics and two former high officials in the last Republican administration.

But there were no Democrats and no Negroes on the list—testimony to Nixon's failure to form the broad coalition government he originally sought in his bid to end country-wide divisions over the war in Vietnam and racial conflict at home.

State secretary will be William P. Rogers, 55, a close friend of Nixon's whose experience is almost entirely outside the field of foreign policy.

He made his name as a crime-fighting attorney-general under president Eisenhower.

Nixon pinpointed Rogers, Representative Melvin R. Laird (Rep. Wis.), the new defence secretary and Wall Street lawyer John N. Mitchell, the new attorney-general, as the three top officials who will sit with him on the National Security Council and weigh life-and-death foreign policy decisions.

Laird, 55, a conservative Republican who has specialized in defence policy and strongly argued for civilian control of the military, also is a personal friend of Nixon.

He is considered a middle-of-the-road Republican and a dispassionate and highly efficient organizer who operated with virtually complete autonomy in running the Nixon campaign.

He commanded patrol-torpedo boat squadrons during the Second Word War and was once John F. Kennedy's senior officer.

Another close associate of Nixon in the cabinet will be Lt.-Gov. Robert H. Finch of California who managed Nixon's unsuccessful 1960 race for the White House. He will be secretary of health, education and welfare.

A 43-year-old lawyer, Finch was Nixon's administrative assistant when he was vice-president.

Nixon's treasury secretary will be David M. Kennedy, 61, chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co., of Chicago and one of the leading economists and fiscal experts in the U.S.

Nixon also tapped the statehouses of Michigan, Massachusetts and Alaska for three cabinet recruits.

Gov. Walter J. Hickel, 49, of Alaska will be interior secretary; Gov. John A. Volpe, 50 of Massachusetts will be transportation secretary and Gov. George Romney, 61, of Michigan, an early contender for the Republican presidential nomination this year, will be secretary of housing and urban development.

The two academics in the cabinet will be Dr. Clifford H. Hardin, 53, chancellor of the University of Nebraska, as agriculture secretary and George P. Shultz, 47, dean of the University of Chicago Graduate School of Business, as labor secretary.

The new commerce secretary will be Maurice H. Stans, 60, a New York banker who was budget director in the Eisenhower years.

Most Provinces Want Parley Delay

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Most provincial governments expressed agreement Wednesday with Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand's call for postponement of the federal-provincial constitutional conference in Ottawa next week.

Premier Bertrand, admitted Tuesday night to hospital in Quebec City for medical tests, asked Prime Minister Trudeau Wednesday that the three-day constitutional conference, scheduled to start next Monday be postponed.

British Columbia: Premier W. A. C. Bennett said the conference should go on. "It might not last as long as it otherwise might have had the premier of Quebec been able to attend."

However, the Social Credit premier said he would abide by whatever decision the rest of the premiers reach.

Alberta: Premier-designate Harry Strom said "We certainly would have no objections." Mr. Strom, chosen last Friday to succeed Premier E. C. Manning who is retiring, will head Alberta's delegation to the conference.

Saskatchewan: Deputy Premier D. G. Stewart said: "Naturally, as far as Saskatchewan is concerned, we'd like to get on with it." But he said the province was prepared to co-operate if the federal government suggests a postponement.

Ontario: Premier John Robarts' office issued a statement saying "we will be happy to do anything to accommodate the government of Quebec at this difficult time." Mr. Robarts is confined to his London, Ont., home with the flu.

New Brunswick: Premier Louis J. Robichaud said he agrees it would be preferable to postpone the meeting.

Prince Edward Island: Premier Alex Campbell, in a telegram to Mr. Trudeau, said it's "essential that the province of Quebec be represented by its first minister" and P.E.I. will agree to having the conference rescheduled.

Nova Scotia: Premier G. I. Smith said Mr. Bertrand "will play an important part in the conference when it is held and it would not be right to go on without him."

Newfoundland: Premier Joseph Smallwood said he is "agreeable to whatever the prime minister decides" but noted: "There have been a number of conferences where the premier of one province or the other could not attend and he was represented to somebody else. . . . But, I'm completely in the hands of the prime minister."

Prime Minister Trudeau began consulting other provincial premiers concerning Mr. Bertrand's postponement request immediately after receiving it Wednesday.

A spokesman in the prime minister's office said if a postponement is "necessary," the conference will have to be rescheduled "as quickly as possible."

Bertrand Names Three Ministers

QUEBEC (CP) — With Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand being treated for "cardiac troubles" today, Quebec is confronted with critical legislative hurdles that may have to be resolved by an interim leadership.

The 52-year-old premier, who became interim leader himself with the September death of premier Daniel Johnson, was admitted Tuesday night to the Quebec Cardiology Institute. His condition was not believed serious.

From his hospital bed, where he is expected to remain until the weekend, Mr. Bertrand Wednesday named three cabinet ministers to the portfolios he holds and requested postponement of the federal-provincial constitutional conference scheduled Dec. 16-18 in Ottawa.

Indications were Prime Minister Trudeau would postpone the conference after getting support from the other provinces to accede to Mr. Bertrand's wishes.

Rifle Shots Fatal

"You mean you give these things away for nothing?"

MINDEN, Ont. (CP) — Two provincial police officers were shot and killed at point-blank range as they walked towards a man barricaded in a house near here Wednesday night.

William Norman Pratt, 35, of Minden, today was charged with two counts of capital murder in the shooting. The penalty of conviction of capital murder is death.

The slain officers were 29-year-old Detective-Sergeant Lorne Chapitis and Cpl. James Smith, 42, both of the Peterborough provincial police detachment.

Police said a man who had barricaded himself in his parents' home on South Lake Road six miles east of Minden asked to speak to four constables.

When Det.-Sgt. Chapitis and Cpl. Smith got to within eight feet of the house, a police statement said, the man inside opened fire. Both officers were killed.

An OPP staff officer said of the rifle used in the slayings:

Air Canada Has Settled

MONTREAL (CP) — Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey announced early today that negotiators for Air Canada and the Canadian Air Line Employees' Association have reached agreement on terms of a new contract for the 2,200 members of the association.

Mr. Mackasey, who participated in an all-night bargaining session involving the air line, the employees' association and a conciliation board, said a negotiated settlement was reached at 5.45 a.m.

No details of the agreement would be made public until later today — after the CALEA had informed its members across the country of the terms of the proposed new contract.

John Hayes, president of the association, said in an interview the agreement still is subject to ratification by the rank-and-file membership — passenger agents, communications personnel and switchboard operators.

He said a work-to-rule slowdown, begun by CALEA members after mediation sessions between Air Canada and the union broke down Sunday night, will be ended no later than noon today.

News Briefs

LONDON (Reuters) — British exports reached an all-time record in November while £14,000,000 about $36,400,000 was cut off the imports bill, the government announced today.

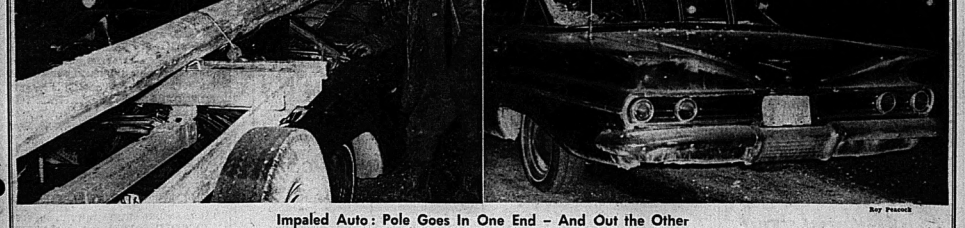
Apollo Engine Leaks



CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Engineers and technicians worked today to fix a leak in a first-stage engine of the giant Apollo 8 moon rocket, hoped it will not delay the Dec. 21 blast-off of man's first journey to the moon.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration planned to meet during the day to assess the problem and determine whether the engine must be replaced.

If the switch is made, a NASA spokesman said it would require at least three weeks, which would wipe out a Christmas-time moon orbit by Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James Lovell Jr., and Air Force Maj. William Anders.

Impaled Auto: Pole Goes In One End — And Out the Other

Hydro Pole on Truck Spears Car But Misses Young Driver

By ROY PEACOCK

He missed decapitation only by inches early Wednesday evening when his car was speared by the end of a hydro pole extending from the back of a transport trailer.

Mr. Burt escaped with minor cuts to his hands and face but anyone at the accident scene wondered how he escaped alive.

The mishap occurred at the corner of Sidney Street and Wilson Ave. at the height of the evening rush hour traffic.

Mr. Burt was following a Haggerty Transport hauling a long hydro pole on a two-wheeled trailer when the driver Eric Kring of Shannonville, slowed to make a left hand turn.

The customary red flag was hung from the end of the hydro pole but Mr. Burt failed to see it in time and before he could stop the pole had rammed through his windshield almost directly above the steering wheel and had gone through the rear window of the car.

Turbo's Speed Deceiving: Official

Tuesday's railway collision between the celebrated turbo train and a transport truck at Kingston has sparked controversy concerning railway crossings with high speed trains on the tracks.

According to a CNR spokesman the train was complying with 75-mile-an-hour limit set for the crossing following a collision Monday between the CN's Rapido and a gravel truck.

R. G. Messenger, operations manager here in Belleville, said that information he had received said that the train was complying with that speed limit at the time of the accident.

However, estimations on board the train by reporters listed the speed at approximately 90 miles per hour.

One eyewitness in Kingston said that the turbo must have been travelling at 100 miles per hour.

According to Mr. Messenger, it is very difficult to estimate speed when on board the train or outside of it as it passes by.

He said he saw no reason to doubt the word of a supervisor and two engineers on the train who said it was travelling on the speed limit.

"It's particularly deceiving with the turbo's shape," he said.

Mr. Messenger explained that the circuits which activate the crossing signals and crossing gates have been extended to allow for speeds of 85 miles per hour.

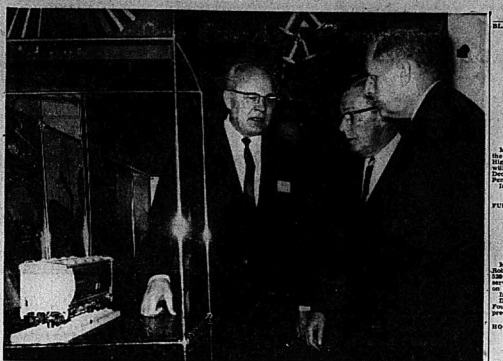
He said the lengthening of the circuits had been cleared several years ago with the appearance of the Rapido which has a top speed of 90 miles per hour.

The circuits now allow 20 seconds between the commencement of signalling and the actual appearance of the train on the crossing.

This means, of course, that the time involved with a slower train such as a freight will be much longer because of the circuit change.

Still the circuits and the time then involved varies all along the Montreal to Toronto stretch as the speed limits vary.

Mr. Messenger also explained that the CNR has a safety program in mind which would acquaint the public with dangers of grade crossings.



"I don't know how you educate them," he said.

It is expected possible in the future that trains will carry computerized devices to enable a change in the activation of circuits at crossings so that motorists would not have to wait a full period of time at a gate for a slow train.

This will pqovent motorists trying to cross and around the gate or trying to beat it.

Tanzania plans to build the world's first luxury hotel made of thatch.

Industrialists Attend 'Freight-In'

About 70 local industrialists and freight managers attended a "freight-in" yesterday at the Belleville CNR station.

The "freight-in" was initiated by the Rideau Area of the CNR to enable industrialists throughout the area to talk with railway officials, thereby learning of what the CN offers and having a chance to air complaints with the present freighting situation.

Industrialists toured a baggage car which has been altered into a freight display car. There were two sessions — one at noon and another later in the day.

The special car, coupled with three other cars, has been touring the whole Rideau area for this purpose.

Although this is the first year the tour has been called a "freight-in" it is the fourth year for this type of display. It was previously called "town meeting on rails."

It is expected by the time the train has completed the tour, about 300 industrialists will have toured the car and participated in luncheon and talk sessions.

The tour is strictly a freight operation to solve problems people might have with the CNR and to advise them what the company has to offer.

Rifle Shots Fatal

Two Policemen Die at Minden

"You don't live long when you're shot by something that big."

The shootings occurred about 9 p.m. EST.

The slain officers were attached to the Peterborough division of the OPP. Det.-Sgt. Chaplis came from the Guelph area and served with the OPP there and in Owen Sound. Cpl. Smith, from Hamilton, had served in Windsor, Whitby and Toronto.

Det.-Sgt. Chapitis, who recently had passed his examinations for promotion to sergeant, is survived by a wife and three children. Cpl. Smith had a wife and son.

The police detachment had been sent to the scene some hours earlier from Peterborough, 45 miles east of Minden, after a woman complained that a man was threatening to shoot her and her son.

For five hours the man, who waved a .44 40 calibre rifle through a doorway, held the officers at bay.

By 9 a.m., more than a dozen police constables surrounded the house—a summer cottage — and Det.-Sgt. Chapitis and Cpl. Smith, armed with gas guns were preparing to lob gas shells through the windows.

The man then said he would speak to four officers. Det.-Sgt. Chapitis and Cpl. Smith walked towards him with Constables Barry Connelly and Mike Maher following.

Two shots were fired and the officers fell dead.

Constables Connelly and Maher grabbed the man.

The man alleged to have done the shooting was described as a drifter who recently returned to Minden.

Police in Peterborough said the man's mother and brother live in the house when contable bles arrived in response to a complaint from the man's mother.

The mother had left the house earlier to swear out a warrant against her son, named in the warrant as William Norman Pratt. The warrant charged Pratt with assault.

As the officers arrived, a shot was fired from the house and the police scattered to begin the siege.

Shortly before 9 p.m., police said, the man in the house called out: "Look, I want to talk to four of you guns."

With that, Det.-Sgt. Chapitis and Cpl. Smith walked towards the house. They shouted to the man inside that they had no guns and extended their arms to show that they were not armed. Then the man fired.

Council Raises Election Pay

ADELAIDSBURG — Election workers came in for a raise in pay last night when council authorized an increase from the $10 across the board rate in effect for years.

Under the new schedule deputy returning officers will receive $13 a day and mileage expenses while poll clerks will receive $12.

Council agreed to pay $12 a day for polling places.

Light Theft Reported

Four occurances of theft of Christmas lights has started a segment of police Christmas blues.

Almost as annual as Christmas itself is the theft of lighting from homes throughout Belleville.

According to Belleville police chief, Douglas Crosbie, five floodlights were stolen last night, and in some cases the complete assemblies were taken.

The thefts were in different sections of the city.

Mr. Crosbie has asked citizens noticing people hanging around Christmas lighting to call the police and report it.

Inquests Slated Into Five Deaths

TRENTON — There will be inquests into the two Trenton tragedies which recently claimed a total of five lives.

Trenton Police Chief Robert Rutherford said an inquest will be held into the triple shooting which took place here on Dec. 2, and claimed the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Montroy.

Mrs. Nellie Gollner, who was also shot is recovering in Kingston General Hospital. She is the mother of Mrs. Montroy.

The shooting has been termed "a murder-suicide" by police, but no date has been set for the inquest.

An inquest has been ordered into the death of three children who perished when their home was levelled in a flash fire early Sunday morning.

The home was occupied by the George Golloher family and three Golloher children. Terry 16, Kelly 5, and Debbie 2, died in the blaze.

No date has been given for the inquest.

Museum Grant Increases

Hastings county council this year has increased its grant to the Hastings County Museum on Church Street.

During this week's one day session, councillors were invited to a tour of the museum and later in the afternoon waived the $200 permit which had previously been paid by the museum for use of the old County Registry office.

Waiving of the rental raised the county grant to the museum to $1,300 this year.

This year much of the museum has been refurbished. Also labor costs have mounted due to more time being spent at the museum by curator Mary Plumpton and other part time helpers.

Shortage of Money

New Grade Separation May Be Delayed

Originally scheduled for construction during 1969, the proposed new grade separation over the double tracks at the east end of the CN freight yards may have to be delayed a year.

If it is delayed the reason will be a financial one.

Belleville Mayor J. R. Scott says that with so many other commitments for the city's 1969 capital works budget some projects will have to be eliminated.

But which of the projects is set back until 1970 will be a matter for council to decide.

Three big projects which must go ahead next year are the city's proposed secondary sewage treatment plant, a new large diameter sanitary sewer up the bed of the Moira River to serve the city's northeast industrial area and a new addition to the Madoc Secondary School, the city's share of which will have to be included in next year's capital works budget.

Other costly projects also scheduled for next year include the new Moira River bridge and West Dundas Street roadway, the Sidney Street overhead bridge across the CN double tracks, the new Edith Cavell Nursing School to be financed by the Belleville Hospital — and the grade separation east of the CN yards, if it goes ahead.

The over-all cost of the grade separation has been estimated in the area of $800,000 of which the city's share would be approximately $280,000.

"But there is only so much money in the city's capital works budget and something will have to be delayed," said Mayor Scott today.

He added it would be a matter for city council to decide which of the last mentioned projects would get priority.

The mayor said that city and county officials had met with railway heads to ascertain what effect a delay of one year for the east end grade separation might have on the railway.

The answer was that a one-year delay would not result in too great difficulty but the railway wanted assurance the project would go ahead.

Canadian National is extending its yards in the northeast end of the city and this will result in re-location of county road 18 near the city limits and laying of the present Station Street level crossing.

Now with the doubt as to the timing of construction of the grade separation, re-location of the county road is being postponed.

Shop Almost Ready

TRENTON — Work on Trenton's new workshop for retarded adults is nearing completion and officials hope it will be in operation in about one month.

It was a walkathon earlier this year that netted upwards of $18,000 which provided the proceeds for the building.

At the helm of the operation is 24-year-old Foster Hammond of Saint John, New Brunswick.

"We call the building ARC (Association for Retarded Children) Industries," said Mr. Hammond.

He stated that when the building is in full operation many of the men will be employed on a salary basis as permanent staff.

"We will train some of our handicapped members for industry," explained the manager, "but most will work in the workshop on small contracting jobs."

When operation does begin Mr. Hammond expects to have 13 persons working and once operations get fully under way almost 35 people can be expected.

The centre, which will cover the Trenton-Brighton area, will aid in giving both instruction and jobs to the mentally handicapped in the area.

Foster Hammond

When asked how he got involved in this line of work Mr. Hammond only said, "I guess I was interested in it and just fell in."

"It isn't something you learn out of a book, you have to pick it up as you go along."

The first month will be devoted to a training operation and then the members will be taking on their first jobs.

Trenton Business On the Upswing

TRENTON — The merchants of Trenton are dreaming of a green Christmas.

Not the shade of green that colors trees and grass but the tinge that covers money.

But they are not crazy, for the festive season is a time that can spell success or failure for commercial businessmen all over the world.

The actual percentage boost in sales varies according to the business. A local jeweller has estimated that approximately 25 per cent of his yearly business is done in the month of December.

But the season of giving has even a greater impetus in other shopping areas.

The owner of a men's clothing store happily declared that the Christmas season "gives my sales nearly a 100 per cent boost."

And general department stores have Christmas to thank for an approximate 40 per cent boost in sales. So it can be easily seen that the man in the red suit keeps many businesses operating in the black and is responsible for a large portion of their profits.

But the season is not without its drawbacks and one of the main ones is increased shoplifting. Most merchants agree that due to larger crowds those who would rather take than give come out in abundance.

In spite of this; Christmas is still the biggest money-maker for merchants.

Thurlow Asks Changes

Thurlow Township council has authorized application to the department of transport governors to obtain crossing protection in two Thurlow sections.

The council acted yesterday at its regular monthly meeting following receipt of a letter from the Thurlow Public School Board.

The letter expressed concern with a crossing on the 5th concession.

Bus drivers that take children to Harmony Public School have complained about obstructions preventing a clear view of the tracks.

"The school's getting larger. There's more buses all the time, so I think we'd better apply," said Borden Forsythe, deputy reeve.

The council also took the opportunity to apply for crossing protection on the Third concession where a crossing was described by them as dangerous.

Fire Hazard

Another rain street fire in Belleville. It is the third in as many years and represents a serious blow not only to the businesses concerned but to the city at large.

Winter inevitably increases the fire hazard, and it is a situation aggravated by the proximity to each other of main street stores and businesses and by the age of the buildings themselves. There is the constant threat of a really serious blaze.

If there is any consolation at all in such occurrences it lies perhaps in the fact that downtown redevelopment may be facilitated, say in providing more access routes to the river's edge where one day a section of the scheduled "magic circle" route may run. Then again, there are a few vacant premises along Front Street in which the businesses affected by this fire could become re-established.

Still, the warning signals are out. Winter has become synonymous with fire in the Belleville business area. It is a situation which those planning downtown redevelopment must take into account, with a view to lessening the possibility of future outbreaks.

Train Mishap

You would not think it could happen, yet it does and with alarming regularity. That is, the type of collision that involved Canadian National's new turbotrain and a trailer-truck at a level crossing in Kingston the other day.

Fortunately there were no serious injuries, but the streamlined nose of the train was damaged. The truck, hit right in the centre, apparently had stalled on the crossing. This in itself is the sort of inexplicable phenomenon that seems to go with such mishaps — a vehicle stalls on the crossing and then suddenly there can be tragedy.

It all points once again to the need — in the case of the more frequently used crossings at least — for overpasses. It also serves as yet another warning to drivers to exercise caution, and particularly to make sure there is no possibility of stalling right in the middle of the tracks.

For Canadian National it was an inauspicious start to the new service. That it was no worse however is a matter for satisfaction, and the railway is to be congratulated on what essentially is an exciting new concept in rail travel.

Russia's Military Budget

The Soviet Union's military budget for 1969, the equivalent of a record $21,000,000,000 is aimed at increasing Soviet defence capacities according to Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov.

A Moscow report says Garbuzov did not attribute the increase to any particular area of tension or conflict. Yet it is not difficult to discern the reasons for Soviet sensitivity to global developments as reflected by this increase of a million rubles over the previous year's spending.

For one thing Russia has been busy re-equipping the forces of the Arab world disastrously defeated in confrontation with Israel in the summer of 1967. It has also been building up its naval strength, particularly in the Mediterranean where Soviet vessels have been shadowing the United States 6th Fleet. At home it is obliged to keep a wary eye on its frontier with China. And there is the matter of support for the communist side in that long and agonizing conflict in Vietnam.

The total spending is said to be smaller in proportion to the total budget than the previous year's defence figure. Nevertheless it is the ruble equivalent of $21 billion which ordinary Russians likely would rather see used in more peaceful pursuits, and in improving the consumer situation at home.

The Weatherman

The weatherman is doing strange things around the world. Locally it is fairly seasonable, though with interesting variations, near zero one day then relatively mild the next. Not so dramatically fickle, however, as the 96 degrees experienced one day recently in Johannesburg, South Africa, and 42 degrees the next. Reports from Auckland, moreover, say motorists have been driving with their lights on during the day, because smog from the blazing bush fires around Sydney, Australia, 1,100 miles west, has crossed the Tasman Sea to New Zealand.

No Nonsense Bilingualism Is Here to Stay

By GREG CONNOLLEY

OTTAWA — Under the Trudeau government bilingualism is more and more a key factor in the career of an ambitious civil servant.

The initial push to bilingualism in the public service was given by French prime minister Lester Pearson. Now it has been given a hearty shove by Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

There has been a great deal of good will and support in Ottawa for the idea of providing service to French-speaking Canadians in their own language.

Civil servants in the thousands have been going to school trying to polish up their French to acceptable standards.

They have reason to work hard at becoming bilingual. Mr. Pearson as far back as 1966 declared that bilingual proficiency or a willingness to acquire it would normally be a requirement by 1970 for appointive jobs from without the civil service. By 1975 it would be required for promotion of those already within.

This of course applied to executive and administrative posts.

But in recent days Ottawans have been told that by 1970 for all practical purposes, nobody from outside the public service will have much chance of getting an executive or administrative post unless he is bilingual.

Again, they have been advised that by 1975, no one within the public service will have much chance of promotion to the top jobs unless he is bilingual.

These statements startled a lot of people. But they came from an authoritative source — Yves Labonte, a member of the Public Service Commission.

Mr. Labonte was accused of dropping the Pearson qualification that a man could still get in or get promoted if he were "willing" to learn the second language.

He denied this. But he added that for all practical purposes, anybody who wanted to enter the public service or to get ahead in it, would pretty well have to be bilingual by the aforementioned dates.

He said he wanted to express his "hope" that there would be few candidates by 1970 or 1975 who would not be bilingual.

The Public Service Commissioner did not like the impression given by some that "bilingualism was a passing fashion" in the National Capital. He spoke of some individuals holding on to the "pious intention" of becoming bilingual.

These comments by Mr. Labonte have caused annoyance and anger over his aggressiveness in the cause of bilingualism.

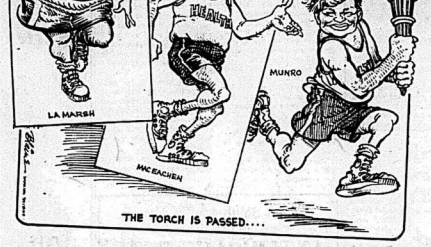
In a speech in Ottawa Mr. Labonte added fuel to the fire with this observation:

"It is definite in this 20th century to conceive of a well-rounded man who is not at least bilingual."

On his terms, a good many millions of Canadians are not well-rounded nor are likely to become so.

But Mr. Labonte went on to deal with those persons who felt threatened by the coming era of bilingualism.

These people are not in any way violent," he said: "They are sometimes, at least in words, very sympathetic to the cause of bilingualism."



He stated that these citizens also had the narrow conscience of puritans, who were scandalized by injustices they feared from too hasty an application of bilingualism.

Such individuals, he believed, were often quite insensitive to the injustices created by a century of unilingualism.

"This reaction," declared Mr. Labonte "is as nefarious for our country as is that of the separatistes. It is indeed this reaction on which separatist feeling feeds."

Mr. Labonte does not fit the norm of the usual civil servant. He is strongly opinionated and not at all hesitant about airing his views.

This has its refreshing aspects but some observers in Ottawa wonder whether he might not further bilingualism with a more diplomatic approach.

Economy Mirage

Ottawa Journal

Cynicism is bred by figures such as those issued by Finance Minister Benson the other day.

In October, federal revenues were up $127.7 million over the same month of 1967.

Did that help in balancing the budget for the month? Not a bit. Expenditures for October were up $160.8 million compared with the previous year. Despite the efforts of the taxpayer in providing more, the 1968 deficit for the month was $51.2 million compared with a relatively modest $18.1 million in 1967.

Church Services—Two Opposing Viewpoints

Peterborough Examiner

Anglican services are boring, says the Rev. S. C. Steer, Anglican bishop of Saskatoon. "There are many people in the world" he told members of the general commission on Anglican-United Church union, "who cannot put up with the weekly boredom of going to church, but who are ready to do things for Christ."

He is right, of course. There have been a few scattered attempts to transform the churches into theatres of involvement rather than purely houses of worship but the sad fact emerges: there is not enough talent in the ministry to exhilarate religion.

The Rev. R. H. N. Davidson, chairman of the special commission on the liturgy for the Anglican-United union, argues with Bishop Steer's opinion by saying that trying to modernize the Judeo-Christian scriptures is complicated by their traditional symbolism.

Mr. Davidson typifies the dull, unimaginative, musty, solemn, overbearing attitude that the church clings to in the pretence of penance and puritanical dignity.

There are several improvements that can be entertained. First is a readjustment of the priestly image. The sooner the clergy stops trying to personify christ and concentrates instead on interpreting H is teachings with modern thought and idiom and without high - pressure goodness, the sooner congregations will begin to feel comfortable and honest in their presence.

Church buildings should have an entirely new design concept to eliminate their concert hall atmosphere and encourage spiritual intimacy and involvement.

Women, backbones of the church, should be employed in meaningful community tasks instead of wasting their time pouring tea and admiring each other's hats.

Children should be removed from the incoherent, school-like drudgery of sermon and song and taken to places where they can see and appreciate the complexities of creation.

* * *

Hamilton Spectator

Many devout churchgoers were shocked to hear that a leading figure of the Anglican Church, the Rt. Rev. S. C. Steer, Bishop of Saskatoon, had described church services as boring.

In Bishop Steer's words: "I find I can't press young people to come to church. I can't think of any more boring experience than going to church."

Unfortunately, Bishop Steer sees no hope for the church service. In fact he went so far as to say that the proposed new Anglican-United Church of Canada church should downgrade churchgoing.

Even more shocking, perhaps to devout churchgoers was the news that Bishop Steer's audience, all members of the General Commission on the union of the two churches, gave his remarks a round of applause.

Unfortunately for Bishop Steer's opinions, his blanket condemnation of church services doesn't hold water. Many ministers, even today when most of our able young people are entering more lucrative professions, are well able to inspire their congregations Sunday in and Sunday out.

Higher Phone Rates

Windsor Star

Much higher telephone rates go into effect in March if the Canadian Transport Commission approves an application by the Bell Telephone Company. Residential rates would be up by as much as 75 cents per month, a very substantial percentage boost indeed.

Transport Commission has a say as Bell Telephone is a public utility in a monopoly position. The Commission can refuse its rates to its profits.

It is no surprise that Bell wants to boost rates. Its basic rates have been unchanged since 1958. The cost of most everything else has gone up in that period.

The burden of the higher rates will be felt most by those of modest means, and especially by those on fixed incomes. It is just another pull at their purses and they are helpless to do anything about it.

Time was when telephones were something of a luxury. But in modern society they are a necessity in most homes. They are, of course, an absolute essential in commercial, business and professional life.

Washington-Peking Talks Resume

China May Be Seeking Rapprochment With U.S.

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) President-elect Richard Nixon may find more room to alter United States foreign policy on China than he expected.

The opening so far is tiny and it may not widen. But it could serve as a start on nudging the U.S.-China relationship back at least into the dialogue ended Jan. 8, if not on the road to broader contact.

Nixon, who will be naming his secretary of state and other cabinet members Wednesday night, has emphasized that he takes a special interest in foreign affairs.

He has said ending the war in Vietnam is the first priority and laid special emphasis on patching up NATO.

Over-all, Nixon and aides such as security adviser Henry Kissinger will be working to avoid any future Vietnams by asking regional groupings in many areas to take on more self-protection and expect less from the U.S. as a kind of world policeman.

Notice of a possible thaw in China's hostility was the Chinese proposal late last month to resume the Warsaw meetings Feb. 20. They were ended last January at China's request.

Several lines of speculation exist about the Chinese step.

One is that the chaos of the cultural revolution is settling at last, with Chairman Mao Tse-tung in the saddle and China more able to look outward again.

Another assumption is that China could be resigning itself to a Vietnam peace falling short of total victory over the U.S. that it has been urging on North Vietnam.

A third is that China, still bitterly at odds with the Soviet Union, is moving just a bit closer to the U.S. Can may well fear the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia means a more threatening and bellicose neighbor on its northern—and disputed—border.

Observers say China's handling of normal foreign affairs seems to be getting back to normal at home and in areas such as Africa. All Chinese ambassadors were summoned home at the peak of the activities of the Red Guards and few have reemerged.

Nixon made several references in his election campaign to putting U.S.-China relations on a more realistic basis if possible.

Stability in Asia after the Vietnam war will depend on China to a large extent, China's terms for ending its boycott of the U.S. or of the United Nations is removal of the American protection for Formosa.

It is indeed conceivable here that Nixon might make some yards in getting through to China because China is at last willing. Leading academics and advisers are urging Nixon to try anyway.

Japan's steady growth as the real Asian powerhouse may encourage Nixon to go ahead.

Fire Inspector Probes Ruins of Building

An Ontario Fire Marshal's Office inspector today began probing the ruins left by yesterday's $270,000 Front Street blaze after a round-the-clock watch by city firefighters.

The all-night fire vigil on the smoking shambles of David's Furniture and Appliances store may have prevented a second serious eruption — this time in the adjoining Odeon Hotel.

Fire was discovered in the ceiling of a beverage room toilet about 1 a.m. by hotel owner Norm Hickson. The threat was snuffed out almost immediately by firemen still playing water on the smouldering ruin adjoining the hotel.

Fire also penetrated through a firewall to a second-floor kitchen of the hotel yesterday afternoon — about six hours after the store blaze was brought under control.

It was spotted almost immediately by firemen who patrolled all floors of the hotel throughout the day.

The outbreak in the kitchen may indirectly have led to the later blaze in the washroom. An insurance adjuster said water poured on the kitchen wall may have caused a short circuit in the hotel's electric wiring.

Mr. Hickson said he was talking to his manager, Jim Pickell, in the beverage room early this morning when he smelt smoke. Dashing into the washroom he found the ceiling afire. He ran outside and alerted firemen who immediately ran a fireline to the spot.

Investigations into the cause of the furniture store blaze began this morning with the arrival of OFM inspector Paul McKerracher from Toronto.

Asst. McKerracher will look into a probe already started by local fire department investigators and insurance adjusters.

City firefighters played water on the ruin 17 hours before they were sure it was completely extinguished.

A mobile crane hoisted eight truckload of charred rubble from the scene yesterday to free access to burning mattresses and chesterfields in the store basement.

Water was poured on the smoldering site until 2 a.m. today.

Total loss — including smoke and water damage to adjoining stores and the City Hotel — now is estimated at $270,000.

Meanwhile, Mr. Hickson said he was unsure when his hotel would re-open for business. The fire also forced evacuation of 10 hotell guests.

Chairman Issues Report On County Welfare System

The new county welfare department which went into operation last spring is functioning well, members of county council were told this week.

Stirling Reeve Donald Rodgers as chairman of the county social services committee in a year end report said that in the few months which the committee has been in existence had not allowed time to explore all intended programs for 1968 but he felt the service was on solid ground.

"The committee still believes that counselling, rehabilitation and related programs will prove, in the future, to achieve the utmost in economy," he said. "We feel that we have a good staff and that 1969 will show their true value."

In a review of the current year's welfare budget, Reeve Rodgers said that a cursory look at all municipalities would seem to indicate Hastings and Belleville would slightly exceed budget and that Trenton should be close or slightly under budget.

Referring to the county only he said it appeared administrative costs were in line, indigent costs will be slightly over and gross general welfare assistance costs would be higher than budgeted for.

However, net costs were not expected to be much higher due to increases in grant income.

Mr. Rodgers said the higher than expected welfare costs in the county unit were not an isolated case as this was fairly general across the province.

Belleville Club Holds Bingo Night

Belleville Club members and guests held their annual bingo for turkeys and other prizes last night at the Finnacle Street Club.

The party was arranged by entertainment committee chairman John MacFarlane with Donald Soutter acting as master of ceremonies and Ernie Colebourne as caller for the bingo.

James Gill and George Hume were the luckiest players of the night, each winning twice but on the second win had to accept a prize other than a plump turkey. During the evening a number of bonus prizes were distributed and many of the assembly went home with a fine five-pound package of cheddar cheese. In the cover-all game Frank Domenico and Ralph Graham split the award.

At the conclusion of the games the members enjoyed a game of bridge and a social hour.

A number of the directors were in attendance and Archie Lewis, the popular secretary-manager was welcomed back after a lengthy illness.

Shortt Emphasizes Urgency

Administration of County Board A Big Job

PICTON (Staff) — The newly hired school administrator for the Prince Edward County Board of Education last night said that "until a lot of policy making decisions are made by the board no real progress in organizing the new county system can be made."

Ernest Shortt, the 50-year old former administrator of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute said yesterday there was really a big job ahead.

Emphasizing the payroll and the budget Mr. Shortt pointed out that there is a pay coming up in January.

"By that time all the payrolls in all the different schools in the county will have been combined into one," he stated.

"It will have to be done quickly."

And under the new school act all county boards must have arrived at their budget by March 1, 1969.

"That is also going to be a big job," said Mr. Shortt.

"Many, many things have to be put together and combined very quickly."

Mr. Shortt said that many of the minor things can be started on right away and he has already started to work on them.

However, major decisions and actions must await the policy making decisions of the board.

After he was hired at the first meeting of the 14 member Prince Edward County School Board on Monday night Mr. Shortt told the members that "getting staff" was a matter of utmost urgency.

When asked by the board how many additional people he felt would have to be hired he answered right.

"That would include secretaries as well as people for maintenance and other jobs."

Again Mr. Shortt pointed out to the board that until they decided what they wanted it would be difficult to say exactly what would be needed.

He gave the example of whether or not the board would want a centralized warehouse for delivering supplies to all the schools or whether they would want to do it through the individual schools themselves.

At any rate the big job has started and Mr. Shortt is confident that the job will be done efficiently and satisfactorily.

He has already started on preparing various reports and recommendations for the county board to examine.

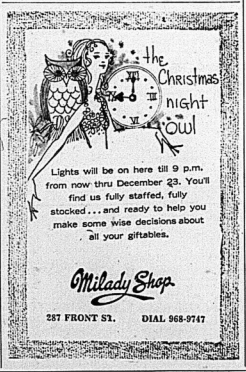
OPP Alerted

Fraud Attempt Made

Chance presence of a provincial police officer near the home of a possible bank fraud victim may have alerted the Quinte area to a spreading swindle racket.

Police today warned all district residents not to divulge details of bank accounts to persons posing as bank officials on the telephone.

The information is apparently being used in a fraud operation which, police fear, is spreading across the province from Western Ontario.



Possible arrival of the racketeers in the Belleville area was tipped to police yesterday when an 83-year-old Marysville man received a phone call requesting details on his banking arrangements.

Police said the caller "gave the impression he was a bank official" and "conned" the man into revealing details of his account.

Shortly after, the man noticed an OPP cruiser parked near his home where the officer had halted briefly to enter details in a report. He walked to talk to the constable and, during the conversation, mentioned the call.

The officer, his suspicions aroused by the description of the phone conversation, immediately checked with the man's bank in Belleville.

New York Times Chairman Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Hays Sulzberger, chairman of the board of the New York Times and for more than 30 years a towering giant of world journalism, died Wednesday at the age of, 77.

He had suffered from cardiovascular problems of the heart and blood vessels since a heart attack in 1972.

Sulzberger died peacefully in his sleep at his Fifth Avenue apartment. At the time, his son, Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, present publisher of The Times, was en route home from Chattanooga, Tenn., where the family publishes the Chattanooga Times.

A memorial service for the elder Sulzberger will be held Sunday at Temple Emanu-El near his home. The body will be cremated. Sulzberger became publisher of The Times in 1935, succeeding his father-in-law, Adolph S. Ochs. When he turned over the post in 1961 to his own son-in-law, the late Orvil E. Dryfoos, Sulzberger sent him a telegram which read:

"Remember that none of it would have happened that way except that I was sensible enough to marry the boss's daughter, and you were too."

Dryfoos died in 1963, and Sulzberger's son became publisher of The Times.

During his years as publisher, The Times nearly doubled Sunday circulation and its daily circulation went up by 40 per cent.

Under Sulzberger's direction, The Times news columns became clearer, more concise, more sharply written, better displayed. He also pressed for more pictorial reporting.

But Sulzberger continued to place stress on informational reporting, a factor that kept The Times outstanding as a "paper of record."

In keeping with this philosophy, Sulzberger never imposed his opinion on The Times editorial board, and never asked a man to write an editorial with which that man disagreed.

Your Dollars

Cost of Borrowing

By KEN WEERES

Almost every family has in the past borrowed, or is at present borrowing, money. The reason any family borrows is to enjoy the benefits of products now, but pay for them as they are used. It has become an essential part of our way of life.

Unfortunately, very few families know what the credit is costing them. In many cases, they consider only the size of payment, not the interest rate or total finance charge.

While it may be a little difficult to determine the cost of credit, the following formula is very useful and easy to learn:

$$R = \frac{2PC}{A(N+1)}$$ where

R = Annual interest rate
P = Number of payments per year
C = Finance charge in dollars
A = Total amount borrowed
N = Number of payments necessary to pay off the debt.

Let us work through an example. Suppose you buy a stereo set on credit. The cost of the stereo is $550, you pay $100 down so the total amount you borrow is $400. You are to make 36 monthly payments of $15 each. So, P = 121, C = 140, A = 400, N = 36.

Thus, the annual interest rate is 22.7 percent.

This simple formula will give the interest rate where your payments are made weekly or monthly. It is an easy formula and well worth your time becoming familiar with. If you have recently borrowed money, try working through the problem to find what your credit is costing you.

Several provinces have recently passed laws making it necessary that all credit contracts show the annual rate of interest and total dollar cost of the loan. Certainly this is one of the most effective ways to protect the consumer from excessively high interest rates.

Most small retail firms that extend credit to their customers do so through a loan company. The loan company pays the retailer the price of the article you purchased. As a result, the retailer is no longer concerned whether or not you make the payments. He has his money. But your monthly payments go directly to the finance company. Always ask the retailer which finance company he uses to extend credit to his customers.

Extending credit is a competitive business among loan companies, banks, credit unions, and so on. Before buying on credit, shop around as you would for anything else before making a deal. You will find that there are great variations in the interest rate. But the cost of the loan is not the only thing to consider. Terms, convenience and leniency if payments are missed are also important factors.

Sometimes used cars or furniture are advertised as "Take Over Payments" not completed by the previous owner. In actual fact, in these types of sales a new contract is always drawn up for yourself. Often the payments are higher than what the original owner was paying. The only thing you take over is an obligation to buy what you purchased.

When taking out a loan you will reduce the cost by shortening the number of payments as much as possible. The shorter the term, the smaller the total dollar cost. Also make as large a down payment as possible. This, of course, reduces the amount you must borrow. And make payments when due. Default in payment often incurs extra cost.

Credit is a useful instrument, but if taken on immoderately and used carelessly, it can lead to serious trouble. Most families that get into financial difficulty do so because they take out credit at several places rather than borrowing from just one source. One source of borrowing and controlled use of credit will make your dollars go farther.

Toronto Police Pay Up

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto's 3,200 policemen have been awarded a six-per-cent wage increase and improved pension benefits by a three-man arbitration board, it was announced Wednesday.

They had been seeking a 15-per-cent increase. The settlement, binding on both sides, is for one year and retroactive to last Jan. 1.

"If they (the police commission) think that an award like this is going to encourage recruiting, or prevent men from leaving the force, they are sadly mistaken."

Under the terms, the salary for a first-class constable will be $7,923.50 a year, an increase of $448.50 over 1967.

Demands covering fringe benefits such as increased pay for court appearances, plainclothes allowance, increased vacations and merit pay for educational certificates, were rejected.

Unified Policies Endorsed

OTTAWA (CP) — Co-ordination and integration of federal science activities won backing Wednesday from the federal government's biggest science-oriented department—energy, mines and resources.

But in a brief to the Senate science policy committee the department stopped short of agreeing to policy control by a single minister.

And it rejected as out-dated and impractical the idea of lumping all scientific activities into a single department.

Deputy minister Claude Isbister maintained that although scientific research is essential to fulfil the department's mission, "perhaps" it would be proper to have a minister responsible for deciding whether to support general areas of scientific research and the scale of the support.

The degree of departmental control exercised over current programs drew criticism from Senator Grosart said this ap- Ontario.

He noted that Mr. Isbister professed himself "disturbed" that eight universities seemed to be planning to become Great Lakes water research specialists using the federal government's Burlington, Ont., Centre for Inland Waters.

Mr. Isbister had said it would be "unwise and even dangerous" for so many universities to try to become specialists.

Logging Useful In Parks

OTTAWA (CP) — Scientific justification exists for controlled logging of forest parks, M. L. Prebble, federal assistant deputy forestry minister, said Wednesday.

Untouched timber stands are prey to disease and fire which would do greater damage to forest parks than controlled logging operations, he told the Senate science policy committee.

Dr. Prebble declined to comment directly on the current controversy over timber-cutting operations in Ontario's Algonquin Park, but applied his comments to national wilderness parks.

He was asked by Senator Donald Cameron (Ind—L—Alberta) for the "truth" about the Algonquin Park controversy sparked by television criticism of logging operations.

Senator Cameron said he finds it "incredible" that opponents of the Algonquin logging could say that the park is the province's last stand of hardwood.

Dr. Prebble said extensive hardwood stands exist north of Lake Huron although they are not quite so valuable as those in Algonquin.

MR. AND MRS. TERRY DOUGLAS THOMPSON

Thompson – Hall

Rev. Harry M. Davis officiated at the wedding ceremony in Bridge Street United Church, on Saturday December 7, 1968, when Diane Gloria Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hall, Belleville was united in marriage to Terry Douglas Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thompson, also of Belleville. Alec Gordon, church organist rendered the nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a boutique gown of silk peau de soie featuring an Empire styled bodice with a high round neckline trimmed with Venetian lace, and long fitted sleeves. The back of the semi-full skirt was enhanced with a formal train of matching material highlighted with a wide centre panel of scalloped Venetian lace. A bouffant shoulder length veil was caught to a tiny jewelled crown and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and English ivy.

Les Backus was groomsman while the ushers were Don Hall, uncle of the bride and Ron Clark, cousin of the bridegroom.

At the reception at the Sun Valley Motor Inn, the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a lime green and gold sayrl brocade dress with matching pillbox of lime green and gold metallic material with bone accessories and a white cymbidium orchid corsage. Assisting, the mother of the bridegroom wore a winter white wool sheath dress with silver metallic thread, a moss green hat with velvet covered brim, black accessories and a green cymbidium orchid corsage.

For the honeymoon to the bride donned a two-piece camels hair suit with brown and white fox collar. Black patent accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses completed her ensemble.

The couple will reside at Inverary, Ontario.

Church Groups

(CHRIST CHURCH A.C.W.)

The Christmas party for Christ Church ACW Evening Branch was held in one of the lower rooms of the Parish Hall which was beautifully decorated for the occasion, on Monday evening, December 9, in the form of a dinner.

Thirty people sat down to a tasty repast of baked ham and all the trimmings, and an assortment of desserts including a large beautifully decorated Christmas cake which was the focal point of attention. Canon R. B. Wright and Mrs. Wright, Rev. David Hawkins, and Mrs. E. Hickey were the special guests of honor.

President, Mrs. J. Kilburn welcomed everyone, and after dinner Canon Wright and Mr. Hawkins each gave a talk pertaining to Christmas and the birth of the Christ child.

Later, tables were set up and the women played bridge and euchre. Winners for bridge were: Mrs. R. Hagsdale, and Mrs. R. MacInnes; Winners for euchre were: Mrs E. Copeland, Mrs. J. Spencer, and Mrs. J. Mayell.

At the close of the evening lunch was served.

Donated Axe

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — The axe Lizzie Borden was accused of using to hack her parents to death about 60 years ago will go ondisplay here, the Fall River Historical Society announced. Mrs. Dwight Waring, whose father was the Borden family lawyer donated it after finding it in her attic.

Student Nurses Learn to Fight Rush-hour Traffic

The girls, who commute twice weekly between Plattsburg N.Y., and Montreal in a fire-engine-red bus merely don headphones connected to an intercom system on the bus, and the lecture begins.

En route, their bus becomes a classroom.

Each of the 60 seats is equipped with a pair of headphones and a microphone connected to an intercom system. The hook-up allows lecture and discussion sessions to proceed unhampered by the noises of traffic.

The interior is also divided into three seating sections so that after the lectures students may divide into small groups for discussion.

The students talk about the plans for the day on the way to Montreal, says Vivienne Walton, assistant professor of psychiatric nursing at Plattsburg.

The buses leave Plattsburg around 6:45 a.m. and arrive at the hospital at about 8 a.m. They start back at 3:30 p.m. and reach home at 5 p.m.

Forty students come to Montreal Tuesdays and 40 on Thursdays.

During their visits they are assigned to various hospital units, says M. E. Christie, director of nursing at Douglas Hospital.

Their schedule is much the same as other nurses in training at the hospital, says Mrs. Christie, and they rotate wards every four weeks. The course runs for three months.

Montreal was selected as a training ground because it is the largest city near Plattsburg.

Nursing students came to Montreal last year too to study at the Montreal General and Jewish General hospitals as well as at the Montreal Neurological Institute.

An agreement drawn up last February specified that the college provide instructors and study materials while the hospital provides the space and some teaching assistance from ward supervisors.

Both staffs take part in curriculum planning.

Club Activities

(Gamma Mu Chapter)

The program portion entitled "Our Own Home" was presented jointly by Mrs. Ron Fox and Mrs. Don Deacon. Choosing a color scheme was the basis of Mrs. Fox's presentation in which she suggested the hint— Something dark, something light, something dull and something bright. Mrs. Deacon's portion outlined the durability and versatility of several types and styles of wallpaper which she illustrated with samples.

To conclude the program Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Deacon and members made Christmas trees which are to be given to the elderly persons visited by some of the members.

The business portion of the meeting was both opened and closed by appropriate Christmas poems which were written by Laura Ann Simpson, and read by Mrs. John Sherry.

Mrs. R. Ord, chairman of the service committee, announced that again the group has a Christmas family and the members are now involved in work to make their Christmas a merry one this year.

The evening was concluded by the traditional exchange of gifts between 'Secret Sisters,' followed by refreshments served by the co-hostesses, Mrs. Peter Anderson and Mrs. Edward Belyea.

Painting Animal Portraits Is Satisfying Occupation

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Ian Bongard may sometimes have trouble keeping her models still, but she says painting animal portraits is a satisfying occupation.

She takes camera studies of an animal in color, then finishes the portrait with life sittings at the owner's home. Her fee is $35 for an unframed portrait.

Mrs. Bongard says older animals are more interesting — "character develops in the eyes and around the mouth." Cats have more distinguishing marks than dogs and horses but sometimes are harder to paint.

"It's something about the nose—I don't know why, but it's hard to judge the length of a cat's nose. Photos can give a good outline of the animal but the nose length doesn't show somehow."

Mrs. Bongard, who has two pet cats, herself, says all animals are individuals.

"Animals have character and distinguishing marks that make them individuals. When it's hard to judge the length of a cat's nose. Photos can give a good outline of the animal but the nose length doesn't show somehow."

Mrs. Bongard, who has two pet cats, herself, says all animals are individuals.

"Animals have character and distinguishing marks that make them individuals. When a painter catches the difference, the owner is happy because you show that you really know the animal."

Ann Landers

Ann Recommends Female Psychiatrist

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm in desperate need of advice. I hope you can help me.

My childhood was not a very happy one, which I'm sure is part of my problem. My father was a hand-some heel who had one affair after another. I was crazy about him but he ignored me. I married too young because I thought it would solve my problem which was getting beyond control. I was a good-looking girl and had lots of dates but I ended up sleeping with every boy who said a kind word to me.

ANN LANDERS

I've been married three years now have two children. My old problem is back. The milkman is beginning to look good to me. Also the TV repair-man, the mailman, and the insurance fellow. I have fantasies of being intimate with any male I look at.

Please don't tell me to go to a psychiatrist. I wouldn't be able to control myself with one. I'd end up either involved or rejected. Help me, Ann. — CHICAGO MESS.

DEAR CHICAGO: Some of the finest psychiatrists in your city are women. Select one and get the help you need.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to put in my 2 cents worth about married children alternating holidays with their parents. The letter from the woman who signed herself "Wishing Fairness" and felt left out because her son and his wife spent so many holidays with HER family sounds like my daughter's mother-in-law.

She can have them. All they need is an invitation. I'm sure they'll go. I've had the whole bunch over for more dinners than I care to recall and I'm tired. What gets me mad is that they think they are doing me a favor by coming.

Why don't married kids invite Mom and Dad to their homes for holiday dinners once in a while? I'll tell you why. Because it's too much like work. It's easier to be a guest than a hostess. (And cheaper, too.)

If you will print my letter I promise to telephone my daughter and tell her to read Ann Landers' column the day it appears. So. Help me. — SWOLLEN FEET.

DEAR FEET: Start dialing, Honey, Here it is.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As a last resort, we, the desperate male students at Michigan Technological University, are writing to you for help.

This is a good school, great ski country, but it's awfully lonely up here without any girls. I shouldn't say "without any" because there are some but not enough. The ratio is about 10 guys to every bird.

If you help us the girls here would appreciate it, too. They are so exhausted from the social life they have trouble staying awake in class. Thanks, Ann, you're a real doll. — MEN OF M.T.U.

DEAR MEN: Here's your letter with a word from The Doll. Anyone interested in M.T.U., write to the Chamber of Commerce in Houghton, Michigan.

Director of Nursing Speaks at IODE Meet

MARMORA — Mrs. Jean Hyatt director of nursing for the combined county health units of Hastings and Prince Edward braved the weather to drive from Picton to Marmora and address the IODE meeting.

Her talk was most interesting and enlightening for those unaware of the comprehensive program of services offered by a county health unit.

She was thanked by Mrs. Vaughan Glover.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Alice Stark. Members welcomed back the Regent Mrs. Eugene Brady who had been in hospital.

The Christmas parcel to an adopted school in Labrador has already been sent and a basket of groceries will be raffled for the Chapter contribution to the Legion Christmas fund.

The December meeting will take the form of a potluck supper at the home of Mrs. Howard Bleecker instead of the usual exchange of gifts, members will bring children's gifts to be donated to the Legion.

Women's Institutes

MELROSE W.I.

The December meeting of the Melrose W.I. took the form of a Christmas party, at the Gilead Hall.

The members gathered for a turkey supper. Tables were decorated in Christmas fashion, with a delightful centre-piece of colorful flowers and lighted candles.

A short business period was presided over by the president, Mrs. Don McLaren.

It was decided to hold the first euchre in the township hall on the 9th of January, two couples offering to be responsible for its arrangements.

Again the shut-ins would be remembered by the Institute this Christmas season.

Mrs. Charles Bates, Mrs. Don Macfarlane and Mrs. Earl Badgley acting as an entertainment committee, put on a variety program of skits, etcetera, baton twirling and carol singing. Christie and Debra Badgley, daughters of Mrs. Earl Badgley kindly attended this meeting and favored with the baton act.

Each one present was given a chance to select a gift from a bag of wrapped parcels. This was a delightful way to conclude an already pleasant evening.

The president thanked the ladies who had prepared the bounteous meal and those who had selected the numbers for the entertainment.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "We'll have to spend at least $10 on Aunt Sue. She always buys us somethin' that costs that much. Aunt Jane probably won't give anything this year."

Mother: "I want to remember Aunt Jane, because she's all alone this year. Perhaps she and Aunt Sue would each like a pretty scarf. And we could bake some Christmas cookies for them."

Don't let your family get into a habit of having a "gift exchange of comparable value." Christmas is the time to extend affection, especially to those who may sorely need it.

Successful Living

Widowed Mother Needs Her Own Friends

By DORIS CLARK

There are times when it takes all the composure a widowed mother in her 40s can muster, to cope with a married son or daughter.

First she helps them get launched; takes an in-law spouse to her bosom; does yeoman duty as visiting housekeeper when the babies come. But just let her step out of line and drop in unexpectedly when their social life is running smoothly! That's different.

Somehow she feels like an interloper. Which, in a way, she is. But this can hurt.

Isn't it better to jump the gun on this sort of thing by deliberately turning to new and absorbing friends and pastimes?

Occasional visits by invitation, are then a delight.

* * *

Dear Doris: I have been going out with Paul for two years. We are both 19. He is presently doing grade 10 at night school. He once mentioned that sometimes he feels inferior to me because I have more education than him.

Someone told me that if Paul feels this difference it is because he does not really love me. That person says if he dio love me he would not sense any difference. Is there truth in this? — Teachers College Student.

Dear Student: Nonsense! Being in love does not always mean a person takes leave of their senses — nor of their sensitivity.

I'd say he loves and trusts you, to even tell you that he feels this way. And isn't he doing his best to catch up?

* * *

Dear Doris: I also am the mother of a six-year-old autistic boy. I was wondering if you would have the names of these mothers to whom I could write, as I know the heartaches and worry this problem creates. Perhaps together, a few parents could organize a group to give each other help.

This is one way programs for our children could begin as I know by waiting for the authorities, our children, who need help badly now, will be passed by.

Also kindergartens or nurseries don't always want an autistic child. This woman spoke of a summer camp where her child attended. I didn't know one existed and would be interested in finding out more about this. — Mutual Concern

Dear Mutual: Fine ideas. Parents have started things moving before this, about retarded children, exceptional children, physically handicapped children; why not autistic children?

Yours is the first letter about it from the Ottawa area. Others were from British Columbia, Manitoba, Nova Scotia and Ontario. The summer camp mentioned was in a delightful spot on Vancouver Island.

Would the BC mother care to tell us more?

Anonymous letters are bad manners and may be ignored. When writing in, give Doris your right name and address. It will be kept confidential.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Bran Muffins in A Hurry

By MARY MOORE

You will have to make these refrigerator muffins to believe me. I know I just could not trust my ears when my private - caterer friend Ruth gave me the recipe. She makes it up in a large batch that produces three dozen large muffins.

But to convince yourself, as I did, make this batch which yields 1½ to 2 dozen medium-sized muffins.

REFRIGERATOR BRAN MUFFINS (1½ to 2 doz.)

¾ cup shortening (room temperature)
1 cup granulated sugar
1½ eggs (see below)
1½ cups natural cooking bran
2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tbsp. baking powder
1½ tsps. baking soda
2 tbsps. hot water
½ cup raisins
1½ cups buttermilk (or sweet milk soured with 3 tbsps. lemon juice)

Into beater bowl measure the shortening and sugar and beat until creamy. Add eggs and beat in. (To measure ½ egg break one egg into a cup. Beat it and pour equal amounts into two egg cups. Use one-half for current batch of muffins. Cover remaining half with small piece Saran and refrigerate and use for scrambled eggs for breakfast.) Add flour, bran, salt and baking powder, and the soda dissolved in the hot water. Beat to mix. Remove beaters. Stir in raisins and buttermilk (or soured sweet milk). Scrape down sides of bowl. Cover with Saran or foil or wax paper. Top with plate and refrigerate 24 hours. (Ruth has refrigerated hers for as long as two weeks with successful results every time.) When you need the muffins, butter muffin tins and spoon batter from bowl to ⅔ - fill cups. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. Mine in 2¾" muffin pans baked in 16 min. But Ruth's directions are "bake 20 min." So watch your muffins and at 13 or 14 min. test one to see if it is done.

Of course return remaining muffin batter, well covered, to refrigerator, ready for the next time you require it.

This is a life-saver for homemakers who make their friends welcome to "drop in at any time."

Students Study Witchcraft

TORONTO (CP) — Former taboos in teaching are slowly being lifted thanks to people like Barbara Hock. English and art teacher at Herron Valley Junior high school in Grade 8 English class is currently working on term papers in witchcraft, the supernatural. Edgar Allen Poe and demons and goblins.

And Miss Hock has told them of her chills, apparition sightings and the unworldly music heard when she visited a genuine haunted house in Toronto.

Her class had a seance to try to contact Mrs. William Lyon Mackenzie, and presented a play about beheading.

"The children look on the studies as fantasies. It's better than turning on the television and seeing not-so-fanciful murders every day," says the 23-year-old teacher.

But there has been criticism.

A disapproving librarian refused books on ghosts to the children. Even so, a father who belonged on the library board smuggled out a book that made the average ghost stories look like Cinderella, said Miss Hock.

Her art class also is involved in making India pottery and voodoo masks.

Interest in Science Still High

By LINDA GELDART
Staff Reporter

Are the students of today steering clear of scientific careers because they don't want to have any part of the discovery of nuclear weapons?

This was the essence of several statements made by two men of science who know what is going on in their field. Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of the Science Council of Canada, and its executive director, Dr. P. D. McTaggart-Cowan. Both spoke before the Senate Science Committee recently.

Does this "moral" motivation then shift the emphasis to the life sciences?

If what these learned gentlemen say is true, repercussions in several science fields would be incalculable.

I set out to get some comments from people closer to home, to find out if this "moral revulsion" to the arms race was setting any trends in local high schools.

Looking over the answers, one can safely assume there is no such trend — at least not a noticeable one.

Glen Shaver, head of the science department at CCI was emphatic when I asked him if he noticed any trend away from science careers.

"I feel it is certainly not true in our school or in Canada. The students have revealed a keener interest in science than ever before."

He went on to explain that all science courses have changed from memory-orientated to experiment - orientated which tends to encourage young scientists of the future.

Mr. Shaver maintains that those who would back away from science because of its connections with the discovery of nuclear weapons are "in the great minority."

This increased interest, he maintains, is due to the fact that children of today grow up surrounded by science. They see the gadgets and trappings of science and gradually realize what they mean, and what part they themselves can have in its creation.

"Young people," he said, "are interested in making tomorrow."

Robert Phillips, science head at Moira Secondary School, said that he wasn't aware of any such trend, and expressed surprise about what the members of the Science Council said.

The man at the top in the science department at Quinte Secondary School, Robert Leach, felt that "it is difficult to make a contribution in biology or the "life sciences", without a sound basis in the sciences and also physics.

Both bio-physics and bio-chemistry are making giant steps forward, but, he reiterated, "the key to these lies with mathematics."

He hadn't noticed any significant trend away from the sciences, in particular, or in general. "But", he stressed, "in order to make a contribution in any scientific field, a good knowledge of math enables students a greater exploration and scope."

Sister Mary Annette, head of science teacher at Nicholson Catholic College maintained that fewer students interested in science just was not the case at her school.

"I really don't see any trend away from the sciences," she asserted. If anything, she noticed an increase in the enrollment in several science classes, rather than a decrease.

At Centennial, I talked with John Cote, a Grade 10 Science teacher. In the lower grades, Mr. Cote hadn't looked for or noticed any such trend.

"Actually," he said, "we are too young a school to appreciate any trend." Centennial had been in operation only three years.

I also talked with S. Allcorn, guidance councillor at Centennial. He agreed with Mr. Cote, saying, "I haven't had a student express this idea yet."

Interviewed two men of science at the government Research institute, Dr. P. S. Corbet, director, and Dr. Gordon Bucher, of the entomological branch.

Dr. Bucher's views coincided with those of the teachers I talked to. "I don't think the interest has gone to biology, but rather, to bio-chemistry."

He said in his own experience, "if anything, there is a decrease in the number going into the biological sciences".

"I can see no indication that students are turning away from science", was the way Dr. Corbet summed it up.

Dr. Corbet continued by saying that these nuclear fears are centred not so much around what man has discovered by the technological knowledge on hand, but rather, on what he has done with it.

He says that if people of today have fears in this direction, there must be more attention given to man's attitudes and mental well-being. With these facts in mind, he said, "there is every encouragement for our young people to become scientists — particularly of human behavior and of the social sciences."

Most problems in the world today have been caused by scientific technology, and it is with this same technology it is that they must be solved.

He stated further that "people with high objectives, to serve the nation and people in general, wish to go into the scientific field, particularly into biological science. Where there are many urgent needs."

Dr. Corbet answered the question of any reverse trend when he said simply, "if I were a student myself I would not hold that view. There is a greater need now than ever before in science."

Girls Reap Athletic Success

By JUDY SCHRIEDER

Basketball: A game played on a court, in which points are scored by throwing the ball into the basket goals.

Of course, there's a lot lacking in this definition. The dictionary does not state that the sport demands top physical condition and muscle agility, which in turn require hours of practice. Yet, even these assets are not an instant recipe for a COSSA-rating team.

Since the Nicholson Catholic College juniors captured the Bay of Quinte title and the seniors ranked third in their league, they certainly must have been doing something right.

Miss Gist, the girls' basketball coach, seemed to have discovered the magic ingredients and instilled them into her teams. There was a certain spark in each of those girls when they were on the court. They worked as a team, moving the ball down the gym, evading the opposing guards, shooting at the basket to score those two precious points.

And when one of them sank the ball in the mesh, you knew it had been a team effort. They certainly gave the Nicholson student body something to be proud of.

The boys' teams have started off their basketball season with a series of exhibition games. If fate takes its usual course, Father Gazeley and Mr. Duggan will have a pair of good teams on their hands.

Thanks to the girls, excellence in athletic competitions is nothing foreign to Nicholson students. Here's hoping the boys endeavors will be as successful.

Drama Night Presented

By BETH PRICE

Centre Hastings students went by bus from the school Friday to attend a concert given by folk singer Gordon Lightfoot in Peterborough.

Friday evening the annual drama night was staged at the school. A matinee performance was given Thursday afternoon.

Three plays were presented: the senior drama. Gone with the Tide; the junior play, Father Says No!; and a comedy, No Time for Skirts.

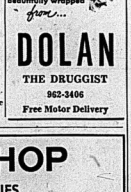
Due to the poor weather conditions, the attendance was a lower than usual. But the actors performed as though they were facing the largest audience ever gathered and everything went as planned. It was a rewarding evening for both the actors and the audience.

Saints Acquire New Jackets

By PENNIE HAMILL

In a month or two, everyone will be able to recognize a Quinte Saint by his blue leather jacket bearing his football number. On Monday the boys who have played fotball for three years, with at least one year of senior, were fitted for their football jackets. These boys deserve them for their faithful representation of Quinte in the past year.

These boys would like everyone to know about the Christmas dance they are sponsoring Dec. 20. A well known group The Purple Haze from Ottawa will be playing from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. The price will be $1 a head and the boys must wear a shirt, tie and sweater or jacket. The boys have prizes for this dance so everyone — plan to come to Quinte Secondary for a Christmas celebration.



Our junior girls' basketball game went to COSSA on Saturday and they played a hard game but unfortunately they lost in the last minute and a half. Congratulations girls, the game was well fought.

There is only one more day to get articles in to the Purple Pencil as the contest closes tomorrow.

Eskimo Sculptor Gets Commission

WINNIPEG (CP) — One of Canada's best-known Eskimo sculptors has been commissioned to create what is described as the largest and most expensive piece of soapstone in existence.

Pierre Karlik, a 37-year-old artist who lives at Rankin Inlet, N.W.T., has accepted a commission from Aquitaine Oil Co. of Canada Ltd., to carve a four-ton walrus to grace the foyer of the company's 20-storey office tower now under construction in Calgary.

Ronald Milligan, of the department of northern affairs, is acting as interpreter and liaison between the artist and the company.

In an interview, he said the exact amount of the fee for the piece is a private matter between the artist and Aquitaine. He declined to reveal the details of negotiations which were concluded in Calgary Monday.

But he said the price, including complicated shipping and material costs as well as the artist's fee, "would be much higher" than anything previously paid for Eskimo art.

The size of the piece has been limited by the fact that the largest piece of soapstone available measures only six feet by three feet by three feet. It will be supplied by a quarry in southern Quebec.

Army's Comeback Gives Leafs Life

By SCOTT BUTTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If Toronto Maple Leafs make the National Hockey League playoffs, their captain, George Armstrong, may receive much of the credit.

Armstrong, 38, announced his retirement just before the start of the season and the Maple Leafs didn't seem the same without him. It looked as if the team would have a difficult time qualifying for post-season play until Armstrong announced 10 days ago that he was ending his retirement.

Since then, the Maple Leafs have won three and tied one in four starts. As a result, they are in fourth place in the Eastern Division—three points behind second-place Boston Bruins and New York Rangers and five back of first-place Montreal Canadiens.

Armstrong, playing in his second game of the season, scored his first goal of the season Wednesday night to help the Maple Leafs tie the Canadiens 4-4.

In other action Wednesday night, Chicago Black Hawks blasted St. Louis 6-3 ending the Blues' undefeated streak at 12 games. Boston and New York fought to a 2-2 tie, Pittsburgh Penguins downed Minnesota North Stars 4-3 and Los Angeles Kings thrashed Detroit Red Wings 6-2.

A crowd of 16,485 at Toronto prared its approval when Armstrong tipped Bob Pulford's shot past Montreal goalkeeper Tony Esposito at 3:43 of the first period.

Ferguson's goal, the 100th of his NHL career, came at 14:15 of the final period and gave Montreal the tie. The fiery left winger beat Toronto goalie

JOHN FERGUSON

Bruce Gamble cleanly after taking a pass from Redmond.

Duff's goal was his fourth of the season and gave him a career total of 500 points during regular-season play.

The Black Hawks delighted a home crowd of 16,606 by scoring three goals within a 33-second span of the second period to defeat the Blues.

Frank St. Marseille, Ron Schock and Terry Crisp scored for the Blues.

Jacques Plante, the starting St. Louis goaltender, was struck on the forehead by a puck fired by Stan Mikita late in the second period. He was replaced by Glenn Hall at the start of the second.

Ken Hodge's goal at 2:57 of the final period gave Boston its 2-2 tie against the Rangers and sent 17,250 New York fans home unhappy. Fred Stanfield scored the other Boston goal, and Ranger goals went to Bob Nevin and Vic Hadfield.

Billy Harris, Val Fonteyne, Charlie Burns and Wally Boyer connected for the Penguins who recorded the victory in from of 10,008 Minnesota fans. Danny O'Shea and Andre Boudrias scored for the North Stars, now tied for fourth in the Western Division with Pittsburgh.

Namath Takes Cut

The economics of the thing were simple—Joe is about $10,000 wealthier without the moustache than he was with it.

"I didn't want to shave it off —I liked it," the New York Jet quarterback said. "But I went ahead and did a commercial this morning."

Namath declined to say how much the shave for television [illegible] bad. The Associated Press learned it was in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Soviets To Launch NHL Shot?

TORONTO (CP) — The Russians, who have been contending for some time that their best amateur hockey team can beat a National Hockey League club, may be on the verge of getting a chance to prove it.

An informed hockey source said Wednesday night a "secret plan" being worked out between the NHL and federal government could match a team of professional players against the Russians for the world hockey title in the near future.

The Canadian representative could be Toronto Maple Leafs or Montreal Canadiens of the NHL, providing the International Hockey Federation agrees to change the world tournaments to open competition, the source said.

The source said the formula, which must be presented to the IHF for acceptance, would create "a sort of world cup of hockey," and was the principal topic of discussion at a meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, the federal health department and NHL in Ottawa earlier Wednesday.

Government Plays Santa--Nats Collect $200,000 Grant

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's national hockey team received a $200,000 federal government grant Wednesday and possibly a whole new executive structure.

The financial agreement was reached at a meeting between Health Minister Munro and leaders of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, present sponsors of the team which is drawn from squads in Winnipeg and Ottawa.

At the same time, Mr. Munro and the CAHA executive agreed that a new corporation should be set up to take over control and operation of the team next year.

The CAHA, however, has not yet formally accepted the proposal but directors are expected to give it the nod next month.

The association has been supporting a similar scheme for two years.

Wednesday's meeting was called after CAHA acting president Earl Dawson of Rivers, Man., said that unless the government grant was made immediately the team would have to be disbanded.

Mr. Munro told reporters that under the proposed re-organization the CAHA would continue holding the international affiliation entitling Canada to participation in world tournaments but the corporation, tentatively called Hockey Canada, would provide the team.

The 1969 championship has been moved to Sweden from Czechoslovakia.

The executive of the proposed corporation, a non-profit organization, would be dominated by persons appointed by the health minister.

The CAHA, Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League would also name representatives to the Hockey Canada executive.

A health department spokesman said presidents David Molson of the Canadiens and Stafford Smythe of the Maple Leafs have pledged "full co-operation" and offered to serve on the Hockey Canada executive.

The spokesman said both Mr. Dawson and Gordon Juckes of Winnipeg, CAHA secretary-manager, said after Wednesday's meeting they would recommend the new setup to CAHA directors when they meet Jan. 20 in Winnipeg.

Mr. Dawson confirmed in a Toronto interview later Wednesday that financial problems forced the CAHA to recommend the takeover by a separate group.

Last year's federal government grant to the team—formed from squads based in Ottawa and Winnipeg—was $100,000, half the present pledged assistance.

He said other members of the group include John Wintermeyer, former Ontario Liberal leader, financier Max Bell of Calgary, federal cabinet minister James Richardson of Winnipeg, Rev. David Bauer, of Toronto, the team's founder, and himself.

There is a kind of man who tries.

Falling off a horse is one thing. Falling with a horse is quite another. A steeplechase rider knows the hazards well, and still pushes his mount and himself to the utmost. The full shot. There is a whisky like that.

A whisky that gives the full shot in taste and remarkably full flavour. Gold Stripe. It will put 100% full, laughing taste in your mouth with every sip. And quietly leave. Without biting. If you want a little honest taste, maybe you should try Gold Stripe. And get the full shot.

No Tourney Golf for Hogan Since '66

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Ben Hogan, four-time winner of the U.S. Open, twice winner of the Masters, and former PGA and British Open titlist, hasn't played a competitive round of golf since 1966.

Hogan retired from competitive golf in 1955. But he enjoyed playing in an occasional tournament in Florida, or the Masters or in Fort Worth at the Colonial Country Club. And even though the putting jitters affected his scores somewhat, he thrilled the tournament crowds with his shotmaking ability, which seemed to lose neither its distance nor accuracy.

But a combination of age—Hogan is 56—and physical problems have cast doubt on whether he will ever play seriously again.

Hogan underwent surgery last month in New Orleans. The doctor cut away calcium and some tissue from his shoulder. Hogan will return in six weeks for a checkup.

His left kneecap is ailing. But Hogan said the doctor advised no surgery for it—just more time to heal.

"It works against the cartilage," Hogan said. "When I move to my left side it hurts. So I back up on my right foot and that's not very good if you're going to play golf."

But the competitive fire hasn't dimmed.

There are those who remember the way Hogan fought back after a crippling automobile accident in 1949. First it was thought he wouldn't live. Then it was thought he would never play golf again.

Hogan's answer was three more National Open championships.

ANAHEIM (AP) — California Angels announced today the acquisition of 45-year-old knuckle-balling right-hander Hoyt Wilhelm in a player swap with the new Kansas City Royals of the American League. In exchange for the aging Wilhelm, the Royals receive utility infielder Ed Kirkpatrick and promising rookie catcher Dennis Paepke. Wilhelm has pitched in more games, 937, than any American League pitcher. He has a lifetime earned run average of 2.47 and a career record of 130-108 with three ball clubs.

MONTREAL (CP) — Herve Filion, who smashed the world harness racing record for the most wins in one season Tuesday, added five more wins to his credit at Blue Bonnets raceway Wednesday. Filion, in capturing five of the eight races he entered, brought his season total to 392 wins. The 28-year-old driver from Angers, Que., who says his goal is an even, will race Saturday night, Sunday and Monday at Blue Bonnets. Saturday afternoon he is scheduled to race in Toronto. The record he broke Tuesday night was set four years ago by Eddie Freundt of Dusseldorf, West Germany, who posted 384 wins in one season.

Phillips' Rink Swept Way for Change in Curling Code

By STERLING TAYLOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Alfie Phillips Jr. took the thin cigar from between his lips, looked out over the ice sheet at the Terrace Curling Club and smiled wryly.

"Yeh, we broke the system, cracked the establishment," he said wistfully. "I guess you could say we won in the end, and that was all we were ever trying to do."

Less than two years ago, Alfie was skip of the best curling rink in Canada. His foursome, including John Ross, Dave Manning and Keith Reilly, won the Canadian title with nine consecutive victories after an opening-game loss in the 11-rink round robin at Hull, Que.

The Toronto rink's climb to the title was the end result of a five-year program that gave them the advantage over every quartet in the country, through a combination of finesse and psychology.

Only one thing remained for them to accomplish—the breaking of the Ontario Curling Association's Code of Ethics that drew a fine line between amateurism and professionalism.

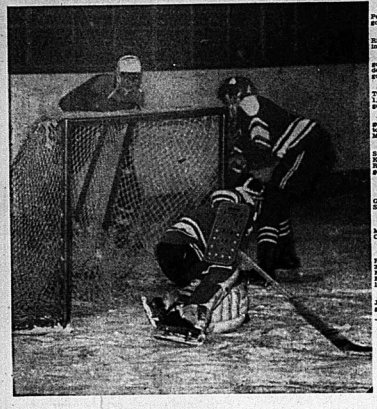
The Phillips rink, along with many curlers in the province, maintained that curling is a sport wherein everything is gained through personal outlay without benefit of sponsorship.

"We're the only ones that can do it," said Phillips after the victory in Hull. "If the Canadian champion can't get away with it, then it will never be broken."

The fact that Phillips was the Canadian champion was more significant in Ontario because he was the first national champion from that province in almost 30 years.

The Toronto rink got its chance just nine months later. Phillips and crew finished second in an international bonspiel and won prizes amounting to more than $3,000. The OCA code stipulated that no Ontario curler could receive a prize valued at more than $150.

"I couldn't keep mine, of course," says Phillips. "I had run afoul of the OCA previously and another suspension might mean I'd be out of curling for life."



He turned over his prize to a charity. The other members of his rink accepted and kept their prizes. They were suspended for a year.

The move forced the hand of the OCA, however, and the Code of Ethics, which now remains in force only in New Brunswick, was dropped from the rules in Ontario.

The victory was a bitter one for Phillips, however. Lost to him because of the suspensions were Ross, Manning and Reilly, and the rotund skip with the inevitable cigar was without a rink.

"You have to look for people whose personalities don't conflict."

The Phillips rink reached the top because of this quality. Ross was the original skip with Reilly third, Manning second and Alfie lead. Various combinations of those four were tried over the years until they settled on Phillips at skip, Ross third, Manning second and Reilly lead at the start of the 1966-67 season.

Gordie Howe's HOCKEY

It wasn't too many seasons back that hockey clubs carried only one goalie each. In the case of emergency, the trainer or assistant trainer would take over in the nets.

In some extreme cases, the assistant trainer on one club would go in the nets for the visiting team. That happened one night at Olympia in Detroit. Lefty Wilson, who is now our head trainer, was the assistant trainer then for the Red Wings and also spare or practice goalie.

Anyway, the Boston Bruins were playing in our building and their goalie was injured. The Bruins borrowed Lefty and he shut us out for one period and a half he worked. We have called him Mr. Zero ever since.

In those days, cities of hockey made much of these incidents. They compared it with baseball clubs borrowing pitchers. In some ways I suppose they were right.

With the increase in the National Hockey League schedules and the emphasis on speed and shooting and the use of the slap shot, the two-goalie system was introduced. Now I think we are rapidly approaching the three-goalie system.

This season the St. Louis Blues are carrying three goalies. The Toronto Maple Leafs are doing the same thing. The Red Wings did it for awhile. So, the day of three goalies may not be too far distant.

The attitude of goaltendgs has changed, too. Many of them were opposed to the two-goalie system. It was a blow to their pride if they were lifted from a game.

Now, like baseball pitchers, they accept the fact that they may be having a bad night. In other words the stigma is gone. A coach now can switch goalies, even in mid-game, and no feelings are ruffled.

One argument I've heard Bill Gadsby, our coach, voice against the three-goalie system is how to work them all in at practice. Two goalies work fine. But with three, one goalie must skate around while the other two take over the nets.

Sasky Foursome Upsets Northcott

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Pickering of Milestone, Sask., scored an upset 13-8 win over Canadian and world champion Ron Northcott of Calgary Wednesday night at the CBC international curling tournament.

But Northcott, with his rink of Fred Storey, Bernie Sparks and Barry Coleman, stayed in contention with a 6-5 win over Bruce Hudson of Winnipeg.

Alf Phillips Jr., of Toronto remained unbeaten in the week-long competition by defeating Alan Smith of Prince Edward Island 8-2. Defending champion Doug Wankel of Elbow, Sask., ousted Chuck Hay of Scotland 9-7.

It was a frustrating day for Northcott, who defeated Pickering in the Canadian championship final last year He was on the ice for more than eight hours to play two games which were being recorded on videotape for showing early next year.

"They said it was technical difficulties, but it's a bit much to take more than four hours to play a game," Northcott said in an interview.

"Even in the best competition, it takes only two to 2½ hours to play a 10-end game."

Northcott blamed himself for the loss to Pickering.

"We were tied 8-8 after eight ends," he said. "I got careless and gave him three in the 9th and then he got an easy two in the 10th."

Shulman Raps Conservatives for Neglect of Retarded Persons

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman began what appeared to be an attack on both Conservatives and Liberals in the Legislature Wednesday by accusing the Conservatives of "callousness" with their neglect of retarded persons in institutions.

Dr. Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) said he had visited 16 hospitals and other facilities for the retarded and discovered that "families with retarded children live in constant agony, yet they cannot get the children into an Ontario hospital."

He brought a 5½-year-old hopelessly retarded" girl into the chambers whom he said had been on a waiting list for admission to an Ontario hospital since birth.

He invited members to visit the child in the gallery "to see the horror this family goes through because this problem is handled so badly."

Dr. Shulman said a ward in Goderich had only two doctors for the hospital's 250 patients, and that it contained both emotionally disturbed and mentally-retarded children."

Because of insufficient supervision "pregnancies are common among the mentally retarded female patients." He said a deputy superintendent at one hospital told him there were more than 400 pregnancies among retarded, long-term patients of mental institutions last year.

"What of those 400 children? What chance do they have?"

He said supervisors at the Ontario Hospital school in Orillia had received letters that no MPP was to be allowed in future to "visit or question anyone on the wards."

Dr. Shulman angered Liberal members when he said he was the first MPP to visit Ontario hospitals in years.

James Trotter (L—Toronto Parkdale) replied: "I know these statements are just lies.

"I refer the member to Hansard for the years when he was working tooth and nail for the Tory party," Mr. Trotter said.

Dr. Shulman was a Conservative party worker before he joined the NDP.

In other Legislature business Wednesday:

—Dr. Shulman said the St. Lawrence tuberculosis sanitorium in Cornwall is to be closed because of a clerical error which said the daily cost for a patient was $37.31 when it actually is $14.80.

—Education Minister Davis said the school year is to be extended in Ontario high schools next spring because of declining emphasis on final examinations. He said one factor in the decision to extend the school year to June 13, with final exams to start June 16, was the elimination last year of Grade 13 departmental examinations.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

Sopha Objects to Price of Report on History

TORONTO (CP) — Elmer Sopha (L—Sudbury) objected in the legislature Wednesday to a price of $2 a copy having been placed on a provincially commissioned report on the teaching of Canadian history in the schools.

The report by A. B. Hodgetts was severely critical of present courses in Ontario and other provinces.

Mr. Sopha told the house that had the report been laudatory of present teaching methods, Education Minister William Davis "would have given it away like hot cakes and had his picture in the front."

"It is a damning indictment of you in every way," he shouted to Mr. Davis as he sat down.

The Liberal member made his comments after Mr. Davis told Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough) that the controversial report was discussed at the last meeting of the council of ministers of education and would likely be a topic of discussion at the next meeting, planned for Feb. 9 and 10.

Mr. Pitman had asked whether the education department had accepted the report's recommendations and would "provide leadership to other provinces in implementing these recommendations."

Sudbury Strike Possible Member Tells Legislature

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman told the legislature Wednesday that a violent strike is possible in Sudbury unless the Ontario government forces International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. to reduce the amount of sulphur dioxide emitted from its operations there.

Dr. Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) showed the legislature a graph which he said contains a continuous measurement of air pollution in the Copper Cliff smelter of Inco, just west of Sudbury.

He said the graph showed that on days when the inspector from the provincial mines department was making his inspection of the facilities, the amount of sulphur dioxide was negligible.

On other occasions, the amount emitted in areas where employees of the firm work is well above the danger level, he said.

"Unless government steps in immediately I fear an eruption in Sudbury that will shake the province," he said during the throne speech debate.

Liberals Stand Behind Planned Rules Change

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal government stood firm Wednesday against another Commons onslaught aimed at its move to gain the right to allocate time for parliamentary debates.

David Lewis, the NDP parliamentary leader, called on the government to shelve the proposal for this session to see how co-operation works in planning House business.

He promised his party's co-operation in allocating debating time through free discussion on an all-party proceedings committee.

If it doesn't work, the NDP would be prepared to listen to government proposals to tighten the rules.

Conservatives, the official Opposition, showed their solidarity on the issue with the NDP by applauding Mr. Lewis vigorously throughout his attack on the government measure.

A former Commons Speaker, Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) said the time-allocation rule would jeopardize the role of the Speaker, who would become the servant of the government, not the House as under the present system.

Despite the opposition arguments, Donald Macdonald, the government House leader, gave no hint of a pullback on the proposal, part of a rules-reform package for Parliament.

Mr. Lambert called the time proposal "the most vicious, dastardly attack" ever perpetrated on Parliament. It would give "unbridled licence" to the Liberal government.

Mr. Lewis said this kind of power cannot be given to "a small group of men to control, subvert and destroy Parliament."

It was the second day of debate on the rules package, with the main hangup on the time-allocation proposal. Opposition spokesmen have made it clear most of the rest of the package is more or less acceptable.

Mr. Lewis said the government knew the opposition could never accept the time-allocation idea, yet included it in the package. The government was responsible for the time taken up by the resulting debate.

Also in the Commons, Mr. Trudeau disclosed he had begun polling provincial premiers by telegram about postponing the Dec. 16-18 constitutional conference. Premier Bertrand of Quebec, ill in hospital, had requested the delay.

Finance Minister Benson rejected a suggestion by Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver Kingsway) for a special inquiry into higher car prices.

In the Senate, Senator Grattan O'Leary (PC—Ontario) said the job of the upper house is to protect the country from the growing power of the prime minister and the executive branch of the government in general and the awesome power of bureaucracy.

PM Picks Yule Card UNICEF

OTTAWA (CP) — On the outside cover it looks like the cheery UNICEF greeting card many Canadians have chosen to send this Christmas. Inside, however, it's signed by the prime minister.

Inside, season's greetings are given in the UN's five official languages: English, French, Russian, Spanish and Chinese.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield and his wife, Mary, have picked a formal card with a plain white cover embossed in gold with the Canadian coat of arms.

Inside, opposite season's greetings in English and French, is a photograph of the couple standing before a fireplace at Stornoway, the Opposition leader's official residence in Ottawa.

Governor-General and Mrs. Roland Michener have chosen a most elegant card carrying a breath of spring rather than a winter scene.

Inside the plain white cover, reflected only by a small gold crown and the words "Government House, Ottawa" in English and French, is a large color photograph of the vice-regal couple by Malak of Ottawa.

Health Survey Urged

TORONTO (CP) — The health of every person living in the Port Maitland area should be surveyed by independent physicians with knowledge of fluoride poisoning in humans, a fluorosis specialist says in a letter read in the legislature Wednesday.

The most seriously-affected individuals should be relocated in other areas and there should be "adequate restrictions" through legislation on housing and cultivation of edibles in the immediate vicinity of the Electric Reduction Co. plant there, said Dr. George Waldbott of Detroit.

His letter, addressed to Fred Burr (NDP—Sandwich-Riverside) was read during the throne speech debate by Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park).

It claimed that of seven Port Maitland residents interviewed by Dr. Waldbott Nov. 10, 1968, seven "were adversely affected by fluoride."

Fluoride pollution in the area, adjacent to Lake Erie, was investigated this year by a special commission established by the Ontario government.

The commission report, published Tuesday, said fluoride poisoning was found in farm animals and crops but there was no danger to humans in the area.

"The key finding is that fluorides in that area are not a human danger," Dr. Shulman said. "I fear and others fear this may not be true."

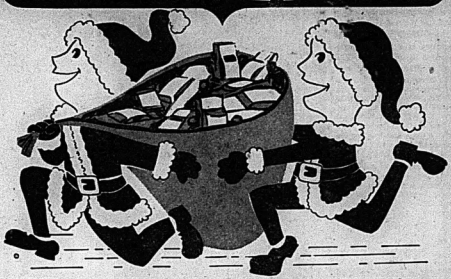
Dunnville Image Damaged



DUNNVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Charles Lundy said Wednesday the findings of a government-appointed committee that human health was never endangered by industrial pollution in this area came too late to repair damage already done to the community's image by bad publicity.

Mayor Lundy said the committee report, tabled Tuesday in the Ontario legislature, "doesn't do a great deal of good now."

He said the news media created what he described as bad publicity with reports last year of a pollution threat from fluorides manufactured at a fertilizer plant in nearby Port Maitland, about 25 miles south of Hamilton.

Crime In Ports Problem

TORONTO (CP) — As highly organized criminals step up activity in North American ports, port officials have a right to keep the public out of harbor areas and demand identity cards from waterfront workers, an insurance-company executive said Wednesday.

Henry Murray of Toronto was speaking at a two-day symposium on the problems of security in North American ports. The symposium was attended by representatives of the RCMP, the FBI, the United States Naval Investigation Service, the New York Waterfront Commission and harbor police from a dozen American and Canadian cities.

Mr. Murray said it has been obvious since 1964 that crime [illegible] were operating in the port of Montreal and "that an extreme atmosphere of fear and intimidation existed in the harbor area."

It would take many years for Montreal to get over bad publicity from the thefts. Insurance companies had diverted traffic away from Montreal by influencing their agents to avoid its use or by increasing premium rates or refusing coverage.

While the port of Toronto had gained a reputation as "clean," the port of Vancouver had "almost complete lack of security."

Witness Silent On Loans

TORONTO (CP) — A key witness at a public inquiry into Ontario's produce industry heeded his lawyer's advice Wednesday and refused to answer a question about receiving loans from suppliers.

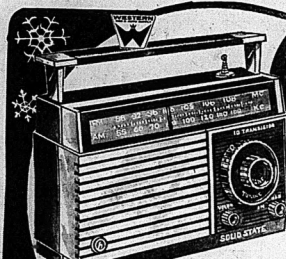
Hyman Persow, 56, dismissed as produce sales manager for the Ontario division of Steinberg's Ltd. for accepting favors from suppliers, had previously admitted borrowing $2,500 in 1963 from Arthur J. Richmond, president and owner of Levy Produce Ltd. of Toronto.

Questioned Wednesday by M. A. Craig, on loans from suppliers, Robert Eisen, Mr. Persow's lawyer, protested that the question was too broad and said Mr. Craig had embarked on a fishing expedition.

But D. E. Williams, inquiry chairman, supported Mr. Craig and told Mr. Eisen:

"We are trying to determine the kind of practices that have been going on in the industry. You called it a fishing expedition. I don't think it is. It calls a yes or no answer."

After a consultation, Mr. Persow said: "On the advice of my counsel I refuse to answer the question."



Mr. Craig said no rule of evidence had been breached by his question and he suggested that counsel and client reconsider their position.

Mr. Williams and Mr. Craig later agreed to put the matter over until today.

Ship May Earn Money Needed To Convert It Into Museum

BELFAST (CP) — Sam Campbell, the Ulsterman behind the Clydevalley's voyage to Northern Ireland from Canada, said Wednesday night the 83-year-old vessel may yet see further service as an active ship.

If decided on, such service would be designed to earn money needed in the work of converting the former gun runner into a floating museum, Campbell said in an interview.

But some of his thoughts were on current political problems in Northern Ireland rather than long-past history.

Campbell voiced devotion to the cause for which the Clydevalley smuggled arms and ammunition in 1914—that of Northern Ireland's continued connection with Britain.

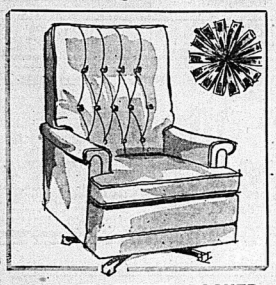
He denied the allegation by Prime Minister Terence O'Neill of Ulster that William Craig, the now-dismissed home affairs minister, had sought to play down the ties with London in favor of a "go it alone" course for the North.

And Campbell, an organizer for the governing Unionist party, said many people in Craig's constituency are "very sore" about the dismissal.

As a result, O'Neill's future now is in "the boiling pot," said Campbell, a resident of nearby Whitehead.

He echoed the Craig line in asserting that the Northern Irish "don't want to be told what to do" by Prime Minister Wilson of Britain.

The 58-year-old Campbell reported that "everything's fine" aboard the Clydevalley, now at anchor 70 miles across the North Channel between Ireland and Scotland.



It is due to receive a triumphant reception Saturday at Larne, 25 miles north of Belfast and part of Craig's constituency.

The ship was rescued from the scrappers in Canada by Campbell and others anxious to see her become a museum for mementoes of the fight for Northern Ireland's continued inclusion in the United Kingdom.

Campbell wants to see Conservatives back in power at Westminster. He believes that such a development would make Northern Ireland's internal self-government an easier process.

Oshawa Man Plays Santa To 4,500 Retarded Children

OSHAWA (CP) — Andrew Van Lith has a 12-year-old retarded son and a "sense of obligation" about other youngsters in the same plight.

It is a sense that has driven the 42-year-old auto worker during two years of "total devotion" to making and collecting toys for 4,500 retarded youngsters at Ontario institutions in Orillia and Smiths Falls.

His enthusiasm has spilled over to his two daughters, friends, women's and youth groups, and fellow workers and supervisors at the General Motors of Canada plant where he works.

Wednesday night Mr. Van Lith played super-Santa, handing over $3,000 worth of bicycles, tricycles, go-carts and other toys to Dr. H. F. Frank, superintendent at Smiths Falls, where his son, Paul is a patient.

"I like to think of those little kids waking up on Christmas with presents by their beds," Mr. Van Lith said in an interview.

Two years ago the Van Liths realized they could no longer keep Paul at home and took him to Dr. Frank at Smiths Falls.

"I asked Dr. Frank what I could do for the other children."

The doctor asked Mr. Van Lith, a tool and die maker, to make a dozen bicycles.

With help from friends, he collected bicycles and bike parts, enough to fill the order for Christmas.

"The second year I got permission from the board of control in Oshawa to go to the city dump on cleanup week. That gave me enough old toys to keep me busy for a year."

Two GM engineers, R. F. Spooner and John Bolton, have designed a special six-foot go-cart adapted for handicapped children. Parts were donated by the company.

Next year Mr. Van Lith will do little more than supervise the toy project because he expects to devote most of his time to his newly-elected position as president of the Oshawa Retarded Children's Association.

But friends will carry on the project.

Montreal Young Canadians Say They Want 'Democracy'

MONTREAL (CP) — About 30 volunteers for the Company of Young Canadians who are occupying the CYC's downtown Montreal headquarters say they are asking for "simple democracy."

The field workers are occupying the headquarters in protest against lack of communication and consultation between the CYC's executive and its workers in the field.

"They can't logically refuse our demands," one CYC volunteer said at a news conference, "because we are merely asking that they (the executive) apply the principles upon which this organization was built."

The workers took over the company's offices here Monday afternoon. They claim the 77 volunteers who make up the Quebec division of the CYC are fully supporting the occupation.

Meanwhile, the eight-man executive board told a news conference the occupation was a minor affair which would be resolved before the end of the week.

The occupiers want election of CYC executives, consultation with volunteers in decision-making and a greater say for the volunteers in drawing up the annual budget.

"The communication problem is ridiculous," said one worker. "Sometimes it takes days to straighten out a problem with a director."

The volunteers also complain that fellow workers have been fired without their knowledge. About 30 volunteers had been dismissed or had tendered their resignations in the last few months.

Cubans Give Hijacked Celebrities Plush Treatment

MIAMI (AP) — Passengers aboard a hijacked jetliner ate steak in Cuba Wednesday while their calm hijacker and his woman companion waited for 6½ hours in a room at Havana airport before they were taken away by Cuban authorities.

The crew members and all but two of the 32 passengers aboard the inaugural flight of a Nashville-to-Miami Trans - World Airlines route returned to Miami Wednesday night aboard separate planes.

Two passengers, country singer Tex Ritter and professional golfer Mason Rudolph, said the Cubans fed the stranded travellers grapefruit juice, beer, steaks and sandwiches during their nine-hour stay.

"You had the feeling they were milking it for what it was worth," Ritter said after returning to Miami. "At the end of the day you decided they were pretty nice people. I think that's what they had in mind."

Rudolph was bound for Lehigh Acres, Fla., where he stages an annual three-day exhibition. Ritter was on a five-day personal appearance tour in South Florida.

Ritter said FBI agents showed him pictures of Eldridge Cleaver, fugitive Black Panther leader, and three other men But he could identify none of them as the hijacker.

Max Morris, a salesman who sat in front of the hijacker's companion, and hostess Susan Brandt said the woman appeared to be about six months pregnant.

About the same time the hijacked plane was flying between Nashville and Havana, Cleaver's wife, Kathleen, was being interviewed by a New York Times reporter.

Officially," Mrs. Cleaver said, "the last time I saw Eldridge was Nov. 24. But unofficially, I saw him last night."

Mrs. Cleaver, 23, said her husband did not intend to return to Cuba from San Francisco, adding: "He'll be assassinated if he goes back. They tried to kill him three times before, in prison. . . .

She scoffed at publis.ed reports that she hid withdrawn $33,000 from a bank last week for her husband's use. "I've got $45 in the bank and $30 'n my pocket," she said.

Cleaver, 33, earned a substantial sum of money from his book, Soul On Ice, which he wrote while in prison. He has not been seen publicly since Nov. 24, when he fled to avoid being returned to jail as a parole violator.

FERRY PLAN SET

VICTORIA (CP) — Lawyer Hugh Henderson said a company is now being formed to build and operate a $5,000,000 cable ferry across Burrard Inlet, separating Vancouver from North and West Vancouver.

Stargazer Surveys Heavens

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The new Stargazer satellite took its first look at the heavens Wednesday and American astronomers liked what it saw—a pair of bright, giant stars named Mizaplacidus and Iota Carina.

At 4:44 a.m. EST, as the Orbiting Astronomical Observatory soared high over Tennessee, a radio signal opened a sunshade on top of the satellite, exposing a cluster of seven telescopes.

Another signal from the United States space agency's Goddard Space Flight Centre aimed the telescopes at Mizaplacidus and they lingered there for several hours before shifting to Iota Carina.

"We're receiving excellent data," reported a Goddard spokesman. "For the first time we've obtained ultraviolet data from these stars."

OAO was launched Saturday from Cape Kennedy into a 480-mile-high orbit, placing it above the earth's atmosphere which acts like a brick wall in preventing ultraviolet and other wave lengths of stellar energy from reaching telescopes on earth.

Jean-Guy Cardinal Is Named No. 2 Man in Quebec Government

QUEBEC (CP) — A man-cured man who has caught the eye of the image makers in the ruling Union Nationale party has been catapulted into the No. 2 position in the Quebec government.

Jean-Guy Cardinal, 43, of Montreal, Wednesday was named vice-president of the Union Nationale cabinet, ranking next to Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, a hospital suffering from "heart troubles".

Mr. Cardinal, former dean of law at the University of Montreal, has made a spectacular ascent in a political career that only began Oct. 31, 1967, when the late premier Daniel Johnson recruited him to serve as education minister.

He was elected in Mr. Johnson's former riding of Bagot in a Dec. 4 byelection and displayed a mental elasticity that inspires bravos among the late premier's political buddies.

More than a year after his entry into politics, Mr. Cardinal's political thinking, especially his constitutional views on Canada and Quebec, remain a big mystery. Many MLAs here feel he doesn't have any political ideology.

In fact, Mr. Cardinal once admitted that he didn't even vote for the Union Nationale party in the 1966 general election. He said he cast his ballot in Montreal Outremont for Jerome Choquette, the Liberal MLA.

Mr. Cardinal was brought into the Union Nationale government because of his reputation as an administrator at the University of Montreal and as general secretary of Trust General du Canada.

He came in with Marcel Faribault, the former president of Trust General who served briefly as Mr. Johnson's constitutional adviser before failing spectacularly in the 1968 federal election as Quebec Progressive Conservative lieutenant.

Mr. Cardinal was assigned to apply some business techniques to the biggest-spending government department, but the administrative-political soon was being promoted by some supporters as a possible heir-apparent to an ailing Daniel Johnson.

The Bagot byelection, along with another Dec. 4 byelection in Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace, was accompanied by what one Union Nationale insider described as "a deadly power struggle" in the backrooms of the Union Nationale.

A Union Nationale informant involved in the Cardinal campaign said in an interview that Mr. Bertrand's backers were fighting against Mr. Cardinal in Bagot and Mr. Cardinal's backers were combatting Mr. Bertrands' campaigners in N.D.G.

He said Bagot backroom people were peeved at Mr. Bertrand for exposing Mr. Cardinal to Liberal criticisms during sessions of the legislative assembly's educational committee held during the campaign.

The same source said Cardinal forces struck back at Mr. Bertrand by allying with the small force of caucus nationalists who opposed Mr. Bertrand's campaign to win the English-language vote in the Montreal riding.

In mid-campaign, Mr. Bertrand was forced to retreat on promises and postpone introduction of the language bill to resolve the smouldering St. Leonard crisis. Mr. Bertrand's personal plea for Union Nationale support was rejected by the NDG voters.

Linked with Mr. Cardinal was Jean Loiselle, 37-year-old Montrealer who was Daniel Johnson's "counsellor in social communications." He is among key figures in the team of political advisers formed by Mr. Johnson who continue to work for Mr. Bertrand.

Last week a source close to Mr. Bertrand said some Johnson appointees surrounding the new premier were doing their best to trip up Mr. Bertrand.

"They made a God out of Mr. Johnson," he said. "Now they want to package Cardinal."

But the people accused deny these accusations, describing the situation as normal in a political party where the leader is serving on an interim basis and has not stated whether he would like to continue.

Mr. Bertrand said Monday night the question of whether or not a leadership convention will be held will be decided in mid-March. Mr. Bertrand's ailment could accelerate the process.

A senior man in the Union Nationale organization said he thinks Mr. Cardinal will support Mr. Bertrand if the 55-year-old premier decides he is well enough to continue as party leader.

Asked whether he would be a leadership candidate, Mr. Cardinal said he would make "the decision that is the best" if the party decided that a leadership convention should be held.

Comments like that make Mr. Cardinal's admirers think he is the man to be groomed for the ambiguous and ambivalent role played so successfully in Quebec politics by the late Mr. Johnson.

MOIRA — Mr. and Mrs. Angus Mumby spent last week with his sister, Mrs. George McCurdy at Springbrook after the passing of Mr. Mumby's brother-in-law, Charlie Lough.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hawley were guests on Friday of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Holden.

Mr. and Mrs. McHood and children of Bayridge, Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. John Cousins and family of Fort Credit, Ontario were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Scott.

IT WORKS BECAUSE IT SWINGS!

That's the principle behind the pendulum clock, invented in 1657. Earlier clock were found only in cathedrals and public squares; today it is a rare home that doesn't contain at least one time-keeping device. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are gone and the modern world depends upon accurate clocks.

If the days of your older clock have gone in your home, chances are that a home somewhere in the world would love to use it.

Cysts in Breasts Can Be Painful

By Dr. George C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please discuss cystic mastitis. Does one get rid of it, or does cancer eventually develop? — R. P.

I realize that the term "cystic mastitis" is generally used for this problem of cysts forming in the breast, but the better term is "fibrocystic disease of the breast." Mastitis actually is quite a different ailment, inflammation of the breast but with or without the presence of cysts.

Fibrocystic disease is common enough to cause a good deal of worry, not to mention the discomfort it can cause ranging from mere tenderness to a good deal of pain in others.

The ailment is an enlargement or encysting of the milk-producing glands of the breast. These cysts (clogged glands) may or may not reach a size which the patient identifies as a lump. And most women are well alerted to be on watch for a lump in the breast because it is a sign which may mean cancer.

Thus, thousands of women rush off to the doctor — quite rightly — when they find such cysts. Usually, and not surprisingly, most of them are scared to death that it means cancer.

When the trouble proves to be a cyst, it is a great relief — but the cysts still should be watched, and in some cases treated.

These cysts ordinarily are not cancerous. They should be followed closely, however, because cancer is known to develop in them, although in a very small percentage of cases.

This fibrocystic disease, besides being in some extent unsightly (because of the lumps) can become painful. The cysts are more likely to become painful during menstrual periods.

Aspirating (with drawing through a hollow needle) the fluid in such a cyst is sometimes done for two purposes. Examination of the fluid helps determine whether it is benign or cancerous. It also relieves the pressure and discomfort.

Several other methods are employed to decide whether a lump is a cyst or a cancer: cysts usually are moveable: cancer is more firmly fixed and moves very little.

Cysts are likely to be multiple; cancer starts in a single spot (although, of course, it later spreads).

A group of cysts may appear to be a single lump, in which case removal and microscopic examination may be necessary to be sure. Mammography (X-ray examination of the breast) also is proving increasingly helpful in diagnosis.

Thus, to answer today's specific question, cancer does not as a rule develop from or in the cysts, although occasionally it may. So it pays to remain on guard.

When cysts become sufficiently troublesome, they can be removed surgically, but this does not guarantee that one will be "rid of the trouble." Unfortunately, cysts tend to recur — some women are subject to this type of trouble, while others are not.

It is a matter of adult maturity: if cysts are going to develop, they usually do so before menopause rather than after.

• • •

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our son is engaged to a girl who said her menstrual cycle first came when she was about 12. What effect might this have on bearing children, or on the children themselves? She seems now to be in excellent health. — D. E. W.

The big danger is that the disease sometimes causes heart damage. Other than that there is no reason why it should have any bearing on having babies, or on the babies.

• • •

Few Real Surprises

'The Nixon Cabinet' Smooth TV Production

NEW YORK (AP) — The special program, which one of the networks billboarded simply as The Nixon Cabinet, was carried off smoothly and with split-second timing Wednesday night.

President-elect Nixon informally addressed a roomful of appointees and their families in a Washington hotel and the country via television and radio to introduce the dozen members of his Cabinet.

"Speculation by reporters on the appointments had been so widespread and so shrewd that there were few real surprises in the list.

The future president, standing smilingly before a blue background, apparently spoke without notes other than the names of his choices. He spoke generally and glowingly of each man's abilities and deliberately avoided a routine biographical run-down on them. He ad-libbed the announcements to such a point, in fact, that he apparently overlooked the name of the future commerce secretary although he gave him a fine send-off.

Television coverage by the three major TV networks of what ABC's new White House correspondent, Tom Jarriel, later called "a slick, formated half-hour for the home folks," raised hob with late evening entertainment programming, and left all three with an empty half hour to fill.

All networks decided to handle the void in the same, familiar fashion. They called in their correspondents for round-table discussions and of-the-cuff analysis.

Since most of the more important appointments were pretty well known in advance, the experts had been able to do a little preliminary thinking about viewpoints and could talk rather fluently about the men, their style of operation and make some guesses about the problems they would be tackling.

Liveliest discussion came from ABC's roundtable, led by Frank Reynolds with William Lawrence, John Scali and Joseph C. Harsch joining in. They were not always in agreement and tended to debate, which is enlightening.

Marmora

Council Opposes Station Closing

The county of Hastings will support the submission of Marmora village in opposing the Canadian National Railways intention of closing out the Marmora railway station.

The motion called for county support to be given to the Marmora submission or to that of any other county municipality making an appeal.

A department of transport notice read earlier in the session stating noted that a public hearing would be held in Belleville on Dec. 18 to hear submissions opposing the closing of railway stations at Marmora, Madoc, Stirling and Frankford.

Marmora Reeve William Shannon was not at the session but he has made no secret of the fact that his village intends to oppose the closing of Marmora station.

He said more than a million dollars annually was collected in freight charges at Marmora.

Madoc village reeve Thomas Burnside said he was not sure what action his council would take although personally he felt closing of their station was a foregone conclusion.

"It's the new concept of central control," he said. "They assure us there will be no loss of service but personally I question this."

He asked however that the county support Marmora village in its submission to the hearing.

Warden Calvin White and Hungerford Reeve R. Clarence Graham as chairman of the county industrial commission will represent the county at the hearing.

Cottage Use Rezoning Asked

AMELIASBURG — The township council is making application to the Ontario Municipal Board for a change in the zoning of property at the west end of Consecon Lake to summer cottage use from agricultural.

Property owner Delbert Bush was given to understand his request would be considered along with neighbors if they desired to have their waterfront property rezoned.

Municipal Rent Curbs Possible

TORONTO (CP) — A change in the Municipal Act which would permit municipalities to set up a system of rent control within their jurisdiction is being considered by the provincial government.

A source close to the cabinet said Wednesday the consideration follows pressure on the government from the two opposition parties and several municipalities.

Farmers May Get Relief

AMELIASBURG — Relief may be forthcoming to the owners of 10 farms in the Albury district affected by flooding in the wet seasons.

Howard Weese and neighbor, Summers Dawson were advised ADA would be contacted for financial assistance in deepening a ditch along the east side of the Weese sideroad.

Council was told that excess water would be carried directly to the swamp south instead of flowing north and turning west and spreading out across several farms on a round about drainage course.

Florist Reports Fishing Is Good

John A. Weese, prominent local florist and former member of the Belleville Utilities Commission for many years, has made the Fort Myers news for his fishing prowess.

Currently on a holiday in the Sunshine State, Mr. Weese with three others one day recently caught a 9-pound gray snapper, three lane snapper, a yellowtail snapper, three hog fish and 10 porgy.

"The fishing down here is really good," Mr. Weese writes. "We go out about once a week on the Gulf of Mexico about 30 miles offshore. Other times we try our luck on the Caloosahatchee River and always come back with a fairly good catch, mostly snook, sheephead and the odd trout."

Engineer and Fireman Blamed For Derailment of CNR Train

OAKVILLE (CP) — A coroner's jury Wednesday blamed a CNR engineer and fireman for the derailment of a passenger train Sept. 16, in which Mrs. George Cavanaugh, 56, of London, Ont., was killed.

The all-male jury said that the engineer, Duncan McEachern, 61, and Roy Shier, train fireman, both of Sarnia failed to identify warning signals in the fog and did not slow the train to a safe operating speed for a stop.

Constable Murray Thomas of the Oakville town police said maximum visibility at the time of the accident was 300 feet.

The train, carrying 82 passengers was en route to Toronto from Sarnia when it jumped the tracks at a switch near Chartwell Road. Eight other persons were injured and damage was estimated at $200,000.

Police believe Mrs. Cavanaugh was walking between coaches when the train jumped the tracks.

Mr. McEachern, whose right arm was amputated above the elbow as a result of the mishap, testified that as he approached the Kerr Street signals there was no warning for him to slow the train. The signals are about two miles from the scene of the accident.

Testifying under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act, Mr. McEachern said he approached the Chartwell signals at 65 miles an hour and suddenly found that the train was being diverted from the north to the south track.

He said it was impossible to negotiate the switchover at that speed.

Mr. Shier said he did not see the Kerr Street signals, but added that he heard Mr. McEachern call out that they were clear.

He said he saw the Chartwell Road signals through the fog at the same time as Mr. McEachern and heard him cry out: "Oh God, what have they done to us."

The operation of the signals and the routing of trains between Burlington East and Toronto is controlled from the centralized traffic control board at Maple, Ont., north of Toronto.

Gordon Ramsay, a CNR dispatcher at Maple, said that the train was rerouted after a GO (Government of Ontario) train had struck and killed a pedestrian.

R. N. Gill, regional signal inspector said graphs of the operation — how that the signal and the rerouting were punched out 12 minutes before the train reached Kerr Street.

Mr. Gill said that after the derailment the signals were checked and found to be operating satisfactorily. There was no reported malfunction before or after the accident.

Fanatics Are Irreverent

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

The ancient ages remained immature because they looked backward toward a mythical Golden Age and refused to face the future; the modern age remains immature because it looks only forward and refuses to benefit from learning only what the sad lesson of history can teach us.

* * *

Temperament and environment work together like a reciprocating engine: First we decide where we want to live, and then where we live determines what we become.

* * *

Although claiming reverence, most fanatics are examples of arrogant irreverence as Finley Peter Dunne put it long ago: "A fanatic is a man that does what he think the Lord would do if He knew the facts of the case."

People live by emotions, not by ideas; the generality of mankind uses ideas only post hoc, to justify or explain away decisions based largely on emotions.

Why are children so inordinately fond of riddles? Because it is the only form of interrogation to which they know the answers, and their parents do not; a riddle is a child's way of getting back at the condescension of adults.

* * *

The most interesting recent example of mass psychology was public reaction to Jacqueline Kennedy's marriage: First, the public creates a figure in its own mind, and then blames the real person for failing to behave like the public image.

* * *

A majority of the American population now occupies only one per cent of the nation's total land area — and we act surprised that such unprecedented and unplanned congestion has resulted in higher crime, more dirt, greater social friction, and intolerable political tensions, preferring to blame the breakdown on "government" rather than on our own chaotic and anarchistic social pattern of life.

* * *

Why can I remember a line from a poem I haven't thought of for 20 years, and not the name of the person I sat next to at a luncheon last week? Not because of a "bad memory;" surely, but because of a "selective memory," which unconsciously rejects or retains what it wants to.

* * *

It is a half-truth to say that one can know a foreign country only by living in it; one can know a foreign country only by living in it at its own standard of living, not at ours.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For December 13

Your birthday today: Your coming year will be crowded with freak circumstances, reversals, and gain or loss unrelated to your efforts. Most of these quirks straighten out after a few weeks, so enjoy the effects. One chance you should not take is in regard to personal hazard. Today's natives tend to be keen judges of human nature.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): This is one Friday the 13th that promises to live up to dramatic tradition associating it with violent or drastic events. Use every precaution against fire and accident!

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Adjust to changes likely to greet you on arrival today. Romantic interests move up to the fore in your life now . . . and thrive.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): You are strongly attracted by new artistic people. Home and family conditions are rather upset. Restraint turns out to be essential: rise to the occasion.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Strange, surprising, or shocking turns bring you excitement. Go slowly as haste would set up errors for later trouble. You have the chance to really enjoy romantic enterprises, but be extra discreet.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Paradoxically mixed good and bad influences pound in. Some matters are just wonderful, some disastrous. Forced rearrangement will finally be for the better.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Seldom are extremes so closely coupled. Love and money can both blossom profusely or collapse, according to subtle factors of your prior choices —and your luck.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Excitement causes exertion. Vigorous emotional experience occurs, in a surprising turn of events. The results range from good to excellent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Reactions of others must remain a puzzle since nothing they do matches with logic. Avoid haste, confusion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Stay with safety-first habits. Impulsive moves are the big temptation. Romance offers lovely promises (toward an undefined future.)

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Checking (and double-checking) are essential. Unsettled conditions cloud the future. Romance comes in strong and clear.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): New attractions and brilliant ideas flash! And blink from odd sources! Romantic interests are full of stress. Patience will work it out.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Marital stresses get worse. Joint finances thrive by some not intended quirk. Stick with your regular duties; this helps in your private life beyond anything you could plan.

Pan American Jet Lost off Caracas

Elmer Bexter

Venezuelans See Explosion

CARACAS (CP)—Five Canadian passengers from the Montreal, Windsor and Toronto areas were aboard a Pan American 707 jet that exploded over the Caribbean and plunged into the water Thursday night 16 miles from Venezuela's international airport north of Caracas.

A Civil Aeronautics official said there is no hope of any survivors.

The aircraft was shattered into thousands of pieces.

Ten bodies were recovered, all badly mutilated, the spokesman said.

Fifty-one persons were reported aboard, 42 passengers and a crew of nine, including a trainee stewardess. A search for survivors was continuing, but none was reported.

Seven bodies were reported recovered before dawn.

Pan American identified the Canadians as Otto Sazek of Toronto, Lewish Lariviere of Montreal and a Windsor, Ont., trio with the same surname—Serko Eudemishlian, Master Eudemishlian and Ana Eudemishlian.

Among wreckage recovered were interior cabin fittings and some life rafts that inflate automatically upon contact with water.

The big jet was ending a non-stop flight from New York to Caracas. The airport control tower said it lost contact after the plane reported its approach one minute before it was due to land at 10 p.m.

"I heard a strong noise and then I saw a red ball fall towards the sea," said a guard at the La Guaira naval base, 12 miles north of Caracas.

Other residents near the shore also reported seeing the explosion. The wreckage was reported scattered over a wid area.

Radio Aeroporto, a commercial station at the airport, said the pilot reported it was in trouble before its radio went dead, but an airline spokesman said the pilot radioed the airport only "no maintenance," a routine transmission indicating no service would be required on the ground.

The plane had left New York's Kennedy Airport at 4:40 p.m.

Among the passengers was Mrs. Olga Antonetti de Dugarte, who had been Miss Venezuela in 1962. A resident of New York, she and her four-year-old daughter were coming to spend Christmas with relatives.

Hong Kong Flu Hits U.S. Cities

NEW YORK (AP) — The spreading Hong Kong flu epidemic has forced the closing of some schools and colleges in the United States and raised absenteeism in business and industry.

The new strain of flu has spread from Los Angeles — where officials say almost 300,000 adults and children are absent from work or school—to New York City where Adelphi University in suburban Garden City cancelled undergraduate classes until Jan. 5. The Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point began Christmas vacation eight days early after about half the 728 midshipmen were stricken.

The National Communicable Disease Centre in Atlanta, Ga., said deaths from pneumonia and influenza have exceeded normal expectations and termed the flu outbreak an epidemic.

China Ready For Meeting

HONG KONG (Reuters) — China now may be ready to consider a meeting between British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart and Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi, The Star says.

In a front-page story, the popular English-language Hong Kong newspaper quotes its own unidentified sources inside China as saying Peking leaders have changed their minds since rejecting a secret proposal for a foreign ministers meeting some months ago.

"And our sources say they think a chance may come out of Mr. Stewart's recent promise to review the Anthony Grey case to correct their mistake," it said.

"They say China, as much as Britain, now wants a solution to Reuters correspondent Anthony Grey's house arrest which the Reds link with political detainees and convicted Red rioters in Hong Kong," The Star says.

"The Star's sources say Peking realises Grey's release at Christmas could end the bad image China is getting from publicity around the world on Grey's barbaric treatment," the newspaper

Coalition Takes Over In Italy

ROME (Reuters) — A coalition government backed by a three-party majority in Parliament took office today after seven months of political instability in Italy.

President Giuseppe Saragat swore in Premier Mariano Rumor, a 53-year-old Christian Democrat, and a 21-member cabinet including Socialists, Christian Democrats and Republicans.

Czech Workers Threaten Strike

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovak workers today threatened a general strike for the first time since the Soviet invasion in August.

Prace, newspaper of trade unions, carried a letter from Prague workers threatening the use of "all means available to the working class, including a general strike," if the progressive president of the National Assembly, Josef Smrkovsky, is ousted from the Communist party leadership.

The paper reviewed recent Soviet actions snubbing Smrkovsky and expressed fear that his position was being undermined.

University students also planned strikes and other protest actions if Smrkovsky is ousted.

Constitutional Parley Postponement Arranged

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal-provincial constitutional conference scheduled to open here Monday has been cancelled and Prime Minister Trudeau has indicated it should be convened early in February.

Meanwhile, Finance Minister Benson told the Commons Thursday that the federal-provincial conference of finance ministers scheduled for next Thursday likely will go ahead.

The constitutional conference was called off at this time because of the sudden illness of Quebec Premier Jean Jacques Bertrand.

However, in Victoria, British Columbia Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Thursday he will release to the [illegible] use B.C. position at the constitution requested by Premier Bertrand who is in hospital undergoing heart tests.

Mr. Trudeau told reporters Wednesday that the conference probably would have to be put over to early in February,

"because we think these things before Parliament . . . are so important."

Mr. Bennett was alone in his refusal of a postponement of the conference. All other premiers agreed to the delay which was

Cardinal Refers Language Rights Bill to Committee

QUEBEC (CP) — The Union Nationale government, led by Acting Premier Jean-Guy Cardinal, has decided to refer Premier Jean-Jacques Bertand's language rights bill to the education committee of the legislative assembly.

The decision, announced in the assembly's order paper today, dashes the ailing premier's hopes of getting the bill adopted this session and marks a victory for the party's nationalist wing, which has fought the bill all along.

The bill to guarantee English language education rights has been the target of intensive lobbying by nationalist and separatist groups whose members—branding Mr. Bertand a "traitor"—staged two demonstrations in front of the legislature.

Opposition Leader Jean Lesage told the house Thursday that Premier Bertand told him fom his hospital bed that Mr. Cardinal would pilot the bill through second reading Thursday afternoon.

The change in plans comes amid speculation that Mr. Cardinald has launched a bid within the Union Nationale to replace Mr. Bertand as leader and premier.

A source close to Mr. Cardinald said the education minister threatened to resign if Mr. Bertrand introduced the bill prior to the Dec. 4 byelections in the ridings of Bagot and Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace. Mr. Cardinal was elected in Bagot.

The decision to send the bill to committee would free Mr. Cardinal of the need to defend the legislation, thus maintaining his image within the party as the darling of the nationalist wing.

Mr. Lesage told the house Thursday that the Union Nationale is "profoundly divided" over the bill, and that the main source of division is Cultural Affairs Minister Jean-Noel Tremblay.

'Two-sided Round Table' Urged to Get Talks Started

PARIS (AP) — The United States and South Vietnam are said preparing to propose a two-sided round table for the Paris peace talks, but a Hanoi spokesman says no matter what the shape, the table must be four-sided.

Chief U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman and South Vietnamese Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky met Thursday and were said to have agreed on a new offer to Hanoi's representatives in the lengthening dispute delaying the start of the expanded peace talks.

In keeping with their contention that the conference should be a two-sided affair, the Southern allies were said to be proposing that the delegations sit at two semi-circular tables or at a round table cut in two.

"Whatever the proposal," a Communist spokesman told a reporter, "it must be made clear that the conference is one of four delegations . . . in a word, the shape of the table must be in conformity with the four-delegation conference."

The quarrel over table shapes and other status symbols is taken seriously by the rival diplomats as they manoeuvre for position.

Commodity Checkoff Sought

Federation of Agriculture Decides to Ignore Farmers' Union

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Agriculture said Thursday it will work toward creation of a single provincial farm organization without the help of dissenting farm groups.

Following its monthly meeting, the group said it will now ask Agriculture Minister W. A. Stewart to provide legislation for a single organization as well as for a checkoff on all agricultural commodities in Ontario to assure proper financing.

The meeting decided to drop all attempts to form a joint group with the rival Ontario Farmers Union which said last month it will work towards forming a national organization.

At its annual convention, the OFU said it will give other farm groups 90 days to join the OFU in efforts to create a national association.

James Jacklin of Elmwood, a leader in unity discussions between the OFA and the OFU, said the OFA now must work out a detailed plan of a single farm group for presentation to the government to get the necessary recognition for bargaining on farm policy matters.

A single farm organization plan is expected to be drafted at the OFA's next executive meeting Jan. 8.

The OFA also decided it will set up a program to help farmers import tractors from overseas because similar machines produced in Canada are more expensive.

The meeting was told seven farmers have imported tractors at a total saving of about $30,000.

River Reservoir Plan Again A Possibility

A reduction in the number of acres required to be clear cut is expected to open the way for the go ahead on the long discussed Deerock Reservoir project on the Skootamatta branch of the Moira River.

At the final full Authority meeting of the year held yesterday at Canniffon, Graham Bell water advisory board chairman, told members that the department of lands and forests had now reduced the number of acres required to be clear cut from 700 to 500.

This, he felt, would make it possible for the Authority to go ahead with the project which had been delayed due to the extremely high cost of clearing to the rigid specifications required by the department.

The site of the proposed Deerock dam and lake is on Crown land along Partridge Creek in Kaladar and Anglesea township and as the lake would be used for recreation as well as for water storage. The department considers clear cutting of all flooded areas with trees cut to a stump height of four inches.

An ARDA grant of $350,000 for the Deerock project and for two small Stone Lake seasonal dams has been approved but the lukewarm cost of project due to stringent clearing requirements pushed the cost well over the approved grant.

Application had been made for an increased grant but this was refused.

However, the department did agree to a reduction in the number of acres to be clear cut and it is felt the project is again within the financial capability of the Authority. New figures for clearing will now be called.

Ninety per cent of the cost of the Deerock project would be paid by ARDA grant with the other 10 per cent to come out of local levy.

Mr. Bell said three seasonal dams on the Moira — one at Belleville and the other two at the foot of Stone Lake — had been completed this year.

He said the dam at Belleville — built at a cost of $7,000 less than the engineer's estimate, would serve a big recreational need in the city.

Application had also been made this year for a river channel study inside the city.

The purpose of the study would be to establish minimum channel widths, encroachment tolerations and to determine what might be done about preventing frazil ice formations and ice jams which are a cause of spring flooding in the city.

"The study will be a big benefit to the city" Mr. Bell said.

Perfect Hand A Rarity

Playing a friendly game with Bill Godby, Mr. Walsh found himself sitting with three five's and the Jack of Diamonds.

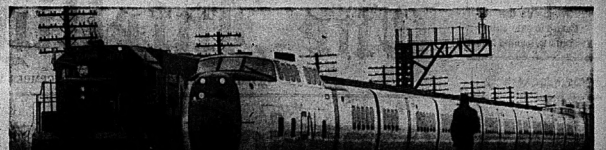
His opponent then played Santa Claus by cutting Mr. Walsh the five of diamonds to give him a perfect 29 hand, a 'once - in-a - million' cribbage rarity.

Conservation Levy Matches '68 Figure

A local levy of $25,000 to be paid by members of the Moira River Conservation Authority, has been approved for 1969.

The proposed levy, to be approved by the incoming authority executive compares with the $24,685, paid by the 17 member municipalities this year.

The levies against each municipality are based on a municipal affairs equalized assessment factor with the city of Belleville paying the major share.



Of the $25,000 local levy Belleville would pay $14,845; Thurlow $3,426 and Sidney $1,417 with amounts ranging down to $100 which is the minimum levy directed by the authority.

Total costs for authority work for next year (including the Deerock Reservoir project if it goes ahead this year) are estimated at $332,177.

Of this amount $304,000 would be for water control, $1,900 for conservation areas, $8,000 for forestry and $30,-827 for administration.

Grants of up to 90 per cent apply to some of the Authority projects, reducing the amount to be raised by local levy to $41,845.

From this figure an amount of $16,845 in accumulated surplus will be deducted, leaving $25,000 to be raised by local levy.

The Rocket Age Comes to the Railroad

For those who still recall the days of railroad steampower, even diesels still look like newfangled devices. But suddenly, even the diesel looks old-fashioned — as this scene at Belleville Canadian National yards symbolically suggests. Gliding past a stationary freight comes CN's Turbo train on its maiden passenger run. The event brings a new era to railroading — smooth, speedy travel geared to the expectations of the rocket age.

City Residents Getting Use From Vanderwater Facilities

Belleville residents are getting good use from the camping facilities at the Col. Vanderwater park on the Moira River, members of the river authority were told yesterday.

Cecil Ketcheson, chairman of the conservation areas advisory committee said that of the 230 camping permits issued for the park this year, close to half were taken out by Belleville people.

By contrast, only 36 of the camping permits issued were under development with the Vanderwater area and the O'Hara Hill area northwest of Madoc being the most popular.

The O'Hara Mill area was being widely used by picnic groups with the opening this year of the old O'Hara House as a museum attraction, adding much to the interest of the area.

In addition there was the old machinery exhibit, old log school house, and the water powered sawmill. Next year it was hoped that a shingle mill and drag saw unit would be on display.

Forestry advisory board chairman Les McLaren said the authority now had 18,124 acres of reforestation properties with trees planted now amounting to 2,648,625 of which 20,000 were planted this year. In addition to forest properties the authority has 1,440 acres of water control, wildlife and conservation areas properties.

Fish and wildlife board chairman William Armstrong, said the program of constructing and erecting nest boxes for birds and wood ducks had been continued this year.

He said the committee had decided that the Thurlow wildlife area along Mudcat Lane was unsuitable and was recommending it be sold. The committee is recommending the purchase of another property along the river.

Education extension advisory board chairman Mrs. Robin Embury reviewed the activities of her committee, the most important of which had been the conservation school for Grade 6 elementary school children and the maple syrup demonstration.

She paid high tribute to H. R. Frink, Queen Elizabeth School principal, who for many years has headed up the conservation school program and also had much to do with the success of this year's maple syrup demonstration.

She recommended the continued development of both projects as well as a "bird sell" program through the news media to stress the importance of conservation.

Board chairman Gerald Irvine in a brief review of administration, said a policy of holding executive meetings every month was working out well.

Ferry Breaks Ice

The Glenora ferry is still threading its way through the ice on the Bay of Quinte. With the cold weather during the past week ice has formed on the water and the ferry breaks through the layer on its first trip in the morning. The ferry will be in operation all winter.

Authority Supports Tighter Control

The Moira River Conservation Authority will lend its support toward tighter control by the Ontario Water Resources Commission of unlawful dumping of oil into the Great Lakes system by big freighters.

Mr. M. Harvey, chairman of the wildlife advisory board of the Lower Trent Valley, told the meeting that an oil slick on Lake Ontario was causing damage to wildlife.

It seems the oil saturates the feathers of teal ducks and other waterbirds destroying the water repellent features.

As a result the ducks get waterlogged and are unable to fly.

Lands and forests official W. F. Cheshire of Tweed, agreed that oil slicks on Lake Ontario were a problem every year.

He said there was little doubt the oil came from passing freighters as they cleaned out their bunkers before entering port.

"But it is very difficult to tie a specific act to a specific ship," he said.

He said equipment had been developed which eliminates the necessity of dumping oil.

"But it is costly and shipowners will dump their bunkers if they can get away with it."

The effect of wolves on the deer population also came up for discussion at yesterday's authority meeting.

Tyendinaga representative Les McLaren said that deer were very scarce south of No. 7 highway this year.

Mr. Cheshire, however, was inclined to doubt that wolves had any great bearing on the deer population.

He said if a good percentage of the annual deer kills were fawns there was no real reason to worry.

Longer Lease Requested

If a satisfactory lease and certain other details can be worked out the local Boy Scout association hopes to spend between $20,000 and $30,000 at their Sagonaska Camp to provide bunkhouse facilities for Cubs.

Authority members were told yesterday that close to 1,500 boy scouts from the area had enjoyed camping at Sagonaska this year but lack of permanent bunk houses prevented Cub from enjoying the facilities.

Scout Association officials are asking for a 99-year lease for their Sagonaska Camp property which is on the Col. Vanderwater Conservation Area at Thomasburg. Their present lease is for 25 years dating from 1959.

Two Picton School Additions Officially Opened by Minister

PICTON (Staff) — Over two million dollars worth of school additions were officially opened yesterday afternoon by the Minister of Education W i l l i a m G. Davis.

Both Prince Edward Collegiate Institute and Queen Elizabeth Public School in Picton were the scenes of speeches and official opening c e r e m o n i e s.

The contract for $628,000 at Queen Elizabeth was completed by a Belleville firm, Hugh Murray Construction Ltd. after a design from Toronto architects, Boigon and Heinonen, was accepted.

Putting up the $1½ million addition at the high school was the W. A. McDougall Construction Company of London, Ontario.

Separate ceremonies t o o k place during the afternoon with school officials, school board members, Mayor H. J. McFarland, MPP Norris Whitney and Mr. Davis present.

Expanding both schools was necessary to cope with the increasing number of students as well as to keep up to date with growing educational need and changes.

Both additions were already in full operation and h a v e in full operation and have struction stages for the past five years.

Principals of the schools, Carl Reid of Queen Elizabeth and J. H. McNeil of PECI expressed thanks to those involved in the task that was officially completed yesterday.

They as well as the o t h e r speakers, Mr. Whitney, Mr. McFarland, Ralph Frosts (superintendent of secondary education), MP George Hees, Warden Gorden Demore as well as the architects and contractors all emphasized the importance of the additions to the community and to the schools and the students.

Principal Reid commented "already it is apparent we are able to do many things we were unable to do do before."

Following ribbon cutting ceremonies, Education Minister William G. Davis toured the two new additions to Queen Elizabeth Public School and Prince Edward Collegiate Institute. His guide at Queen Elizabeth was student Robert Hyatt.

School Addition Opened

Education Minister William G. Davis, flanked by two students, prepares to cut the ribbon to open a school addition in Picton yesterday afternoon. Looking on at right rear is Mayor Harvey McFarland.

Let's Live Dangerously: Davis

PICTON (Staff) — At the same time William G. Davis, minister of education, t o l d listeners at Queen Elizabeth School and Prince Edward Collegiate Institute that education was experimentation and living dangerously he emphasized the importance of exercising some caution.

"Let's experiment, let's live dangerously — that's what education is all about" he told the teachers, school officials and politicians as he opened additions to both of the Picton schools.

He followed it with "we can not afford to make mistakes with children — we can't rectify our mistakes in education."

"At the same time we're experimenting we have to know exactly where we're going," stated Mr. Davis who has been minister of education since 1962.

"But why any experiments, why any concern, why anything different?"

Because everything is different, he explained to a very attentive audience.

"There are new ideas beginning to take form, children are different, environment is different, society has changed, and education is different," he explained.

"Children today are more eager to learn and they're exposed to some form of education from the time they're two years old or sooner."

Making sure it is good education and that the trend to learning continues is what is important according to Mr. Davis, a lawyer by profession.

"It's no longer sufficient for teachers to stand in front of 30 intelligent eager kids, convey information to them and have them return it in a test," he directed his comments to the teachers.

"That's not education."

"You must awaken the children, they have to feel they are part of the learning situation."

Then directing his comments to parents, Mr. Davis said that if people feel that the younger generation is in somewhat of a mess "let's l o o k to ourselves."

"Children learn as m u c h through example today as they always did," he said, "perhaps some of the problem is with the examples we set."

At any rate the minister does not agree with those who feel that teenagers are in a bad way.

He said that the vast majority of students, most secondary and secondary, are intelligent, responsible, eager and valuable citizens.

"Of course they have to challenge the status quo if they don't agree with it."

"Without challenging it how can we progress."

The minister then switched subjects to the cost of education which he says "is very relevant."

Over 50 per cent of the province's funds, $1,200,000,000 is spent annually on education.

"The money is necessary, but at the same time it must all be well spent."

Mr. Davis called for the new school trustees to be "m o r e creative as far as the education dollar is concerned."

"Fifty per cent of municipal and provincial taxes are being invested in education" he said.

"While it is necessary and relevant we are responsible to spend it as intelligently as possible," he finished.

Mr. Davis toured the new facilities of both the schools before returning to Toronto.

Schwab Proposal

Apartment Plans Are Modified

T. E. Schwab had modified plans for his apartment house at the top of Bridge St. West hill to conform to present zoning by-laws.

Bert Kenny, director of Belleville and Suburban Planning Board, told the board last night he expected Mr. Schwab's application for re-zoning of the site to be withdrawn.

The building originally proposed by Mr. Schwab was larger than existing zoning in the area permits. Nine storeys high, it allowed side yards of only 42 feet instead of the 72 feet required.

At a public hearing last month, Mr. Kenny told the board the side yard requirements in the present zoning by-laws are the only control on density in the old parts of the city. The board deferred a decision on the re-zoning pending discussions between Mr. Schwab and the planning director.

As a result of the discussions, Mr. Kenny said, the builder has decided to redesign his apartment block to accommodate 80 units in a seven-storey structure, it will be slightly longer than the original building planned, and will be set back 12 feet from the street. The side yards meet zoning requirements.

Mr. Kenny said the bloc will contain 36 one-bedroom suites, 12 three-bedroom suites, and 32 two-bedroom and bachelor suites.

The old lowered Murney building now on the site will be torn down to accommodate the new apartment house.

Plumpton Resigns from Board

Ralph Plumpton, veteran member of Belleville and Suburban Planning Board, tendered his resignation last night, one year before his appointed term expires. It is effective Jan. 1.

He has been a Thurlow township representative on the board since 1957 and served as chairman in 1966.

Mr. Plumpton gave personal reasons and pressure of business as his reasons for resigning.

In his letter of resignation to Reeve Horace Casey of Thurlow he said: "It is a source of pride and accomplishment to think I have participated in some small measure in the advancement and progress of the township."

"Ten years ago the board was pretty much like myself, a beginner, a far cry from today's rapid expansion," he added.

Planning board chairman, G. G. Busney, accepted the resignation with regret, and lauded Mr. Plumpton for his dedication and conscientious service for the past 11 years.

Last night's meeting was also the final board session for former Sidney reeve, Ernest Kells.

He was defeated Dec. 2 in his bid for re-election by deputy-reeve Jack Bush.

A Changing Society

The trend toward apartment living favored in the larger centres in particular looks as though it may become more prevalent in Belleville too.

Certainly additional accommodation is going to become necessary — and quickly — to house the influx of perhaps 300 people involved in the anticipated transfer of unemployment insurance operations from Toronto.

This is an influx that will not only spark house construction and business in Belleville, but help to diversify the population as well. New blood is good for any community.

Speaking of housing, the proposal for a tenant-owned apartment complex which would include penthouse education facilities, is attracting considerable interest. A Prince Edward County fruit farmer who put the plan before a recent meeting of township council in Ameliasburg says he looks to television to change contemporary teaching methods and predicts that "the days of sending children to marble edifices for schooling is about to end."

However farmer Howard Weese acknowledges such a project would be "10 years ahead of its time." The project obviously has its merits but is the Quinte area ready for such a development? The so-called "marble edifices" that are the schools, while undergoing consolidation under the new county system, are likely to be with us for a long time to come.

Television doubtless will play an increasingly important role in education, but it has its dangers too. For instance, is the very grouping of people that is taking place in the large urban centres, with every material and recreational advantage from the sauna bath and educational television to golf club facilities, fostering a society of inbreds lacking initiative and individualism? And does it militate against true family life?

Change there must be and Belleville cannot resist it any more than any other centre. It must be a gradual process though; we are on the verge of so many developments that precipitate action in one or other sphere could do more harm than good. The very fact of having to walk or bus to school in itself constitutes one of the few remaining physical efforts the modern student must take at the start of his day. Under some of the new educational concepts even these may soon be denied him.

Fountain Of Youth

Patrick McGrady jr., a former Moscow bureau chief for Newsweek, has written a book called "The Youth Doctors," and it is a study of the perennial search for the fountain of youth.

It seems that scarcely anyone is immune to the quest for rejuvenation. Those who have their youth had better believe that, because the years flash by only too swiftly. As the old saying goes: It is later than you think.

McGrady tells of the wealthy people, celebrities and jet set fraternity, who spend large sums on plastic surgeons and "youth doctors" who specialize in "cell therapy" and other treatments. One California specialist charges $25,000 to rejuvenate males.

That kind of money of course would eliminate the majority of aspirants to the fountain of youth. However, McGrady claims there are plenty of inexpensive rejuvenation treatments or therapies supposedly able to retard the aging process.

But the best hope of all — and this should encourage the most sedentary among us — is the author's reminder about simple physical exercise. It has been said before, it is even recommended for heart patients, and here it is again: jogging, that gentle, graduated running program followed by athletes, is one of the most natural ways to help retard the aging process.

Meanwhile the book quotes a Rand Corporation prediction that chemical control of aging will be possible by the year 2025. With a possible life span of perhaps hundreds of years, people will die of boredom or accidents.

Until then the human race will just have to use as its guide the philosophy of Thomas Carlyle, that one should live every day as if it were one's last.

U.S. Ships In Black Sea

Middle East Storm Centre Of U.S.-Soviet Power Politics

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

An uncomfortable feeling that there is something mysterious and ominous about the Soviet naval presence in the Mediterranean still pervades the West and this may have as much to do with oil and the volatile Middle East as the fact that two super-powers now occupy a much-used and highly sensitive sea lane.

This strategy of counteraction heightens the possibility of miscalculation. By itself the Soviet fleet of some 40 or 50 ships is still not large and no match for the United States 6th Fleet, but the fact that the Russians decided to make themselves felt in the Mediterranean emphasizes their determination to extend their influence and perhaps outwit the West through strengthened military links with the Arab world.

The symbolic gesture by the Americans to show the flag by sending the destroyers into the Black Sea closer to Soviet southern shores serves as an American hint that the U.S. won't be hemmed in by the Russians and that two can play the same game. But it is unlikely that the Americans will attempt to establish a permanent force in the Black Sea which in times of war could serve more as a trap than an area of easy naval manoeuvre.

For the moment a sum-up of the deployments would suggest that the Russians have gained an advantage which is difficult to measure but which still worries the Western allies. One reason is the Soviet-led Warsaw pact invasion of Czechoslovakia and the establishment of strong Soviet forces in Czechoslovakia's western border regions. The other is the steady Soviet penetration of the Arab world in North Africa, a strategic oil source.

William Scranton, U.S. President-elect Nixon's envoy, has stated after a diplomatic tour of the explosive region that he has encouraging hopes of a peaceful settlement between Arabs and Israelis. He maintained that all leaders want peace. But, of course, each has his own terms. With a new administration taking office in Washington next month, the possibility of opening new avenues of negotiation is strengthened by the prospect that a new government carries new political viewpoints.

It may turn out that the Arabs may trust Nixon more than they trusted President Johnson. But it does not appear likely that they would be willing to ditch Soviet co-operation just because of a new president in the White House.

The Russians have increased their military budget and it is likely that with a strong anti-Communist viewpoint being asserted in Washington, the new American administration may do the same. Nixon has pledged stronger support for NATO which is still recovering from internal discord.

Unless the Russians and the Americans come to some new understanding, it is just possible that another explosion in the Middle East could spread through the Mediterranean presence of the super-powers into something more than localized struggle.

Square . . Shallow . . or What?

A Look at the 'Average' University Student

Hugh Buchanan in
The Hamilton Spectator

What type of person is Master and Miss Average University Student? many adults ask themselves as they wonder at the campus demonstrations against the so-called status quo and the obscenities that pass as editorials in some of the college newspapers.

It's difficult to answer that question, of course. Most of those who attended university in the "good old days" do remember, if we tax our memories, that we weren't exactly perfect ourselves. Students of twenty and thirty years ago wrecked hotels once in the early 19-40s at dozen or so blazing mattresses were tossed out of a hotel onto Toronto's Front Street) and pullman cars; and many were so far to the left that their right-wing parents had to use telescopes to find them.

Nevertheless, most students, even in the days when Spain was a battlefield for conflicting ideologies, never thought of demonstrating for "just" causes. And who would have thought of telling the university establishment to move over and let Jack and Jill have a potent say in curricular affairs? Not on your corduroin coat!

Today, however, kids are different. They are involved. We are told they are far more aware of what is going on in the world than we were when we were younger.

So what type of kid is going to university? Well, if you take the freshmen at the University of Lethbridge, the youngest member of the quite high class University of Alberta team, as an example, this is how they look at the world of today:

Two hundred and sixty-four first semester students were asked the following questions (only the top choices are listed in their answers, and they were allowed more than one answer).

What are your favorite TV programs? Mission: Impossible, 87; TV Movies, 36; Star Trek, 31; Hogans Heroes, 26; Rowan and Martin, 25; Ed Sullivan, 22; Football, 18; Bonanza, 17.

What magazines do you regularly read? Time, 53; Life, 45; Reader's Digest, 44; Chatelaine (for Miss Chatelaine), 33; Maclean's, 32; Playboy, 30.

Who are your favorite authors? No Favorite, 54; John Steinbeck, 22; Charles Dickens, 17; Jerome Robbins, 15; Edgar Allan Poe, 15; Ernest Hemingway, 14; William Shakespeare, 12.

Who are your favorite painters? None, 131; Michaelangelo, 32; Leonardo Da Vinci, 30; Picasso, 22; Vincent Van Gogh, 13; Rembrandt, 12; Roloff Beny (the Canadian painter-photographer), 11.

Who are your favorite composers? None, 64; Beatles, 55; Beethoven, 38; Gordon Lightfoot, 27; Chopin, 23; Tchaikovsky, 18; Bach, 18.

Who are your favorite poets? None, 72; Robert Frost, 56; William Wordsworth, 26. Elizabeth Browning, 15; Robert Browning, 14; Shakespeare, 14; John Keats, 12; T. S. Eliot, 11. (Canadian poet Leonard Cohen received six votes.)

What three buildings do you think are the most beautiful ever made? The Taj Mahal, 77; none, 51; Empire State Building 28; Eiffel Tower, 27; Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris, 18; St. Peter's, 18; Toronto City Hall, 17; The White House, 12; Simon Fraser University, 14.

What is the most important problem facing the world today? Overpopulation and lack of food, 88; lack of peace and threatened of war, 33; lack of love and understanding, 31; racial prejudice, 16; poverty, 14; lack of education, 12; moral decay, 9.

Who, in your opinion, are the five most important people who ever lived? Winston Churchill, 112; Jesus Christ, 102; John Fitzgerald Kennedy, 98; Abraham Lincoln, 55; Adolf Hitler, 40; Albert Einstein, 34; Karl Marx, 23; Shakespeare, 24.

One doesn't need to be an expert in the head-shrinking league to say with authority that it's pretty apparent most university students of freshman age (18 and 19 generally) are romantics and daydreamers, except perhaps in the field of painting and prose where the Cambridge kids are obviously square to a remarkable degree.

Generally, the answers to the questions indicate that the average college youngster is pretty shallow, however, in his thinking at least at the freshman stage.

A harsher view, and perhaps a more accurate one, would show the students to be shallow and uninformed to a fantastic degree. A Mr. Nasty could say, even, that in every instance, their answers showed that they picked only names any Grade 8 student had heard of many times.

But who wants to be nasty when most adults truly want to bridge the generation gap?

No Compensation For Victims Of Crime

Vancouver Sun

There is a slim hope that the situation will be changed if crime commissioners take one of the items on the agenda of Attorney-General Leslie Peterson's promised law reform committee next spring. It should be a high priority.

If Terry Lynch lived in California, or New Zealand or Saskatchewan, his future would be brighter. But he lives in British Columbia where there is no effective compensation for victims of crime.

Mr. Lynch, victim of a shotgun blast on security patrol almost a year ago, has no job and no recompense. It is his bad luck that the firm which had employed him did not even carry workmen's compensation insurance.

But in California, New Zealand, Saskatchewan and a few other places, he'd be eligible for aid from a victims-of-crime fund. In Alberta, too, he'd be hoping that help was on the way.

The Alberta government has just received a brief, setting out such a scheme from the Institute of Law Research and Reform, a body established by the university a year ago. Since the Alberta legislature has already passed a resolution favoring the idea, it's likely to be accepted.

The Institute (too bad we haven't got one in B.C.) makes the predictable stand that compensation is warranted by "the plight of the victim and the fact that his injuries have arisen from the wrongful acts of an element of society." But it also raises the interesting analogy of society's recognition of obligations to the sick, but not to the victims of criminals.

While two provinces have some sort of compensation in effect and two more are sympathetic (Alberta and Manitoba), the B.C. government has effectively dodged any such responsibility by leaving it up to municipalities, which in not only unfair but impractical.

20 YEARS AGO

Radio station CJBQ inaugurated what is expected to be a series of annual Christmas Cheer programs Sunday evening from the stage of the McCarthy Theatre. A near-capacity audience attended the first of these annual stage productions and a two-hour broadcast carried the show to the radio audience.

A cross-section of the many nationalities, which represent the "new Canadians" who are making their home in this area, was illustrated in "Carols of All Nations" service held in Bridge Street United Church on Sunday evening. The service was conducted by the Rev. D. C. Amos, and a special message was brought to the large congregation by Rev. Leon P. Brulje of The Netherlands Reformed Church, serving Dutch immigrants in Eastern Ontario.

On Monday evening the Christmas meeting of the members of the Presto Music Club was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. E. The interesting and enjoyable program was arranged by Miss Ann Brown.

Falkland Islanders Stand Firm

Milwaukee Journal

More than a century ago, Charles Darwin described them as "miserable." But to the 2,178 hardy souls who inhabit them today, the Falkland islands are precious bits of Britain in the hostile south Atlantic.

When British Minister of State Lord Chalfont stepped ashore from HMS Endurance the other day, he was greeted with signs proclaiming: "We Are Loyal to You; Be Loyal to Us" and "Keep the Falklands British."

To the Falklanders, life's major threat—besides the weather—is Argentina, 300 miles to the west. Argentina claims the islands, even refers to them as the Malvinas, the old Spanish term used two centuries ago. To underscore its claim, Argentina every so often issues a Malvinas memorial stamp.

Britain says it discovered the Islands in the 16th century and in 1833 it dispatched a couple of warships to secure possession. It has held them ever since.

The Islanders are nearly 100 per cent British in attitude. They speak the language of their Yorkshire and Scottish forebears, live in cottages are exactly like those in the motherland, and the pubs of Port Stanley, the capital, are true English pubs, with dart games, goosesterries and old-fashioned pump handles on the ale vats.

The Falklanders, in many ways, are more British than Britain. And they intend to stay that way, memorial stamps or not.

Theatre Guild Presents 'Our Town'--Most Ambitious Production in History

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Belleville Theatre Guild is ending 1968 with what probably is the most ambitious production in its 17-year history.

And in Thornton Wilder's Our Town, it has reached further heights in what he's turned out to be its most spectacularly active season on record.

The classic of American theatre opened a three-night run at Centennial Secondary School last night.

The event once again confirmed the Guild's decision earlier this year to break new ground in retaining the services of a full-time artistic director.

For the personal pace - setter in this record season of community theatre has been the man the Guild acquired as professional director — Richard Howard.

In an incredibly short time he has organized Guild resources effectively — opening the season with a sparkling production of Mary, Mary, and winning two awards for the group with a one-act entry in the recent Eastern Ontario Ontario Drama League festival.

Now, for the first time, local theatregoers have an opportunity to take personal measure of the energetic personality which, up to now, has remained behind the scenes.

In Our Town Mr. Howard steps in front of the footlights to play a major role in his own production.

In the role of stage manager he becomes commentator and guide to the audience, linking up the play's action as it develops through the evening.

That action is the result of Mr. Howard's work and inspiration in his second (off stage) role as director of the play.

It is a rare accomplishment in theatre on any level and Mr. Howard achieves it admirably.

As director he has assembled, disciplined and inspired a large cast — more than 30 players — for the presentation.

Onstage, he skilfully unfolds around him in a production of warmth and gentle passion, evoking some moving moments.

Our Town is a commentary on what now has become an idyll — small town America. It's an era not too long removed in time, but with so much has the world changed in 50 years that it now assumes the environment of innocence lost.

Thornton Wilder's play recaptures the flavor of the idyll as it depicts life in a New Hampshire village in its picturesque characters, the humor and pathos evoked in their daily routine.

Wilder, who won a Pulitzer prize for the work, sums up its essence when he has the stage manager remind the audience: "This is the way we were in our growing up and in our marrying and in our doctoring and in our dying."

It focuses on the lives of two families and their offspring inextricably woven from childhood to marriage.

Vitally involved with life, the play also builds to one of the most moving climaxes in modern theatre as it depicts the peace and quiet of death which never can be comprehended by the living.

For his cast, Mr. Howard gathered both experienced Guild players and newcomers to the stage.

Among the latter are Catherine Wilson and Fred Robinson who share the romantic leads with sensitive portrayals, Mary Beth Cronk who shows sparkling personality in a little-later role, Allan Kelly, Beverly Seamungal and Ernst Kneisel already familiar to Guild audiences, Lois Summerville and Jack Archer are cast opposite each other as husband and wife.

Mr. Howard also deliberately brings the action down into the audience — an advantage in an auditorium where an abundantly-spaced orchestra pit separates players from the players.

He moves the action down into the aisles, bringing it alive with the bustle of school children, newsboys and even a marching church choir.

But the bustle never gets out of control. The discipline shows Mr. Howard's professional hand — and to moving effect in the play's wedding scene.

Our Town plays tonight and tomorrow.

Flight from Biafra

Last Hercules to Return to Trenton

TRENTON — The finish to Canada's attempt to bring aid to millions of starving Biafrans will come on Tuesday, when the last Hercules returns from the war torn country to Trenton.

A spokesman for the Canadian Forces Base here today said the Hercules is expected at Trenton about noon Tuesday. On Wednesday it will fly back to its home base in Edmonton.

There have been three Hercules aircraft put at the disposal of the Red Cross in mid-October. Two went to Fernando Po and the other to Lagos.

After two weeks of negotiation one of the Hercules at Fernando Po made 11 flights to Biafra's Uli airstrip. This was cut short on Nov. 4 when Nigeria refused to guarantee the safety of any more relief missions.

These flights were made under "wartime conditions" according to Major General Chester Hull, commander of Air Transport Command.

He had gone on some of the night flights to the Uli strip and said "the pilots had to be ready to fly over a plane on landing and be prepared to stop suddenly on the runway for fear of hitting one."

At this point Prime Minister Trudeau got a promise from Nigeria of unmolested daylight flights on the condition that the Hercules in Lagos be brought home.

The reason, according to the Nigerian government, was that the weight of the plane would ruin the Nigerian airstrip on landing.

The Lagos Hercules and the standby aircraft at Fernando Po returned last month leaving only one plane.

Caribou aircraft were prepared to be painted with the Red Cross emblem to replace the Lagos Hercules but Red Cross officials said they could not use them.

So this tale of frustration will end Tuesday and according to officials at the base, they know of no new plans for getting aid to Biafra.

Man Is Presumed Dead --Police Abandon Search

PICTON (Staff) — A 23 year old Picton man has been presumed dead by drowning after Ontario Provincial Police and the Coast Guard abandoned a search for him Wednesday morning.

Earl Rorabeck of Royal Street in Picton fell from the ladder aboard the SS Niagara Tuesday evening.

The ship was about one mile off Port Weller in Lake Ontario.

It was heading in towards port when the accident occurred. The Niagara is a sand-dredger.

Almost immediately an OPP launch and a coast guard vessel began their fruitless search. After looking for Rorabeck part of Tuesday night and all day Wednesday the search was finally abandoned.

In Picton Mr. Rorabeck attended Milford Central Public School and Prince Edward Collegiate Institute. He was married and had two small children.

Also surviving Mr. Rorabeck are his father, Harry Rorabeck in Milford and four brothers.

He had been on the Great Lakes as a seaman for the past three years.

'Local Situations' Involved in Work

"For successful youth work one must adopt plans to local situations," said Rev. Peter Walford Davis last night at a meeting of the Belleville's men's Club at the YMCA.

"What will work in Belleville might not work in Consecon or Wellington," he said.

"We must seek out help and support of other organizations in the community such as church groups, the Legion and service clubs."

Mr. Davis said anyone interested in working with young people "must formulate a complete plan of action and the young people must want this plan and be prepared to sell it to the adults whose support the youth need."

He explained that there must be a committee of friends who love children and are sensitive to the needs and feelings of people.

"Not all people are able to function in this wife, even when they want to," he said.

Mr. Davis also advised a plan or decision as to the age group to be served.

He said he believed 'in helping youth not catering to them. Adults need to listen to what youth are saying."

"Parents in particular have a responsibility to know where their children are and what is going on."

To Your Good Health

Diet May Aid Patient

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has pains in his chest which have been diagnosed as angina pectoris. What diet would be best to help him?— Mrs. H. N.

Diet is of indirect value. Angina pains usually (although not always) are related to the heart being overstrained. Therefore, if the patient is obese, losing some weight will take some of the burden off his heart and thus help reduce the pains.

It is generally accepted that a diet low in animal fats will help retard the development of atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, by reducing the cholesterol level in the blood.

A diet low in animal fat would mean cutting all visible fat off meat, avoiding fried foods, gravies and pastries, and substituting vegetable oils for solid fats in cooking.

In some instances, reduction of the blood cholesterol level, whether by diet, medication or both, has been known to lessen the frequency of angina pains.

One other important dietary point is to avoid eating too much at one meal, and to avoid exertion too soon after a meal. The process of digestion itself puts an added burden on the heart; exercise before the digestive processes have passed their peak adds to the strain, and this strain on the heart is what triggers many angina attacks. Indeed, such attacks can be provoked merely by eating a big meal.

Along with these thoughts, do not underestimate the value of proper exercise. Studies with patients have shown that light exercise (as walking) performed regularly, and in gradually increasing amounts each day, helps the angina patient. He tends to have less pain and doesn't need as much medication.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Enclosed is 30 cents and a long, self-addressed, envelope for your booklet, "The Way To Stop Constipation."

Please comment on the use of mineral oil. I have heard that continued use is harmful. What else can be used as a stool softener? — C. T. M.

I have no objection to the use of mineral oil — occasionally. It is mild and helpful But if you mean using it every day, then I say no. It can interfere with proper absorption of certain vitamins.

Prune juice is good. Plenty of fluids help. Milk of magnesia, occasionally, is fine. And, there are perhaps 20 of the more modern stool softeners available in drug stores.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am expecting a baby in about two months and I am not married. When I found I was pregnant (I was about five months pregnant then) I took some quinine tablets to try to get rid of the baby. It didn't work but it caused much pain in my stomach. At least, I guess that was what caused the pain.

Will the baby be deformed or have brain damage because of the pills? — S. C.

The notion that quinine will cause a miscarriage is an old notion, completely without any facts to support it.

It's quite likely that you took enough quinine to give you some cramps, but (especially since it was that late in the pregnancy) there is no reason to think the baby was harmed.

• • •

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is Kummerli's disease? What causes it? Is there a cure for it? — F.L.

This is a name given to a group fo symptoms resulting from a compression fracture of a bone in the spine. Physical injury is the likely cause; cure depends on the extent and exact nature of the damage.

• • •

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for your copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, un-stamped envelope and 30 cents in coin, plus 6 cents for postage, to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Christmas Cheer

Salvation Army Appeal

The people who never talk turkey are hoping for help to buy more than a hundred Christmas dinners.

Belleville's Salvation Army corps once more is cast in a familiar role tonight and tomorrow.

The men and women of the Army are now on the sidewalks of the city, seeking support to cheer a Christmas which always emphasizes the plight of the needy.

Gathering funds for this work has provided Christmas with one of its traditional symbols — the Salvation Army cheer kettle.

The kettle will be spotted around downtown Belleville today and tomorrow as local Army workers seek funds for a brighter Christmas to the city's underprivileged families.

Last year, a Salvationist spokesman said, the project showed a deficit. Only about $1,000 of a needed $1,200 was received from sidewalk donations.

Nonetheless, more than 100 Christmas dinners were provided — both in food hampers and vouchers.

Traditional Christmas Plants Last Longer with Extra Special Care

By BETTY BELL

Bright, cheerful flowers that form part of the tradition of Christmas are with us again.

Thanks to the modern miracle of rail and air express, exotic blooms from warm, far away places are now available for decorating wintry Canadian homes.

Every year at this time such beauties as red, white and pink anthuriums from Hawaii and Jamaica, multi-colored gladioli from Bermuda and Florida and bright green holly from British Columbia are distributed in mass shipments to florists across Canada.

Other old-time favorites — poinsettias, azaleas, chrysanthemums, begonias and cyclamens, grown mostly in Southern Ontario, are in big demand too at this time of the year. Tropical plants come in hundreds of varieties. Dwarf orange trees, dieffenbachia, philodendron, palm trees and ivy are among the most popular.

Travelling under scientifically-controlled conditions these flowers and plants arrive at their destination in excellent health. Carefully nurtured by skilled florists blooms reach their peak of perfection in time for Christmas gift-giving.

The practice of flower giving at Christmas is a lovely tradition but, alas, many a beautiful floral gift comes to an untimely end because of neglect.

Why? Because the recipient often doesn't know the basic rules of plant care although plants sent through the world's largest florists' organization are accompanied by a special "care" tag.

The Florists' Transworld Delivery Association is one of the biggest crusaders for plant care. An international organization that has been in operation for 20-odd years, the FTD averages one floral delivery per second around the clock. This wire service has its heaviest traffic at Christmas and orders can even be placed as far away as Viet Nam and Nigeria.

If you're lucky enough to receive flowers at Christmas, or buy them for decorating your home, here are a few tips from FTD:

As soon as you receive cut flowers or plants give them a good soaking. Cut flowers should have each stem trimmed slantwise. Place flowers in lukewarm water. A floral preservative dissolved in the water will give your flowers three to five more days of life. Add fresh water each day to replace evaporation. Place your flowers in a 60 degree temperature at night.

Plants of course will last much longer so take good care of them!

POINSETTIA: (The latest Mikellson variety will bloom four or five months). Keep well watered until all the leaves have dropped. Remove to basement and keep entirely dry until next April.

Cut stems back to six inches. In June bury the pot outside in a shady corner. Bring the plant in before the fall frost and keep near a lighted window at not more than 70 degrees F. These plants can be given too much indoor light.

CYCLAMEN require a light cool window and lots of water until through flowering. Difficult to keep from year to year. Better to discard them and get new plants each year, not as fragile as many Christmas plants. Thrive on plenty of light, lots of water and a fairly cool temperature. Put in very cool spot at night. If kept growing until spring they should be divided into small pieces, each with one or two shoots, and planted in the garden. When in bud in October, may be transplanted into pots and brought inside to bloom a second time.

AZALEAS are noted for their solid mass of brilliant blooms. These plants thrive in a cool, light place. Keep the soil uniformly moist by adding enough water to wet it thoroughly from top to bottom. If soil becomes extremely dry, submerge the pot in water for five minutes or until the soil is wet again.

CHRISTMAS PEPPERS AND JERUSALEM CHERRIES: Are also favored "living gifts" at the holiday season. Keep them in a sunny window and at a cool 55 to 65 degree temperature.

DWARF ORANGE TREES: Do have small oranges on them. But don't use them for additional Vitamin C because they are strictly decorative. Keep the dwarf orange tree in a cool and moist atmosphere. South light is good for winter but give it some shade the first few days after it comes from the florist.

Tropical Plants: as most tropical plants like light (but not direct sun), a moderate amount of moisture and frequent foliage washing with lukewarm water so they can breathe to stay health.

It is impossible to list information on the care of all Christmas plants but your nearest FTD florist will be more than happy to help you.

Choir Highlights Christmas Party

On Tuesday evening members of the Cane Club and their escorts were guests of the Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary at a pre-Christmas party at the Kiwanis Centre.

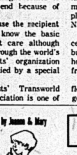
President Clarence Morris expressed pleasure at the large number in attendance and Mrs. R. Bollins played the piano for the opening songs. The December birthdays were announced by Wilma Blaind. The birthday prizes were won by Mrs. Lillian Bridge and Mrs. Elizabeth Davis.

Inspiring Christmas messages were read from Mary G. Patterson, National C.C.B. President, and from Jack Bews, Kingston, president of the Ontario division of C.C.B. Vi Waite introduced pianist, Alice Heather Grant and Ian Docherty, conductor of the Belleville Young Ladies' Choir.

The group delighted their audience with a number of Christmas carols and several unusual and lively numbers. Harper McElrath thanked the young people for the very fine entertainment.

Wilma Blaind thanked the Kiwanis ladies for the Christmas party, for the chocolates presented to each member, and for their many acts of kindness during the year. Transportation for the evening was provided by the Lions Club.

University Women Hold Yule Party



The University Women's Club broke with tradition this Christmas season, to have Chinese food at the Sun Luck Gardens. Before the dinner, members were entertained at a sherry party at the home of Mrs. R. Cass.

A warm welcome was extended to members present and by the club's president, Mrs. Cass. New members: Mrs. Mark Haslett, Mrs. N. C. Wilson, and Mrs. T. A. Nigro, were introduced by Mrs. B. R. Collins.

Entertainment, this year, took the form of a reading of "A Child's Christmas in Wales" by Mrs. H. M. James, and the singing of Christmas carols, conducted by Mrs. J. Boyd, with an organ accompaniment by Miss Lemoine West.

Despite the difference in fare, tradition prevailed; the customary directories were compiled and distributed by the membership committee, Mrs. B. R. Collins, Mrs. G. Butler, and Mrs. D. A. Hurley. Gifts were accepted for the mentally ill.

This delightful combination of change and tradition in the club's annual Christmas dinner was provided by members at large, Mrs. C. H. Patrick and Mrs. F. R. Clarke.

Local Telephone Pioneers Honor Life Members

The Telephone Pioneers of America's annual tea for the life members group of the Pioneers was held recently in Belleville. Approximately 30 life members and their wives attended from the Quinte Region.

Guests were greeted at the door by Miss Joyce Bell, Bell Canada (ladies activities) and Mrs. Jean Scott, Northern Electric Co. Ltd. (pioneer secretary). Refreshments were served during the afternoon by members of the pioneer executive: Mr. and Mrs. Vic Allen; Mr. and Mrs. T. Schofield; Mr. and Mrs. A. Pierson; L. Logue; C. Steele and M. E. Johnson.

President Allen welcomed the guests and introduced the special guests — Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Woodley, C. Buckley of Bell Canada and Walter Bezanson of Ottawa. K. H. Woodley, manager of the Northern Electric Co. Ltd. was asked to speak to the group. He remarked that he still has a year and few months to go before he becomes a Pioneer.

This is a very special year in the history of the Belleville Works of Northern Electric in that it has now been located in Belleville for 21 years and would be turning members over to the Pioneers in groups of 20 and 30 at a time instead of in ones and twos as has been the care in past years.

Walter Bezanson, Secretary-Treasurer of the J. E. MacPherson Council, Ottawa, brought greetings from the council and congratulated the Belleville group on their activities and especially the life members' tea.

Door prizes were won by Mrs. Katie Wright, Clarke Dodd and Mrs. Violet MacDonald. Winners of the Christmas Cheer baskets were Calvin York, Northern Electric Co. Ltd. and A. Pierson of Bell Canada.

Ladies' Night Held At Stirling Lodge

STIRLING — The annual Ladies Night and at home of the Stirling Masonic Lodge was held in the IOOF lodge hall Saturday evening, with members of the Laurel Rebekah lodge catered.

Worshipful Brother Ed Emerson was master of ceremonies. Brother Robert C. Hoard proposed the toast to the women, and Mrs. John L. Good replied. Worshipful Brother, Harry Vandervoort proposed the toast to the Grand Lodge at DDGM, and Carl Reid of Picton replied.

Brother Dr. R. B. Murray introduced the guest speaker, Rt. Worshipful Brother Garnet B. Richard, Grand Junior Warden of Grand Lodge of Ontario. He based his address on the aims of masonary and its three principals.

A short program was enjoyed, and a pleasant social time was spent.

'Pesty' Kid Brother Not Bad after All

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to say a word to the girl who was complaining about her pesty, pain-in-the neck kid brother, age 11. She said he was driving her crazy and she didn't think she could last four years until she went away to college.

Tell her I was in her spot eight years ago. I was 12 then and he was 10. I came close to writing to you a half dozen times to ask for help. My brother was an awful pest and a tease and at times I was sure I hated him.

Last week that "awful pest" left for Vietnam. I never realized how much he meant to me until I had to say goodbye to him. All the pesty squabbles suddenly seemed terribly unimportant. I felt ashamed of having been so impatient and stupid. I realize now he was a normal kid who enjoyed attention and loved mischief.

Please, Ann, tell all the older sisters who are now suffering with pesty kid brother that before they know it those little bratty brothers will be grown up and they'll wish they could live those days over again. — BUD'S SIS.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR SIS: You told them — and in a way I could never. Thank you dear.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last month our beloved uncle died. He was laid out in the living room of his home, in front of the picture windows.

The following day he was taken 200 miles away to be buried in his wife's family cemetery. I have seen this ceremony and it is right in the middle of a cornfield. Nobody bothers to keep it up and it makes me sick to think of our loving kin out there in all those weeds and brambles.

Our whole family is upset about this and we wonder if there's anything we can do to get our dear uncle moved back here where we can give him the proper care and attention — CONCERNED FAMILY.

DEAR FAMILY: I trust you gave your dear uncle the proper care and attention when he was alive. That's the only kind a person benefits from.

His wife has the right to choose his final resting place unless he made a special request in his will. If she wants him in the cornfield, that's where he should be.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You're going to decide this. I'm sick of opinions from relatives who don't know their elbow from third base.

I went with Pete for two years. We were officially engaged for 11 months. He suddenly called off the whole thing, saying he wasn't ready to get married.

My parents lost the $250 deposit on the hall. I spent over $100 on honeymoon-style nightgowns and other frilly stuff that isn't worth a hoot now.

This was four months ago and yesterday the low-life skunk asked for his ring. I said "NO." He said he's seeing a lawyer. What should I do? — LIVID.

DEAR LIV: His lawyer will tell him that when a man breaks the engagement the girl is entitled to the ring. But why on earth would you want it? I should think you'd be happy to get rid of anything that reminded you of the creep.

Successful Living

Doris Quits Smoking, Thinks Others Can

By DORIS CLARK

A recent survey showed that 60 percent of men smoke cigarettes. It also showed a definite increase in the belief that smoking is harmful, both among smokers and non-smokers; yet no commarable percentage of sign-offs.

Personally, I don't think cutting out smokes is as tough to do as the chain smokers think. It's a question of interrupting habit patterns by substituting others and changing a few routines. My 10-cent leaflet "Why Smoke?" outlines some good techniques.

When I did it (a long time ago now) I handled one day at a time; and every daily conquest made the challenge to stretch out the no-smoking period that much more intriguing.

How any right-thinking person can avoid the personal implication of the now certain connection between cigarette smoking and cancer, heart disease and emphysema, it beyong me.

* * *

Dear Doris: Could you tell me if it is proper to leave a considerable amount of food (after taking it in the first place) and a messy looking plate when you are invited to one's home for a meal?

This friend of mine, who is considered an excellent cook, has run into this situation on several occasions. These same people, however, clean up their plates when in their own home.

Considering the cost of food today, I find this very wasteful and a showing of poor manners.

Am I old-fashioned? — Just Wondering.

Dear Just: On the face of it, it sounds rude. But ask yourself:

(1) Could the guest be tasting a flavor or spice not apparent on first glance, and to which he is allergic? Allergies are horrible things, and may include such lovely flavors as curry, vinegar, almonds, chocolate — along with a thesis and others; 37 percent of the population is allergic to wheat flour.

(2) Could it be an unfamiliar dish, spooned onto the plate with the best of intentions, bravely and partially consumed, before reneging completely?

Give your guest the benefit of the doubt. If the same thing is repeated, adopt the practice of serving things yourself; and make servings small.

* * *

To Looking For Ideas: Have you tried the Eye-Witness Stunt? Three or four players (appropriately costumed) rush in a brief act, involving a thief, a beggar, an elegant lady, and a policeman. The theft is acted out.

After the deed is done, all present at the party serve as witnesses, and are interrogated by a detective—with startling results. Nobody tells the same story, ever; about what he or she saw.

This may be varied by holding a large picture up in front of the group, then removing it and giving a prize to the guest writing down the greatest number of items in the picture.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

An Economical Meat Dish

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I am a working gal and would appreciate even one recipe for some meat dish I could make from canned meat — preferably beef. My husband and I shop Friday nights for the following week and are trying to economize to buy a house in the country . . . Marlene G.

ANSWER: You were a help to me. I had another request for savories. Because I am so preoccupied with Christmas baking I combined efforts and the following recipe is for Corned Beef Timbales (for you) that also can be made in to Corned Beef Savories (for my other enquirer).

CORNED BEEF TIMBALES (Four medium-large; good hot or cold)

One 7-oz. can extra lean corned beef, pureed or ground
1 tbsp. flour
1 tbsp. butter or margarine
⅛ cup milk (1 cup less 2 tbsps.)
½ tsp. chopped fresh or freeze-dried chives
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 egg, beaten
¼ tsp. curry powder (optional)

Puree in blender or grind the corned beef. Make a thin white sauce by blending butter or margarine with the flour, then stir in milk until it thickens and comes to boil. Remove from heat and stir a little into beaten egg in a cup then return this to hot mixture and stir over heat for a moment or two to cook egg. Remove heat and stir in chives and Worcestershire sauce. Add curry powder if desired. Turn into four 6-oz. well-buttered custard cups (or 4-oz. custard cups if to be used for savories) and stand in pan containing enough hot water to come half-way up sides of cups. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 40 min. Remove from oven and let stand in pan for 5 min. before turning out on hot dinner plates. Folks with hearty appetites can eat two each of these large ones. One each, of the smaller of course, is enough to serve as a savory at the end of a meal or for a hot snack for cocktails.

NOTE: 1) You can use these chilled as the centre of attraction on a cold plate; when refrigerator - cold they turn out to perfection.

2) This timbale mixture may be baked in a small loaf pan if desired and served hot or cold, sliced.

Two Fashionable Montreal Homes Damaged by Bomb Blasts

MONTREAL (CP) — Police in west-end Westmount were investigating two bombing incidents which damaged two fashionable homes at about 1 a.m. today.

No one was injured in the blasts which occured within one block of each other, demolishing the porches of the two homes.

Police said the bombs were made of dynamite sticks.

"We still don't know anything about the detonating mechanism or the strength of the blasts."

The two blasts occured within two minutes of each other.

Police cordoned off the debris-littered area. Windows in neighboring houses were shattered.

Occupants of both homes were unharmed by the explosions, police said.

Domtar's subsidiary, Domtar Pulp and Paper Ltd., has been involved in a violence-marred strike since July 18 when employees at the company's two Eastern Townships plants walked off their jobs.

The limousine service is involved in a bitter conflict with Montreal taxi drivers who object to what they call the company's exclusive monopoly on passenger service between Montreal and the International Airport.

A demonstration by taxi drivers at the end of October led to a clash with police which left two policemen injured, eight persons arrested and six Murray Hill vehicles burned or damaged.

The blasts brought to 42 the number of bombing incidents in the Montreal area in the last seven months.

Early Thursday, a bomb made of eight sticks of dynamite, two detonators and an elaborate timing device, was defused less than two hours before it was set to explode at 2 a.m. near the home of Gogen Brochu, owner and president of Canadian Structural Steel Works Co. Ltd.

Police said the company probably had dealt with the strike-bound Lord and Co. Steel plant where an eight-stick dynamite bomb was dismantled in October.

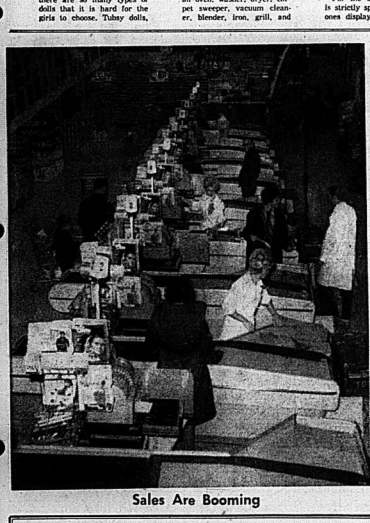
Dolls Take Major Slice of Market In City's Annual Toy Buying Binge

Christmas is less than two weeks away and the stores are crowded with toy shoppers.

Department store officials claim dolls are the biggest seller for the girls. This year there are so many types of dolls that it is hard for the girls to choose. Tubsy dolls, that splash in water are the most popular, but a near contender is the Tippy Toe doll that rides a bicycle

Next to dolls on the best seller list is the Suzie Homemaker kit. The set includes an oven, washer, dryer, carpet sweeper, vacuum cleaner, blender, iron, grill, and vanity set that all operate just like the real thing.

Many little girls have their eye on the knit-o-matic. It's new this year and really knits scarves and gloves.



For the boys this year it is strictly space toys like the ones displayed on television.

This year the manufacturers have made large and identical replicas of space stations, people, and monsters.

Hot wheels, a road-racing set, is also a big seller this Christmas, but then what boy doesn't want a racing set.

Games Not Guns

For the first Christmas in many years war toys are no longer the most popular retail items in Belleville variety stores. Four - year - old Bradley LaFleur of Trenton shows interest in one of the new games that has taken over the leadership in gifts for children.

Sales Are Booming

Christmas Sales Are Booming in City -- Buying Spree Started in November

If you notice Belleville businessmen have broader smiles this year perhaps the reason is business is booming.

Christmas Day is less than two weeks away and trade in every shopping area continues at a brisk pace, a survey revealed.

Shoppers started their annual trek to the stores in search of suitable gifts earlier than in other years At the east end plaza one merchant reported he became aware of the upswing in buying in October.

A spokesman for the downtown merchants confirmed the apparent buying spree started in advance of the usual December shot-in-the-arm of other years. He forecasts, however, a greater volume of sales is yet to come as the festive holiday nears.

At the Towers-Food City shopping unit similar increases in sales have been recorded in all departments excepting the section offering war toys. Parlor games have replaced tanks, guns and warplanes as best sellers as presents for children, according to Towers manager G. Campbell.

At the Plaza, food chain manager Larry Towns is finding the shoppers seem to have more money to spend. He attributes part of the boom at the east end shopping area as the result of government liquor store facilities at the plaza becoming better known by the public.

It's a case of "people interested in stocking up with Christmas cheer driving here for their supplies rather than fighting traffic in the more congested sections," he said.

Variety store managers generally regret there were limited stocks of a toy known as "Hot Wheels" available from the manufacturers. Shoppers made a raid on local stores for the road racing article and even depleted stocks of facsimile models in the rush to obtain the popular action toy.

One sign people intend to expand celebrations this year is the amount of decorations they take home along with other parcels. Sales of gift wrapping materials are topping previous sale periods.

The merchants in the Plaza expect the addition of Santa Claus House to generate extra enthusiasm. Two hour sessions of live organ music commenced last night. The recitals continue week nights until Dec. 23.

This year more so than other years, buyers have a greater selection from which to choose.

Stores ladened with items for making family living more comfortable are registering higher than average sales. Larger household articles and kitchen appliances are receiving the nod in many instances. For the whole family it's an entertainment item that is catching the eye of the giver. Colored TV ranging in price from $700 to $1200 is going to bring joy in more than one home in the city and area from Christmas Day onward.

The variety and amount of provisions shoppers are laying in this year is also noted. It's still early to judge whether the price of turkey will be altered by demand one manager said. One chain had a good supply at 45 cents a pound for grade A with a deluxe bird offered at 51 cents a pound. Another food chain manager said he looked for 43 cents a pound turkey before Christmas arrived.

Walker's store downtown described Christmas trade as wonderful, and it's been that way since the first part of November.

"We haven't checked figures to see how we've made out from the standpoint of percentage increase but I know sales are definitely on the rise, he added.

One of the large downtown appliance stores was impressed by the increase in the number of lay away requests this year. There was a big run on camera equipment, music instruments and other entertainment items.

Parents are also taking advantage of the two-week vacation from schools. Bookings for travel to the south by air and boat surpass other years.

Bancroft Motel Burns

BANCROFT — Loss estimated at close to $75,000 resulted in this North Hastings village early Wednesday evening when fire destroyed 15 units of the River Bend Motel.

The blaze, believed to have started as the result of careless smoking, erupted in one of the motel bedrooms. The motel business office was lost in the blaze. No one was in the rooms at the time of the fire.

Bancroft Fire Chief Cecil McAlpine said lack of water hampered fire fighters. When the 600 gallon tank on the pumper was exhausted a hose was run to the York River.

The motel is in the extreme north end of the village near the golf club and the nearest fire hydrant is one and a half miles away.

The motel is owned by River Bend Motels Ltd, with Lloyd Price as manager.

Fire Probe Continues

Insp. McKerracher said the probe would continue today through to next week.

An official from the department of energy and resources also has joined the investigation. Insp. McKerracher said this was routine procedure in any fire where an explosion was believed to have occurred.

Awards Night

Youngsters Receive Championship Accolades in Tangible Way

By GEORGE H. CARVER

A shining - eyed turkey-filled gaggle of the city's hockey youngsters received their championship accolades in a tangible way here the other night.

Also wearing warmly appreciative smiles were adult athletes in their figurative togas of championship. They too received tangible recognition of their achievements in winning provincial and-or national crowns.

Created this year the city's honors and awards committee held its first official tribute in 1968 Ontario and Canadian champions in banquet-presentation style.

Minor hockey, archery, shuffleboard and lawn bowling clubs and individuals received handsome plaques honoring their achievements.

As His Worship Mayor Russell Scott pointed out at the dinner, "An affair like this has been a long while in coming. We in city council felt that athletes of all ages who bring honor to their clubs, their city and themselves should be suitably recognized.

"The city" Mayor Scott told the athletes "is proud to give this tangible recognition to its athletic champions in one all-round effort. I speak for city council and the city as a whole in saying we are proud of them."

But there was something missing.

Here's the story.

Some years ago the late Art Black, former hotel operator, decided the city should make tangible recognition of an annual outstanding athlete.

He donated a handsome trophy, one that cost a lot of money. It was to be awarded to the Belleville Athlete of the Year named by Mr. Black and a board of trustees, Jack Devine and I were named trustees.

Let's get a few things straight. This was not a city effort. It was the brainchild of a sportsminded businessman and citizen who dipped deeply into his own pocket.

Memory slips for a moment but the first year the Athlete of the Year Trophy was awarded it went by unanimous vote to big Vern Goyer.

Vern held it for a year and the second award went to the iron man from down under Prince Edward county, one Keith MacDonald. Keith was the hardrock of both PE and Hastings county and starred in senior hockey, baseball and softball. It was a justifiable presentation.

Then Mr. Black moved from the city to Picton, I believe, and the Athlete of the Year Ward was relegated to the limbo of forgotten things.

Eventually, I learned the trophy was returned to Belleville by Mr. MacDonald and lay in seclusion in the insards of the Belleville Recreation Commission.

Later in conjunction with Bill Hurst, president of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association, the trophy was removed to the safe of the Queen's Hotel, where owner Ben Vanover has been a faithful custodian over the years.

The formation of the new City Honors and Awards committee opens a new sphere of activity to the Athlete of the Year Award.

The award calls for the presentation of the trophy to the nominated athlete, the trophy to be retained by the committee and a suitable replica given to the winner as a permanent possession.

The cost to the committee would be negligible.

It would have been a highlight of the Committee's first annual awards presentation, but it was not brought to the committee's attention and it is no fault of the members that the award was not presented.

However, next year is another year and I hope the Honors and Awards Committee will take the Athlete of the Year Trophy under its consideration for presentation.

It is theirs for the asking.

In passing I might note that during my last year as active sports editor of this newspaper, and being cognizant of the records, individually and collectively, I would have had no hesitation in naming as the city's 1968 Athlete of the Year, that versatile young athlete who starred in football and hockey, one Master Harold Townsend.

Individually, Townsend stood out well and above any other athlete in that he starred in many fields of athletics.

Perhaps the 1969 Honors and Awards Committee will back up a year in 1969 and if it considers the presentation of the Athlete of the Year Award give young Mr. Townsend his 1968 recognition.

Leafs Inch Toward Second As Bower Blanks Philly Flyers

By SCOTT BUTTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Maybe Oakland Seals knew something nobody else did when they selected goaltender Gary Smith during the National Hockey League expansion draft in the spring of 1967.

Smith was regarded as a flashy netminder, capable of thrilling fans with his unorthodox play but a trifle inconsistent in blocking oppositions shots. It was believed Oakland wanted Smith, a handsome six-foot-four, as a gate attraction.

But, recently Smith has given some indication that he is developing into a talented NHL goaltender.

The blonde-haired native of Ottawa picked up his second shutout of the season and his second in three games Thursday night when Oakland trounced Detroit Red Wings 6-0.

In other games, Johnny Bower posted his second shutout of the campaign as Toronto Maple Leafs blanked Philadelphia Flyers 1-0, and Montreal Canadiens edged St. Louis Blues 5-4.

Smith's steady goaltending helped produce a victory which moved third-place Oakland to within one point of the second-place Los Angeles Kings in the Western Division.

But, despite Smith's colorful play and the improved showing of the Seals this season, only 4,238 fans watched the game at Oakland.

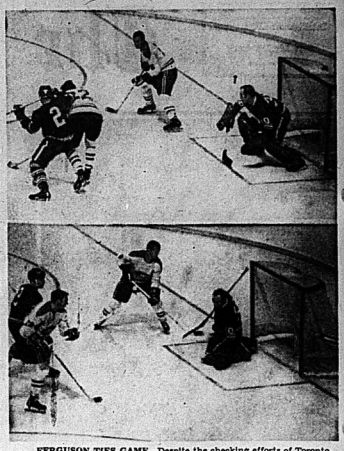
Rookie Norm Ferguson scored two goals for the Seals. Single goals went to Ted Hampson, Bill Hicke, Gerry Ehman and Gary Jarrett. Hampson also collected three assists.

Ron Ellis scored on a 25-foot shot in the first period to give Bower all the margin he needed for the Maple Leafs' victory at Philadelphia.

The shutout was the 37th of Bower's 13-year NHL career. The 46-year-old netminder has appeared in only eight games this season.

The victory, watched by 8,531, stretched the Maple Leafs' undefeated streak to five games four of them wins—and moved Toronto to within one point of second-place New York Rangers and Boston Bruins in the Eastern Division.



The loss extended Philadelphia's winless streak to 10 games, and left the Flyers in last place in the Western Division.

Montreal's victory watched by 16,709 fans, moved first-place Canadiens four points ahead of the second-place Rangers and Bruins. Despite the loss, St. Louis remained eight points ahead of runner-up Los Angeles in the Western Division.

Henri Richard scored two goals for Montreal, only his third and fourth of the season. Other Canadiens goals went to John Ferguson, Gilles Tremblay and Serge Savard.

Montreal outshot St. Louis 46-25, keeping Blues' goaltender Glenn Hall active throughout the game.

FERGUSON TIES GAME—Despite the checking efforts of Toronto Maple Leaf defencemen Pierre Pilote (2), John Ferguson (22) of the Montreal Canadiens puts the puck past goalie Bruce Gamble to score the tieing goal during the closing minutes of a NHL game at Toronto Wednesday night. Bunny Ahearne Hits Rafters Over Proposed 'Open' Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — A proposal that the world amateur hockey championship be made an open tournament, with Canada represented by either Toronto Maple Leafs or Montreal Canadiens of the National League, Thursday drew opposition from one of the most powerful figures in European hockey.

J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne of London, president of the European Hockey Federation, made his stand in a telephone interview with Milt Dunnell, sports editor of The Star.

"What good would it do to change the rules that apply to 29 nations just to accommodate one nation—Canada," Ahearne said.

"I'm not concerned about the future of hockey in Europe. I am concerned about the future of hockey in Canada. Now tell me, what good would it do Canadian hockey to have Leafs, Canadiens or any other professional team represent Canada in a world amateur tournament?

CLARENCE CAMPBELL
"Not Consulted"

"I've told Canadian hockey people time and again that they keep worrying about not beating Russia. Look back over the records. They haven't been doing too well against Czechoslovakia and Sweden, either."

Ahearne says sending a professional team to the world championships would remove a main incentive for Canadians youths to play amateur hockey.

In Montreal, Clarence Campbell, NHL president, said the league has not been officially consulted about any plans for open hockey competition.

"Officially as a league, we're not aware of any proposals.

"I don't know what the NHL's policy would be on the matter, and at the moment it appears that Dawson is the appropriate person to speak."

Campbell stressed that representatives of Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens attended the meeting "as people interested in Canada and Canadian hockey and looking for a solution."

Trenton Reps Ride High

McIntosh Rink Unbeaten After Fourth

GUELPH — Hec McIntosh's Canadian Forces Base Trenton rink joined Alfie Phillips Jr.'s foursome as one of seven unbeaten rinks going into today's fifth round of the Ontario Curling Association's challenge bonspiel.

McIntosh made his last rock good Thursday, eliminating former Trenton skip Bill Lewis' Kingston foursome by a 7-6 margin, the narrowest of yesterday's play. Lewis dropped his second-round match 9-7 to Phillips.

The McIntosh rink — including Ron Marion, Art King, and Wayne Oates — nipped Howie Atkinson of Toronto Avonlea 9-7 in the first round.

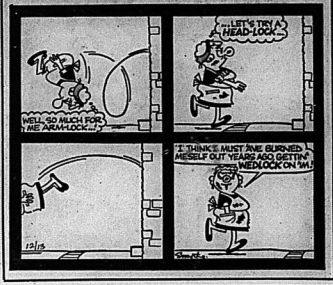
Another CFB Trenton rink — that of Bob McInnes — was eliminated from further competition yesterday.

Phillips, curling with a new rink from the one which won the Canadian crown, posted two victories Thursday in the first two rounds of the double-knockout competition.

The top two rinks in the 32-rink invitation bonspiel will win an automatic bye into the OCA's playoff to select a rink to represent Ontario in the national championship next March.

Other undefeated rinks after four rounds are Bob Harris of Unionville, Jab Pierce of Dundas Valley, Eldon Coombe of Ottawa, Stu Daw of Toronto Dixie, Irvin Wallace of Port Carling and Terry Pallen of Brantford.

Eight rinks were eliminated in the opening day of the three-day competition. They were Ted Nowak of Kitchener, Mac White of Burlington, Bob Mann and Ted Brown, both of Kingston, Ken Warner of Toronto Humber Highland, Doug Macklem of Arnprior, Bill Gall of Niagara Falls and Earl Hushagen of Toronto.



The other 16 rinks all have 1-1 marks.

Thursday, Phillips, who is commuting between Guelph and Toronto where he is playing in the CBC-TV international competition, defeated Harry Lewis of Ottawa 9-7 and Gall 16-3.

Harris had a close call in the 10th and final end of a second-round match with Ian Auld of Toronto. He scored a four-ender in the 12th end to down Auld 10-7 after starting the day by dumping Gerry Downer of Toronto 14-8.

Pierce, who nipped former Canadian Championship contender Mann 11-10 in the first round, edged Unionville's Murray Roberts by the same score in the third round.

Mo-Hawks Seek Terrier Leash

STAFF — The Bellcville Mo-Hawks will be looking for vengeance and two valuable points tonight when they tangle with the third-place Orillia Terriers at the Bellcville Arena in an OHA Senior "A" hockey game.

The Mo-Hawks dropped a 5-4 overtime decision to the Terriers in Orillia two weeks ago after losing a 4-0 first period lead, and the last time the two clubs met in Belleville, Orillia came out ahead 3-1.

The locals are currently in seventh place in the eight team league with ten points in 19 games, and they need a win to enhance their bid for the sixth and last playoff spot currently held by Kingston.

Belleville is coming off a strong effort in Kingston Tuesday and coach Davey Jones said : "We'll give them a real battle if we get the same effort we did in that game. Kingston won 3-1 Tuesday in a game that could have easily been Belleville's.

Jones said that Greg Marchen who did not play Tuesday because he had to work, will dress tonight, as will Murray "Moe" Hunter, Jones said that he has not yet decided which two players will sit out tonight's game.

Sunday the Mo-Hawks travel to Woodstock to take on the last place Aleans in an afternoon game.

Air Canada Agreement Stalled By Fight Over Interpretation

MONTREAL (CP) — Negotiators for Air Canada and 2,200 passenger agents and communications personnel were to meet "as quickly as possible" today to resolve an "misunderstanding" that has held up official signing of a new labor contract.

The airline said in a statement that in the final stages of negotiations with the employees union "a misunderstanding arose over the issue of meal periods on the day shift being considered as time worked."

An airline spokesman said there is no question of Air Canada withdrawing its offer of an eight per-cent wage increase and other benefits over one year. It was made during an all-night bargaining session and agreement by union leaders was announced early Thursday.

Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey unexpectedly joined the talks a few hours before settlement in the dispute was made public.

Agreement was announced early Thursday by Air Canada and the Canadian Air Line Employees Association, representing passenger agents, switchboard operators and communications personnel.

It followed three days of work-to-rule slowdown by the employees, whose last contract expired July 31.

The Air Canada offer was for an eight-per-cent wage increase and other benefits in a one-year contract to end Aug. 1, 1969. The airline said it would be retroactive to last Aug and would cost Air Canada $1,250,000.

In a press conference Thursday John Hayes, vice-president of the association, said he was recommending unanimous acceptance of the proposed one-year contract.

Under the previous contract, passenger agents earned from $325 to $550 a month and switchboard operators were paid between $260 and $382 monthly.

Air Canada offered improvements in seniority, better fringe benefits, four weeks vacation after 15 years service instead of 20, and 11 statutory holidays instead of 10.

Charles Eyre, Air Canada's director of personnel and industrial relations, said Mr. Mackasey just "happened" to be in Montreal when both parties began all-night negotiations Wednesday.

Late Breakfast

Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey has a combination lunch and breakfast in his Parliament Hill office at Ottawa following an all-night bargaining session at Montreal in which a new contract agreement was reached between Air Canada and the Canadian Air Line Employees' Association. He flew back to the capital and attended a two-hour cabinet meeting before his meal which he ate while reporters interviewed him about the settlement. (CP Photo)

Canada Keeps in Mind All Nigeria Arms Sales

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government is being careful not to treat the question of British arms sales to Nigeria in isolation from that of arms being supplied by other countries to the combatants in the Nigerian civil war.

One reason, informants say, is that if Britain halted arms deliveries unilaterally it would be handing Russia a golden opportunity to expand its influence in Africa's most populous state and one of its richest.

The Soviets already have made inroads in Nigeria by providing military aircraft for the federal forces, something which Britain refuses to do. The British government confines deliveries to what are described as small arms and light equipment.

Prime Minister Trudeau and External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp have been invited several times by opposition questioners in the Commons to condemn British arms sales, or to undertake to apply pressure on Prime Minister Wilson as well as putting an end to them.

Their answers have usually been to the effect that Canada would like to see the cessation of all arms shipments either to Nigeria or secessionist Biafra.

"Both the prime minister and I on a number of occasions have expressed our desire that no arms should be shipped to Nigeria from any source," Mr. Sharp said Thursday in reply to a Commons question. "This continues to be the position of the Canadian government."

He declined to take up a suggestion that Canada make representations to Britain to join in establishing an international embargo on arms shipments to Nigeria and Biafra.

Shulman Says Student Nurses Have Relations With Retarded

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond said Thursday that remarks made by Dr. Morton Shulman in the legislature about mental institutions were "so specious it is impossible to nail any of them down."

Dr. Dymond said in an interview that Dr. Shulman's charge that sexual relations are going on between "female student nurses and male patients" in an Ontario hospital are "very damaging."

Dr. Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) quoted from a memo he said had been given him by a senior psychiatrist at the Brockville psychiatric hospital.

The memo said that among other things, female wards are staffed by males who must bathe patients, pharmacy keys have been taken away from doctors because of drug pilferage, and sexual intercourse occurs between male and female patients and between student nurses and male patients.

Dr. Shulman, who said he spent two months preparing the speech in which he also accused the government of permitting "institutional brutality" in treatment of the mentally retarded, stopped talking after about five hours because, he said, his voice was giving out.

Dr. Dymond said that a statement by the NDP member that there were over 400 pregnancies among retarded, long-term inmates of mental institutions in 1967 was "so palpable as to be ridiculous."

"There are five patients in institutions for the retarded who became pregnant last year, and we can't be certain the students took place in the institutions."

He said these patients are allowed out to be instilled with "a sense of responsibility."

Elmer Sopha (L—Sudbury) said in an interview that he did not believe the NDP member was genuinely interested in the problem of care for the mentally retarded.

"I think he is interested in his own personal aggrandizement," said Mr. Sopha.

In other legislature business Thursday:

—Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said he will review the case of an 18-year-old Indian girl alleged to have been held in Toronto Don Jail for a month before a charge of possessing a stolen article was withdrawn for lack of evidence. The allegation was made in a letter to a Toronto newspaper that the unidentified girl was held in custody when she was unable to raise $1,000 bail.

—The legislature's private bills committee approved three private bills, one of which will allow the town of Parry Sound to appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board against an apportionment of costs for a home for the aged.

The other bills increased the authorized capital of the Ontario Co-operative Credit Society to $10,000,000 from $3,000,000 and revived the charter of March Diamond Drilling Ltd.

—Attorney-General Arthur Wishart introduced a new 25-page Mechanics' Liens Act based on the findings of a two-year study by the Ontario law reform commission.

A mechanics' lien is one taken out against the estate or interest in land owned by a person who does any work upon the land, buildings or other structures.

Delete Bid To Forgive Mortgages

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial legislature's legal bills committee voted 7 to 4 Thursday to delete from new expropriation legislation a clause which would give additional protection to mortgaged homeowners.

Before the vote, government members had joined the opposition to press Attorney-General Arthur Wishart to leave the clause in the bill.

Mr. Wishart promised to take the matter back to the cabinet for further consideration.

He restated his position, taken before the first committee meeting Tuesday, that the government had no right to enter into private money contracts.

The clause would have provided that mortgage payments be forgiven in cases where compensation paid for the house was not as great as the mortgage put on it.

It would apply in cases of purchase-money mortgages only.

These are mortgages held directly by the seller of the house to over the purchaser, and are most often employed in substandard housing.

In return for an inflated mortgage value, the purchaser is offered low down payments and low monthly charges and interest.

The committee also voted to seek government permission to sit next Monday and Tuesday nights after the attorney-general noted that 1,000 pages of the 22-page act had been dealt with after two days of hearings.

Cobourg Fears Forces May Shut Supply Depot

COBOURG, Ont. (CP) — Fourteen years ago, when Canadian forces supply depot No. 26 was set up in this town of 14,000, citizens looked askance at it. They feared Saturday night riotousness among other things.

They quickly changed their minds when it became obvious that the depot, employing about 400 civilians, was worth $3,000,000 a year in pay cheques and $280,000 in tax grants to the town.

Now there are rumors that the base will be closed.

Mayor Jack Heenan said in an interview Thursday that if the base is closed, it would be a tragedy, and added:

"It's the people I'm worried about. What happens to these people who began working for the depot when they were 23 and are now 50? How do you get a job when you're 50?"

In Ottawa, a defence department spokesman said the people of Cobourg had "no foundation as yet" for their worries.

"They are probably concerned because they have seen inspection teams around the depot," he said, "We have sent inspection teams to several installations to study their value."

The spokesman said the department would like to consolidate some of its facilities because of budget restrictions, but that no decision had yet been made on the fate of the Cobourg depot.

CBC Decides Against Reply to Its Critics

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the CBC has decided not to issue a detailed rebuttal to an Ontario government-appointed committee report which accused the corporation of irresponsibility in a television program, Air of Death.

The newspaper says a three-page rebuttal had been prepared but the corporation's headquarters in Ottawa decided that no further statement would be made. In a statement Tuesday, the CBC said its research for the program was "extensive and thorough."

A report tabled in the legislature Tuesday was particularly critical of the CBC program shown Oct. 22, 1967, suggesting that residents of the Dunnville, Ont., area were suffering from fluoride poisoning. The area is 25 miles south of Hamilton.

CBC officials Thursday refused to comment on whether a detailed rebuttal had been prepared and then discarded.

But the newspaper says it was the corporation's intention to deal specifically in the rebuttal with three points raised in the report, one of them that the CBC did not interview the medical health officer for the area. The CBC apparently was unable to reach him, the newspaper says.

The program also said hundreds of cattle died because of fluoride poisoning. The explanation in the rebuttal would have been that researchers for the CBC were told by farmers that 1,000 cattle died or had to be destroyed the newspaper says.

It also says the rebuttal to a third point raised by the report —that there was no evidence air pollution caused "a hole in a person's throat"—was to have been that a man interviewed by said surgeons had to "cut a hole" in his trachea as part of treatment for a condition brought about by air pollution.

Tyendinaga Reserve

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — At the service in All Saints Church last Sunday afternoon, the chaplain, Rev. F. F. Downing, baptized Miss Lynn Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Lewis of Rochester.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Maracle of the Slash Road will be glad to learn that both are well on the road to recovery. Mrs. Maracle is now at home, after several weeks in the Belleville General Hospital, and Mr. Maracle is expected to be discharged any day now.

Robert Hill, who has been a patient in the Belleville General Hospital for several months is reported to have pneumonia now.

Arnold Brant, chairman of the recreation committee, expressed great satisfaction at the success of the square dances being held in the Community Hall. A Belleville group was invited to attend a Get Acquainted night, to demonstrate modern square dancing, and the new form caught on right away. The second dance saw approximately 60 people having a good time. Tuesday night every week until May has been set aside for this form of recreation.

Brant Gorget Displayed

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — A $13,000 silver-gilt gorget, once a gift from King George III to Joseph Brant, went on display here Thursday at the site where the Mohawk chieftain died 161 years ago.

"He lived the last seven years of his life here and died on this spot—we felt the gorget should come home," said Mary Fraser, secretary of the Joseph Brant Museum.

A gorget is a crescent-shaped piece of armor worn at the throat of British officers about 1770. It became both an ornament and an insignia of the wearer's rank.

The king gave the gorget to Brant, also a captain in the British army, for his services during the American Revolution. On the back is inscribed: The Gift of a Friend to Capt. Brant.

The Joseph Brant Museum board paid $13,000 for it at a Sotheby's of Canada auction last May. Burlington citizens made donations from $1 to $1,000 to pay for it.

Mrs. Fraser said the gorget has been declared a national treasure by Ottawa. "It means that it cannot leave the country."

Both Commons and Senate Debate Proposed Changes in Rules

OTTAWA (CP)—The hotly-contested issue of rules changes for the House of Commons boiled over into the Senate Thursday and caused a brief flurry of excitement in the normally unflappable upper chamber.

Parliament presented the unusual spectacle of simultaneous discussions going on about the same topic at the same time in its two separate houses.

Senator Allister Grosart (PC—Ontario) seized the opportunity afforded by Senate debate on a government appropriations bill to get in his licks about government proposals to overhaul procedures of the Commons.

Referring to a plan to refer all government spending estimates to Commons committees, instead of leaving the main responsibility for scrutinizing them with a committee of the whole House, Senator Grosart declared:

"I happen to believe that it is a milestone marking a very dangerous detour from the straight, if narrow, road of the tradition of parliamentary control of the public purse and, through it, of the executive."

At the same time, in the Commons, opposition members were continuing their all-out assault on the same proposal, plus another one that would give House Leader Donald Macdonald special powers to allocate time for debates in the event an all-party committee fails to agree on their duration.

Government speakers struck back with a firm defence of the proposals outlined in a report presented last week by Gordon Blair (L—Grenville-Carleton), chairman of a special committee on streamlining the frequently cumbersome rules structure.

Yves Forest (L—Missisquoi) said the proposed time-allocation rule would make debates better and more precise, if a little shorter.

In the upper house, Senator Grosart had to buck verbal harassment from Senators Harland Molson (Ind.-Quebec) and Arthur Roebuck (L—Ontario who claimed he was out of order.

"It is strictly against our rules to take part in a debate which is now in progress in the other House," objected Senator Roebuck.

Speaker Jean-Paul Deschatelets agreed, and Senator Grosart was forced to drop the subject.

In the Commons, the debate rolled on through afternoon and evening sittings without coming to an end.

It was scheduled to go into its fourth day today.

Elden Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) delivered one of the more outspoken speeches, describing Commons committees as kangaroo courts controlled by the prime minister.

The Conservatives could never agree to turn over study of the spending of "$11,000,000,000 of the public's money" to them.

On the time-allocation proposal Mr. Woolliams said:

"We oppose and will continue to oppose vigorously closure in advance—the muzzling and gagging of Parliament in advance on the authority of . . . one man, the government House leader."

Grant Deachman (L—Vancouver Quadra) said the Canadian Parliament has the most antiquated set of rules of any modern parliament. The proposed changes would merely bring Canada into the 20th century.

James Jerome (L—Sudbury) said Parliament is not an insular, ivory-tower chamber or a private club. "It serves not only its members but the needs of the people. If it doesn't do this, it is going to disappear because there are other forms of government that are ready to take its place."

The proposed changes were neither drastic nor terminal. They were a significant first step in the direction of change and improvement, and expedition of public business.

Charles-Arthur Gauthier (Cr-Etiste—Roberval) said "democracy will die" if the time allocation proposal is passed without amendment.

Manning Steps Down

Harry Strom Becomes Alberta's Ninth Premier

EDMONTON (CP) — Harry Strom became Alberta's ninth premier Wednesday and named a cabinet that marked the passing of the Social Credit government's first generation of power.

Described as a "caretaker" cabinet by the new premier, it contains the same personnel as the outgoing administration of Premier E. C. Manning with the exception of Mr. Manning himself and his lands and forests minister, A. J. Hooke.

Mr. Manning, 60, and Mr. Hooke, 63, were the only men in the cabinet who were elected in the 1935 sweep that brought Social Credit to power under the late William Aberhart.

With their departure, cabinet seniority belongs to Highways Minister Gordon Taylor, 58, who has sat in the legislature since 1940 and joined the administration 10 years later.

Mr. Strom broke with tradition by appointing Public Works Minister Fred Colborne as house leader. Mr. Manning himself held the house leadership during his 25 years as premier.

Minister of municipal affairs under Mr. Manning, the premier added the portfolio to the duties of Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart and assigned Mr. Hooke's duties in lands and forests to Agriculture Minister Henry Ruste in addition to his present responsibilities.

Mr. Strom turned the education department over to Youth Minister Robert Clark, 33, youngest member of the cabinet who also remained youth minister.

Labor Minister Ray Reierson, 49, was given the telephones department, formerly the responsibility of Provincial Treasurer A. O. Aalborg. Mr. Aalborg, 54, has announced that he plans to retire before the next provincial election.

Buyer Tells of Two Loans

TORONTO (CP) — Hyman Perzow, 56, a former buyer for Steinberg's Ltd., admitted Thursday that he borrowed $3,500 in 1963 from two Steinberg's suppliers.

He told a public inquiry into Ontario's produce industry that on both loans there was nothing in writing and no understanding concerning interest.

Mr. Perzow refused Wednesday to give details on receiving loans after his lawyer advised him not to do so.

He was given until Thursday to answer or face a mandatory jail term under the powers vested in the government-appointed commission. Mr. Perzow relented Thursday and answered the questions.

He admitted Wednesday that he had accepted a loan of $2,500 from Arthur Richmond, president and owner of Levy Produce Ltd. of Toronto. But he refused at that time to elaborate or discuss other loans he may have obtained.

Asked again Thursday about the loans, he said he had received an additional loan of $1,000 from Bill Omar of Omar Produce Co., of Brighton, Ont., also a Steinberg's supplier.

paid Mr. Richmond the loans

He said that except for $50 ha are outstanding.

MacDonald Gifford, former assistant buyer at Steinberg's, testified under the protection of the Canada Evidence Act that he received personal payments of between $200 and $300 in 1966 from Tony Arrigo of F. G. Lister and Co. Ltd., a fruit and produce wholesale firm.

Mr. Gifford said he did not receive cash payments from Levy Produce, but added that he had borrowed $2,000 from Mr. Richmond and had repaid $150.

Asked if he had made any other loans, Mr. Gifford replied: "Yes, Mr. Arrigo gave me a cheque for $1,000 and there was $500 from North American Fruit Co."

Apart from the $1,000 cheque from Mr. Arrigo, he said there was a total of $1,400 in cheques he had cashed with Mr. Arrigo and which had not been deposited.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

Boy Scout activities were detailed at the December meeting of the District Council held Monday evening. A scout rally will be held on Feb. 22nd in which afterwards will be given in various categories.

The emphasis will be on personal achievement rather than on strong competition between individuals and groups. District president, John Wieberdink also announced that an honors and awards night is tentatively set for March 29.

On behalf of the camp committee, Bruce Thompson said camp Sagonaska had been cleaned up for winter camping. It was proposed that those using the site, fill out a simple form for the committee.

This would lead to better housekeeping and therefore, benefit everyon.

The district commissioner, Arnold Welch, dealt at length with training problems. The scout movement no longer requires leaders to wear uniforms to meetings other than boys' gatherings.

Assistant commissioners are no longer expected to make routine inspections. They will visit groups requiring advice and training. The emphasis is on private consultation with scouters.

Mr. Welch feels nearly all sections urgently need training programs, and dates will be set shortly.

Special boy training courses are planned. By popular demand scouts will be able to take instruction in despatch-riding, gun-safety, first aid and skiing.

Officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary are: president, Mrs. Don Dawson; vice-president, Mrs. R. C. Halpin; and treasurer, Mrs. John Coxon.

IT WORKS
BECAUSE IT
SWINGS!

That's the principle behind the pendulum clock, invented in 1657. Today such clocks are only in cathedrals and public buildings. But it's a rare home that doesn't contain at least one time-keeping device. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are gone and in modern world depends upon accurate clocks.

If the days of your older clock are gone in your house, chances are that a home somewhere in this area would love to use it.

YOU MAY NOT OWN A TALKING PIANO!

But if your piano could talk, it might tell you that its first assessor was invented in France, Italy in 1709, and that by 1800 it had supplanted the harpsichord and clavichord. And it would tell you Mozart and Haydn were among the first composers to write for the piano. Your piano might also remind you that it pays to keep after it. It would prefer to be sold through a Intelligencer Want Ad so that it can get back to work. Call 962-9171 today.

Peyton Place Dieing

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Will Rodney Harrington recover from paralysis? Is his wife Betty seeing her former husband Steven Cord? Will she get her inheritance?

Such current Peyton Place plot problems are nothing compared with the anguish of its fans over a real-life cliffhanger:

Is the Monday-Wednesday television soap opera going off the air after this, its fifth year, clobbered in audience ratings by the madcap powerhouse Laugh-in?

From coast to coast P.P. partisans are writing ABC protests such as: "I was shocked. It isn't so!" "It's my family's favorite program."

But Rowan and Martin's Laugh-in, NBC's blockbuster now No. 1 in Nielsen ratings, has knocked Peyton Place into a 20-per-cent or smaller share of the Monday night audience.

"The future of the show will not be known until mid-February, when its option period is up," says ABC.

OFF THE RECORD — By Ed Reed — MR. TWEEDY — by Ned Riddle

Somebody's Keeping Tab on Us
Is Complaint From PC Member

OTTAWA (CP) — Eldon Woolliams, Conservative MP for Calgary North, can be counted on to throw the Commons into an uproar at the drop of a word.

He did it Thursday by using a seldom-employed House rule to ask that two ministerial assistants—he identified them as "strong-arm men"—be tossed out of a Commons gallery.

He said the two were keeping attendance figures on opposition MPs contrary to Commons regulations.

The two denied this to reporters. They were Tom D'Aquino, an assistant to Privy Council President Donald Macdonald, government House leader, and Robert McDowell, an assistant to Transport Minister Paul Hellyer.

The incident began by Mr. Woolliams ended on a note which will likely give some MPs some qualms.

At the suggestion of Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming), House leader Lucien Lamoureux said he would refer to the procedure committee the possibility of adopting a system for officially recording Commons attendance.

The only official attendance figure now kept occurs when a vote is taken on a formal division.

Mr. Woolliams pointed to the diplomatic gallery and said two men from Mr. Macdonald's office were marking the attendance of opposition MPs.

Stanley Knowles, NDP House leader, said Mr. Speaker had no option under House order No. 13 but to order the two to withdraw from the gallery.

Mr. Woolliams said the Commons protective staff should examine the notes of the two "strong-arm men."

"I know exactly what they're up to," he added. "This is another part of the dictatorship by this government."

Mr. Macdonald said he is sorry that opposition MPs are sensitive about attendance.

By tradition, "I cry "I spy a stranger" is sufficient to have the galleries cleared.

Mr. Woolliams said he did not kno the names of the two strangers. But they could be identified by their dark suits and long hair.

The blushes of Mr. D'Aquino and Mr. McDowell could be seen from the far end of the Commons.

"I ask that the two leave and keep the diplomatic gallery pure for the guests," Mr. Woolliams said.

Mr. D'Aquino and Mr. McDowell declined to leave, however, and stayed to hear points of order.

Ivory Coast Spurns Gift Of Wheat

OTTAWA (CP) — A Paris statement that the Ivory Coast has spurned a gift of Canadian wheat caught officials by surprise here Thursday.

"The statement, issued by the Ivory Coast embassy in the French capital, said the African country never has suffered from a scarcity of cereal and never has asked for wheat.

Sunday School Lesson

Assurance in Code

Thousands of people, some reports said hundreds of thousands, stood in front of the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D.C. and sang together. The group included black and white, rich and poor, educated and uneducated, clergy and laymen, young and old. They sang "We Shall Overcome." In this way, they expressed their faith that bigotry and discrimination will be overcome, and justice for the poor and oppressed will be realized.

Some who participated in the huge freedom rally felt this action was pronounced reminiscent of the greater scene described by John in the 7th chapter of Revelation when a great multitude which no man could number, from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and tongues," shall stand before the throne of God and the Lamb together. (Revelation 7:9-10 RSV): They shall join in a tremendous Te Deum of praise to God because He has overcome, and they are sharing in His victory.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 15: "Assurance to the Faithful" Revelation 4 through 5, 7.

The crowd before the Lincoln Memorial sang because they wanted greater justice to come. The multitude described in the book of Revelation sings because at last justice has come to those who have been faithful to God.

The cry for justice runs all through the Bible. Isaiah dreams of a day when faith in pride and oppression shall be lowered, and valleys of iniquity shall be filled in. (Isaiah 40:4) He grieves because God desires justice, but sees atrocities and bloodshed instead. God looks for righteousness, but instead He hears cries of oppression. (Isaiah 5:7) Amos calls for justice to flow like a mighty stream. (Amos 5:24) Even Mary, the mother of Jesus, dreams that her Son will bring greater justice to the World. (Luke 1:52-53)

John, the author of Revelation, takes the problem of justice, and looks at it on a cosmic screen. He saw Christians being martyred. He saw wicked men literally getting away with murder. What about justice for the martyred? What about punishment for the wicked? Is evil stronger than God? Who will win the ultimate victory, God or Satan?

As John thought these problems, his faith leaped beyond the limits of time and space. He believed, as Jesus said, that in the world faithful Christians will have tribulation but they can be of good cheer, because in the life to come they will share in Christ's victory. (John 16:33) God is not limited by time and space. He has an eternity in which to achieve His purposes, and He will prevail. Ultimately, Rome and all other tyrants will be destroyed. Those who have been denied justice in this world can expect, if they are faithful, to be rewarded for their faithfulness in the final judgments of God.

This is the message John warned to get to his fellow Christians. But John was a prisoner of Rome. To indict Rome for its wickedness, would be suicide. His message would never get past the Roman censors. How could he do it? He could do it by word pictures that would have a meaning to people, who were familiar with the writings of Ezekiel and Daniel, but would seem like the product of an over-wrought imagination to his Roman captors.

During World War II, the Japanese boasted what they would do to the United States. To assure the people, President Roosevelt sent out a fair. Referring to the Japanese boast, he said, "Tell it to the army; tell it to the navy; in fact, tell it to the marines."

To the Japanese, the phrase "tell it to the marines" would have no special meaning, but every American would get the point immediately. This phrase has long been used as an American idiom to reject a statement with which one does not agree.

John used what we might call religious code language to assure his Christian friends. He talks about the fall of Babylon To a Roman magistrate this might seem like a retelling of ancient history. Christians knew John didn't mean Babylon at all. He meant Rome.

John enlarges on Ezekiel's vision of God's chariot throne (Ezekiel 1:15-16) to illustrate the majesty of God (Revelation 4:1-8) He pictures Jesus as a Lamb that has been sacrificed, but is alive again. The Lamb has seven horns (symbol of power in ancient writings) and seven eyes (Revelation 5:6) corresponding to Zechariah's picture of the seven "eyes of God which range through the whole earth." (Zechariah 4:10)

Not all of John's imagery is easy to interpret, and Christians are by no means agreed on what his visions mean. They are agreed, however, that Revelation pulses with the faith that though wrong seems so strong, God is still the Supreme Ruler over all.

Misquotation Is Durable

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

The durability of misquotations is a fascinating and frightening thing to see. It almost seems as if a false quotation attributed to a great man has more persistence than a true one.

Last month, for instance, I was scheduled to speak before a group of teachers in a Chicago suburb. I arrived in time to hear the closing remarks of the preceding speaker, who happened to be the Superintendent of Schools of Cook County.

He ended his peroration with the most famous "fake quote" in American history—the one in which Abraham Lincoln is supposed to have said: "You cannot bring about prosperity by discouraging thrift; you cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong; you cannot help the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer; you cannot help the poor by destroying the rich . . . and so on, in a similar vein.

Now, Lincoln never said this, or anything like this. Unlike a well-prepared speech for some special cause, a superintendent of schools — or his ghost writer — has an obligation to check his sources before he promotes such noxious and one-sided sentiments as the remarks of a Lincoln. And especially before hundreds of schoolteachers, who might possibly pass it on to their equally gullible pupils.

Gladly seizing the bit in my teeth, I prefaced my remarks by offering $1,000 to the county school fund if the superintendent—or anyone else, could authenticate a single quotation from any of Lincoln's writings or speeches, and warned the teachers against accepting such spurious attributions. But if I had not happened to be there, the falsity would have gone unnoticed, and probably would have been spread further abroad.

This particular Lincoln hoax had been nailed by Roy Basler almost 20 years ago (Abraham Lincoln Quarterly, Dec., 1949). It was first given wide publicity by Postmaster General Summerfield in the 1948 political campaign, and promptly denounced by Stephen A. Mitchell, the Democratic National Committee chairman, as "one of a series of recent Republican fakes and hoaxes."

In 1956 the Associated Press traced the false quotation to its source — a 1942 leaflet distributed by the "Committee for Constitutional Government" one of the right-wing and anti-labor organizations flourishing at the time. One of the then leaders of this group was Edward A. Rumely, long prominent in reactionary and labor-baiting activities.

Apparently, the right-wingers continue to use the equally false: "God must have loved the common people, He made so many of them," which Honest Abe never said, either. Too bad his quoters aren't as honest.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For Dec. 14th,

Your birthday today: Last-minute-luck crops up this year to provide a way out of the jam you have gotten into. No actual plan of action will work this year as the world is shifting in many directions. Religion is almost certain to emerge as a major factor very soon. Today's natives tend to be sympathetic to revolutionary ideas.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Yesterday's happenings are countered by upward breaks today, with even greater voltage. You need to cooperate to meet the situation well.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): You try to do too much too soon. Worry cuts down the results. Somehow check your inclination to be stubborn.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): It's hard to concentrate on one line of action today, so postpone everything that can be skipped. Friends of long standing, who should be the most accepting, are the least tolerant.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Real estate should not be traded or negotiated today! Focus on matters where progress is clear moment by moment; use the mounting record as encouragement.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): You churn round and round, going in circles. Expect this standoff; prepare for a better day tomorrow.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): There is no reason for argument, but bickering makes you tell less worried. Have the insight to live with the worry instead of passing emotion on.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct 22): Keep yourself terribly self-interested to keep the problems of others from spoiling your own welfare. (New starts are not under the best influences today.)

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov 21): Social affairs are not very satisfying; focus instead on your health and welfare. Meditation and light exercise slow bring good results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Put off your romantic inclinations for the moment as your emotional conflicts may spoil things a bit. Catch up on the correspondence, errands and ends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): You must give your home and loved ones full share of your attention. Above anything else, this is worth doing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): In-laws and their motivations are difficult to figure. Stay out of reach if you can; otherwise normal routines are in order. Venture a small celebration late in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Expenses are higher because of people you have permitted to be provoked needlessly. Panic leads to hasty moves — not in your best interests; avoid it.

Any Night Glasgow Belongs to Tough Laddies Who Can Chib Fastest With Cut-throat Razor

GLASGOW (AP) — A boy named Alan did a careless thing in Glasgow the other day. He crossed a street.

The street took him into the Gorbals district and within minutes he came out unconscious on a stretcher, his face slashed to ribbons.

Alan belongs to the Tongs, so he should have known better than to cross an unmarked frontier into the territory of the rival Cumbie gang.

Surgeons put more than 40 stitches into the disfiguring wounds.

At 17, Alan paid the price of breaking gangland rules. Now he's waiting his chance for revenge on a straying Cumbie.

What happened to Alan—his full name was not disclosed by authorities — is common-place in the squalid districts where the gangs flourish.

Glasgow's 25 to 30 gangs help make the city one of the most unruly in the world.

On average, 250 persons, mostly teen-agers, are treated in hospitals each Friday to Sunday night for wounds suffered in fights and ambushes.

The murder rate rose to 24 last year from 10 in 1957.

Serious assaults increased in the same period to 1,282 from 310.

Glasgow long has been a special case, stretching back in violence to the razor gangs who roamed the slums in the depression years of the 1930s.

Now there is work for skilled men in the shipyards and factories of this port city, with a population of 1,000,000 on the River Clyde. But the gangs remain.

They fight it out on a strictly territorial basis. It's one street against another, one district against another. Roman Catholics and Protestants join together in the same bunch. Indicated to vendettas that the outsider can never understand.

Interviews with gang members are rare and often dangerous to seek. One youth's story—made public by police concerned a 19-year-old who said his name was Billy. He was awaiting trial at the time on a charge of attempted murder, arising from a fracas in a rival gang district.

"You have to be careful carrying a razor in case the police pick you up with it," Billy said. "A good one comes at nearly 30 bob 30 shillings (or $3.90) and sometimes you only get to use it once."

"If you chib a lad properly you cut him right through the muscle in his cheek and often the blade snaps off.

"I've had that happen. I chibbed this lad and saw his cheek open up all white inside until I could see right through to his teeth.

"Just as the blood began to spurt out his mates came after me and I saw my blade was broken so I ran for it."

Standard Police Caution With Violent Man Leads to Two Deaths

MINDEN, Ont. (CP) — Faced with a violent man, armed with a rifle and holed up in a house surrounded by policemen, standard police procedure is not to push or threaten. Two provincial police officers followed procedure and died.

Death came without warning Wednesday night to Detective-Sergeant Lorne Chaplin, 39, and Cpl. James Smith, 42, veterans of the force. They died with arms spread to show that they carried no weapons. The bullets that killed them travelled eight feet.

Charged with capital murder is William Norman Pratt, 35, a one-time resident of this little central Ontario community noted for its hunting and fishing attractions.

Pratt appeared in court at nearby Lindsay Thursday and was remanded for preliminary hearing to Dec. 19.

The charges of capital murder—two were laid—are the first since Parliament amended the Criminal Code in 1967 to abolish the death penalty for murder except in cases involving the slaying of prison guards and police officers.

The last provincial policeman shot to death was Constable James Hamilton of Listowel, killed in August, 1967, while trying to arrest a mental patient. He and Det.-Sgt. Chaplin had worked together in Guelph and were close friends.

Death struck here shortly after 9 p.m. at the end of a narrow, winding road beside a lake six miles east of Minden, 35 miles northwest of Peterborough.

Seven policemen, called to the seven room, frame cottage by a mother who appealed for help, were besieging the place. Inside the house was a man with a .44-40-calibre hunting rifle.

The man called: "Look, I want to talk to four of you guys."

Det.-Sgt. Chaplin, trained in the psychology of violent persons, stepped forward. With him was Cpl. Smith, an expert on tear gas who had been ready to lob gas shells through the cottage windows.

He was called out that they were unarmed. They spread their arms to prove it.

They were within eight feet of the cottage when the man stepped outside and fired twice. Death came instantly.

Pratt was described by Minden residents as a drifter who had returned to town about six weeks ago to live with his parents. He is not married.

Mohawks May Go on Warpath

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — Indians on the St. Regis reserve may go on a legal warpath unless the Canadian government honors a 1794 treaty between the United States and Britain.

Leaders of the approximately 6,000 Mohawk Indians who live on the reserve, which straddles both borders, says they may try to shut down the International Bridge unless the Jay Treaty is honored.

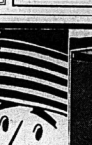
The treaty, designed to settle boundary disputes between England and America, gave Indians living on the border free access between the United States and Canada.

The Indians say the treaty had been followed for the most part until two weeks ago, when one of their leaders, Edward Benedict, was stopped as he and his wife returned to the Canadian side of the reserve after shopping in New York state.

Benedict said he was charged for his goods and that, since then, Canadian customs have made a regular practice of collecting duty.

Furthermore, say the customs men, duty should have been charged all along.

The Indians have appealed the practice to the Canadian government and say they expect a decision shortly after Jan. 1.



In addition, they have sent a letter to the Queen asking her just what she intends to do under the provisions of the 174-year-old treaty.

Benedict, a graduate of nearby St. Lawrence University, said an unfavorable solution by the Canadian government could lead the Indians directly to the Canadian courts, where the Canadian Seaway Authority, operators of the bridge, would be charged with trespassing on Indian property.

The Indians would seek an injunction that would close the bridge, he said.

The bridge goes from Massena to Cornwall Island, in the middle of the St. Lawrence River, and then to Cornwall, Ont.

The island is part of the reserve and it is on this point that the Indians would press the point of trespass.

De Gaulle Wishes Peace for Canada

He Has No Desire To See Quarrels

PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle said today he does not wish to see quarrels developing between French and English-speaking Canadians.

In a statement to the new Canadian ambassador to France, Paul Beaulieu, the president said: "The immense grouping which calls itself Canada is in full evolution. Originally it was formed by two nations. These two nations still exist. They are living side by side.

"We, who founded Canada, certainly do not wish to see grievances and quarrels developing between them. On the contrary we wish them to arrive at an agreement."

De Gaulle added that France believes the two nations of Canada could agree provided their national personalities are respected and are not confused.

The president said: "As a Frenchman and thinking of all the French in Canada, I express the wish that one day Canada will find its equilibrium under new conditions in the form of organized co-operation between equal peoples."

The statement was made in reply to one by the new ambassador who was presenting his credentials.

Beaulieu, speaking in French, said it was France which explored, peopled, and opened to civilization a great part of the Canadian country.

"The presence in Canada of more than 6,000,000 Canadians of French origin bears eloquent witness to this," he said.

"However, the history and geography brought it about that, for a certain time, Canada found itself isolated from the great currents of the French spirit," he said.

"Those times are over, Beaulieu said.

"Our whole country proclaims itself open to French life and intends to become a particularly favorable area for this, a country which from one ocean to the other still bears the imprint of the first French explorers."

The new ambassador said he is sure the future opens vast perspectives for their relations.

"It is on the immense riches of this future that as of now our two countries are called upon to lean on and to employ their human and material resources in a spirit of understanding.

"As far as Canada is concerned it is determined to undertake and to achieve a great effort of renovation and of national affirmation by achieving at home on the whole of its territory the spreading of French civilization," Beaulieu said.

Brazil Cracks Down

Wicks
"Whose dealt"

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Armed with sweeping new powers, the military-dominated government of President Arthur da Costa e Silva today began a massive crackdown on its opposition.

Congress was given an indefinite vacation, censors moved into newspaper offices and police began making widespread arrests. Among the first reported in custody were a former president, a federal deputy and some journalists.

Former president Juscelino Kubitschek, stripped of his political rights and ousted from the Senate in 1964, was arrested at the municipal theatre where he had been attending a graduation ceremony.

Osvaldo Peralva, superintendent of the opposition newspaper Correio da Manha, was arrested in his office after police shot open a door to gain entry to the newspaper building Friday.

Four censors occupied the Correio da Manha offices and others moved into Rio's other newspapers. There were unconfirmed reports that opposition publisher Helio Fernandes also was taken in custody, and that opposition Deputy Helio Navarro had been arrested in Sao Paulo.

The government crackdown began Friday night, minutes after Costa e Silva and his cabinet signed a new institutional act overriding the 22-month-old Brazilian constitution.

The act, effective immediately with no terminal date, allows the president to strip any Brazilian of his political rights; declare a state of siege; and seize the assets of those who "illegally enrich themselves in public office." It also suspends the writ of habeas corpus for anyone charged with "crimes against national security."

Bedside Talks Settle Dispute

MONTREAL (CP) — Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey announced early today that settlement over a new contract had been reached by Air Canada and the Canadian Air Lines Employees' Association.

The announcement by Mr. Mackasey followed 12 hours of discussion to renegotiate certain clauses in a contract drafted in a bargaining session that ended early Thursday.

Mr. Mackasey said that differences that came up after an apparent settlement had been reached Thursday were ironed out in bargaining late Friday and early today.

He considered the contract a "very fair" one and hoped ratification by the 2,200 employees involved in the dispute would follow rapidly.

An Air Canada spokesman said Labor Minister Mackasey "negotiated" the last four hours from his bed.

"He had to take a rest sometime. After all he'd been up for more than 24 hours."

The spokesman said Mr. Mackasey "held court" with air union and company negotiators gathered around his bed from about 11 p.m. to 2.30 a.m., when agreement was reached.

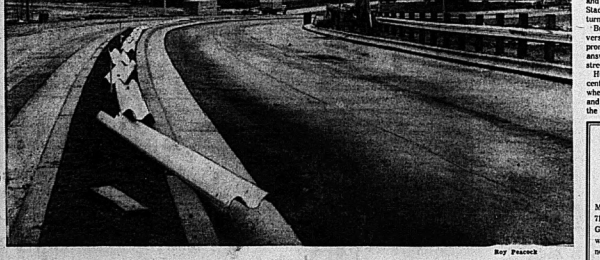
Confederation Year Senators Talkative

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of Parliament must have been more talkative than senators in the first session of the first Parliament held from 1867 to 1868, former Commons speaker Marcel Lambert noted as he presented Gov.-Gen. Michener with two fat volumes Friday containing the debates of that time.



"They still are," Senate Speaker Jean-Paul Deschatelets replied, prompting a vice-regal chuckle. Senator Deschatelets had just presented the Governor-General two slender red books containing the first Senate debates.

Publication of the editions was a Centennial project sponsored by the parliamentary library.

Senator Deschatelets indicated that the Governor General, a former Commons speaker himself, had sponsored the idea. Mr. Michener, however, disclaimed any credit "because I was unable to find any money for it in my time."

Uneasy Czechs Await Party Parley Results

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovaks waited uneasily today to find out who will lead them and what concessions their Communist party has made to the Soviet Union.

At the end of a two-day meeting the party's central committee said it would announce its decisions Monday on the makeup of the new federal government and economic plans for the new year.

An announcement from the official CTK news agency said the 191-member committee had been "informed of discussions" between Soviet and Czechoslovak leaders at a secret meeting in Kiev last weekend. Details of this meeting also may be included in the announcement Monday.

There was nothing in the CTK report to indicate the committee had made changes at the top in party leadership. Qualified sources said there were no such changes.

Instead, it was said discussions were confined to a new federal structure that takes effect next year. It calls for separate Czech and Slovak governments under a federal cabinet in Prague.

The sources said Oldrich Cernik, the present premier, would head the government as federal premier. Other members were named to the cabinet, to the Czech government in Prague and the Slovak government in Bratislava, they said.

Mexican Troops On Patrol

MEXICO CITY (Reuters) — Tension rose today as troops surrounded university buildings and armed police patrolled the streets in reply to student calls for a "reign of terror" in Mexico City.

Trouble flared in a major confrontation between paratroops, backed by armored cars, and 6,000 students who tried to stage a protest march Friday afternoon. It spread to the downtown area where shops were seized and some burned.

The attorney general's department said 500 persons, mostly students, were arrested.

Paratroops near the university cocked their rifles and threatened to open fire if demonstrators continued along their planned route.

Pacifist students formed a cordon between the militants and troops near the Olympic Stadium and the marchers turned back.

But speaking later at a university rally, student leaders promised a "reign of terror" in answer to the army's show of strength.

Hundreds of students in the centre of the city seized buses when they heard of the incident and threatened to drive them the 16 miles to the university.

Snowstorm Sweeps East

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — A snowstorm, crossing from west to east above Lake Superior, Friday made driving hazardous on Northern Ontario highways in the Lakehead and Sault Ste. Mar - areas.

The Port Arthur-Fort William area was the hardest hit with nearly 10 inches of snow falling in just over 12 hours. Ontario department of highways spokesmen said the Trans-Canada Highway at the Lakehead was closed for a short time Friday morning. Driving conditions were listed as fair to hazardous with snow-packed and icy sections.

Biafra Balks At More Talks

LAGOS (AFP) — Secessionist Biafra refuses to be drawn into further "useless rounds of talks" and will not accept a ceasefire which ignores Biafra's "absolute sovereignty" Radio Biafra said today.

A Biafra radio news commentary, monitored here, said: "We have learned our lesson. We refuse to be drawn into further useless rounds of talks. We know what is best for us.

"We shall no longer tolerate further British treachery. We cannot accept a ceasefire whose terms do not clearly take into account our own aspiration which is absolute sovereignty."

The radio commentary, the second in three days which appears to take a strong line against current peace efforts, comes as a British minister on a peace mission here has decided to extend his stay.

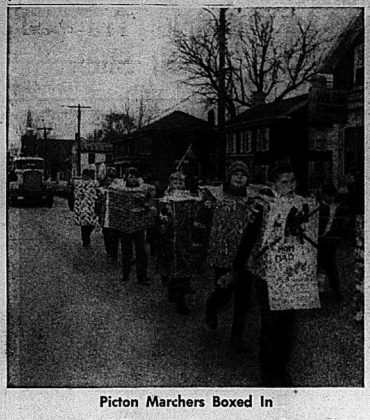
'Preserved' for Post Mortem Woman Returns to Life

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Mrs. Goldie Marie Rheams, 71, remained alive in Denver General Hospital today, a week after she was pronounced dead.

"It was a series of mistakes," Dr. David Cowen, chief administrator of the hospital said. "But all understandable."

Mrs. Rheams was admitted to the hospital last month after suffering a broken hip in a fall. She lapsed into a coma Dec. 3, Cowen said, and permission was received from her sister for removal of her lymphocytes—liquids in a human spleen—following her death.

On Friday she was pronounced dead by a doctor, Cowen said.



"There was no sign of consciousness," he said. "For practical purposes, the initial pronouncement that she was dead is correct."

She was taken to an operating room for a postmortem, Cowen said, but the rooms were full with "live" patients and a heart stimulant was given to keep the body in good condition.

An hour later doctors noticed she was breathing on her own and wheeled her into an intensive care section of the hospital.

Ahead of Schedule

Bay Bridge Overpass Ready for Use

The new Bay Bridge Road-CPR grade separation, the first phase of Belleville's long talked of Dundas Street project, is all but completed.

And surprisingly enough the completion comes slightly ahead of the time limit called for in the construction contract.

Friday employees of Lightfoot Construction Ltd., were adding the final touches to the first coat paving to the overpass approaches. And if everything goes as expected the new overpass will be in use by early next week.

By then the approach guardrails will have been completed with possibly installation of lighting standards on the bridge proper about the only thing remaining to be done.

The overpass light standards will be installed by sub-contractor Acme Electric — when the lights arrive.

The new overpass and its south approach curving across the end of Zwicks Island Park will go into use with but the "rough coat" paving.

The finish paving coat will be laid next spring.

Construction of the new overpass and Bay Bridge road approach got underway in July when dump truck equipment commenced moving in the close to 50,000 cubic yards of fill needed for the overpass approaches.

Since then the overpass structure over the CPR single track has been completed; storm sewer drains for the approach ramp have been installed and the final grading and initial coat paving has been done.

Yesterday Ronald Prato, resident engineer for project consultants Damas and Smith said the job was being completed ahead of the time despite rather inclement weather for the past month.

City Engineer Wilbur Purcell said before the new roadway goes into use his department had a number of highway directional signs to erect.

Also he hoped there would be a few hours sunshine to allow painting of traffic lines.

Immediately the new overpass goes into operation the present Bay Bridge Rd.s a route and the level crossing over the CPR will be closed.

All traffic over Highway 14 from Prince Edward will then move up over the overpass, and either west along Dundas Street or east along Highland Ave. and Bridge St.

Next year, the proposed new Moira River Bridge and connecting Dundas Street roadway up the Devil's Elbow hill will get underway with the completion data tentatively set before the end of the year.

Both persons were passengers in a car driven by Cecil Lloyd Crawford, 22, of Belleville.

Mrs. Woods sustained facial and head injuries and Mr. Yateman injured his neck and right hand.

Stubborn Fire Put Out Twice

Members of the Belleville Fire Department were called to Purdy Street early this morning to fight a fire that wouldn't be put out.

According to Captain Bruce Diamond, firemen received the call at 2.54 a.m. to the home of Donald Hobbs of 28 Purdy Street.

Mr. Hobbs who had been sleeping awoke at about 2.30 a.m. when he felt heat. He found his bed was on fire.

He poured water on it and then, thinking it was out, closed his bedroom door and went downstairs.

A few minutes later, Constable Charles Peters of the Belleville City Police passed by and saw smoke coming from the house.

He then called the fire department who put the fire out.

Damage to the home has not been estimated as yet, but was in the form of smoke.

Farm House Destroyed By Fire

WELLINGTON — A house, two miles north of Wellington on County Road 2 was completely destroyed in a fire last night.

Chief Jack Ogilvie of the Wellington volunteer fire department said this morning all the contents of the home were destroyed as well.

Firemen were called to the house, part of Townline Farms owned by Clifford McPaul of Wellington, at 9:06 p.m.

Mr. Ogilvie said the residents of the house, Alva Zachariah and his family, were away at the time of the fire.

The two trucks of the fire department were kept busy by a threat to two other homes and a barn within 75 feet of the burning residence.

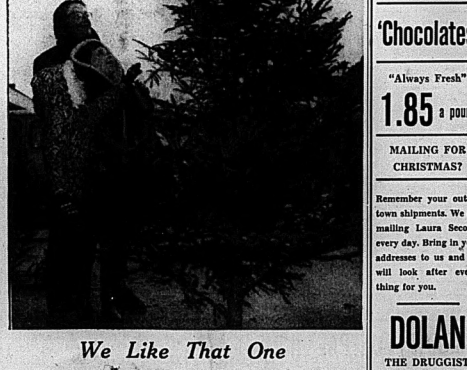
The house and contents were insured. Damage figures are not known.

Snowmobile Lure Dec. 13 Mystery

The sweet mysteries of life are ever upon us.

For example, how does a snowmobile start itself late at night on Friday 13?

The Belleville Fire Department would like to know how it happens.



Firemen received a call at 10.30 p.m. last night to the Uniroyal store on Bridge Street.

A passerby reported that he had seen smoke in the building.

When the fire department arrived at the scene it was discovered that the smoke was not really smoke at all but exhaust fumes . . . exhaust fumes from a snowmobile in the store.

Firemen immediately used a smoke ejector to clear the establishment.

It is not known if an intruder in the store started the snowmobile but it seems quite likely. However, no such intruder has been found.

Picton Marchers Boxed In

Crowd Views Picton Parade

PICTON (Staff) — Cooler weather didn't do a thing in Picton this morning to prevent a large turnout for the annual Santa Claus parade.

From all over the county and from Belleville, people turned up at the county seat of Prince Edward as both participants and spectators.

The Quinte Riders and William Foster with all his weird bicycles and clown costumes went in the parade along with those floats and bands from Picton and Prince Edward.

The parade formed at the Picton parade grounds at the west end and went through the Picton business section to the other end of the town, a distance of almost two miles.

Shoplifters Switch Targets

Shoplifters who in recent weeks have plagued the Towers Department store have apparently moved their operations across town to the city's east end shopping plaza.

One food store manager there has noticed an increase since shoplifting activities in the theft of merchandise in the department store on the west boundary of the city came to light 10 days ago.

Shoplifters, many of them elementary and high school students, were reported to have stolen goods valued at $90,000 over a period of a year from the Towers store.

However, since the report of the shoplifting appeared in the press theft losses at Towers have been reduced by 50 per cent.

Towers manager G. Campbell said a special watch was being kept for offenders and persons concealing items and trying to get by the cashier without paying would not be dealt with lightly.

Store managers in both shopping areas are co-operating with police in an effort to curb the looting.

A food store manager at the East End Plaza said he intended to press charges against anyone caught pilfering.

Ducks Trapped In Oil Slick

TRENTON — Careless pollution has begun to kill the wildlife in the area and as a result the Ontario Water Resources Commission is investigating the situation.

Heavy oil, presumed to have been deposited by a freighter, covered the water off Salmon Point at the tip of Prince Edward County this week and resulted in 280 waterfowl being destroyed.

Officials looking into the situation believe that the oil came from a freighter.

The ducks were found throughout the week and officials say they were so saturated with oil they were unable to fly. Some were found with only their beaks protruding through the thin covering of ice.

They were of the diving species and usually stay in this area until the freezeup and then head south.

A department official explained that the oil, once on the bird, acts as a glue and even though the fowl flapped their wings, nothing happened.

Only 12 of the birds managed to survive, even after the oil was washed away with detergent when department officials rescued the birds.

They are being kept at the Lower Trent Valley Fish and Game Protective Association near Frankford. They will stay here until their natural water shedding oils are built up and then they will be released.

Paul Rousell of the Ontario Water Resources Commission says a full investigation is being conducted. He added that the oil may have been dumped several days before and as a result it would be nearly impossible to find the guilty party.

OSD Students Stage Nativity

Students at the Ontario School for the Deaf presented their annual Christmas play, The Nativity, at the school last night. It will be staged a second time this evening at 8.15.

For the students it was a climax of many weeks of preparation in which stage production, sets, directing and acting were almost entirely student activities.

Prior to last night's opening it was a hectic period behind stage. On the left the action in the boys' make-up room bordered on organized chaos. It appeared a little more normal in the girls' dressing room. And for a last minute cueing on stage position, Wayne Durand of Belleville(on right) uses a blackboard to assist in giving instructions to costumed cast members.

And it wasn't all one sided curiosity on the part of the audience. Caught peeking is Brent Ansley of Sault Ste. Marie, who dressed as a Roman soldier looks at the crowd through the curtain before it went up.

Baritone Sings Here On Sunday

A promising baritone soloist from New Zealand appears in the city here on Sunday evening with a vocal presentation including musical opera favorites.

Donald Rutherford, who came to Canada to continue his vocal studies at the Royal Conservatory at Toronto, recently played the title role in The Barber of Seville in a tour of midwestern American cities

Appearing with him here will be William LaCroix, tenor, of Toronto, Ella Saunders and Barbara Newman both sopranos of Toronto and Jess Cunningham, contralto of Belleville.

The guest organist for the performance here at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will be Otto Seifert.

Generation Gap

Just how wide is the generation gap? How different the men in the grey flannel suits and members of the Establishment from the young people and students of our day?

If looks and appearance alone say anything, and we are inclined to believe they do, a recent picture in The Vancouver Sun provided some answers.

The picture caption read thus: "Back seat brigade perches atop faculty lounge furniture during Simon Fraser University senate meeting. About 250 persons, mainly students, jammed into room in second bid within two weeks to press demands for campus reform. The meeting failed to resolve any major issues."

Well we all know what has been going on at Simon Fraser of late, not to mention the University of British Columbia and sundry other institutions throughout Canada, the United States and the world at large.

And there, pictorially, was the essence of the generation gap, the difference between the squares and the activists, as the camera viewed it. There were the members of the senate, young, sober-looking, well-groomed men clad in the usual business suits. Behind them, wearing jeans, turtle-necked sweaters, beards, sideburns, an assortment of jackets, hats and boots — and all draped in a variety of poses around the room, sitting and lounging, were the students.

What a man wears is his own business, but in a picture like this it is not difficult to understand some of the reasons for friction on university campuses today. The modern world is full of hell-raisers — and mostly just for the hell of it. Their philosophy is "tear it down," and not: let's "build" something of value. And they are not the ones in the grey flannel suits.

Vancouver Sun columnist Trevor Lautens put it well recently when he observed: "I, like other adults, am separated by age, temperament, experience and occupation from younger people, radicals and non-radicals alike, and it is an insult to the intelligence of all of us to pretend otherwise. Let us not try to ingratiate ourselves with each other . . . there are real disagreements among administration, faculty and students, between the public and the school, between young and old. . ."

And yet, if we must differ on issues, whichever side of the generation gap we are on, then the action we propose to take should be positive rather than negative. Let us put an end to the brainless mob rule that characterizes so much of the university protest movement today.

Spooks in Hastings

Hastings county councillors are not given to strange imaginings. To use the vernacular, they have their heads screwed on, as men do who are close to the rural scene.

Still, in the country, far from the madding crowd, this very quietude — with the wind moving through the trees and the sounds of wildlife — thoughts can stray to the fringes of the supernatural.

There was something of this quality at Hastings county council earlier this week when council was hearing complaints about the phone service in the townships. Perhaps Montague Reeve S. J. Carr had been reading the Hound of the Baskervilles but in any event he had been having his troubles.

"Every time you pick up the phone all you hear are the weirdest noises — and it is that way most of the time." This brought from another northern reeve the comment: "Maybe it's the wolves." Whereupon the men of Hastings wanted to know why the provincial government was not taking more action to curb the increasing wolf population. Council had passed a resolution to this effect last year but it seems the wolves are still around and giving deer herds and sheep flocks a bad time — and rural residents strange notions every time they pick up the phone.

But Rawdon Reeve Burton Morton was down to earth enough when he claimed that far from moving in on the wolves, the government has been sponsoring tours to Algonquin Park "to hear the wolves howl." He said he had read of these tours in a magazine article.

In other words, what Hastings county residents would like most of all this Christmas are improved phone service and fewer wolves. How about it Santa?

Ottawa Offbeat

Mr. Diefenbaker Left Out of 'Order of Canada' Honor List

By GREG CONNOLLEY

OTTAWA — It was a brilliant evening at Government House with a splendid array of notable Canadians assembled in the gold and grey ballroom.

Governor General Roland Michener was presiding but perhaps the man getting the most attention was former prime minister Lester Pearson.

The occasion was his investiture as a companion of the Order of Canada.

Here was the man who had instituted the order being invested in it.

It was a fitting recognition of one who had devoted himself to the service of his country as a civil servant, diplomat, cabinet minister and finally prime minister.

He had relinquished the post of prime minister last spring and now as the first now fell on the capital in late autumn he was being honored in this distinctive Order of Canada.

On that evening there were other outstanding citizens who were made companions of the order. There were General Jean Allard, chief of the defence force, Donald Gordon, former president of the Canadian National Railways, Arnold Patrick Heeney, Canadian chairman of the Canada — U.S. International Joint Commission.

Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada, was made a companion and so was Hector McKinnon, former chairman of the Tariff Board.

These were all leading citizens whose names fitted well into the rolls of the Order of Canada.

Yet, on this evening, there was talk around Ottawa that one man was missing — the man who should have been there alongside L. B. Pearson.

The conversational buzz around the capital repeated the question — why has John Diefenbaker not been made a companion too?

People noted the honor done Mr. Pearson, a former prime minister. They praised this action and yet they wondered why former prime minister Diefenbaker had not been recognized, too.

It was ironic that not long after the Government House investiture, there were other ceremonies in Parliament Hill's Centre Block when the portraits of Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker were unveiled.

The two men who dominated the parliamentary scene for many years, look down from portraits that hang companionably close together near the main entrance under the Peace Tower.

The treatment in this circumstance made it seem all the more odd that when the Order of Canada was being awarded to Mr. Pearson, Mr. Diefenbaker was so conspicuously not recognised.

The old Conservative chief dicle's comment on this situation but three close to him say he has not been approached by the committee that recommends the appointments to the order.

There has to be a reason of course and the one that leaps to the eye is that Mr. Diefenbaker cannot be elevated to the Order of Canada as long as he is an active politician and still in the House of Commons.

Perhaps the thought has been that the Order of Canada should be above the partisan politics of Parliament Hill.

Yet many Canadians may not find this explanation a satisfactory one for the failure to honor a former prime minister. Mr. Diefenbaker, while still active in the Commons, has really the role of an elder statesman in that chamber.

It grates on some people that Pearson is in and Diefenbaker is out. There are whispers around parliamentary corridors about the old Liberal establishment in Ottawa even having the say-so in the awarding of honors.

Certainly, many of those who have been made companions of the order are of the establishment.

Mr. Diefenbaker says nothing when asked why he has not been made a companion. He smiles and shrugs his shoulders as though to indicate that he will survive without this prestige.

When he was prime minister, he was offered some of Britain's highest honors. As a Canadian of humble origin he found no difficulty in turning them down.

But the highest order his own country can give him has not dance it will really be in expert style.

Sherman Hook, of Huff's Island; Frank Huff, Stonefield, and Harold Munro, Demorestville, representing Prince Edward County in the livestock judging competition at Ottawa Winter Fair, carried off the highest honors in competition with teams from 14 counties of Eastern Ontario. This led to the Peter White Trophy to Prince Edward County for 1923. The trophy must be won three times before it becomes the property of the county. The members of the winning team received their coaching on Holstein at the stock farms of A. D. Foster and Sons and Fred H. Hubbs. Out of a possible score of 3000 points the Prince Edward boys won 2305 points which is the second highest score ever made at a competition in Ontario.

Letter to the Editor

Jobs... Homes... Mall Should Have Priority

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

It has been the concern of some aldermen that many young people are leaving our city. Approximately 85 per cent of the graduating students in Belleville leave to seek employment elsewhere.

Obviously they do not find Belleville an attractive city in which to live, for various reasons. These concerned aldermen claim it is due to the fact that this city does not provide enough recreational facilities and hence the plans for a million dollar arena - community centre.

We have heard from our city leaders what we, the young people want, but now I feel it is about time the younger generation voiced its opinions on what this area needs.

I personally believe that another arena is not the answer. When students graduate and settle down, they are not looking for a place to play hockey—they are interested in job opportunities, shopping facilities, and accommodation. For this reason, I feel that a Front street mall would be more practical and more attractive to the future taxpayer. I use the Front street mall as an example, because it is a topic of discussion receiving a lower priority than the arena. The pollution problem in the Bay of Quinte seems to be another important item, receiving less consideration than the arena.

True, an arena would provide recreational facilities for many youngsters — but I honestly can't see how it is going to stop the flow of graduates from Belleville.

To these concerned aldermen I say: that as a graduate of two-and-a-half-years' time, I will not be at all impressed by your million dollar arena; and I challenge you to come up with a better reason for building one.

A Front street mall appeals to me; cleaning up the pollution problem in the Bay of Quinte appeals to me; but an arena just isn't the answer.

Water Needs: Planning Essential

Vancouver Sun

There's nothing like planning now for future needs and a report just turned over to the United States Congress by President Johnson indicates the U.S. government and the states will have to start planning fairly soon to head off water supply problems which will become acute by the year 2020.

Inevitably Canada, and in particular British Columbia, figure in U.S. calculations. We not only have water the Americans believe they will need in the next 50 years, but B.C. stands between Alaska and the rest of the continental United States. And Alaska has more than 50 per cent of the U.S. water.

Recital of these facts is a reminder of the $100 billion, 30-year scheme called the North American Water and Power Alliance, originating several years ago with the Ralph M. Parsons Company of Los Angeles. It is a daring plan to divert B.C. and Alaska water as far south as Mexico and eastward across the prairies.

Senator Frank E. Moss of Utah has been a consistent supporter of the Parsons plan and now proposes to introduce legislation in the new Congress in January "to provide for the start of work on . . . alternative means of alleviating the water shortages."

Water is our greatest natural heritage, next to the air we breathe. Canadians are wary about American plans and the wariness ranges from outright opposition to surrendering a drop, to calculations that if a deal can be made, after taking care of Canada's future needs, so much the better.

The thing we must do is collect our own facts. The U.S. has had a commission studying the problem from its side for several months and it is its report that Congress now has. Canada has been conducting its own study, but there is no telling when it will be ready. Certainly we can't move into a bargaining position with the U.S. until we have it.

Pollution Control

Waterfalls

Pollution control — expensive and non-productive, worry regarded in a superficial light — tends to be regarded as an excessive cost factor to be avoided for as long as possible. Partly because of the economic prudence of previous generations, North America no longer has an "endless" supply of fresh water to pollute. Most watercourses in populated areas have already been contaminated and, because of the heavy density of population and the dramatic increase in industry in this era, the destructive effect of improperly treated waste has become increasingly obvious. In some areas of North America, water pollution has become so critical that the expensive proposition of importing water is under consideration.

Tough . . . Astute

New U.S. Defence Secretary a Veteran Politician at 46

WASHINGTON (CP) — Melvin R. Laird, President-elect Richard Nixon's choice as United States defence secretary, has a hard-earned reputation for political toughness and astuteness.

Nixon has chosen the 46-year-old Republican representative from Wisconsin to take over direction of the world's biggest military machine.

He will be no stranger when he takes over as top man at the defence department. He is personally acquainted with most of the military brass. As a 10-year member of the House of Representatives appropriations subcommittee on defence he has criticized defence secretaries, admirals and generals when he thought they were holding out information the subcommittee needed.

He conducted what was close to a running feud with former defence secretary Robert McNamara who, Laird said, didn't always level with Congress and had a habit of misstating the department's financial picture.

Laird's military background is not limited to reading budgets and studying military strategy. He was wounded in action while serving in the Pacific with the U.S. Navy during the Second World War.

His voting record labels Laird as more of a hawk than a dove, although in the recent session he tended to be less belligerent than in the past.

On non-defence matters, Laird is a conservative and a pitcher of free enterprise — except on health programs.

Last month Laird was re-elected to the House, in which he has served 16 years, by a top-heavy vote.

He still found time to write and edit three books, The Republican Papers, The Conservative Papers, and a House Divided: America's Strategy Gap.

His wife is the former Barbara Masters whom he married in October, 1942. They have three children, John, 10, Alison, 17, and David, 14.

Faith Is Not List of Rules To Live By, Facts to Believe

The Rev. Donald Himmelman of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, speaking at the meeting of the Belleville Ministerial Association, knocked on the head the idea that "faith" is a cold list of rules and regulations to live by, or a formal list of facts in which to believe. He pointed out that faith is a matter of commitment, faithfulness, trust in God. The Biblical word "Amen", which means, "I believe," "I trust," is typical of the fact that the Bible rarely talks about a list of beliefs; instead it speaks of believing in and trusting God.

Because the average man misunderstands what faith is really all about, he may try to escape God, and put himself, success, or pleasure, at the centre of his life, he said.

Then, not only is his life off centre, but he falls into bondage to himself, as he tries to save himself and escape life's tensions, instead of realizing that life as a human being under God, always involves tensions. Modern man's dilemma is not so much a lack of faith, since every man has faith in someone or something, even if it is only himself, Mr. Himmelman said. Instead, his problem is his misplaced faith. And the day of disappointment must come with the threatened breakdown of the entire personality, unless the transition can be made to a faith that is real.

The Bible, too, asks those mysterious questions "Why do the wicked prosper? Why do the innocent suffer?", and it answers the questions "Show me your God!" The books of Jeremiah, Ecclesiastes, and some of the Psalms, challenge the easy answers of religion to these questions, but still unanimously arrive at a bare and simple faith in God, devoid of all demands upon Him. All let God be God, humbly acknowledging our own limitations to act, and the mystery beyond which man cannot penetrate, and in which it remains to live faithfully, to wait expectantly and to rest in the goodness of God.

Mr. Himmelman suggested that faith requires unquestioning surrender to God, but not to man's statements about God. Creeds, statements, doctrines, institutions, the authority of the church must stand under prophetic judgment, not above it. They cannot play God if they are to perform their servant role of pointing men to God.

Criticism and even doubt may "rock the boat," but they serve to show that even the community of faith stands "under the Cross" of Divine Judgment upon our life and even our Christianity.

But first they want a foundation for continuous dialogue between themselves and their elders and superiors.

Among the questions they wish to discuss with the church's establishment to France are: "Priests of whom? Why be priests? How should we be priests?"

The letter said the priests are too dependent upon the present church structure. They call this "transportable," in that it prevents them from being responsible for their own lives.

"The present system contributes to the retarding of the appearance of a new cycle of sacerdotal life," the letter says.

Indians Embrace Baha'i

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP) —Since 1961 Fletcher Bennett, 38, has been totally involved in the spread of the Baha'i religion, but he does not consider himself a missionary.

Known as Canada's "Flying Baha'i," Mr. Bennett travels 30,000 miles a year, and has flown 130,000 bush miles since 1961.

His float-equipped Cessna 180 is becoming a common sight to remote Indian settlements of the B.C. coast and northern Canada. The Baha'i religion, less than 65 years old in Canada, has 8,000 adherents, 3,000 of them Indians. The religion is based on social justices and Mr. Bennett says it is surprisingly similar to the original beliefs of the natives.

French Priests Demand Voice in Own Affairs

PARIS (AP)—First it was the students. Now Roman Catholic priests of France are demanding a voice in running their own institutions, plus the eventual right to get married.

The aspirations of the priest movement are explained in a petition, or collective letter as they call it. The letter is addressed to the French Catholic hierarchy in France.

More than 130 priests, mostly the young, have signed the letter, including some well-known and experienced clergymen.

The letter was the second affirmation within five days of the old saying that the "Catholic Church in France is French first and Catholic second."

The first sign was the recent advice of the Assembly of Bishops to married couples not to follow the Pope's birth control rules to the letter, but rather to choose the least "bad thing" among conflicting duties.

Aside from getting married—maybe someday—the petitioning priests want to have regular salaried outside jobs, which they say would make them responsible for their own support.

Medium to Larger Handbags for Daytime Shown in Leather Gift Items for Christmas

Top, Brown smooth leather makes a new type of safari bag. Twin outside pockets and a zipped-across luggage look are special features. Right, the newest in feminine styling for the working girl who doesn't want to carry a masculine looking brief case. Outside flap pocket and double handles increase the usefulness of this bright red fine grain leather case. Centre, larger size boxy tailored bag in London Tan leather with swirl finish, all three by Fiesta. Right, the perfect bag for the well - travelled woman, in hardwearing morocco, with a whole series of inside open and closed sections, and outside pocket.

There's not a man, woman or child who wouldn't be thrilled to find a gift in leather under the Christmas tree this month, especially if it's something in wearing apparel, for the fresh and radiant face of the new leather fashions has evolved one bewitched. One wit has even suggested that Santa Claus might well appear this year in ermine-trimmed red suede.

Finding the right leather gift will pose no problem for there's an almost endless array, says the Leather Bureau of Canada. There are fashionable leg hugging boots, party sandals with gleaming metallic finishes, zippy leather skirts in shining smooth or soft suede, jackets, vests, tunics, decoratively belted dresses, handbags and totes for "Her." For "Him" chamois or gold-colored suede shirt-jackets, smooth leather blazers, tie and belt sets and turtle-neck dickies (both types). The gold-initialled executive attache or brief case, or lightweight soft-sided over night bag have their own status appeal.

One of the great things about this, says the Bureau, is that regardless of size or cost, big or small, leather always carries the mark of quality which is recognized by the recipient, whether it's a tiny twin-pocket stamp case, manicure set, wafer thin bill fold, a picture frame, soft leather jewelry roll, leather travel alarm clock, packable leather slippers, — or an elegant black leather chair.

The new handbags now being offered in a wide variety of Canadian leathers, shapes and sizes, frequently show advanced spring styling. Fashion is now focusing on the medium to larger bag for daytime. The small bag of recent seasons will most often be worn for dress-up or social occasions. Both smaller and medium size bags solve the inner space problem through use of accordion pleats and gussets. Bagged in Canada for Christmas giving are the new safari types, box bags, treasure chest pouchy shapes and satchels.

The frame bag is beginning to make its re-entrance on the scene, though many of the new designs are still frameless. Big squashy shoulder strap bags in soft embossed leathers such as reptile - stamped and two-color elephant grains sport buckle trims. These go well with daytime pantsuits. The shine of patent leather in conventional as well as pearlized and antiqued finishes is a natural for the holiday season, particularly in the deep glowing jewel colors . . . black, too of course. Keep in mind that come spring, black patent leather shoes will head the fashion footwear parade.

Handbags and shoes have much in common this season and manufacturers are giving close attention to their coordination.

For the young, a smooth leather pouch bag has an added feature, a second small-er-in-size detachable clutch for dress-up wear.

A gift the woman who travels a lot will welcome is the new combination frame and flap two-in-one bag made from hard-wearing morocco grain leather. The proportions are generous, the lining washable, and a series of large open, as well as zip closed sections, makes it the perfect companion. There's an outside pocket also for holding items one needs to get at quickly — such as plane or rail tickets.

Straps are important — single, double, luggage, shoulder for daytime, halter and jewelled chains for fine leather afternoon and evening bags. Jewelled ornaments close the latter. Favorite trims are hardware such as pewter, gold and antiqued bronze on tailored shapes, large buckles on the squashy or duffle bag types.

Most working women dislike carrying the masculine looking brief or attache case. They'll love the new, feminine looking designs now being offered for their special use — bright red, creamy white, pale beige, luggage tans, greens which include avocado. Double handles and outside flap pockets are useful features. Leather tote bags in a variety of fresh and lovely colors also make welcome gifts.

Leather belts are everywhere this season, worn on everything, even to fur coats, from the 8-inch wide cinch waist variety to the narrowest suede tash-like ties. The new distinctively styled steer hide belts for men sport decorative buckles. Your high school or college lad would hail its appearance on Christmas morning.

Then there are the suede leather belt and tie sets for both sexes in rich colors with decorative stylized appliques or zodiac symbols, all in very good taste. And don't forget the leather headbands now being worn at forehead level, as North American Indian fashion by the "in" people.

When buying leather gloves as a gift, remember that you should know the person's size and make sure you buy them only from a store that allows exchanges, as manufacturers brands will vary. People with long fingers may need a larger size with longer fingers.

Mr., Mrs. L.T. Kleinsteuber Wed for 50 Years

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. L. Theodore Kleinsteuber, of West Lake, were "At Home" to many friends and relatives recently, on their 50th wedding anniversary.

Dinner was served at Maple Inn, Bloomfield, with about 30 relatives and guests present.

The tables were beautifully arranged with gold cloths, gold and white candles, gold, bronze and yellow flowers and a tiered anniversary cake.

At their home, the attractive dining-room table was adorned with tall candles, gold and bronze flowers, and a three-tiered anniversary cake, made and iced by Mrs. Frank (Olive) Coutts, of Cooksville.

Relatives and friends from a distance poured tea during the afternoon and evening from a beautiful silver tea service. Lunch was served during the afternoon and evening to the many friends who came to offer their congratulations on this happy occasion.

Friends were invited to sign a golden anniversary guest book which was in charge of Mrs. Harry Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. Kleinsteuber were presented with a beautiful oil painting by artist Dick Logtenberg from their family and friends. They also were presented with a gift of flowers from the United Church Women and received many other individual gifts.

Congratulations were received from Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, Hon. John Robarts, Premier of Ontario, Hon. George Hees, M.P., Lee Grills, M.P., Norris Whitney, M.P.P. and many other government officials. Many lovely cards were also received as well as telephone calls from friends unable to be present.

THE FAMILY & CHILDREN'S SERVICES

Social Service Council Formed 50 Years Ago

Fifty years ago this week, Belleville citizens formed a chapter of The Social Service Council of Ontario. The late Oswald Scott was elected the first chairman of this group.

The objects, spelled out in copperplate handwriting on the letters patent issued to the provincial Council four months later, were "to encourage, organize, develop and assist all approved forms of work having for its object community welfare, social services, philanthropy and charity."

Another object was "to study and investigate methods of community and social welfare work.

Although the Belleville Chapter of the Council did not continue as such for more than 10 years, interest in providing community services persisted. The Kiwanis Club was instrumental in bringing The Victorian Order of Nurses here in 1924, and The Canadian National Institute for the Blind began here in 1927. The Canadian Red Cross Society had command of Belleville operations in 1917.

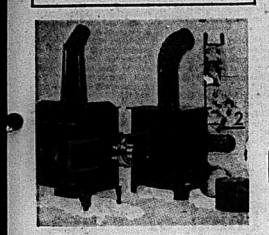
Another well known organization had a much earlier start. The YMCA first opened its doors in Belleville in 1854, and while the level of activity rose and fell for many years, it was able by 1890 to erect the building on Campbell Street which it occupied until 1965.

Relecting the changing needs of the times, the Social Council of Ontario became the Community Welfare Council of Ontario in 1929, and the present Ontario Welfare Council in 1954.

In the meantime, Belleville had begun a community chest in the early forties which collected about $25,000 in its last annual campaign. Its successor Belleville United Appeal, embraced a number of the nationally based health and welfare organizations, and under the chairmanship of Archie S. Lewis, collected an unprecedented $72,250 in its first campaign in 1958.

Leading citizens of the community articulated the earlier interest in community planning when they got together with City Council in 1963 to promote a survey of health, welfare and leisure time services in Belleville. This resulted in the formation of the Social Services Planning Council a year later.

The planning council and united appeal merged together in 1967 to become United Community Services of Belleville and District and thus the interest in social planing and developing needed services to people has come full circle in half century of varied activity.



The Ontario Welfare Council, which continues to offer a province-wide planning service in these fields, is a participant in the United Community Fund, while United Community Services itself attends to the needs of the Quinte area.

"CABLE CHRISTMAS CHEER THROUGHOUT THE YEAR"

YOUR ANTIQUES
by Jack Jamieson

Number one is an optical lantern made by Bing about 1890. Number two is a projector, also made by Bing about 1905. Each frame on the film for the projector was hand painted on blank stock.

(Picture Credit: Museum of Childhood, Edinburgh)

Magic Lantern Compared To Home Movie Projector

The magic lantern once held the same fascination that a home movie projector does today. It developed first as an optical toy for adults as well as children.

At the same time the magic lantern was being perfected, there was a movement toward motion pictures. One of the earliest of these optical toys showing movement, the "thaumatrope" is still being made. The thaumatrope is a disc with a different design on each side. One side may have a canary, the other a cage. When spun the canary appears in the cage. Often the thaumatrope is a ring which holds the disc like a signet. When spun the "secret code" spells out "Little Orphan Annie or Mickey Mouse or more recently, Batman."

The first thaumatrope was invented in 1825. Credit is divided between Dr. John Ayrton Paris, President of the Royal College of Physicians, and Sir John Herschel, a barronet. A thaumatrope, rather gruesome of Paris's survives. It shows a ghost on one side and a man on the other. When spun the man hangs from the gibbet.

A few years later this idea was expanded into a Magic Disc. Kaleidorama or Zoetrope. This toy gave the appearance of movement in a simple action on a rotating wheel, usually a bouncing ball galloping horse, or skipping child. Much scientific research was devoted to this toy. In the 1870's Edward Muybridge carried out experiments leading to the development of the movies by photographing pictures in a sequence suitable for a zoetrope.

Muybridge got the money for his photographic experiments as a result of a wager of $25,000 made by Leland Stanford, California Governor, that all the feet of a trotting horse were off the ground at the same time. Muybridge developed a method of taking the necessary photographs. It cost $40,000 for Stanford to win his bet. In the process Muybridge developed the motion picture.

The magic lantern was the companion to the zoetrope. Only one person at a time could look at the zoetrope. a large group could enjoy a magic lantern. Versions of the magic lantern were available in quantity in the 1840's. It was advertised at the beginning of the 19th century and is thought to have been developed even earlier. In 1840 it was expensive, 7 shillings and sixpence. It took hand-painted slides.

Some were developed that could take pictures out of magazines and for combined action that showed movement either mechanically or by optical means. The light source was a problem until the common use of coal-oil in the 1860's.

The magic lanterns shown were advertised from 1890 to 1910 at the time of the magic lantern period. Coal-oil was being replaced by electric light and the magic lantern by movies.

Most magic lanterns were made in Germany and values vary considerably. Early ones made of brass are not much more expensive than later ones of tin. A magic lantern, in working order, complete with slides and coal-oil lamp sells from $20 to $30.

Successful Living
Teenagers Need Informal Sessions by Themselves

By DORIS CLARK

There are times when teen talk sessions call for the older generation to just get out of the way.

When I went to college, Dave (a prof's son) used to have a bunch of us in to tea on a Sunday afternoon. We sprawled around on the rug before a blazing fire in cheer over such world-shaking topics as what would we look like 10 years from then (an eternity!), how to make cinnamon toast, was calculus really useful, and the theories of Freud.

Those were wonderful times relaxed, full of chuckles and what we considered profound observations. We came in couples or alone.

Dave made soggy, overdone cinnamon toast. And we gobbled it up! The supper hour came round and slipped by unnoticed. Finally around eight or nine p.m. Dave's mother would come into the room and chat with us comfortably for a few minutes before it dawned on us we should be going home.

Dear Doris: I would like to help "Doll Lover". I have read letters from F. W. Woolworth on his trips abroad. Each spring he would visit Austria, Bavaria and Germany. Peasant women living away up in the mountains would walk down from their homes with big sacks on their backs containing the hand sewn bodies of dolls that they had worked on all winter. Now these bodies are collectors' items and expensive.

Two weeks ago I was at an antique show in Buffalo, N.Y. when 26 dealers from all over New York State exhibited. I saw two antique dolls. One with a head like "Doll Lover" possesses was $30. A French doll large enough to wear baby clothes, with a Bisque face, was $45. I am enclosing a card from a dealer in dolls and doll parts in the U.S. As antiques, bodies could be imported duty free. They are valuable enough to have them restored correctly.

Keep up the good work. The people of the world today need encouragement. — Antique Lover.

Dear Antique Lover: Thank you. Doll specialists find romance and folklore and history in the dolls they handle. And the careful, often eye-straining handwork is eloquent witness to the skill and patience of the countrywomen who make them.

Dear Doris: I'm a guy of 22. I was a breech baby and my eyes were injured at birth. Anyway one eye is green and the other is blue. I don't like people to know about it because they just make fun of me so I don't bother with people.

I don't really want to go through life being a loner because deep down inside I know I'm not one, I can't help thinking that all it would take is an operation to undo the injury.

I'll go anywhere in the world or do anything if it would help, because I've saved a few thousand dollars. — Withdrawn.

Dear Withdrawn: This isn't so unusual. And it is scarcely noticed. I saw an acquaintance nearly every day for three months before another friend pointed out to me that she had one green eye and one blue one. Which only added appeal!

Not a birth injury, but Mother Nature mixing up the eye genes, is likely responsible. No operation would help. But did you know that folks are regularly changing eye color at will, by means of contact lenses? One social butterfly I know has four pairs, and she wears the ones which best suit whatever outfit she chooses to put on.

Club Activities

SENIOR CITIZENS

Campbellford Senior Citizens held their annual Christmas party dinner at the Legion Hall on Wednesday of this week.

The club membership now numbers about 190, with 150 attending the dinner catered to by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Campbellford Legion, Branch 103.

The club was established eight years ago by the incubent Mayor F. M. Rutherford. At that time Mayor Rutherford asked Councillor Forrest Dennis to assist the club in getting on its feet.

Mr. Dennis has played an important role over the years in the success of the club and has been treasurer throughout the eight years. Mr. Forrest Dennis presided as master of ceremonies.

At the dinner meeting, Mrs. F. M. Rutherford presented a gift in memory of the late F. M Rutherford. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cassidy, presidents, received the gift on behalf of the club members.

Later, in the club rooms, a skit was put on — a caricature of a fashion show. The models were dressed for their presentation by roommentator, Mrs. E. Abernathy while judges from the club, George Lucy provided the musical background

Points for Parents
By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Jenny doesn't say a word for hours at a time — then wants to chatter and confide in me when I'm too busy to listen. I have to get these curtains finished today."

The parent who listens whenever a child wants to talk is more likely to keep the channels of communication open during the reticent teen years.

Daughter: "Are you busy? I have something I want to talk to you about."

Mother: "I've reached a good stopping point. All of have some pop while we talk."

Answer a child wants to talk is more likely to keep the channels of communication open during the reticent teen years.

Ann Landers
A Perfect Diamond Is Always Clear

DEAR ANN: I lost the diamond from my beautiful heirloom ring and want to replace it. I've been to three jewellers and am more confused than ever. The first one I am looking for is a one carat diamond. One jeweller said he could get me a perfect stone for $400. A second jeweller quoted $1000. The third said $3000.

What is a perfect diamond? What should I look for? I don't want to spend $3000 if I can get a perfect stone for one third that amount or less.

Your answer would be helpful to young people who are looking at engagement rings. — GEM QUESTION.

DEAR GEM: The price of a diamond is determined by weight, color and clarity. A perfect diamond is clear. It has no carbon specks or cracks. The most desirable diamond is the finest. It looks almost blue in color and has a brilliant, fiery appearance. A diamond that has a yellow cast is of inferior quality. According to the American Gem Society, you should be able to buy a perfect blue-white diamond weighing one carat for $1000.

P.S. If you don't know your gems, Lady, know your jeweller.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for "Bitter," whose father had a stroke and was pushed around the house in a kitchen chair by his wife for 16 years.

I'd like to tell all the unfortunate people who are tied down with patients like that, there is help available to you. Contact your Public Health Nursing Service. These dedicated people will respond to your call at once. No job is too difficult for them, and they do it cheerfully.

If the patient is a veteran, people should know there's a fund for the wives of disabled veterans. They will pay someone to come in and sit with the patient so the wife can get out. I know about these services because they came to my rescue at a time when I was taking fast. Spread the word, Ann. — READER WHO WRITES.

DEAR READER: Thanks for the word. I'm spreading it.

* * *

DEAR ANN: My husband and I are getting on in years. We have been talking about making a will for several months. He has promised to call a lawyer for an appointment before Christmas.

I am ashamed to ask this question but I need someone to help me think straight.

We have three children — all married. Two of the three are self-centred and inconsiderate. They call us only when they want something. The third child is thoughtful and loving. He and his wife have done many things to gladden our hearts. Their children seem to love us as much as they do.

Now the question: Should we divide our rather modest estate equally among the three? Our major holding is a mortgage-free house worth about $60,000. All three children made a good living. The thoughtful one does a little better than the other two. What do you say, Ann? — TORN THREE-WAYS.

DEAR TORN: Leave the house to the considerate child and split the remainder of the estate three ways.

Reader Requests Cranberry Sauce Recipe

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: About 5 or 6 years ago you gave us a recipe for making Spiced Cranberry Sauce. My husband remembers it and wants me to make more but, you've guessed it, I can't find that recipe. — Darlene M.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Corned Beef Timbales (see Fri.); Cabbage; Baked Squash Quarters; Spinach with Nutmeg and Lemon; Canned Apricots; Raisin Bars; Tea.

ANSWER: You asked at such an opportune time that I'm delighted. The amount I am giving you calls for only one pound of cranberries. I used three pounds to make seven 16-oz. jars for Christmas gifts.

SPICY CRANBEY SAUSE SAUCE

2 cups sugar
1 cup hot water
½ cup (or ¼ cup) vinegar
6 whole cloves
two 2" sticks cinnamon
1 pound (4 cups) raw cranberries

Turn cranberries into colander and wash and pick out any soft ones and any stems. In large saucepan combine sugar, hot water, vinegar and whole spices and stir to melt sugar and bring to boil. Add cranberries and simmer, covered, 10 minutes or until berries break. You should stir them carefully two or three times during cooking but do not mash the berries. Pour into jars and store covered until needed. These keep indefinitely in refrigerator or of course could be poured into sterile pint jars while boiling hot and sealed.

Clip the recipe now, for Spicy Cranberry Sauce will be included in our Christmas Menu next Friday, December 20. IMPORTANT NOTE FROM EMEME: I am going to Victoria to spend Christmas with my daughter and her family. Please do not send any more letters after today. There will not be time now for me to answer any further requests for recipes for Christmas or New Year's cooking. As you know I have tried to give you all the holiday recipes I think you will be wanting. I will let you know when you can start mailing your requests to me again.

Nader Is Critical of Digest of Safety Study of Volkswagen

WASHINGTON (CP) — Controversy over a safety study of Volkswagen autos has raised the possibility of congressional hearings early next year on the safety of all small imported cars.

Cornell University's Aeronautical Laboratory Inc., of Buffalo, N.Y., said in a report Wednesday that the Volkswagen sedan tends to roll over in accidents, thus increasing the danger of death or injury by the ejection of occupants.

But Ralph Nader, crusader against industry in the consumer, said a Volkswagen "digest" of the Cornell report, circulated among 1,058 dealers, gave misleading information. His major criticism was that the digest deals with the behavior of the car once a crash has occurred and not with its design instability that Nader has long charged tends to make it go out of control in the first place.

In Wolfsburg, West Germany, a Volkswagen spokesman said in a statement that the studies were started in 1965, under condition that Cornell publish the results of its findings.

"To conceal the laboratory's findings or to veil them is thus impossible because we have no influence on the institute's publications."

The full report—released nine days ahead of schedule after Nader's charges were made public—suggests that the "greatest single safety improvement that Volkswagen can effect" would be to improve "the rollover stability of the vehicle."

But in a number of categories other than turnovers and ejections, the report said, Volkswagens were substantially equal or superior in crash-worthiness to other cars.

Volkswagen emphasized that none of the Volkswagens studied had such safety features as interlocking door handles, flush door handles, padded dashboard, collapsible steering columns and anti-whiplash head restraints that were installed in later models.

The study was commissioned by Volkswagen of America Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of the West German manufacturer. Although Nader charged it was designed as a defensive reaction to auto safety hearings held by the Senate commerce committee in 1966, Volkswagen said it had mailed a contract for the $30,000 study to Buffalo Aug. 25, 1965.

Nader, auto safety critic whose book Unsafe at Any Speed rocked the American auto industry, criticized the Volkswagen digest of the Cornell report in a letter to Senator Warren G. Magnuson, chairman of the Senate commerce committee.

The Washington state Democrat said later that it is "quite likely" that the committee will hold hearings early next year on the safety of the Volkswagen and other imports of comparable size. He said the hearings also will deal with imported mini-cars which are exempt from U.S. safety standards because they weigh less than 1,000 pounds.

The laboratory analyzed data on accidents involving 27,523 cars of all makes, including 881 Volkswagens of which all but eight were manufactured before 1965.

The study found that 40 per cent of all Volkswagen occupants killed and 33 per cent of those injured "to a dangerous degree" were ejected from the car. Corresponding figures for 1966 and later models of American-built cars, the rate was 10.9.

Volkswagens comprise about 60 per cent of all cars imported into the U.S. and nearly 2,000,000 of them now are in operation here.

Ouster of South Africa From UN Body Blocked When Western Nations Muster Third of Votes

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Western countries mustered a "blocking third" Friday to stop an Afro-Asian move to expel South Africa from a United Nations agency, ending one of the most serious constitutional questions before the General Assembly in recent times.

After a tense day of debate, in which Canadian Ambassador George Ignatieff failed in an attempt to stop what amounted to a racial confrontation, a resolution that would have dropped South Africa from the agency was defeated.

The vote, which closely followed racial lines, was 55 for, 33 against—including Canada, the United States, Britain, France and most of the rest of the West —and 28 abstentions. The Communist bloc abstained.

A two-thirds majority was required for passage. Thus the term "blocking third" is applied to countries that vote against a resolution requiring the substantial majority.

The vote was on ratification of a resolution passed earlier in the session by the assembly's economic committee. It would have dropped South Africa from the UN Conference on Trade and Development—commonly known as UNCTAD.

UNCTAD is designed to help developing countries with trade and tariff matters and is open to all 126 members of the UN.

From the start, it was a fight between the West—supported by the opinion of the legal counsel of the UN—and the Afro-Asians, with some assistance from such countries as Yugoslavia and Venezuela.

The West insisted that a country could not be expelled from the UN or a subsidiary organ without the approval of the General Assembly and the Security Council.

To do otherwise, Western speakers said, would put every country in the world in peril of being expelled because members did not like its policies. This was contrary to the principles of the UN Charter which says all countries must be treated equally.

The Afro-Asians said the black Africans had persisted in their policy of racial separation despite numerous UN resolutions condemning it. They said the legal opinion was wrong, did not apply to this instance and, in any case, the whole matter was a moral or political one and not a legal one.

They said that NATO and Western countries persisted in trading with South Africa, despite UN resolutions asking for trade embargoes and an end to arms deliveries to South Africa. Canada and other Western nations said they abhorred apartheid but the resolution was neither the answer nor the legal means of fighting it.

"The assembly voted to make the resolution an "important question" requiring a two-thirds majority for passage only by a narrowest of majorities of 56 for, 48 against and 13 abstentions.

Ignatieff attempted early in the debate to have the Afro-Asian resolution tabled indefinitely. That resolution went down by a vote of 52 no, 47 yes and 23 abstentions.

East Pakistan Police, Fire Into Mobs

DACCA (AP) —Police fired twice into rioting mobs Friday and arrested nearly 200 persons in East Pakistan where a one-day strike virtually paralyzed the region.

Officials said at least 12 factory workers were wounded, four critically, in the Indian Ocean port city of Chittagong.

Police also fired tear gas and made bamboo cane charges in Chittagong to disperse crowds that attacked cars and smashed shop windows.

In Dacca, the provincial capital, where President Mohammad Ayub Khan was completing a nine-day visit, troops were called in to patrol the streets after crowds burned or damaged seven cars, five buses and several police jeeps.

The police sprayed colored water on one crowd that included Air Marshal Asghar Khan, former Pakistan air force commander-in-chief, now one of Ayub's political foes. Khan's secretary was among those arrested for defying a ban on public assembly.

The strike, billed as an "anti-repression day," was called by seven opposition parties to protest Ayub's policies, capped by month-long anti-government agitation.

Students, lawyers and journalists, who staged some of the past demonstrations, were joined Friday by labor union leaders in major East Pakistan towns.

Strikers marched with placards demanding political reforms, freedom of the press and the release of political detainees.

Protest marches also were reported in nine cities in West Pakistan Friday.

At dusk, many stores and market places re-opened as Moslems broke their Ramadan fast and resumed shopping for the festive end of the holy month next week.

In Karachi, West Pakistan, a High Court ordered the release of two more political detainees who were arrested Nov. 13 with former foreign minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto on charges of inciting violence.

Of the 14 persons arrested with Bhutto, all but five have now been ordered released. Bhutto's petition for release will be heard in January.

Smith Assails Move to Settle On U.K. Terms

In a nationwide broadcast, Smith attacked white fellow countrymen who recently urged him to settle on British terms, but said his government has a plan "to use in the remaining time that is available to try and reach a settlement. . . ."

He cautioned that Rhodesia will not accept a British demand for an outside blocking mechanism designed to protect African political rights and called such a provision "a negation of independence and parliamentary sovereignty."

Smith said he did not wish to give details of his plan because it "could only do harm to my cause."

The prime minister discounted rumors of an imminent election, saying a general election would not be held until next year.

The Centre party, main opposition to Smith, dismissed his broadcast as "nothing more than party political propaganda."

Smith labelled as "hot heads" two leading businessmen—Evan Campbell, chairman of the Standard Bank of Rhodesia, and Bob Newson, chairman of the Rhodesian Iron and Steel Corp., whom he said were willing to sell out 250,000 whites for economic consideration.

The two have warned publicly that mandatory sanctions—imposed by the United Nations at Britain's request in December, 1966, one year after the breakaway state's unilateral declaration of independence—would ruin Rhodesia economically if it does not settle the dispute.

Those who want a settlement on British terms, Smith said, want Rhodesian whites to sell their heritage "for a mess of pottage."

The situation is not as bad as these businessmen and the recently formed Centre party—a moderate group dedicated to a settlement—paint it, Smith said.

Three budgets since the declaration of independence in Nov. ember, 1965, showed that the effect of sanctions have "not been nearly as bad as we expected." All Rhodesians want a settlement, but on their own terms, Smith said.

"Meanwhile, our new constitution is progressing and I am able to reiterate what I told you on a previous occasion—namely, that we have secured ourselves in such a position that if there is no agreement with the British government, the other road will be ready," he said.

The proposed constitution, which provides for eventual political separation between whites and the country's 4,500,000 blacks, will not go to a referendum before April, he said. The other road to which he referred would presumably lead to a republic.

Mother Charged
Inquest Dropped

TORONTO (CP) — The inquest into the Oct. 10 death of three-year-old Theresa McIntosh ended suddenly Friday when her mother and Michael Manelli were charged in the building where the inquest was being held.

Diane McIntosh, 20, and Manelli, 42, were charged under the Criminal Code with abandoning or exposing a child under 10 so that its life or health could be endangered and with conspiracy to commit the offence.

They were released during a lunch break at Friday's inquest, later released on $2,500 bail each, and are to appear in court today for a trial date to be set.

Theresa died at home in bed of a brain hemorrhage. Mrs. McIntosh said the girl has suffered a head injury after a neighbor's child pushed her down a flight of stairs.

During Friday's inquest, which was resumed after a 20-day adjournment, Irene Michalowicz, who lives next door to a restaurant co-owned by Manelli, said that in August she saw Theresa locked in Manelli's car for about two hours on a hot day.

"The child tried to open the door but couldn't. I could hear crying and banging on the windows and calling 'Mummy, Mummy,' " she said.

Another time, she said she saw the child in the car and asked Manelli why he didn't remove her.

"He told me to mind my own business."

Mrs. Michalowicz said she threatened to call police and later saw Mrs. McIntosh unlock the car and take Theresa out.

Mrs. McIntosh, who is estranged from her husband, Ian, worked in the restaurant.

Before he arrest, she was to testify at the inquest for the first time since it began Nov.

Big B-52s Raid Roads To Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — United States B-52 bombers made their heaviest raid in two months today, dropping 1,800 tons of explosives to blunt an anticipated North Vietnamese offensive.

A military spokesman said the raids on possible invasion routes were given top priority following intelligence reports that the North Vietnamese are preparing thrusts into key areas around Saigon.

In the last three days 160 of the eight-jet planes, flying from bases in Okinawa, Guam and Thailand, have saturated an arc northwest to northeast of Saigon with more than 5,000 tons of bombs.

U.S. headquarters said returning crews reported their bombs set off at least 52 secondary explosions Thursday and Friday, indicating direct hits on ammunition stores.

Meanwhile the U.S. Navy reported that Viet Cong-initiated action has increased against boats patrolling rivers west and northwest of Saigon to block the flow of troops and war materials from Cambodia.

A navy spokesman said two U.S. sailors were killed and 18 wounded Friday in four attacks by Viet Cong troops.

U.S. headquarters also report ed that an army flight observation helicopter was shot down by ground fire Friday 30 miles northwest of the capital. One crew member was killed and two wounded.

It was the 955th U.S. helicopter downed in combat over South Vietnam since 1961.

Frenchman Offers To Take Place Of Anthony Grey

GENEVA (Reuters) — A veteran French correspondent specializing in Chinese affairs has offered to exchange himself for Anthony Grey, Reuters news agency correspondent under house arrest in Peking for nearly 17 months.

Jacques Marcuse, who spent 15 years in China and saw the Communist party take power in 1949, made the offer Friday in a registered letter to Chinese Premier Chou En-lai.

Marcuse, 57, now a free-lance journalist based in this Swiss city, is author of The Peking Papers, which criticizes the Communist regime of Mao Tse-tung.

'Hopes for Quick Release Slim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official hopes have all but vanished for release any time soon of the imprisoned USS Pueblo crew although American and North Korean negotiators are about to meet again at Panmunjom.

The session will be the 26th since the intelligence ship and its 83-man crew were seized off North Korea last Jan. 23. Exact timing for the meeting could not be learned.

Some authorities in Washington are privately predicting there is no better than a 10-per-cent chance that the 82 surviving crew members also will gain their freedom before the first anniversary of their capture.

By that time the challenge of the Pueblo will be a priority question for the Nixon administration.

China has said it would be willing to meet with the U.S. ambassador to Poland at Warsaw Feb. 20, a month after Nixon takes office.

But there is only an outside chance that North Korea, fiercely independent of both Moscow and Peking, would make a gesture toward the new American leadership.

North Korea continues to demand that the United States admit it was guilty of intruding into North Korean waters, apologize for the deed and promise that the action never be repeated.

The United States has insisted that the Pueblo was in international waters when the North Koreans captured it some 15 miles off the port of Wonsan.

Disgruntled U.S. Pros Trade Tomahawks for Golf Clubs

NEW YORK (AP) — The Professional Golfers' Association and the American Professional Golfers have put down their war clubs and decided to tee off together again on pro golf's multi-million dollar tour.

The two organizations shook hands Friday evening on an agreement, ending a dispute that threatened to send the 52-year-old PGA and the touring pros their separate ways on separate tours.

Neither the PGA nor the break-away APG claimed victory in the settlement.

"I wouldn't call it a victory for the APG," said Sam Gates, lawyer for the group. "We didn't go into this looking for a victory. We sought agreement by eliminating the sources of the disagreement."

The settlement returns the touring players to the PGA and ends their plans to establish a separate tour.

The APG, with most of the top pros, including Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper, had signed contracts with 17 tournament sponsors.

Under the agreement, the tour will continue as a PGA program and those 17 tournaments will be transferred to the PGA, which will honor the commitments.

A tournament players' division will be established within the PGA and will be governed by a tournament policy board with full authority over the conduct of the tour.

The board will consist of 10 directors, including four as yet unnamed tournament players: three PGA officials—PGA president Leo Fraser, Warren Orlick and William Clarke—and three distinguished businessmen.

The businessmen are J. Paul Austin of Atlanta, George H. Love of Pittsburgh and John D. Murchison of Dallas.

One player director will be elected to the PGA executive committee as a vice-president and all player directors will become members of the PGA's rules committee.

The board will appoint a tournament director who will handle financial matters, discipline players, handle television contracts and supervise the day-to-day operation of the tour, which begins Jan. 9 with the Los Angeles Open.

All pending litigation involving the PGA and APG is being dismissed under the agreement announced by Fraser and Gardner Dickinson Jr., president of the APG.

Terriers Cut Mo-Hawks Short

McConnell's Third Period Pair Negated by Quick Orillia Tally

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Belleville Mo-Hawk comeback bids have a knack of getting nipped in the bud.

Last night it was Orillia Terriers who did the pruning by a 4-2 score using John Hall's goal at 17.40 of the final period to take the steam out of the local warriors' vain attempt to overcome a 3-0 Terrier lead.

A week ago, the Mo-Hawks were within a goal of Galt in the third period before a pair of goals within 30 seconds helped the Hornets go on to a 7-2 trimming of the locals.

The worst Senior A city crowd of the season — a paid attendance of 516 — saw senior hockey veteran "Moe" Galand give the visitors a 2-0 first period lead on a ricochet off a Belleville defenceman at 9.09 and a close-in drive at 16.47.

The teams skated through a lackadaisical scoreless second period before Jim D'vidson gave the Terriers a 3-0 bulge that, considering recent third period Mo-Hawk luck, seemed well-nigh insurmountable.

Then Wayne McConnell sent the fickle hometown fans roaring "Go Hawks, Go!" with a pair of goals — the first on a breakaway at 12.16, set up by Wayne Brown's pass, and the second at 17.12 when he converted linemate Ron Riley's passout into a 20-foot tally.

Before the crowd had settled back in their blankets — 28 seconds later, to be exact — the Terriers had rushed up ice to go ahead 4-2 when Hall's shot appeared to do the arm and leg circuit before rolling over Mo-Hawk netminder Larry Holmes.

The Terriers outclassed, but didn't outhustle the Mo-Hawks, who outshot the visitors 30-29 on the night.

And goalie Gerry McNamara — one of the bevvy of ex-Toronto Marlboros who have transformed the Terriers from a last to a third-place Senior-A club— was the person largely responsible for last night's Belleville loss.

Jack Wilton's screened point shot around the eight - minute mark of the opening frame was all but up in lights when McNamara's leg-pad interfered out of nowhere.

Four minutes later, the lanky Terrier goalie robbed Wayne "Weiner" Brown's shorthanded attempt to put away Davey Jones' passout to tie the game.

And on it went, with McNamara getting in the way of everything the Mo-Hawks had to offer, but particularly proving frustrating to "Weiner" Brown who saw a half-dozen varied scoring attempts thwarted.

For Larry Holmes, accustomed to 40-plus plus nights, last night was a relative holiday, although "Moe" Galand gave the Wellington native an anxious moment every now and then with his corner-hunting drives.

Galand and hard-working defenceman Doug Murray received awards between the second and third periods for the 4 and 2 voted by their teammates as the club's most valuable players for October and November, respectively.

If the crowd didn't get to see the Mo-Hawks snap their six-game losing streak, they did see a once-in-a-season rarity—burly rearguard Greg Marchen playing a beefy right wing during a second-period Mo-Hawk power play.

The opportunity to snap their spiral downward comes tomorrow for the locals when they journey to Woodstock for an afternoon game with the Senior "A" doormats.

Next home action comes Friday when the Mo-Hawks get the chance to avenge last Friday's 7-2 trouncing by the Galt Hornets.

Nats Thump Flyers in Third

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Galt Hornets and Orillia Terriers picked up some valuable ground in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series Friday with help from Canada's Ottawa-based National Team.

The Nats scored four third-period goals with a six-minute span before 1,655 fans at Barrie to bounce the first-place Flyers 7-3.

Second-place Galt narrowed the gap to three points by outlasting Woodstock A's 11-7 at Woodstock and Orillia kept one point behind Galt with a 4-2 decision of the Mo-Hawks at Belleville.

In another game, at Collingwood, the Kings snapped a three-game losing streak, clipping Oakville Oaks 6-3 and now share fourth place with the Oaks at 18 points, seven behind Orillia.

The eastern section of the National team, which is playing a partial schedule of exhibition games with the OHA senior members, preserved their energy until the third period to disappoint one of the largest Barrie crowds of the season.

The Flyers, who dropped only their fifth game in 20 starts, led 2-1 after the first period and 3-2 after 40 minutes on goals by Dave Luciuk, Pete Panagabko and Ron Park.

Denis Dupere led the Nats with two goals, including his second of the night at 2:04 of the third period to ignite the four-goal burst. Other goal scorers for the winners were Don Davidson, Tom Martin, Al Demarco, Jean Cusson and Ritchie Bayes.

In the decisive third period, the Nats held a huge 24-5 edge in shots.

Kevin O'Shea of the Nats was handed a game misconduct in the second period when he entered the stands to aid a relative involved in a scrap with a Barrie fan.

At Woodstock, the Hornets were extended by the last place A's before collecting their eighth straight victory as the home club rebounded from trailing 5-0 after the first period.

Vance Millar paced the Hornets with three goals. Howie Dietrich and Bob Erne added two goals each as John Beechey, Joe Hogan, Fern Belanger and Ron Smith all scored once.

Subdued Clay Lowers Volume

LONDON (AP) — Cassius Clay said Friday night he no longer wants to argue about getting his world heavyweight title back and he still refuses to fight for the U.S. armed forces.

Speaking quietly about the stripping of his title, Clay told a British television audience:

"I don't make any argument over the thing because it would cheapen myself. I beat the best that anyone had to offer. The world knows I'm the champion.

"I pay no attention to a few cigar-smoking, dried-up people — you can only lose the belt in the ring," said Clay, who referred to himself only by his Black Muslim name of Mohammed Ali.

With no trace of his old boasting manner, he listed the greatest fighters in history as Jack Johnson, Jack Dempsey, Sugar Ray Robinson and Joe Louis, and added: "You can rank me where you want."

Clay said his former bragging and antics were an act to sell tickets, and "I don't have to boast no more."

Clay said he would never fight to defend the United States under any circumstances.

He said the enemy of the American Negro is not the North Vietnamese — "White Americans are the foes."

The Muslim boxer, quoting from Bible extracts and claiming "all whites are devils," said he was dead against integration. He said integration would "weaken us."

Leafs, Too!

Bring on Habs: Soviets' Tarasov

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The world champion Soviet amateur hockey team is ready to take on—and beat—Montreal Canadiens or Toronto Maple Leafs, the Soviet coach said today.

The only obstacle to the match is that, the Canadian teams have not accepted Soviet invitations, Anatoli Tarasov said in an interview with Tass news agency.

"As for us, we are prepared for such a battle. World hockey will only benefit from such encounters. Frankly speaking, I believe in the Soviet players, I believe in their success."

Tarasov recalled that the Soviet team beat Canadian amateur teams in all world championships since 1963 and that a Canadian amateur team which played here this month lost three times to the Soviet second team.

Tass implied Canada is looking for excuses to avoid a meeting between its top teams and the Russians.

It quoted coach Jackie McLeod as saying the professionals have no time to meet the Russians and would demand more money for the game than the Russians would want to pay.

In an appeal to Canadian pride, Tass added: "Canadian sports fans surely were again, and very seriously, disappointed by the performances of their ice hockey team in Moscow.

"They do not wait to lower the prestige of the homeland of hockey, they really do not want this."

All Russian hockey fans have heard of the legendary Leafs and Canadiens, and many have doubted whether their own team could beat Canadian professionals.

But last month, the government newspaper Izvestia began to debunk what it called the Canadian myth.

Two Soviet reporters who watched a game between the Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings said: "At first we were somewhat astonished. The spectacle is awe-inspiring, the pace fast as lightning."

But after a bit, they grew cooler: "The tactics of the Canadians are monotonous. The same studied combinations repeated through all three periods are not all that dangerous."

And, in suggesting a Soviet-Canadian professional match, they added: "After all, it has happened more than once in sport that someone's sports reputation has proved to be highly over-rated when it comes down to a face-to-face encounter."

IT WORKS BECAUSE IT SWINGS!

That's the principle behind the pendulum clock invented in 1657. Earlier clock were found only in cathedrals and public squares: today it is a rare home that doesn't contain at least one time-keeping clock. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are gone but the modern world depends upon accurate clocks.

If the days of your older clock are in your house, chances are that a home somewhere in this area would love to have it.

To Your Good Health

Girl, 13, Weighs 170 Pounds

By Dr. George C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a girl, 13, and I weigh 170 pounds. I have been trying to lose weight for about a week.

I should have done this before, because diabetes runs in my family. My mother has it and she always told me to watch myself. But I didn't listen.

I don't have diabetes but am afraid I might get it in the future. Please help me. — L. P.

Better to learn to watch your weight at 13 than later, but at 170 pounds you obviously are very much overweight. Don't expect to shed the excess in a week, or a month, or in several months, you should make a lot of progress.

Since your mother has diabetes. I assume that she has taken the trouble to learn what a balanced diet should contain and what types of food are particularly fattening and should be avoided. Here's what I'd suggest:

1 — Ask you mother to see to it that you have three meals a day, which will supply the energy, protein, and vitamins you need.

2 — Promise her (and yourself) not to ask for seconds.

3 — Promise yourself not to eat between meals. If you are 170 at age 13, I suspect that you have a well-developed habit of liking candy and pop and cream, and of iceboxraiding. For you, it's a bad habit. Break it — even if it isn't easy.

4 — Don't skip meals. Don't skip breakfast. A lot of girls skip meals trying to stay slim, but it isn't good for them, and usually it doesn't work anyway. They're tired all morning, lethargic and inactive, but then eat too much at other meals.

5 — Limit yourself to o ne slice of bread a meal, and if you have used lots of butter (and jelly) reduce the amount. Over a few weeks, that can make a difference.

6 — Don't have dessert. Or limit it to a dish of gelatin (no cream on it) or some fruit.

7 — When you have an uncontrollable urge to eat something, learn to assuage it by chewing raw vegetables. They contain useful minerals and roughage, but few calories. But for many folks, just the act of chewing takes the edge off the urge to eat. Carrot sticks, celery, a wedge of raw cabbage or lettuce, or a raw vegetables.

8 — Get more exercise. It doesn't much matter how, but physical exercise uses up calories and will help you shed the extra pounds.

9 — Believe in yourself. You can reduce. Anyone can. With your family trait of diabetes it is even more important to you than it is to others. Good luck, girl.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have excessive tearing of my eyes as well as cold air hits them. — Mrs. M. G.

Eyes will water from any irritant — cold air being one kind. It could also be that the tear duct is plugged; hence the tears do not drain normally into the nasal passages. Have an eye specialist check this.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When a person has epilepsy, can worry or getting upset bring on attacks? Shouldn't a person with epilepsy be made happy all the time to avoid spells? — Am I right? — T. Y.

Only slightly right. Excessive nervous tension s om etimes brings on attacks.

But "making a person happy all the time" is an impossibility. Life isn't like that. The person with epilepsy should live as normal a life as possible — take the bitter with the sweet. Learn to accept disappointments without brooding or flying into a tantrum. A person with epilepsy can learn to roll with life's punches as well as anyone else can. He should not expect everybody else to "make him happy."

Chartered Banks Lead Surge

By GERALD CLARKSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The shares of the five biggest chartered banks led a powerful surge to record levels on Canadian stock markets this week.

Bank stocks climbed an average seven per cent, the best advance of any group.

Both industrials and western oils are in new high ground, and traders say they expect 1968 to close with a strong finish.

The Toronto industrial index gained 3.84 points to 190.84, while the composite index on the Montreal and Canadian exchanges was up 4.08 to 187.95.

Among the week's largest gains, Falconbridge rose 6 to 105½, Metropolitan Stores 4 to 28, Crown Trust 4 to 56 and B.C. Phone 3½ to 69½.

The big banks—Royal, Canadian Imperial, Toronto-Dominion, Montreal and Nova Scotia —gained more than one dollar each.

Other strong industrial groups were steels, beverages, retailers, forest industries and real estate issues. Food processors, communications a nd utilities were slightly lower.

According to the Toronto and the Dow Jones industrial indexes, Canadian shares posted now 33 per cent above their lowest 1968 levels and U.S. prices are up about 15 per cent.

Bank stocks are putting up a record performance because of a big increase in their latest operating profits.

These higher earnings, which were widely anticipated by the investment world, have been closely watched by the market, price of the shares. However, the banks are still trading in a similar price proportion to their operating profits as they were last year.

Previously, bank stocks had been sluggish market performers ever since 1962. But their fortunes and prospects were ago.

radically changed by the revised Bank Act, which came into full effect seven months

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

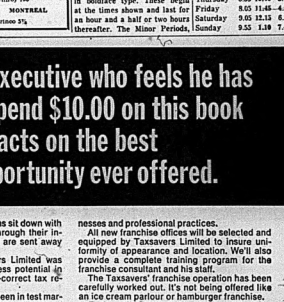
If you're an executive who feels he has everything, spend $10.00 on this book and get the facts on the best franchise opportunity ever offered.

Every year, 8½ million Canadians sit down with pencil and eraser to struggle through their income tax. Half of these returns are sent away wrong.

That's why H & M Taxsavers Limited was formed. We saw a great business potential in selling the perfect, guaranteed-correct tax return. We do this by computer.

Our computers have already been in test market for two years. In trust company offices and accounting firms. The computer concept has proven sound. And people want the service.

This year we'll be opening offices from coast to coast, and a full media advertising campaign is already planned for support. To make each franchise operational all year round, we'll also provide management consulting services based on computerized recordkeeping for small businesses and professional practices.



All new franchise offices will be selected and equipped by Taxsavers Limited to insure uniformity of appearance and location. We'll also provide a complete training program for the franchise consultant and his staff.

Each applicant should have a formal training in management arts, particularly in accounting or sales. He should be a man who wants the opportunity to use his business talents to achieve high income and satisfaction in what he's doing.

The Taxsavers' book contains complete information on the market, the potential, the profits and the franchise operation.

We think it's worth the $10.00.

Diefenbaker Sees Move to Pave Way for Republican System

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker charged in the Commons Friday that the government was trying to throttle Parliament and pave the way for a republican system on the United States model.

In an hour-long attack on proposed rules of procedure for handling parliamentary business, the former Conservative leader alternately ridiculed and criticized the majority Liberal government.

Mr. Diefenbaker entered the debate on the controversial proposed rules shortly in the fourth day. Debate will continue next week.

The prime issue is a rule that would allow the government to set an advance time limits for debate on every stage of any or all legislation.

All three opposition parties oppose it. "Closure in advance," NDP rules expert Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre) called it.

The Conservatives also oppose a change that would put consideration of the spending estimates of all government departments in the hands of Commons committees. They want at least a third of them held for study by the whole House.

Friday, Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson read out the changes the government was willing to make in the controversial time-allocation rule.

The chief one was that the guillotine be applied to only two stages of any bill wit one time. This would allow more time for debate.

But he rejected a suggestion by Mr. Knowles that the whole report of the rules committee be returned to the committee for further study.

Mr. Olson said the government's latest proposals would be referred to a permanent rules committee to be set up after the rules changes now before the House are passed.

He assured the House that in the meantime the government would operate as though its new proposal had been adopted.

Mr. Diefenbaker ridiculed the proposal. It was not a retreat, he said, but a mere pretence.

"Never have I seen more words used to conceal an idea. But the idea remains the same —the throttling of Parliament."

Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East) waved a copy of Mr. Olson's statement in the air and called it "an insult to our intelligence."

Mr. Olson said the opposition is laboring under "the false impression" that it has the right to hold up legislation.

"Democracy must include the right of the majority to decide," he declared.

Mr. Diefenbaker called the rules proposals the kind of thing a Communist country might endorse. They were "a spurious trick designed to emasculate Parliament, to cow and eventually render the Opposition null and void."

"If the allocation of time proposed by the government is carried out, it will mean that the road of Canadian parliamentary serfdom will have been established to meet the ego of a power-hungry government."

The argument that Parliament must be efficient was an old one. "But Parliament is not a corporation. Parliament has a soul."

Grey head bobbing, forefinger jabbing the air, now chuckling, now scowling eternally, he defended the rights of Parliament and at the same time defended the monarchy and members of those who advocated republicanism for Canada.

On the basis of statements by Prime Minister Trudeau, he concluded, "there are members of this government hellbent for a republic."

M. T. McCutcheon (PC—Lambton-Kent) picked up the same theme.

"I smell republicanism," he said. "I see its advocates in high places."

Prime Minister Trudeau had suggested greater use of the name of Governor-General Michener in place of the Queen, he said. The next step would be to replace the governor-general with a president named by Mr. Trudeau.

Mr. McCutcheon said there was no important legislation in the order paper being delayed by the rules debate.

"A great step towards efficiency could be taken by giving priority to items that deal with major national problems."

Ross Wicher (L—Bruce), making his maiden speech, praised Mr. Diefenbaker as a great champion of Parliament.

"But the pages of history are full of the names of great men who have been wrong."

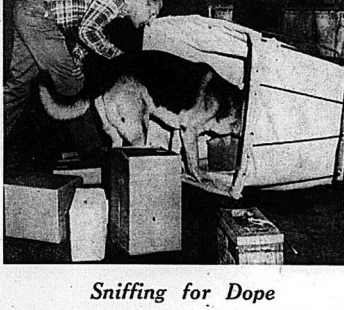
Any business that conducted its affairs the way Parliament does would be bankrupt in two or three weeks, he said.

J. A. Mongrain (L—Trois-Rivieres) said the government would discredit itself in the eyes of the country if it failed to take action to limit Parliament's "endless palavers."

"The people have been asking for more efficiency in Parliament. The time has come to do it."

Canada Problem For U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and "our marvelous northern neighbors" are shaping up behind the scenes as a major, unrevealed high-priority problem" for the new administration of President-elect Nixon, says syndicated columnist Henry Taylor.



One reason, he implies in a column from Montreal, is that Trudeau has been making "strange noises" about whether Canada will continue to serve with the U.S. in the North American Air Defence system.

But the Taylor column in Friday's Washington Daily News is somewhat countered by a letter from Ottawa in Friday's Washington Post by Robert Estabrooke. It says Canadian studies of possible policy changes on NATO, China or the Organization of American States may well result in few changes.

The two comments are among the handful evident so far on what Trudeau has said recently. Private comment from U.S. officials has been equally sparse.

Taylor writes from a firm anti-Communist viewpoint and his column follows that line. He notes Canada is one of only two Hemisphere nations still recognizing Cuba-Mexico is the other —and that "Red China and East Germany now are finalizing much of their Canadian buying directly through a Canadian government agency and Canada contributes to grant new wheat contracts on special terms to Red China, Cuba, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Bulgaria."

Taylor lists a number of names, from Soviet spy Gordon Lansdale to Haidee Tamara Bunke, who he identifies as the woman slain with Cuban revolutionary Che Guevara, as users of Canadian passports.

Five MPs Sponsor Fund To Aid Starving Biafra

OTTAWA (CP) — A group of five MPs announced Friday establishment of what they called a Christmas ship fund to help the people of food-short Biafra, the breakaway province of Nigeria.

At a news conference, they called upon Canadians to contribute to the fund. Proceeds would be used to purchase food and charter aircraft for delivering supplies into Biafra from the island of Sao Tome.

The chairman is Ralph Stewart, Liberal MP for Ontario's Cochrane riding. Others involved in the campaign are Lorne Nystrom (NDP—Yorkton-Melville), David Macdonald (PC—Egmont), R. G. L. Fairweather (PC—Pundy Royal) and Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood).

The fund draws its name from the fact that a Dutch ship is leaving New York Jan. 4 with food supplies for Biafra. Organizers intend that part of the money contributed by Canadians will go to purchase food to be carried by the ship.

Trudeau Says Most Canadians Advocate Collective Security

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Friday most informed Canadians with whom he has discussed foreign policy believe in the retention of collective security arrangements.

The Liberal leader's comment at a student meeting was immediately interpreted as a signal that Canada will retain a military role in NATO and NORAD, the country's two security alliances.

During a sometimes boisterous question and answer session in the University of Manitoba gymnasium, Mr. Trudeau said:

"I have had several meetings already with university people with teachers, with journalists, trying to see their views on this.

"And by and large I think most of the informed Canadians I have discussed foreign policy with believe in some form of collective security.

"In other words they don't think Canada should withdraw completely from its international obligations."

Mr. Trudeau hastened to add that his government, in the midst of a comprehensive foreign policy review, has not yet accepted the proposition.

At the same time, without precisely saying so, he seemed to hold out little hope for any reduction in defence spending.

He said Canada spends less per capita on defence than all NATO countries except Denmark and Iceland.

"All the others spend more," he said. "Sometimes impressively more."

"So if we believe in collective security, we must remind ourselves that we are pretty much at (spending) minimum now. We can't go very much lower."

It is sometimes tempting—and not limited solely to the temptation in the past- to feel Canada should be more interested in the defence of North America than of Europe. Should Canada de-emphasize the Atlantic alliance in favor of NORAD?

But this course would cost more since Canada has only a small military involvement in NATO. Deeper involvement in NORAD with its missile systems and so on is vastly more expensive. He concluded by saying he hasn't got the answers.

At the hour-long session attended by 3,000 students, Mr. Trudeau over-rode periodic heckling and sign-waving by a large group of youths carrying New Democratic Party signs sitting on the floor close to the platform.

Later, at a $50-a-plate party fund-raising banquet at Winnipeg Auditorium, he attacked labor officials and politicians who suggested the transfer of the Winnipeg Air Canada overhaul base to Montreal was motivated by a desire to do some thing for French-Canadians in Quebec.

He said officials in the labor movement had brought disunity to it and themselves by bringing ethnic considerations into the transfer, long a subject of labor dispute. It was "rather sad" to see some politicians join the labor stand.

The transfer was based on economic and technological grounds, he said.

He said if he had been given the opportunity, he would have told the same thing to labor pickets who greeted him at the front door of the auditorium.

Police protected by buffalo coats in the 10-below cold escorted Mr. Trudeau through the 150 chilled demonstrators. As Mr. Trudeau passed through they attacked Quebec and the French language with shouts and signs.

Inside, Mr. Trudeau told the Liberal crowd, which paid $70,000 to see him, that the federal government must intervene in the affairs of government-owned corporations to force uneconomic decisions to correct regional disparities.

He said the government does spend money all the time to protect certain necessary values, such as bilingualism, but this is a different thing.

At the two functions he also made these points:

—The basic fault in resitve universities is that students do not spend enough time with their books. Perhaps they should read philosophers such as Plato before they start beating against university administrations.

—Selling wheat is a Canadian problem, but it is first and foremost the problem of the farmer, who has many organizations to help him accomplish the marketing job.

—The Liberal party does not take orders from Bay Street or Wall Street, nor follow the whispered orders of "evil capitalists."

—The problem of economic poverty and social isolation of the Indians has never been really attacked and even Indians seem to lack the answers.

—To student suggestions the Liberal party is run by the rich, he said the party does have some rich people in it, but "also our share of bankrupts."

Russian Language Teaching Is Praised

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian teacher who has returned from a three-week visit to the Soviet Union is impressed with the language-training courses he found there.

Bert Curtis, principal of applied arts at Algonquin College here said in an interview Friday:

"They aren't waiting for the most modern buildings and equipment. They're busy teaching a very large number of people English, French and German as well as other languages."

Mr. Curtis and Reg Herman Tweqis, managing editor of the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education's magazine Convergence, were nominated for the Soviet tour by the Canadian Association for Adult Education.

Mr. Curtis said he found the Russians using tapes and films in their language courses and that the state-operated educational "television system provided plenty of "ancillary programs" to complement the language instruction.

Although concentrating on adult education, they were shown kindergartens, nurseries, general educational schools, technical schools, children's clubs and sports societies.

Mr. Curtis said apart from education he found the surface-transit systems fascinating.

They operate on the honor system. You drop your coins into a little device and it shows you a ticket. You take the ticket and get seated. Occasionally an inspector spot checks the bus or streetcar and those without tickets are fined the equivalent of 50 cents."

Motor Licensing Officials Are Buried by Snowmobiles

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial officials tried to guess the number of snowmobiles in Ontario before registration became compulsory, Nov. 1 this year, but the avalanche of applications has caught them by surprise.

Motor vehicle licensing offices in several Ontario communities have had to send rush orders to Toronto for more registration plates when their original supplies dwindled.

So far the offices have been sent 73,000 plates, and orders for more are expected, David Boyd, head of the transport department's motor vehicle licence branch, said Friday.

"The problem was we didn't know for sure how many there were in the province. . . .

"And we won't have much of an idea until the end of this month how many have been registered, because there was no snow in November and our month-end tabulation didn't show any significant numbers."

The $4 plates, one to a snowmobile, are good for two years, he said.

"They had to have plates last year only if used on the highways, but now they must be registered no matter where they're used," he said.

Snowmobiles are so plentiful in Renfrew, Ont., 45 miles west of Ottawa, that town council this week passed a bylaw prohibiting them on town streets. Residents had complained to police the vehicles were interfering with traffic and television reception.

The Ottawa licensing office ran out of plates five times.

Things are even more hectic in licensing offices farther north. Sales were slow in Sault Ste. Marie until a foot of snow fell Nov. 18. In the next three days 700 were issued.

By the end of November the initial order of 1,200 plates was almost sold out, and 2,000 were ordered.

The Timmins office has sold about 700 plates, and sent a rush order for more as its original supply of 800 dwindled.

Demand is heavier than expected in southern Ontario too. The Oshawa office, with 450 sold so far, says the demand is much higher than the supply.

In Guelph, bureau clerk Mrs. William Carere said: "They have been going very well, and we haven't even had any snowflakes." She has sold 140 so far.

About 225 plates had been sold in Belleville, 80 in Woodstock and 250 in Kitchener.

Demonstrators Dispersed By Policemen at Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Police quickly dispersed about 100 demonstrators, arresting seven, when paint throwing and scuffling broke out Friday night on a busy downtown street.

Two policemen received slight injuries in the scuffle on St. Catherine Street, crowded with thousands of Christmas shoppers.

The youths had been demonstrating in support of freeing Charles Gagnon and Pierre Vallieres, incarcerated members of the terrorist Front de Liberation Quebecois—Quebec Liberation Front.

The youths began their demonstration by placing a wreath before the statue of a 19th-century Quebec hero. Then they snarled traffic and threw paint. Several store windows were broken.

More than 100 policemen following the demonstrators restored order in about 30 minutes.

Vallieres was sentenced this year to life imprisonment for manslaughter while Gagnon is awaiting trial on a murder charge.

Both publicly avowed members of the terrorist group, they were charged in connection with the death of a woman in a shoe-factory bombing in 1966.

The wreath-placing ceremony was before the statue of Dr. Jean Olivier Chenier, who fought in the 1837 rebellion and died in the Battle of St. Eustache.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For Dec. 15th

Your birthday today: The coming year is one long readjustment. Every change you make generates problems, sometimes to the point of absurdity. Underneath is increasing responsibility to yourself. The surface is ruffled more by accident than from any confusion within you. Optimism is the mark of today's natives.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Another in a series of unpressured Sundays. Take full advantage. Join forces with friends at church and gatherings.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Go along with plans already set; be cooperative and flexible. Short trips are coming but shouldn't be extended late. Expect crankiness from loved ones in early evening.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Married people will enjoy this Sunday more than young people seeking romance or mates. Catch up on letter writing, mental pastimes; the interlude can be serene.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Fix up your home. Postpone sentimental adventures. Gather the family and perhaps a few interesting guests.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): When you've done your share of the church service, settle down quickly to your notes and planning for the coming year's end. Accept a caller, or visit where your interests are similar.

VIRGO (Aug. 23—Sept 22): Begin the day early. You may enjoy writing, along with other mental activities. Be prepared for outside people to drop in and become fretful later in the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct 22): Sunday visits can be fun but should be brief. Answer mail. Reading, study, serious meditation are strongly urged.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Helping others brings happiness. Short, early trips can be productive. Social activities dwindle later in the day; take the opportunity for deep thought.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): It's an easy day if you put off the heavy emotion and just float along in moderation. New contacts are available; get out, make the rounds.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Religious activities are unusually rewarding. Catch up with news from far places; write to friends and relatives elsewhere. Get extra rest; you need to be mentally alert tomorrow.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Take a group along. . . to keep the day light. Intellectual pleasures are strongly favored over heavy emotional behavior or physical exertion.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Travel will yield early. Go along with the unstressed conditions. Other people tire and fret late in the day; find a quiet corner for reading.

For Dec. 16th,

Your birthday today: Your coming year will be difficult if you have neglected to learn subtle nuances of expression; nobody is apt to express himself overtly. You are expected to use intuition. You can get part of the experiences by putting distance between yourself and most people. Delay responses until you're sure of what to do.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Don't think turns of circumstances are personally directed against you. Nobody in authority can hear you above his own clamor.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Stay active (on a practical level). You may have a powerful appetite for pleasure. Moderate this drive for future well being; creative and romantic interests are under clouds.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Do not apply or present petitions. Your main concern now is established ties. Exclude outsiders' opinions. The single are lucky, lacking the ties.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): Intuition opens wider to show you a deeper perspective on your life and where you may go with it. Expect no help, and think.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): You are beset with a strong desire to change things. This is not the overthrow of reality for you today. Settle down to routine as fast as you can.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Your suggestions are probably accurate and constructive, but possibly not well received. Put off serious efforts to change your circumstances. Get the week well started.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Your talent for discreet leadership comes to the fore. Pose good questions without offering solutions; guide by implication. Demands, requests are refused. Institutional business is difficult.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Your interest in intellectual situations is intense. Intuition will save you if it is working (and you listen to it!) Financial deals today are deceptive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): It is easy to fall into the role of critic — and be resented needlessly. Even praise is taken in reverse. So keep your opinions to yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Unsuspected rivals disclose themselves. You have gained this advantage by remaining steady. Listen. Even more knowledge comes to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Favors . . . for friends . . . do not work out especially in financial matters. Leave experiments to others or for another day.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Imaginative work thrives, but policy decisions hang in suspense. Everybody talks too much. So do not touch on your principal plans.

Bennett Would Replace Provinces With Five Economic Regions

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett called Friday for redrafting of the map of Canada.

The Social Credit premier distributed at a news conference the opening brief which British Columbia prepared for the now-postponed federal-provincial constitutional conference.

The conference originally had been scheduled for next week in Ottawa.

The brief said Canada's 10 provinces should be consolidated into five viable units to face economic and social reality.

The Maritimes would be consolidated into one Atlantic region, Quebec and Ontario would remain as now, the three Prairie provinces would be amalgamated into one unit stretching from the United States border to the Arctic Ocean, taking in most of the Northwest Territories, and B.C. would be expanded likewise through acquisition of the Yukon and part of the Northwest Territories.

The brief also proposed:

Economic equality for all Canadians.

—Rejection of a constitutional amendment making French an official language.

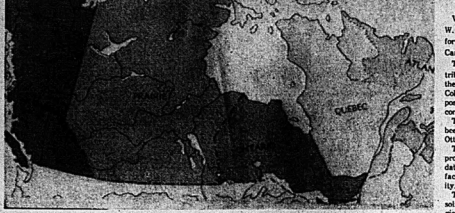
—Appointment of provincial law reform commissions to guard "fundamental rights"—instead of amending the constitution.

—Tax reform, with the right to levy income tax reverting to the provinces from Ottawa.

—Reform of the Senate to reflect the political parties in power in the proposed five geographic regions.

The brief said B.C. does not wish to minimize the importance of such matters as language, culture and constitutional review.

But, it said, "unless the problems of the glaring discrepancies in standards of living and economic opportunities for low-income citizens . . . are met, then the consideration of many of the matters which are being discussed during these days may prove to be little more than academic."



The brief said the constitution review under way may be an exercise in futility since in 1964 the federal and provincial governments were unable to formulate an acceptable way to amend the current constitution.

Mr. Bennett said the federal government had no objection to the release of the B.C. brief.

He had notified Prime Minister Trudeau Thursday of his intentions and the prime minister had telephoned him 15 minutes prior to Friday's news conference to indicate approval.

Mr. Bennett said one of the reasons of urgency is the official languages bill now before the federal parliament.

The bill would stipulate that provincial courts be bilingual. Yet under the existing constitution of the British North America Act "constitution, maintenance and organization of provincial courts both of civil and criminal jurisdiction" is exclusively a provincial right.

Municipalities Can Impose Rent Control

TORONTO (CP) — Municipalities have the power to impose rent control under a 1963 act but have been reluctant to use it, says Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough.

Because of this reluctance, Mr. McKeough said Friday, in an interview, the provincial government will table legislation covering rent controls when it receives the report of the Ontario Law Reform commission.

The commission is making a study of laws governing landlord-tenant relationships and its report is expected soon.

Mr. McKeough said the government also will consider a private bill on rent controls submitted to the legislature by A. R. R. Lawrence, Conservative member for Carleton East, on behalf of the city of Ottawa.

Mr. Lawrence said when he submitted the bill that Ottawa feels the 1963 legislation is unclear.

Mr. Lawrence's bill is expected to go before the private bills committee of the legislature for study, Mr. Lawrence, chairman of the committee, said the bill probably would come before the legislature in early February.

The 1963 act, tabled Act Respecting Rent Control, permits municipalities to pass by-laws invoking regulations made under the Leasehold Regulations Act.

However, there have been legal arguments about whether the act contains a cutoff date. One clause says that anything done under the act before March 2, 1954, is in accordance with provisions of the legislation. This has caused speculation that anything done since that date might be illegal, particularly if a municipality had taken no action under the legislation before March 2, 1954, or if it had repealed any by-laws passed under the bill and now sought to reimpose regulations controlling rent.

Mr. McKeough said he has referred the 1963 act to the attorney-general's department for a legal opinion.

Issue In Quebec

Delay On Language Bill Appeases Both Sides

QUEBEC (CP) — The legislative assembly today was to debate a motion sending into committee study Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand's disputed language rights bill that had been due for second reading.

The Union Nationale government's decision to send the bill into committee in effect delayed its consideration until the assembly's next session, likely in February.

The decision was made public through a notice of motion on the order paper under the name of Labor Minister Maurice Bellemare.

The move dashed the premier's hopes of getting the bill passed this year, providing an apparent victory for nationalist French elements who opposed the bill guaranteeing parents the right to have their children educated in the official language of their choice—French or English.

A march on the legislature that week by nearly 3,000 persons opposed to the bill, most of them school children, resulted in 60 broken windows when the marchers pelted the building with snowballs.

A report by the education department on this incident, read in the house Friday, did not say who was responsible for involving the school children.

But a student leader is quoted as saying snowballs were thrown at the legislature windows at the request of a television cameraman who wanted to get some "live action" on film.

However, the cameraman denied the accusation.

An informant within the Union Nationale said the decision to send the bill to committee was made with permission from Premier Bertrand, in hospital for treatment of "heart troubles" since Monday.

The move was proposed at a meeting Wednesday by Mr. Carbonal, vice-chairman of the cabinet, who was delighted to seek Mr. Bertrand's approval.

Industry and Commerce Minister Jean-Paul Beaudry, a federalist who has clashed publicly on the language rights issue with Cultural Affairs Minister Jean-Noel Tremblay, a nationalist, said he thinks the decision is wise.

"This is a serious problem which could take a few months of study," he said. "Some English-speaking people in my riding (Lafontaine) don't like the bill because it will oblige the English to learn French in the schools."

Lobbying nationalist elements expressed satisfaction.

Raymond Lemieux, president of the Mouvement pour l'integration scolaire, said in an interview:

"We didn't want the bill to be passed this session. The government was going too fast."

The Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies of Quebec, another anti-bill lobby, said in a statement the decision is an example of "logic and lucidity."

The federation claims about 300,000 members in Quebec for their French-Canadian, Roman Catholic, nationalist organization.

Quebec Can't Ease Montreal's Fiscal Woe

QUEBEC (CP) — Finance Minister Paul Dozois says financial problems of "extreme gravity" prevent the provincial government from helping the city of Montreal overcome a deficit in its current fiscal budget.

He told the legislature Friday the government already had exceeded by $59,000,000 loans it intended to make this fiscal year. The province would need to borrow more because of a critical lack of current account funds.

The cash flow situation was so tight that funds sometimes were lacking to make grants on time to school boards and other institutions, he said.

The government would have to increase its borrowing by $50,000,000 to $60,000,000 to cover its current account situation he described as "clearly insufficient."

Mr. Dozois made these comments during the second-reading debate on a bill concerning possible financial help to the city of Montreal. The bill had been given first reading earlier in the day.

He estimated Montreal's deficit this fiscal year as between $18,000,000 and $30,000,000.

Because of the province's own financial problems he was unable to meet Montreal's request for provincial funds to overcome the deficit.

He later qualified his comments by saying this shouldn't be interpreted as meaning Quebec can't meet its obligations.

"I feel that the province of Quebec is capable of meeting its obligations, that it will always repay the loans it contracts and the population will always be ready to make the necessary sacrifices for progress."

It was virtually impossible for Quebec to raise taxes. Its eight per-cent retail sales tax was one of the highest sales taxes on the North American continent, he said.

The federal government should grant Quebec a greater share of the Canadian tax dollar.

GO Train May Serve North Metro

TORONTO (CP) — Government and opposition members of the legislature joined Friday in calling for extension of the provincial government's commuter train service.

A resolution by William Hodgson (PC—York North) asking that the service be expanded to communities north of Metropolitan Toronto was welcomed by all the members who participated in the debate.

Mr. Hodgson said a GO transit line using present CNR facilities between Toronto and Newmarket would serve a rapidly-expanding area which already boasts a population of 140,000, and whose people "are crying out for some sort of commuter service."

He said federal Transport Minister Paul Hellyer has promised that CNR equipment and train crews will be made available for such an expansion "but Ottawa will not act until we, the government of Ontario, announce our willingness to go ahead."

Arthur Evans (PC—Simcoe Centre) said the service should go north as far as Barrie but Stephen Smith (PC—Simcoe East) wanted the line to go even farther, to Orillia. Both speakers said the train service would relieve weekend congestion on Highways 400, 11 and 27.

Eddie Sargent (L—Grey Bruce) said none of the members had gone far enough. The service should be extended throughout the province so there would be "some equality."

Mr. Sargent said the people of Ontario have been required to spend $50,000,000 for a commuter system that serves only the Toronto area.

Highways Minister Gomme said outside the house a report on the feasibility of expanding the service is expected to be ready for consideration by the cabinet next month.

He said Mr. Sargent's estimate of $50,000,000 as GO's cost was "strictly out of his head." Total cost of trains and operation was closer to $25,000,000.

McFarland Will Ask OMB Investigation

Dubcek Stays, Prague Is Quiet

PRAGUE (AP) — Fears of a new political upheaval in Czechoslovakia subsided today with the news that the Communist party will keep Alexander Dubcek as its chief and will go ahead with a limited program of economic reforms.

The party central committee, which met last week, gave Dubcek, National Assembly Chairman Josef Smrkovsky and other progressives in the party leadership more time to amend party policy.

Workers and students met through the weekend preparing strikes and other protest actions if their more liberal favorites were deposed. But there was no mention of any leadership changes in the committee resolutions published today, and informed sources said there were none.

One resolution said: "The party takes the main line in the sphere of economic policy to be continuation of economic reforms which have been started."

But the resolution made clear that the economic program would be a delayed, weaker version of the plans made before the Soviet-led invasion Aug. 20.

It said the party would lay down a mandatory schedule for the reforms in order that the central committee might discuss the document by mid-1969. In effect, this shelved action for some six months.

There was no mention of the earlier more ambitious plans for widespread use of profit motive incentives and free market regulation of prices by supply and demand. Instead, it said only that some factories and other industries would be freed from some dictates of the central planners.

The resolution called for both closer economic ties with the Soviet Union and for more trade with the West. Trade with the West was a major feature of the party liberation reform plans. But the resolution put more stress on the stronger co-operation with the Soviet. Premier Oldrich Cernik had told the central committee that trade with the rest of the East Bloc must be strengthened first to open the way for more trade with the West.

Clifford Advocates Ceasefire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford says the United States should negotiate an early Vietnam ceasefire and troop withdrawals, leaving the political settlement to Saigon, Hanoi and the Viet Cong.

"I have no idea that we should maintain 540,000 (American) men there fighting," Clifford said Sunday, "while we wait for Saigon and Hanoi to come to some political settlement."

Clifford also said a possible new Viet Cong-North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam would not wreck the Paris peace talks, noting President Johnson had foreseen "hard bargaining and hard fighting ahead."

The defence secretary was interviewed on the CBS radio-television program Face the Nation.

Mayor Eager For Inquiry

By DONALD MacKENZIE, Staff Reporter

PICTON — Mayor Harvey McFarland says he himself will apply for an Ontario Municipal Board inquiry into this town's local government.

And town councillor Mrs. Bessie Ward says she would be glad to support the mayor's petition.

The latest developments came after a week of controversy and personality clashes that have riddled municipal affairs here.

Already, OMB chairman J. A. Kennedy confirms there is one request for an investigation into town government. He says it came from Athol township councillor Harry Evans.

Mr. Evans indicated last week he would call for an investigation because "people in Picton walked in fear of the establishment."

Mayor McFarland says he would welcome such an inquiry "with open arms" and that he already has said so to Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough.

And, to clear the air the mayor says he plans to make application signed by himself and members of town councils past and present.

Councillor Ward said she would be glad to sign the petition — if Mayor McFarland signed first.

Other reaction was less definite. Councillor Harold McLoughlin said he did not want to discuss the issue until he talked with the mayor.

Clerk - treasurer Andrew Jarvis said he had nothing to say on the mayor's plans at this time.

All three said this morning they had not yet heard from the mayor.

Not since the first outbreaks of violence at the Proctor-Silex plant in Picton has the town seen as much controversy and differences of opinion as in the past week.

The new storm centre had its beginning with a pre-election advertisement placed in the Picton Gazette by an anonymous Citizens Information Committee.

It traced certain municipal events and decisions for the past 20 years. Some readers termed it direct and to the point. Others including Picton clerk-treasurer Andrew Jarvis, who threatened to resign over the advertisement, called it incomplete and a gross mis-

Bridge Blockade Possible

CORNWALL (CP) — Mohawk Indians from the nearby St. Regis reserve threatened Sunday to block the Seaway International Bridge to traffic Wednesday unless Prime Minister Trudeau grants them a hearing regarding border crossings.

Michael Mitchell, a spokesman for the Indians, said a delegation from the reserve will travel to Ottawa Tuesday and ask the prime minister for legislation to exempt Indians from paying duty on goods brought back from the United States.

The bridge links Cornwall with New York state.

The Indians claim that under the terms of the Jay treaty signed between Great Britain and the U.S. in 1794, Indians passing the border "with their own proper goods and effects of whatever nature" shall not pay any duty.

The decision to send a delegation to Ottawa was made during a meeting attended by about 200 of the 8,000 Indians living on the reserve.

Countdown Started For Voyage to Moon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — With the countdown for their moon voyage under way, the Apollo 8 astronauts today received the final major physical examination for the flight.

Col. Frank Borman, Capt. James Lovell Jr. and Maj. William Anders are scheduled to rocket into space at 7:51 a.m. EST Saturday, heading for a Christmas Eve orbit around the moon.

The lengthy countdown for the launching of the Saturn V rocket started on schedule at 7 p.m. Sunday when electrical power was fed to the Apollo 8 ship atop the 36-storey-tall booster. Experts began systematic checking to make certain all elements of the $55,000,000 moonshot are functioning.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the early stages of the count proceeded normally.

Fowler To Visit Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — New plans for treating chronic international monetary headaches and easier foreign-exchange rules for Canada are likely talking points during a scheduled Ottawa visit today by Henry Fowler, outgoing United States treasury secretary.

The plans for dealing with recurring currency exchange crises, such as those that hit the French franc last month and the Canadian dollar last spring, are understood to involve automatic machinery for offsetting bouts of pressure on the international monetary system.

The program, discussed three weeks ago by Western finance ministers and subsequently by central bankers, would also provide for periodic review of currency exchange parities to judge whether any require fresh valuation.

Meantime, Canada is expected to be freed shortly from a five-year-old commitment to keep U.S. dollar reserves below a specified upper limit.

The $2,550,000,000 target ceiling on Canada's foreign exchange reserves has been seen by some authorities as limiting Canada's freedom of action in managing its economy, especially in curbing inflation.

Canadian and U.S. officials have been negotiating the target ceiling for several weeks and it has been forecast the figure might be raised. However, the target figure now is expected to be erased completely.

Sonar Shows Monsters Inhabit Loch Ness

LONDON (Reuters) — The legend of the Loch Ness monster took a new turn Sunday when The Observer weekly newspaper reported that sensitive sonar equipment has established the existence of live creatures "uncharacteristic of fish" in the Scottish lake.

The newspaper said these findings tended to substantiate the theory that there was not just one Loch Ness monster but a tribe of them.

The tests were made by a group of Birmingham University scientists, using equipment developed in their laboratories.

Stanfield Charges Trudeau Is Waging War on Provinces

MONTREAL (CP) — Federal Opposition leader Robert Stanfield said Saturday the Trudeau government is waging war on the provinces in the name of national unity with its "inflexible" attitudes, mainly in economic matters.

He said this inflexibility will lead to further friction and a deterioration in federal provincial relations.

Mr. Stanfield told a meeting of Quebec Progressive Conservatives that his party's alternative is to sit down with the provinces and discuss solutions to tax and money problems in a spirit of co-operation.

He said the government's position "would be a lot more credible" if it did not insist on going ahead with the medicare plan while making it clear that it intends to withdraw from the scheme in a few years.

Storm Cancels Flights

MONTREAL (CP) — A storm which dumped an average of seven inches of snow on Quebec province Monday had lost much of its force by morning today, but early flights of at least three airliners were cancelled at Montreal International Airport.

Although the total snow accumulation increased by one inch to eight in Montreal by daybreak, an Air Canada spokesman said gusting winds still were piling up heavy drifts on the tarmac at the airport here.

Air Canada had closed down its operations at 10 p.m. Sunday, and early flights today to Quebec City, Bagotville and Sept-Iles, as well as to Maritime points, were cancelled because of the snowdrifts.

The spokesman said flight arrivals in Montreal from the Maritime provinces and Toronto had been delayed, but flights to Toronto were departing on schedule.

The situation at Montreal International Airport is expected to return to normal about 2 p.m. today, the spokesman said.

Roads through Quebec remained treacherous, even though the driving snow changed to flurries overnight.

Gallons of Oil Drained Into Dike

BEACHVILLE, Ont. (CP) — An official of Cyanamid of Canada Ltd. said Sunday someone opened the drain valve Saturday on a 100,000-gallon oil tank.

About 25,000 gallons of the heated, flammable liquid, worth about $2,500, escaped before supervisory personnel discovered the open valve and closed it. A dike around the tank prevented the liquid from spreading.

The company official said the escape of the oil at the limestone processing plant created an extreme fire hazard.

He blamed vandalism.

The company last Monday locked out its 92 workers, members of Local 564 of the International Chemical Workers' Union, after contract negotiations broke down.

Union spokesman William Barker said Sunday the workers are not responsible for the Saturday night incident at the plant "and that's the honest truth because we've just talked to every one of our 92 members."

Brazil Cities Quiet

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil was outwardly calm today but censorship restricted the press and radio for the third day and arrests were reported continuing in President Arthur da Costa e Silva's crackdown on the opposition to his regime and its military backers.

Some reports said the government would suspend the political rights of its opponents. Some militant students and opposition politicians were reported in hiding.

CFB Trenton Water To Be Fluoridated

TRENTON — Fluoridation of water supplies at the Canadian Forces Base here is underway.

The program follows a national defence department announcement that fluoride will be added to water servicing all armed forces bases across Canada.

Tenders already have been accepted and work is now beginning on a $9,000 fluoridation plant at the airbase here.

It should be in operation by early January, said a spokesman.

At Kingston, a similar program will be undertaken at the Royal Military College.

Officials at Canadian Forces Base Borden, near Barrie, said fluoride equipment is being installed there and should be operating by late January or early February at a capacity of about 2,500,000 gallons a day.

The Kingston base, which uses about 1,225,000 gallons of water a day, has its water supplied by the city's public utilities commission.

Fluoride was added to Kingston's water in 1966, but was removed later that year when voters rejected it by a 178-vote margin.

G. R. Davis, manager of the public utilities commission, said in an interview following the announcement: "I assume the base will have to set up its own treatment plant at its end of the pipeline.

The commission pipes water to the base, he said, and has no facilities by which it could treat seperately water destined for the base.

Farmers Should Bargain Internationally: OFU Head

Walter Miller president of the Ontario Farmers' Union, told an estimated 15,000 farmers in St. Louis, Missouri recently, that farmers of North America should be thinking in terms of bargaining on an international basis since the corporations they meet at the market place are huge industrial giants strengthened in combination of subsidiaries operate all across the continent.

He cited examples — potatoes from Canada going to the U.S. — corn from the U.S. coming to Canada — and livestock moving back and forth across the border, all having a depressing effect on the market at the expense of the farmers on both sides of the border.

Mr. Miller was speaking to the annual convention of the National Farmers' Organization in the U.S. The NFO is an organization which has swept across the U.S. and has grown wide-spread support from farmers.

The NFO's main policy is collective bargaining for agriculture, and has met much success in recent months in attempts to sell farm productions under supply contracts.

The union president expressed optimism at the great movement among farmers taking place around North America and predicted the day would come soon when American and Canadian farmers would work closer together through an international organization and bargain collectively for a fair price for farm production.

He told the convention that farmers on both sides of the border are being exploited by the same people and when farmers realize how much they have in common they will also realize they can stop the manipulation by playing the same game.

Mr. Miller called on farm leaders to be honest with the farmers and tell the whole story even though it means being subjected to ridicule and criticism.

He said "Many farm leaders are trying to be nice guys to everyone and fail to give the farmers the leader ship needed to attack the problem.

representation of the whole truth.

It is not known definitely whether there will be an investigation of a Picton since, even with applications before the OMB, the municipal board still requires documentary evidence that there have indeed been political and municipal aberrations in the community.

So far, according to an OMB spokesman in Toronto, no solid evidence of any infractions has been submitted. Among the evidence submitted have been newspaper clippings reporting the community's political and industrial unrest during the past few months.

Mr. Kennedy said that the application for an investigation will be put before the minister of municipal affairs immediately and a decision on the possible inquiry is expected within a few days.

Police, Residents Hunt Rabid Fox

Police and residents of Ameliasburg township are continuing the hunt for a fox suspected of being rabid.

Meanwhile the provincial police of the Picton detachment have issued a warning to parents of school children that there is a diseased animal at large.

Yesterday the fox was reported to have attacked a dog in the village of Redmersville.

A hunt commenced after the incident but failed to produce results. Then again last night the fox attacked a dog at the residence of Dale Reid of RR 7, Belleville.

While police kept a lookout from a cruiser patrolling side-roads four residents of the village of Ameliasburg armed with shotguns attempted to flush the fox into the open yesterday.

Section of the 45 piece BCIVS Concert Band gives out with the Yuletide music. Band members

And the Band Played On...

"Christmas at BCIVS" was presented Sunday as the school concert band and glee club combined to entertain with traditional Yuletide offerings.

Despite the chilling wind, which undoubtedly kept many away, there was a good crowd on hand at the Collegiate Auditorium as Dixie Motley, band president, extended season's greetings.

Then under director Clifford Tempeler, the concert band swung directly into a medley of Christmas music. Glee Club members with Robert J. McKnight as conductor sang such Christmas favorites as "O Come All Ye Faithful" "12 Days of Christmas" and "Deck the Halls."

A silver collection went to swell local UNICEF collections.

OHC Construction Delay Discussed by Council

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford Municipal Council held their last meeting of the year this week.

The main discussion at the meeting centred around the building of 16 family units and 10 senior citizen units by the Ontario Housing Corporation.

The lack of continuity of representation by O.H.C. was the main criticism of Council, as well as the lack of explanation as to definite initiative in regards to getting the projects started. This situation has existed for five years.

In the last correspondence from the Corporation, it asked that the town provide all essential services for both the senior citizen and family units. This was not the arrangement Council members understood when they talked with representatives of the Corporation.

Representative will be asked to attend the first meeting of Council in January, when new members will become a part of the Municipal Council.

Council Briefs

CAMPBELLFORD — The Consumer Gas Company's offer of $400 was accepted by Council for a portion of land on the industrial site, on Highway #7, at their regular station for valves for the operation of a gas pipeline now being constructed in the town. This project is adjacent to land owned by the Campbellford Golf Club.

The C.N.R. invited Council to attend a meeting to be held in Belleville December 18. This CNR meeting concerning the station agent from Campbellford and several other places. Council had to object to the proposal was not practical and not feasible to attend the meeting.

Council felt the situation concerning the request of Bell Canada for a revision of rates could not be properly assessed by the limitations of Council and no action was taken.

P.C.Q., a past control firm solicited employment of the firm to exterminate rats at the town dump and other areas where necessary. The lowering of the water levels necessary in the construction of the new bridge is given as the reason for the unusual sighting of rats. The service would cost $60 for the first month and $21 a month after on a yearly basis. Council agreed to employ the firm for a month and recommend to the incoming new council that the P.C.Q. service should be engaged on a yearly basis.

The traffic problems of the detour again came up for discussion. Lighting on the detour bridges and approaches has been done and clerk E. M. Hey was asked to write letters of appreciation to the PUC and Counties Engineering Department. The Counties Engineering was asked to keep the connecting link, clear and sanded seven days a week, including holidays.

Council members William Nicholas, Dante Pace and E. J. Ayrhart who are retiring from Municipal office thanked the other members for past co-operation and assistance.

Two readings were given to by-laws for debentures, one for $165,000 with an interest of $184,000 over 20 years for a total of $350,705 as the town's share of the cost of an addition to Campbellford Memorial Hospital, the other by-law of debentures of $145,-000 with interest amounting to $160,200 for a total of $305,-420 over 20 years as the town's cost for the construction of the Campbellford Arena. These by-laws will be sent to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval.

Campbellford Herald Publisher Dies

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont. (CP) — Wilbert A. Kingston, 60, editor and publisher for the last 32 years of the weekly newspaper Campbellford Herald, died at his home Sunday after a heart attack.

Mr. Kingston took over publication of The Herald in 1936 on the death of his father, George A. Kingston. Last year, as a Centennial project, he published his first book, The Light of Other Days. It dealt with the early history of the town of Campbellford and the Township of Seymour.

He is survived by his wife and a brother.

Behind the Glass

The mixed bonspiel held at the Quinte Curling Club on Saturday attracted 16 rinks from the membership and to say the least a good time was had by all. Bob Byrne and his committee organized the event, which was capped off by a fine meal, square dancing and social activities.

Wilfred and Doreen Mills were in charge of the food for the day, while Ernie Dempster directed the square and round dancing after the games had been completed.

There were two 10-end games played in the spiel and a rink of Adele and Jim Stewart and Adele and Bill Henderson were high scorers, while Betty and Wilf Weymark with Helen and Bill "Corky" McCorquodale were in second place. In third place was a rink of Jennie and Dr. Frank McCue with Wyn and Fred Maund. The final two game winner was Betty and Hugh Sullivan with Lorne and Doug Bennett.

On Saturday a family bonspiel will be held. Three rinks must be composed of families and a large entry is expected.

Plans have already started for the Sportsmen's spiel, which is the main attraction for the local club this season. This is the time when the men take over the rink, the members of the distaff side are barred and where everything goes. The date of the spiel has been set for January 10 and 11.

The Friday snack this year will be accompanied by a special entry and the members of the committee are not telling what is forthcoming. The entry list is being limited to 96 entries and the fee will be the same as last year $4. The entry fall ballots will be posted shortly after the New Year.

The members of the committee are Dr. McCorquodale, Dr. Jim Loynes, Dr. Bill Beattie, Bob Lamond, Dick Beare, Bruce Parsons, R. L. "Bob" Smith and Doug Ashley. There is an opening for one more member on the committee and this will be filled at the next meeting of the committee. Keep this date in mind and get ready to enjoy two days of real comradeship and fellowship.

Christmas Season

Vacations in South Are Popular

A greater number of people are leaving the wintery climate of Belleville over the Christmas holiday season than ever before.

Reports from Belleville area travel agencies state that the number of people vacationing during the Christmas period has increased.

Tony Warren, spokesman for Davison and Davison Travel Agents in Belleville, explained that most travellers were heading south this year.

He mentioned the popularity of inclusive tour charters — a combination of air transportation and land accommodation.

He said that Christmas travel "generally speaking is up".

Mr. Warren said that cruises were showing substantial increases this year. The cruises are in the Caribbean.

He said there is excellent response to "Club Mediterranee" described as a "casual, relaxed holiday" from places like Quadaloupe, Morocco and Tahiti.

A spokesman for the Armstrong Travel Agency in Trenton offered the new two week school holiday at Christmas as reason for a larger number of Yuletide travellers.

She explained that cross Canada trips and travels to southern localities such as Florida, the Caribbean and the Bahamas were up. Overseas travel is down.

Mrs. Irene Rolud of Rolud's Travel Centre found that more people are travelling this Christmas than last.

She also claimed the two-week school holiday is responsible for part of the increase, explaining that a lot of teachers are travelling at this time of year.

Mrs. Rolud said a lot of people were forsaking the snowy, wintery atmosphere of home at Christmas for southern climates.

She said that trips to the Carribbean are about the same as last year, but California and Europe are drawing large crowds.

Mrs. Rolud also mentioned skiing trips to the midwest in the United States.

CNR Adds Cars To Handle Rush

Christmas travel changes, as far as the CNR is concerned, will hardly affect Belleville commuters during the holiday season.

A CNR spokesman said this morning that trains stopping in Belleville will travel at their regular times, but will have extra cars to handle Yuletide travellers.

There will be no extra train stopping at Belleville, although the "holiday special" will be operating from Montreal to Toronto. This train will have no intermediate stops and will operate from Dec. 20 to Jan. 5.

Tax Rebates Total $1,300,000

Homeowners and tenants in the county of Hastings are receiving a total of more than $1,300,000 this year through the Ontario Government's new system of reducing taxes on residential properties.

So far the amounts for individual municipalities in the county range from $2,350 in the village of Deloro to more than half a million dollars in the city of Belleville.

The system of tax reduction for residential properties was introduced by Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough as a means of easing the burden of municipal and school taxes.

Ontario makes the payments to each municipality which in turn reduces the taxes for each house or apartment. In the case of rented units the landlord is allowed the reductions by the municipality but he is required by law to pass on to each tenant the full amount to which he is entitled.

The tax abatement is allowed on the first $2,000 of residential assessment. Farmers also receive the full reduction — but only on the residential aspects of their properties and not on their farm buildings or on farm land.

The following is the list in Hastings, with municipalities for which the total is yet to be confirmed being excluded:

Village of Bancroft, $43,544; Township of Bangor, $27,-931; City of Belleville, $537,-480; Township of Carlow, $9,-188; Village of Deloro, $2,330; Town of Deseronto, $39,434; Township of Dungannon, $31,-316; Township of Faraday, $15,966; Village of Frankford, $26 488.

Township of Herschel, $14,-291; Township of Hungerford, $30,614; Township of Huntingdon, $22,068 Township of Limerick, $11,942 Township of Madoc, $24,801 Village of Madoc, $28,665; Village of Marmora, $17,837; Township h i p of Marmora and Lake, $18,259.

Township of Mayo, $5,856; Township of Monteagle, $16,-262; Township of Rawdon, $25,301; Township of Sidney, $67,171; Village of Stirling, $22,099; Township of Thurlow, $47,145; Village of Tweed, $30,009; Township of Tyendinaga, $32,346; Township of Wellesley, $14,453; Town of Trenton, $232,301.

Damage Totals $10,000

WELLINGTON (Staff) — A family living a few miles north of the village was left homeless on Friday night by a fire that destroyed their dwelling and entire belongings.

The loss to property and household effects amounted to $10,000. The house belonged to Clifford McFaul of Townline Farms here.

Tenants Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Zacharias who lost everything were given shelter by a daughter resident nearby.

When the alarm was received the siren to alert the volunteers failed, according to Wellington Fire Chief Jack Ogilvie. There was no hold-up, however, as all the volunteers were notified by telephone the chief said.

"It was a going concern by the time we got there," the chief stated explaining there was nothing they could do to save the place.

Both the owner and tenant losses were fully covered by insurance.

Strain of Politics

Postponement of the federal-provincial talks because of the illness of Premier Jacques Bertrand of Quebec is yet another indication of the pressures of political life.

Politics have been described as the art of the possible, but for those who are in this vocation the demands are great. More than any, Quebec's leaders have come to typify the awesome schedules of the politician. Mr. Bertrand has been in office only a few weeks; now he is in hospital suffering from fatigue and possible heart strain.

There have been others before him. His predecessor, Daniel Johnson, suffered a heart attack and spent several weeks convalescing both in Quebec and Bermuda. He returned to political life only to die in his sleep from another heart attack only a week or so after his return.

Former Premier Jean Lesage, now Opposition Leader, had to slow down for a time under similar pressure. Yet another premier, Mr. Sauve, Quebec's first leader after the lengthy era of Maurice Duplessis, was in office only a short time before succumbing to a heart attack.

There can be no doubt that the strain of political life is very real, and those involved in the federal-provincial talks will undoubtedly be relieved that they are to be postponed. It will give them that much more breathing space. They might even manage to do some Christmas shopping.

Involvement

The way many of the younger generation are becoming involved in politics, if only in a decorative manner as cheer leaders during campaigns, makes it difficult to imagine them ending up "pouring tea and admiring each other's hats," as one observer rather unkindly put it, in another context, recently.

Anyway there they are, the teen girls of our day with their happy outgoing ways and short-short outfits, proving once again the truths of the old adage, never underestimate the power of a woman.

Not only in politics, but in other spheres, too, is this evident. Canadian National, for instance, more than their share of check lines and comfort of its new turbotrain going for it in attracting business on the Toronto-Montreal route. It has taken a leaf out of airline experience by introducing stewardesses and airline-style meal service. Indeed, on a short-haul run such as this, it places the railway in an even more competitive position vis-a-vis the airlines than was the case before.

Where else are the fair sax making the scene? Well in Belleville's recent Santa Claus parade there was a float graced appropriately by a bevy of youngsters in red Santa outfits. And in Los Angeles for the first time a team of similarly-garbed "Santa belles" are collecting for the Volunteers of America Christmas fund.

Wearing red minidresses and leotards the girls have supplanted the male Santas who have been doing the job for the past 68 years. Yes, the times are certainly changing — and who would dare to say for the worse?

Home to Russia

The possibility of heavy trucks from the Soviet Union competing with Western vehicles has ended with the strange case of the trucks that were sent back — to Russia.

Earlier this year Znider Brothers Construction Equipment Ltd. of Etobicoke brought in a fleet of Soviet trucks on a trial basis. At the time the trucks were said to be particularly well suited to winter conditions.

Now a spokesman for the firm is quoted as saying that taxes and import duties on equipment were too high to make their use here feasible. The trucks, which saw no service while in Canada, were loaded aboard a Soviet freighter at Toronto the other day for the return trip.

Thus ended a Soviet bid to have their trucks rolling along Canadian highways and construction sites. British tractors, as was revealed recently, have had better luck. Farmers have found they can purchase tractors in Britain for much less than in Ontario. It sounds incredible, but there it is. The Soviet product has farther to travel, but if the Russians want to sell anything here they will have to be more competitive.

Canada's 'Siberia'

George Street Would Send Paroled Men to Arctic

Scott Young in The Globe and Mail

There was something faintly thought-provoking (by which I mean, provocative of faint thoughts) about the suggestion that sending paroled prisoners to jobs in the Arctic would be a good way to keep them away from their old haunts and temptations.

"They would be perfectly safe in the Arctic," said George Street, chairman of the National Parole Board. "They couldn't get into trouble if they wanted to."

Oh, yeah?

Of course, this and other exchanges in the same line took place in an Ottawa committee room.

Mr. Street, appearing before the Commons Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs, was responding to a question from John Gilbert (not the one whose film career was ruined by the talkies, but the New Democratic Party member for Broadview).

Mr. Street added that he planned to ask the Manpower Department about placing paroled men in jobs in the Arctic.

But the point is: all of this took place far from the salubrious and soul-cleansing climes of Fort Reliance, Norman Wells, Coppermine, Artillery Lake and Coronation Gulf — to say nothing of the gentle maidens who hang around the bar at the Alexander Mackenzie hotel in Inuvik. Although to tell the truth some of these maidens already have been stung once or twice by chaps not even on parole, but anyway far from their normal haunts and temptations, and have children of kindergarten age to prove it.

There is a hardy perennial quality about society's need to dispatch troublesome members as far away as possible, without actually setting them adrift on an ice floe.

The Russians used Siberia.

English families by the hundreds, or even thousands, used Canada as a dumping ground for offspring who either didn't fit in, or caused trouble, at home.

After our own rebellion of 1837 Canadians were shipped to Van Diemen's Land (now Tasmania) to reflect upon their disloyalties at a safe distance.

No doubt in each case some one, sometime, spoke the trenchant words, "They'll be safe there — they couldn't get into trouble if they wanted to."

The fact is, the Arctic requires more moral fibre, not less, for a man to survive.

If a man's trouble with the law has come about because he had difficulty living with himself in the varied and promiscuity-filled society of the South, he will have even more difficulty in almost any Northern situation one can think of.

That is why Arctic tugboat crews are hard to find and harder to hold.

That is why large industrial or mining developments in the North have difficulty with high turnover of employees.

That is why in the more settled parts of the North, the man who works a steady five-day week, week in and week out, is a much rarer bird than the one who works two days, collects his pay, and takes off for a couple of days to spend it before, hung over and broke, he comes back to run the bulldozer or the fork-lift again.

The allure of the North, such as it is, is mainly for men who consciously decide that civilization is not for them and, sometimes on the run from a nagging wife or from the law, disappear up there. There are others who go up there and love it, and never want to leave.

It may well be that some parolees would fit one of those categories, but it wouldn't be a good thing to count on.

And I have no doubt that when the glad tidings from the Commons Committee on Justice and Legal Affairs reaches the Arctic some days or weeks from now, someone up there will have the good sense to protest that the Arctic has many more pressing needs (such as home rule) than to be nominated as Canada's Siberia.

"Good grief, his first day at school and he's not back by lunch!"

High Taxes...Shortage Of Homes

When it comes to housing, taxes, rising costs and all that, the inflationary times in which we live are not all that new. A reading of the following report from The Financial Post of October 20, 1938, in which the then Belleville city auditor, F. G. Chamberlain, discusses the problem of high municipal taxes, is a case in point.

* * *

The tax crisis of our towns and cities is at once a dilemma to aldermen and officials and a barrier to recovery.

Canada needs new homes. It needs a revival of real estate values. Both are essential to the maintenance of the standard that has fallen on the land tax payer.

"On the other hand, we have a workingman out of employment, but one who has been thrifty in the past and put himself a little home valued at $1,500 to $2,000. Being out of work he's having a hard time to keep his taxes paid to save his home from tax sale. For his thrift he is penalized to the extent of 9 mills on his taxes to help his fellow creatures who are not able to care for themselves."

Mr. Chamberlain's proposed remedy, supported by the local City Council and the Chamber of Commerce, is a payroll tax to provide for these social service items, the funds to be administered by a Social Service Commission.

The distinctive merit of Mr. Chamberlain's idea is that it puts the cost of social services where it should fall, on pocket-books, according to income, and not on land, which cannot carry the load.

An alternative way out should not be overlooked. It is to consider social services, most of which have been imposed upon the municipalities from above, as capable of being administered and financed more effectively on a province-wide scale with Dominion assistance.

Computer Goofs Again

Hamilton Spectator

Every time a computer makes a big fool of itself, most men humans chuckle and snort. We hate and fear computers and it is reassuring to know that occasionally one of them can be have like a stupid hunk of machinery.

For example, take the computer out in San Francisco, the one that advertised itself as the ideal matchmaker for girls who want to meet nice, clean-cut boys.

The San Francisco dating computer has enraged Evelyn Stein, a 31-year-old secretary who paid it a fee for introducing her to "the ideal man". In fact, she is so annoyed that she is suing the man for a large sum of money. She says he kept the date, wanted her, bet her restaurant, and then departed San Francisco for Washington, where he accepted a post as a Peace Corps psychiatrist.

There's a simple moral to this tragic tale: Never trust a computer — they're brainless.

Xmas Stamp No Hit With The Public

Letter to the Globe and Mail

I have just seen the 1968 special Peace and Quiet stamps for Christmas. No one I spoke to in the post office had anything good to say about them. I can conjure up nothing pleasant when I look at a black blob on a dull, depressing shade of brown.

My reaction to the Christmas stamps in two recent years has also been "funereal". Surely Canada is capable of producing a Christmas stamp which expresses joy, love, happiness, giving, charity and hope in cheerful colors.

'Closure' a Dirty Word In Canadian Politics

Hamilton Spectator

Those Canadians who think at all about the equitable functioning of the House of Commons will applaud Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield's uncharacteristically ferocious attack on one feature of Prime Minister Trudeau's Parliamentary reform package.

Mr. Stanfield, with the impressive support of procedural experts like the NDP's Stanley Knowles, is fighting a proposal which would permit the majority government to limit debate on a potentially unfair, but politically fairly safe, manner.

In essence, the rule change would become the government leader in the House of Commons to set in advance a time limit on debate on any particular piece of business before the House.

Highly controversial legislation, for instance, could be limited to one meagre day. The potential for such potential abuse would be wide open.

The fact is that this Liberal, or any other, government does not need such power. What it needs, when opposition filibustering stalls the legitimate conduct of public business is a sturdy can do, is the political courage to use the closure rules which have been on the books since 1927.

Closure, quite wrongly, has become a dirty word in Canada. The British and Americans invoke it constantly, or try to. In Canada's modern history, it has been used only twice — once in the 1964 flag debate (which has been a subject of debate ever since in the 1956 pipeline debate.

That last will never be forgotten because the use of closure then revealed the arrogance and age of the entrenched Liberal regime. Ever since losing the 1957 election, efficiency minded Liberals have been searching desperately for a different way of limiting debate without calling it "closure", with all those political overtones.

Tough luck. Let them use closure and justify it each time.

The Nixon Cabinet From A Canadian Standpoint

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Competent but colorless, except for the greenish tinge of administrative inexperience here and there, is the initial reaction to the United States federal cabinet unpacked Wednesday night.

That label indicates the kind of man that President-elect Richard Nixon is himself, how he looks at the multitude of problems he will be tackling after Jan. 20 and the way he intends to take them on.

All 12 cabinet secretaries are white, male and Christian. They are comfortably off, if not filthy rich, and middle-aged or older. All but one are regarded as being on the moderate side of the American conservatism and self-styled pragmatists unfettered by slavish adherence to political dogma.

The U.S. cabinet does not have the powerful role of those in Canada or Britain. The U.S. president stands first among non equals. The late President Kennedy called about six cabinet meetings and President Johnson has not done much better.

U.S. cabinet representatives tend to go their own way, dealing individually with the president and confined to limits on spending laid down by the census of the federal budget, the president and the Congress.

From Canada' standpoint, little special significance emerges immediately about any of the 12. The northern states are well represented, if that means anything.

The state secretary will be William ... Rogers, who is so called as a competent attorney-general in the latter stages of Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration; Rogers and former justice minister Davie Fulton worked out an accord on the problem of U.S. anti-trust law influencing American subsidiaries in Canada.

Resources conscious Gov. Walter Hickel of Alaska, the new interior minister, is an unknown quantity in most respects. But he knows more about Canada—or Northern Canada—than any predecessor. He will have to do with Canada.

He is responsible for the U.S. oil import policy—to be thoroughly reviewed—commercial fisheries, power, water pollution and other continentally-linked areas.

Congressman Melvin Laird of Wisconsin takes on the biggest spending unit — the $80,000,000,000-a-year defence department. The fact the military boss is said to see him arrive reflects his past views that they should be given more of the big expensive weapons they keep demanding.

He may take a dim view of any Canadian reluctance to maintain at present levels its role in North American air defences.

Chicago banker David Kennedy at the treasury will be in charge of any alteration to the flow of U.S. investment capital and other matters, including the U.S. dollar crisis.

Kennedy has a hardy perennial quality about society's need to dispatch troublesome members as far away as possible, without actually setting them adrift on an ice floe.

Harbor Fun Time Again?

A couple of nights of zero weather has prompted the outdoor fun enthusiast to break out their skating equipment but local recreation officials still warn of thin ice danger. Scene above was Saturday afternoon on the Belleville Harbor. But Recreation Commission officials say a minimum of six inches of ice is required before ice cleaning equipment can be used.

Grant Requested By Cheese Plant

An ARDA (Agricultural and cheese factory amalgamation Rural Development Act) grant is being asked by the Maple Dale Cheese Co-Operative on Highway 37 north of Plainfield.

The grant, if approved, would allow installation of bigger cooking vats, bulk holding tanks and other equipment costing an estimated $75,000.

The new equipment would be installed in the present Maple Dale Cheese Co-Operative plant constructed a couple of years ago. There would be no addition to the building.

Hastings county ARDA committee chairman John Wilkes said the grant application had been made by way of a brief from the Maple Dale plant, which is really an amalgamation of the Maple Dale Co-Operative the Mountain Cheese Factory Co-Operative and the Bronk Cheese Factory Co-Operative.

Agricultural Representative Douglas Tipper said new equipment was the basic need for the amalgamated plant but staff personnel would also be required.

If the plant qualifies for the requested grant it would receive a 50 per cent subsidy on new equipment costs.

Normally the Maple Dale plant has approximately 40 milk suppliers, but this could increase to about 110 if the amalgamation grant is approved.

Mountain Cheese Factory, near the Shannonville gravel on the second concession of Tyendinaga was destroyed by fire about a year ago, while Bronk Factory northeast of Belleville ceased operations last summer.

Napanee Woman Killed

NAPANEE — A woman pedestrian, killed crossing the highway in front of her home on Friday night, became the tenth person to die in a traffic accident in the Napanee area this year.

Police said Mrs. Ila Mae Maguire, 73, a widow of RR 1, Napanee, was struck by a car driven by a neighbor Mrs. Pearl Fraser, 65, who lives four doors east of the victim's home.

Police said it appeared that Mrs. Maguire had been trying to get across the busy thoroughfare when the accident occurred at 5.20 p.m.

The elderly woman was pronounced dead at the scene by coroner Dr. Daniel C. McVicker of Deseronto. A post mortem examination was performed on the body at Belleville General Hospital on Saturday.

Woman Dies In Fire

BANCROFT — An elderly North Hastings woman living alone in a small cottage on the Bay Lake Road, southwest of this village, died Sunday night when fire destroyed her home.

Provincial police said that Mrs. Alice Miller, in her 80's, died in the blaze despite attempts by her son to get into the flaming building. The fire was reported about 10:20 last night.

Details of the fire or the cause of the blaze were still not known this morning by provincial police headquarters in Belleville.

The woman's small cottage was situated a short distance from the home of her son.

Provincial police investigation officers and inspector Del Hope of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department, have gone to the scene.

Belleville Boy Injured

City police said that Robert Lapino, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rapino, 290 Dufferin Ave, darted onto the street in front of an Intelligencer delivery truck.

The delivery truck, driven by Glenn Harvey Sine, 25 of Yeomans Street, was westbound when the lad darted onto the roadway and was struck by the right front corner of the vehicle.

The boy was taken to Belleville General Hospital and later removed to Kingston. He suffered two fractures of the skull.

Education Inquiry Approved

Pearson Got Provinces to OK Study

OTTAWA (CP) — Before establishing the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, former prime minister Lester Pearson persuaded all the provinces to approve the proposition that the commission's mandate include the power to make recommendations on education, says a co-chairman of the fact-finding body.

Interviewed Sunday night on the CBC's French-language program 2 Plus 1, Jean-Louis Gagnon rejected suggestions that the federal government was invading a field of exclusive provincial jurisdiction in allowing the commission to make specific recommendations concerning education.

The commission, in its second report, tabled in the Commons Monday, suggested that Ottawa take the unprecedented step of subsidizing public minority schools in every bilingual district in the English-speaking provinces where French-speaking people account for at least 10 per cent of the district's total population.

The public minority schools, it recommended, should be set up in each of the bilingual districts to enable children to be educated in either of the country's official languages all the way from kindergarten to the end of high school.

"The federal government, under terms of the present constitution, has responsibility for religious minorities," Mr. Gagnon told his interviewers.

"An extension of this principle from the point of view of the official languages obliges the federal government to underwrite the cost of teaching the second official language in the bilingual districts across the country."

He said the commission estimates that the cost of teaching the second official language across Canada would represent about 10 per cent of the education budget of the provinces.

It was this percentage of education budgets that Ottawa should underwrite through direct disbursements of money to the provincial governments.

"There is no question of Ottawa invading a field of provincial competence," Mr. Gagnon said.

"We are simply saying that the federal government should provide funds equal to about 10 per cent of the provinces' education budget.

"It is the provinces which will spend this money and which, in this situation, will be responsible to their electors."

Noting that both French- and English-language schools across Canada are already offering instruction in the appropriate second official language, he said the funds to be provided by Ottawa "simply are there to assure that this teaching is improved."

Patient Seizes Hostages

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — A former patient forced his way into a mental hospital Sunday, took three hostages, then surrendered when a newspaper reporter promised to get him more pep pills and treatment.

William Meagher, 34, ended his five-hour siege of the South Florida State Hospital maximum security ward after Rod Gibson of the Miami Herald promised to help him.

While a patient there, Meagher had twice broken out.

The three hostages, guard Edward T. Smith and aides Fred Horton and Raymond Dorry, were released unhurt.

Meagher announced his siege at 5:30 a.m. when he telephoned Dr. Richard Parks, hospital superintendent: Dr. Arthur Sielman, clinical director; and Gibson at their homes.

Gibson said Meagher told him: "I have three aides as hostages and if they don't close down this ward for good, I'm going to tear it apart and kill the three hostages."

The reporter met Meagher in June when Meagher then a prisoner in a Miami jail, wrote to him to complain about the treatment mental patients receive in Florida.

Meagher since has been a guest at Gibson's home, where he played with the reporter's four-year-old daughter and told her father:

"The only way the public will do anything about these hospitals is if you station yourself on top of some building and start killing people."

Gibson said Meagher's arms are covered with the scars of suicide attempts and another scar runs along his neck. Meagher twice escaped from the hospital, once slashing a psychiatrist with a razor, and has been in hospital in California.

However, Stillman said Meagher is not a psychopath. Stillman called him "an exhibitionist: he likes to be on the front pages."

During the siege, Meagher gave beer to prisoners in maximum security cells and forced his hostages to drink. Meagher fired shots through the ward's windows, but police who surrounded the building did not return the fire.

After a short time in the ward, Meagher stopped talking about treatment of mental patients and began demanding drugs. Meagher had taken amphetamines—stimulants; barbiturates—depressants; and alcohol, Gibson said.

Centennial Students Protest Exam Date

About 25 students walked out of classes at Centennial High School over the noon hour in protest over examination dates.

Principal James Musgrove said today he understood the students were protesting an Ontario board of education decision that final examinations could not begin before June 13.

"It means an extra week in school for some students, and I guess they object to this," the principal said.

Students were apparently walking to the Bay of Quinte School Board offices on College Street to protest there as well.

No other Canadian Whisky has become a best-seller as quickly as Seagram's 5 Star.

And it's easy to taste why.

Easy taste and Seagram quality. That's what made 5 Star the fastest rising new star among Canadian whiskies. In fact, the story of 5 Star's sudden popularity is quite fantastic. But you'll find it easy to believe once you've tasted the whisky.

Fashion Again Has Been Influenced by Movie

NEW YORK (CP) — Fashion has again been influenced by a movie. Remember the desert helmets and swathed veiling that followed the release of Lawrence of Arabia? And the long-coated Cossack look—still with us—of Dr. Zhivago and War and Peace, or the berets and sweater-jackets of Bonnie and Clyde?

Now the latest movie influence comes from the current Funny Girl, starring Barbra Streisand and based on the life of comedienne Fanny Brice.

For the last few years top New York designers have been flirting with the fashions of the 1920s and '30s. It was an idea here, a steal from there—more a mood than an influence. Then came Bonnie and Clyde, but this was limited appeal. Bonnie Parker's outfits were too dated and most unbecoming for many young women. Now we're in for the whole pre-war fashion scope, and you'll know where to place the blame or commendation, depending on your personal viewpoint: Smack on Funny Girl.

The movie is the life story of the girl whose rise to fame as a star in the Ziegfeld Follies spanned the period from 1912 into the 1930s. Miss Brice herself was a great fashion influence. In private life she wore smart clothes by influential designers, and more extravagant creations for the Follies.

Naturally, in re-creating Fanny's life, Miss Streisand wears clothes typical of the era. These have a direct bearing on a number of trends in the winter collections in New York and will, of course, be seen in the Canadian market too.

You may not always recognize the movie source, so here are a few pointers. For one thing there's the steamer cape-coat, its wrap bulk as important then to travellers as are our spare knit coats for today's planes. Several top designers have included it in their collections, and Oscar de la Renta introduces it in a brown-and-white zig-zag weave, with a huge stole.

Since this is also the period of the early Gertrude Lawrence stage successes, this steamer coat is in the collection of Donald Brooks, the designer responsible for the wardrobe in Star!, the movie version of Miss Lawrence's life, with Julie Andrews. Brooks' modern steamer coats include a blanket cloth in huge red-and-white squares with a black Persian lamb collar.

There is a definite North American Indian influence in a number of the collections. Imitable to Miss Brice's famous "I am an Indian" act. In this mood, EJ Greco designed a sleeveless wind wrapped beige buckskin tunic and mid-calf wrap skirt, complete with headband. Jacques Tiffeau created a black-and-gold brocade dinner suit in bands with a vaguely Indian motif. To emphasize the origin there was a matching black-looped Indian headband. A fringed suede was used by Lyn Stuart for a two-piece and short pants, with Indian embroidery on the white crepe shirt.

The young Fanny Brice—she was 19 in 1912—wore sailor collars, knitted sweets and ribbed knit stockings. The sailor suit look is back again in 1968 dresses, especially for the school set. Beretz in leather as well as knits are the millinery love from pre-teens to matrons.

In Fanny's starring years there were lots of feathers and shaggy furs; and feathers have made their periodic dramatic return this fall. Ted Traina, for example, introduced a whole ostrich jacket, directly inspired by one worn in the movie.

Other designers were also in the feather-laden mood of Ziegfeld's famous stairway beauties. Gayle Kirkpatrick included vests and skirts of coq feathers in his evening collection. Geoffrey Beene's sequined bodice was attached to a floor-length skirt of ostrich poufles. And Mam'selle tiled her short skirt of black ostrich fronds and black chiffon top with a pink satin sash.

Local and District UCW Meetings

BRIDGE STREET U.C.W.

At the annual Christmas meeting of all units of the United Church Women of Bridge St. Church held on Tuesday, Mr. Robert Henderson, guidance director at Moira Secondary School was guest speaker.

The joy of giving was illustrated by a word picture of two children doing their Christmas shopping, whereas the opposite was illustrated by an adult "who couldn't care less".

An Italian legend of The River Arno tells of the woman who was about to go to Jerusalem to find the Christ child but stayed to finish her housework. Things get in the way so that women can be too busy to ever get the Christmas spirit which is really an experience of God.

In Japan, with less than one per cent of the population Christian, tremendous celebrations and gift giving take place but God has never entered the picture.

Often others will not find the manger at Bethlehem unless we show them the way. There may be a cross in the way and we are not willing to become involved."

Mr. Henderson was introduced by Mrs. Russel Bateman and thanked for his inspiring message by Mrs. Dorothy Walsh.

The worship program was conducted by Mrs. Everett Fairman and included some of the well-known Christmas carols. Before each was sung the origin and authorship of both words and music were related by members, Mrs. R. Hindel, Miss Helen Salman, Mrs. B. Marsh, Mrs. B. Leslie and Mrs. Clare.

The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. J. S. Loynes. Some new officers for the executive were dedicated and installed by Dr. H. M. Davis. The treasurer, Mrs. Mark, reported on the success of the bazaar. A letter was read from Mrs. Farnsworth and recommendations from the executive were brought in and voted on.

EMMANUEL U.C.W.

The general meeting of Emmanuel U.C.W. of Foxboro was held December 5 in the church hall and took the form of a potluck supper.

The president, Lillian Jamieson distributed reports of the various conveners, these all dealing with work accomplished the past year. Following a motion it was decided that members of the U.C.W. will finish the church kitchen with the balance on hand in the treasury.

Mrs. Ed Emerson read the Scripture, message and following the singing of Yuletide Christmas hymns a history of their origin was given by Mrs. Lewis.

Marion Arthurs introduced the guest for the evening, Mrs. Susan Mikkaa, who gave a demonstration on the methods of arranging flowers, this based on Japanese flower arrangements instructions from the O'Hara school. After examining the various creations members were asked to try their hand at the art. Mrs. Marlene Coulter expressed thanks to Mrs. Mikkaa and presented her with a gift.

SPRINGBROOK UCW

Springbrook UCW entertained the Senior Citizens to a turkey dinner Thursday in the church hall. The hall and tables were festively decked for Christmas. Each guest received a small gift. It was the regular UCW meeting and all members were invited for dinner.

Mrs. George Williams the president was in charge of the program and passed around some antiques for a contest which proved most interesting. She took the devotional on Christmas assisted by Mrs. G. McFaul, Mrs. Mort Reid and Mrs. D. Fleming with stories of the Scriptures. Mrs. Ralph Wellman played the Christmas hymns, Mrs. Cox favored with a solo, Mrs. Joe Thompson and Mrs. Clayton Burkitt gave Christmas readings and Mrs. Williams gave a humorous reading.

Mrs. Chris Bateman showed some interesting slides which were enjoyed by all.

Rev. W. Cox on behalf of the pastor thanked the members.

The members remained for a short business meeting, the secretary and treasurer gave their reports. The visiting committee gave reports. Mr. Clayton Burkitt is the auditor secretary for the next two years.

The next meeting is an afternoon meeting to be held on January 9.

Shopping Carts Retrieved

WINNIPEG (CP) — Shopping-buggy borrowers are a headache to supermarket managers but mean business to Harold Reid.

He spends three days a week tracking down carts missing from stores, and there is a growing demand for his services. He finds an average of 125 to 150 of the shopping carts each week — each valued at between $40. and $60.

Winnipeg stores pay him $15 a week each as a retainer and he says if the demand for the service grows he will consider establishing a full-time agency dedicated to locating lost carts.

Mr. Reid says apartment dwellers are the worst culprits. He regularly picks up between 20 and 50 carts at one apartment block.

He also makes minor repairs to the carts. Wheels valued at $2 each, are often removed by children. Repairs are paid for by the stores.

So far Winnipeg has no specific bylaw making it illegal to leave store property with a shopping cart, but offenders can be charged under a streets bylaw which makes it an offence to abandon merchandise on the streets.

Montreal Designer Creates A Hippy Bridal Gown

MONTREAL (CP) — If you're a hippie and planning to have a spring or summer wedding, Montreal designer Caty has created a hippie bridal gown of cotton lace bedecked with silver chains and leather belt.

The min-gown and jacket ensemble was just one of several unusual creations shown at a press preview here Friday by designers Caty and Anna K. for Portrait Gowns Ltd.

In a tribute to Canadian Indians, Anna K. designed a fringed white costume gown complete with beaded headband and flower girl quill.

For the ultra-mod girl there was a culotte bridal outfit featuring wide pleated culottes flaring at the ankle and fashioned of sparkling ligoda, complemented with large double bows to crown her unveiled hair.

Caty on the other hand got her inspiration from the space age and designed a mini dress of re-embroidered sequins over matching slacks and topped with an astronaut-inspired chapeau.

However, the collection did pay tribute to the more traditional bride, in a variety of floor-length creations often skimming the body and flaring gently at the hips.

Some gowns showed bright pink satin sashes at the waist or a profusion of colorful blue or pink petals embroidered onto a white diaphanous background.

Separates, in the form of bolero or capes, allowed the bride to convert her wedding gown into an elegant evening gown to be worn after the ceremony.

St. Columba Sunday School Presents Play

St. Columba Presbyterian Church School presented "Christmas in customs" to an attentive congregation on Sunday evening.

Setting the scene were two friends, played by Marylu Taylor and Penny MacDonald, who wondered what wreaths and bells and trees had to do with the birth of Jesus. They were informed by Miss Tradition, played by Donna Hutide, of the customs of using greenery in the home; the use of bells, holly and ivy, wreaths, Christmas trees, candles and carols.

Pupils of the church school re-enacted the scene at the stall in Bethlehem and illustrated each custom by Scripture and song. The highlight of the pageant was the presentation of white gifts by the entire school.

Soloists for the evening were Marie Brain and Jim Allan. Other major parts were taken by Diane Wingspeer; Alan Steir; Maureen Scouls; Blair Stotesbury; Cam Fraser; David Hilborn; Alec Olaveson; Vivian Vos; Ann MacDonald; Mark Grieves; Walter Vos; Mark Pollard; Steven Buakard and Debbie Lees. Accompanists for the evening were John Hutchison, organ; Hank Vos, recorder; Don Dawson, violin.

Husband Covers Up by Criticizing Everyone

By DORIS CLAGK

Dear Doris: My husband treats me like a queen, but there are things which bother me. What hurts the most is that he is so terribly critical of other people and how they conduct their lives.

I find this hard to understand, as he has led far from an angelic life in the past. Perhaps this is his way of sort of covering up for past mistakes.

While I never throw it up to him, I happen to know that he was up in court when he was in his teens, for driving a car while drunk. No jail sentence, just probation. — In Love But Bothered.

Dear In Love: You hit the nail square on the head when you suggest that he is "sort of covering up" his errors.

Though it may never be mentioned until Kingdom Come, you may be sure those past mistakes rankle underneath. I'm wondering what other misdeeds he is trying to ignore.

Some people talk them out: some push them down under. These are the ones who may insist on their excellence by pulling everyone else down. Like that Shakespearean lady, he "doth protest too much."

Perhaps some day he will talk it all over with you. And then, if he finds you still believe in him, he might not need to spend so many precious hours being critical.

• • •

Dear Doris: I like this fellow very much. He is 21 and I am 20. As far as I know he does not have a girl friend. He pays me compliments and tells me I have a very nice personality.

Now the question is, how do I get him to ask me for a date? He is rather shy and so am I. With most fellows I know, it is the same. They like me but never ask me for a date.

People keep telling me I am pretty and nice but what is wrong with me?—Dateless.

Dear Dateless: Now what sort of thing is likely to ruin a girl's chances as date bait? I can think of a few: (1) Unclean clothes, untidy hair, that unwashed look; (2) that unwashed smell; (3) the tongue-tied approach; (4) the too ready approach; (5) make-up too brazen, dress too short — or too long.

But worse than anything else is an attitude too self-centred, Friendliness, an ability and willingness to listen and be interested in someone else, is all winning popularity contests. Am I repeating myself?

WEDDING

ADAMS - LUCAS

College Hill United Church was the scene of the December 7th wedding, when Rev. Roy Vessey officiated at the marriage of Twila Jean Lucas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Borden Lucas to Gordon Maxwell Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Adams, of RR 1, Amelias burg.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length empire styled gown, the bottom of which was peau de soie. The top of the gown was also of peau de soie covered in lace, and featured a scooped neckline with a coat of lace completed by bell sleeves finished with scalloped edges. Her headdress consisted of a four tier crown of pearls and she carried a bouquet of carnations.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Joan Williams was attired in a red velvet three-quarter empire style gown enhanced by white lace. She carried a white pile muff decorated with holly and ribbons which matched her dress.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Norma Vader, sister of the bride, and Miss Gail Adams, sister of the bridegroom. Both were attired identically to the matron of honor. Flower girl was Miss Lynne Vader, niece of the bride. She was also attired similarly to the matron of honor.

Best man for the ceremony was Bruce Williams, Ushers were Gordon Lucas, brother of the bride, Bruce Calnra, brother-in-law of the bride-groom, and Mr. Stephen Cairns, nephew of the bridegroom.

For the wedding reception held at the Legion Hall, the mother of the bride received the guests dressed in a pale blue fitted dress and black accessories, completed by a corsage of white roses, tinted pink. Assisting her, the mother of the bridegroom, chose a light turquoise dress, black accessories and a complementing corsage of white mums.

For the wedding trip to points north, the bride donned a tweed suit in brown, green and blue and completed by black patent leather accessories. Her corsage was of contrasting white 'mums.

Upon their return, the couple will reside in Canniffon.

The regular meeting of Alpha Lambda Chapter Beta Sigma Phi was held at the home of Mrs. G. Vaughan.

The Service Committee was pleased to report that it would be looking after the same family at Christmas as last year. Everybody brought up food items and gifts for this family.

It was also decided to give a donation to the Belleville Historical Society.

The annual Christmas party will be held at Club Cedars, December 21st, with luncheon and refreshments to be served after the dance at the home of Mrs. A. Hudson.

President, Mrs. S. Allcorn, introduced the speaker Mrs. D. Cairns who put everybody to work exercising. Her topic for the evening was "The Body Beautiful" from the booklet "Beauty."

Mrs. G. Hill thanked Mrs. Green for showing how important exercise is to one's health.

Refreshments were served by the hostess Mrs. G. Vaughan.

Yule Programs Highlight Meetings

ST. JOSEPH'S C.W.L.

The monthly general meeting of St. Joseph's Parish Council of the Catholic Women's League was held on Monday in the Parish Hall.

The president announced that there would be no meeting held in January. Plans are being made for a telephone bridge and euchre to be held toward the end of January. Further details will be announced in the Sunday bulletin.

Tentative plans for a spring fashion show were discussed.

Members brought Christmas gifts which they placed in a gaily decorated basket beside the Christmas tree on the stage. The Belleville Mental Health Association is distributing these and other gifts to patients in nursing homes in the Quinte area.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by some of the young people of the parish. The talent included a group called "The London Fog" composed of John Paul Murphy, Tom Ward, Mark Rashotte and Andy Fergie, accordion solos by Josie Perek and Gary Thompson, folk singing and guitar accompaniment by Barbara Barrett and Sandy Windsor and Christmas songs by Mary and Theresa Nagode.

The program concluded with a humorous reading by Mrs. V. Muldoon and the singing of Christmas carols. Accompanists for the singing were Sister Mary Avila and Mrs. J. Bobby.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Irene Belanger and committee.

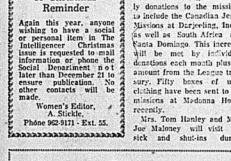
MARMORA C.W.L.

MARMORA — The recent meeting of the Catholic Women's League held in the parish hall, a decision was reached to increase regular monthly donations to the missions to include the Canadian Jesuit Missions at Darjeeling, India, as well as South Africa and Santa Domingo. This increase will be met by individual donations each month plus an annual from the branch treasury. Fifty boxes of used clothing have been sent to the missions at Madonna House recently.

Mrs. Tom Hanley and Mrs. Joe Maloney will visit the sick and shut-ins during December. Collection of old gold to help the Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace in their program in aid of underprivileged countries, was made by the CWL here on December 1.

A cheque was presented to director, Father T. G. Scanlan, by president, Mrs. Bill Monk, to assist with parish expenses. Sherberts and plates in the parish kitchen will be purchased by the League, and the building of new cupboards was planned.

Presentation of a Christmas program by convener, Miss Gertrude Maloney, was enjoyed by members. Those taking part were Mrs. Bill Meehan, Mrs. Roger Nesseth, and musical numbers by Father Scanlan and Mrs. Hans Brady. A lively Santa Claus provided much hilarity, and gifts and lunch concluded a pleasant Christmas party.



A Christmas Reminder

Again this year, anyone wishing to have a social or personal item in The Intelligencer Christmas issue is requested to mail information or phone the Social Department not later than December 21 to ensure publication. No other contacts will be made.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "That's a lovely gift you bought for Aunt Jane, but the wrapping doesn't look very nice. Let me do it over so it will be neatly when you give it to her."

The wrapping, as well as the gift, is a child's offering of love and friendship. A tactful parent will not belittle either.

Ann Landers' In-laws' Request Unreasonable, Unjust

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband was killed in Vietnam two months ago. I have a two-year old son and a seven-month old daughter. The girl has never seen her daddy. Little Chris is a dear, loving lad who is the image of his father. The problem is with my in-laws. My husband was their only son and they are understandably shattered over his death. The day after the funeral my mother-in-law embarked on a campaign to get little Chris away from me. She and her husband are in their early 50's in good health and financially well set.

ANN LANDERS

They tell me I cannot raise a boy without a father, that he needs the influence of a male if he is to be normal. They insist I owe it to little Chris as well as to my husband's memory to give this child to them. They say I have the daughter to appease my loneliness and they have no one.

Please, Ann, tell me what to do. — DROWNING IN TEARS.

DEAR TEARS: I feel sorry for your in-laws but what they are asking is unreasonable and unfair. Discuss this problem with a clergyman and suggest that your in-laws do the same. They need to fill the void in their life and perhaps taking a foster child or two might be the answer.

• • •

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from the Cleveland woman who did everything under the sun to lose weight but found nothing that worked until she tried the pills suggested by a friend. Her problem: the druggist insisted on taking her in the back room twice a week to feel her muscletone.

Please, Ann, give me the lady's address. When I read she had lost 15 pounds and felt like a million dollars, I turned green with envy. I've tried dozens of fads that didn't take off five pounds I go hog wild, eaat everything in sight and gain back eight.

Also, will you give the name of the druggist? I think it is wonderful that he takes such an interest in his customers. I would like to buy my pills from him. Thank You. — TOO MUCH ME.

DEAR TOO MUCH: So sorry, but I never reveal the identity of those who write to me. I DON'T take off five pounds I go hog wild, eaat everything in sight and gain back eight.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister-in-law did not graduate from high school and is sensitive about it. To compensate, she uses six syllable words — invariably in the wrong way.

Since the best evangelism she has become a self-styled authority on medicine and has been diagnosing all over the place. Yesterday she told me my son should be isolated because he has conjunctivitis. I learned today our neighbor has lumbago. And I would you believe, have a sebaceous cyst on my cheek, which I thought was only a pimple. Is there a cure? For HER, I mean? — O. CITY.

DEAR O: Your sister-in-law sounds like a cervicodynia — medical term for pain in the neck, and there is no known cure for chronic types. Relief can be obtained, however, by reducing contact with the irritant.

Chopper Simplifies Making of Mincemeat

By MARY MOORE

Make hay while the sun shines or strike while the iron is hot. To simplify the idea buy second choice or windfall apples now before they deteriorate too much and make a batch of mincemeat.

Inexperienced but ambitious cooks can make it. It is easier if you have a foodchopper.

HOMEMADE MINCEMEAT

(makes 4 shallow 8" two-crust pies or 2 deep 10" pies)

5 cups ground (or chopped) apples, washed, quartered, cored (not pared)
1 lemon cut into eighths and seeded
2 cups granulated sugar
1 1-3 cups finely chopped beef suet (about 7 oz. — see note below)
½ cup (well packed) mixed cut peel, (one 4-oz. pkge.)
1 cup currants
1 cup seeded Muscat raisins
½ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg or mace
¼ tsp. cloves
½ tsp. salt
One 15-oz. can pitted red (sour) cherries (45 per cent sugar syrup)
1 cup chopped walnuts (optional but recommended)

I used nine medium-large McIntosh apples. Put apple quarters and cut lemon through centre bulbs of food grinder together (see note below). (Incidentally — a four-cup Pyrex measuring cup, when filled to the brim—above the four-cup marking line — holds 2 cups or a Canadian quart. I used mine that way to measure the chopped apples. The lemon went in for good measure.) Turn ground mixture into a large kettle, add all remaining ingredients except cherries and nuts and boil gently ¼ hr. covered, stirring frequently. Add cherries and nuts and boil gently 20 min. longer, stirring frequently. Store covered in refrigerator or pour into four sterilized pint jars and seal. NOTE: It is much better to make four shallow eight-inch mince pies using one pint or two cups mincemeat than to make two 10-inch deep mince pies. The mincemeat than to make two crust shallow eight-inch mincemeat pie at 425 deg. Fahr. for 25 min., or until bubbling and golden; longer for deep 10".

NOTES: 1) If desired chop apples instead of grinding. I ground mine to speed up the process.

2) Usually butchers package chopped suet for Christmas baking in one pound lots. Do not buy a pound unless the butcher to weigh seven ounces for you, for leftover suet is a problem to use up.

Pearson Suggests UN Set Up Series of Regional Assemblies

LONDON (CP) — Lester B. Pearson proposed Sunday night that the United Nations—now concentrated in New York—set up regional assemblies to deal with political questions closer to home.

The former Canadian prime minister, who has served as president of the UN General Assembly, said in a BBC radio speech that this would make the UN stronger by taking over global problems off the shoulders of the overworked General Assembly.

Pearson, 1957 Nobel Peace Prize recipient, spoke in the fifth of six weekly talks in the Reith Lecture series. The prestige speeches are named after a former director-general of the BBC. Pearson has been talking on "Peace in the Family of Man."

Pearson said his proposal would make the UN "more united, less national and therefore stronger," though it might at first seem to lead away from this objective.

"In the economic and social field," he said, "the practice has been growing of delegating responsibility and authority to UN regional commissions.

"Why should we not adopt a similar approach to political questions which face the United Nations and establish regional assemblies of the General Assembly, meeting every year?

He suggested one each for the Western Hemisphere, Western and Eastern Europe and Africa, and one or perhaps two for Asia.

He added:

"The full assembly, the town meeting of the whole world, would then meet, say, every three years.

"The regional assemblies, meeting every year, would deal with regional problems. When possible they would settle them. When it was not, they would lay the groundwork for a settlement at the universal assembly when it next met.

"As a link in New York between the world assemblies, we would have an enlarged Security Council meeting continually in New York with new powers and new authority and new rules."

The council now consists of five nations.

Pearson noted that this would require an amendment to the UN charter—with the possibility of veto being exercised—but said he would like to see it debated.

He also proposed other changes for the UN.

One was that there should be a staff and planning organization in New York to direct the activities of the peace-keeping forces trained and equipped in member countries.

"It's most regrettable that it has not been possible to take this step, in spite of the persistent and sincere efforts of some UN members," he said.

Another proposal was that any permanent UN police force should also be used as an international aid and disaster force to help deal with large-scale disasters such as earthquakes.

"Is this not a field where the nations have everything to gain and nothing to lose by working together in a humanitarian and non-controversial field?" he asked.

A third suggestion was that eventually there would have to be some modification of the UN's one-state, one-vote principle, which gives tiny and ineffectual nations the same vote as the big ones. To let the UN be more effective, there should be system of weighted voting such as in some other international organizations."

Text of his speech was issued to the press before delivery.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"No, Ma'm, this is not where the Periwinkle Garden Club is holding its monthly meeting."

Hussein's Statement Rejected

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — A palace spokesman rejected Sunday a statement attributed to King Hussein that he is willing to renounce sovereignty over the Israeli-occupied west bank of the Jordan River to achieve a Mideast peace settlement. A special statement was issued here "to correct what was implied" by the London Sunday Observer in a report of an interview with Hussein.

The Observer's version spoke of the fertile area west of the Jordan River being made into an autonomous, demilitarized Arab state as a means toward a peace settlement. That, the paper said, was the biggest concession by an Arab leader since the Arab-Israeli war of June 5-10, 1967.

Anti-Russian Signs Remain in Czechoslovakia

MILOVICE (AP) — Nearly four months after the Russian-led invasion, walls and bridges along the road to the Soviet military camp in this Czechoslovakian town are still splashed with painted signs in Russian saying "U.S.S.R.-Aggressor" and "Invaders go home."

Soviet soldiers eat and drink in this sleepy factory town 25 miles northeast of Prague, rubbing shoulders with townspeople. Both groups are relatively candid in separate chats with a visitor.

The townspeople say Czechoslovak girls are more willing than before to talk with Soviet soldiers. A young Czech said:

"Some girls will go with Germans, Russians or anyone."

Soviet soldiers variously describe their life here as "normal," "all right" and "we have our tasks to do."

Asked why they are here, a young Russian replied:

"I was told to come and I came. I am a soldier. . . ."

Townspeople are worried about a possibility that they may be asked to leave their homes to make room for Russian families.

Wives of Soviet officers, they say, began arriving here last month. They also say a trainload of other Russian women with short haircuts arrived here two weeks ago. They make derogatory remarks about these women.

The Soviet soldiers normally refuse to have their photographs taken here. Pictures of the camp are forbidden and the townspeople are barred from the base.

But some Czech soldiers work at the base under Soviet orders and camp gossip spreads through the town. Townspeople say two Soviet divisions are based here. With supporting elements, these would total about 50,000 officers and men.

Soviet Naval Power Is Growing in Indian Ocean

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Soviet naval power is quietly growing in the Indian Ocean as well as in the Mediterranean.

This month a Soviet guided missile cruiser sailed into the Kenya port of Mombasa, escorted by a destroyer and tanker. It was the first Soviet naval visit to the country, and Kenyans were impressed.

The Soviet Pacific fleet, based in Vladivostok on the Sea of Japan, has shown its flag in Mogadiscio, Somalia; Bombay; Madras; Colombo and the Arabian Gulf and Aden in recent months.

It ranges farther than the Royal Navy's Far East Fleet, based until its planned withdrawal in 1971, in Singapore.

Coincidentally, an increasing number of Soviet survey, satellite-tracking and spaceship recovery vessels are visiting Mombasa naval observers say.

The Soviet space craft Zond V, which recently orbited the moon, descended in the Indian Ocean off Madagascar.

Last month the Soviet deputy ministery of health gave Kenya a $2,800,000 hospital at Kisumu, on the shores of Lake Victoria. It was the first major Soviet project in Kenya.

Young Atheists Are Not Enthusiastic

MOSCOW (AP) Most children at the Soviet Union's first meeting of Atheistic Pioneers—a camp for boys and girls aged 10 to 15—said they do not believe in God because He was not seen by cosmonauts during space flights.

But the Soviet atheist magazine Nauka I Religia—Science and Religion—complained that the meeting was not satisfactory as many children just didn't care whether they were atheists or not.

The meeting held at the black Sea youth camp at Artek, assembled 950 boys and girls in a new Soviet effort to root out religion, which persists on a considerable scale despite 51 years of official atheism.

Highlight of the Artek program was a show put on by the children in which they made fun of churches and religious beliefs.

Nauka I Religia charged in its latest edition there was lack of enthusiasm among local authorities and inadequate atheistic education in the children.

Only 50 Pioneers proved to be true zealots for atheism and joined a special club called Petrushka.

Despite its complaints, Nauka I Religia concluded that "the post-war generation is further away from religion than any of its predecessors."

Adult group leaders were dismayed, however to find that Soviet-wide selection failed to produce 950 convinced, informed atheists.

Fallout Gets Away

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Two radioactive air masses went beyond the underground Nevada test site after Sunday's nuclear test but radiation readings were infinitesimal, the Atomic Energy Commission said Monday. One of the air masses was about 100 miles south of Salt Lake City, Utah. Monday and the other was drifting into northeast Colorado, the AEC said. Sunday's explosion was described as of low intermediate yield.

The EPBC Ensemble of Petterboro were guests in Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moran attended the funeral of Mrs. Horace McMurter in Trenton on Thursday afternoon at the Weaver Funeral Home.

Language Bill Delayed

Lesage Charges Colleagues Betray Bertrand

QUEBEC (CP) — Liberal Leader Jean Lesage Saturday praised the courage of his ailing political opponent, Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, but blasted some of the premier's colleagues.

Mr. Lesage told the legislature that Mr. Bertrand's colleagues carried the "stench of treason" about them in their opposition to the premier's minority language rights bill.

He was speaking against the government's motion to send the bill to committee, delaying its adoption at least until the next session.

The bill which sought to guarantee language rights to Quebec's English-speaking minority was opposed by a group of nationalists within the government caucus.

The Union Nationale government, led in the absence of the premier by Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal, decided to send the bill to committee after Mr. Bertrand was admitted to hospital here with heart trouble.

"We underestimated the courage of the premier," Mr. Lesage said, "because he was loyal to his words."

As premised, Mr. Bertrand introduced the bill last Monday and later told reporters he hoped it would be passed this session. He was taken to hospital the same night.

Mr. Lesage singled out Financial Institutions Minister Yves Gabias as loyal to Mr. Bertrand while some other senior UN members "have the stench of treason."

In a maiden speech, William Tetley (L—Notre-Dame-de-Grace) said the commercial world is waiting for the house to decide on its course of action in regard to the language bill.

The 44-year-old lawyer, elected in a byelection Dec. 4, said the delay involved in sending the bill to committee "is hurting our economy."

"The commercial world is concerned with the finances of the city of Montreal and of the province. The commercial world is waiting for this house to decide on this very important linguistic matter."

In other speeches, Rene Levesque (Ind-Laurier) congratulated the government on its decision to refer the bill to committee because "in this climate of tension" the bill could cause an explosion.

Finance Minister Paul Dozois said study in committee could result in legislation that would be "an instrument of union rather than an instrument of division."

Paul Gerin - Lajoie (L—Vaudreuil-Soulanges), former education minister in the Lesage government, said he was convinced any delay would result in prolonging a "troubling situation" of social agitation.

The house resumes for further discussion of the bill today.

Ten Thousand Tortured In Greece Is Claim

TORONTO (CP) — More than 10,000 prisoners in Greece are still being tortured in concentration camps, Andreas Papandreou, former Greek minister of state, said Sunday night.

Mr. Papandreou, 48, chairman of the Pan Hellenic liberation movement aimed at overthrowing the military junta now ruling Greece, told the Toronto section of the movement that a documented report of atrocities will soon be presented to the European commission on human rights.

He also charged that United States Pentagon officials collaborated with Greek military officers two years ago in the overthrow of the government headed by his father, George Papandreou.

Rules Debate Threatens Recess

OTTAWA (CP) — Debate continues on the controversial rules question when the Commons sits today at 2.30 p.m.

But feelings are high on the rules question and opposition parties are threatening to keep talking through Christmas, if necessary, to win their point.

The government can cut off debate whenever it wants by applying the closure rule.

Before the House now is a package of proposed rule changes contained in reports of a special 12-member, all-party Commons committee. Approval of the reports would insert all the proposed changes into the Commons' standing orders in a one-shot deal.

All but one of the changes have received general approval. Opposition fire is concentrated on a rule that would give the government the power to set time limits on debate on any or every stage of every bill that comes before the House.

Montreal Bomb Total at 11

MONTREAL (CP) — Police in two suburban communities were called upon Saturday to dismantle two bombs while army demolition experts exploded a third as a wave of bomb scares and explosions continued in the Montreal area.

Time bombs were removed from garages of the strikebound Chambly Bus Co. in Greenfield Park and St. Hubert on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River opposite Montreal.

Police found a third bomb outside the home of the company president, Charles Senecal, in nearby Chambly. An army demolition squad exploded the device in a vacant field.

Each bomb consisted of six sticks of dynamite.

The bomb reports brought to 11 the number of exploded or dismantled bombs found in the Montreal area during the last week. Three exploded, but no injuries resulted.

Mayor Jean Drapeau said in a broadcast on radio station CJAD Sunday that city hall can take no special measures to deal with the wave of bombings.

He denounced the bombings but would not comment on who was responsible because it might "make the job of the police more difficult."

Saturday night, police searched the Montreal Forum after receiving a telephone call saying there was a bomb there. None was found. There were 18,548 fans at the Forum later for a National Hockey League game.

Police used bolt horns Friday to evacuate 5,000 Christmas shoppers for about 45 minutes from a downtown shopping plaza after they received a call that a bomb had been placed in the area. None was found and the Alexis Nihon Plaza was reopened at 7:45 p.m.

Three police officers investigated another false bomb scare at the newspaper offices of The Gazette at about the same time.

First Taste in World War I

Stunt Flyer Still Gets Kicks at 83

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — Chlorine gas, aerial combat with Germans in the First World War and age has not been able to stop 83-year-old Thomas Cody Williams.

He has been flying for 58 years and says he gets his biggest kicks when he cranks up the 300-horsepower Fleet 21-M vintage biplane and takes off for a bit of stunt flying.

"I love aerobatics," Mr. Williams said in a weekend interview. "I don't think I could go up without doing a bit of stunting."

With silver hair and strong hands he still flies in air shows doing loop-the-loops or throttling along upside down at 130 miles an-hour in the open cockpit plane.

He says he became interested in flying when he arrived overseas after enlisting to fight in the First World War.

"I had come to see the war like and I realized if I could get into the air I could see more.

"I managed to go up with a pilot and I was so impressed, I wrote in my diary 'I could fly that thing myself.'"

Mr. Williams worked his way into the Royal Flying Corps, shot down a few enemy planes and was himself shot down three times, once by German ace Baron von Richthofen.

In more than 50 combat missions, he says, there were many close calls, and he credits extra sensory perception with saving his life.

"One day I was flying along and something told me to look over my right shoulder quickly. I jerked around and here was a German plane coming up behind. . . . He let loose a machine gun burst and one slug buried itself by my feet. If I hadn't . . . moved my shoulder, it would have gone right through me."

Although Mr. Williams has to put the biplane away every winter and pension cheques keep rolling in to remind him he's not getting any younger, he says he can still handle the flying licence test he must take when the current one expires in November, 1969.

Martin Pleased With Trip Results

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Paul Martin returned from a 1-day African trip Saturday and reported success on a mission apparently related to the problem of Canadian-Quebec representation at international conferences.

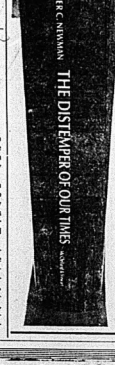
While he declined to give details before reporting to Prime Minister Trudeau and cabinet, Senator Martin he was pleased with the results of the trip, and added:

"I can say the position of Canada as a sovereign nation would be fully respected."

Ottawa and Quebec City still are discussing the makeup of the delegation that will attend the Niger cultural conference of French-speaking countries.

The aim is to avoid the kind of leading that resulted from Quebec's attendance at earlier French-language educational conferences in Gabon and France.

Clairvoyants Can't Agree



PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — A nationwide meeting of Italian clairvoyants and occultists dissolved into chaos Sunday when they were unable to agree on their future.

Uncertain about what was ahead for them, the clairvoyants called the meeting to seek social security benefits and sickness insurance and to weed out what they call charlatans.

But nothing went according to plan.

The leading member of the group—the Wizard of Tobruk, known to the non-initiated as Orlando Scifo—abruptly walked out of the meeting. Another leading member, identified only as Madame Rosa, tried to prevent his departure by going into a violent trance.

But to no avail. Scifo, who drives a British sports car and lives in a plush Rome Scifo had disagreed on the clairvoyants' plans to establish unified rate schedules.

Your Car

There Are Many Causes Of Damp Car Carpets

By RAY STAPLEY

A reader writes: "My car is a '66 Beaumont showing 31,000 miles and so far only minor running repairs have been needed. Since last August the passenger side of the front floor mat has been quite damp. I have checked unsuccessfully for water leaks and even my mechanic can't locate the cause of this problem. Realizing the consequence if this is allowed to continue, I hope you might have some suggestions".

Water soaked floor mats have been a source of aggravation for many years. I remember when wooden floor boards were used as a base for a felt and rubber floor mat. The water would splash through these boards and in freezing weather the mat would turn into a solid cake of ice. In those times the battery was located under the floor boards, and when the mat was frozen it was next to impossible to lift the mat to service the battery. In the early thirties steel floors were used and while this offered some protection from underside splash, many mats still became water soaked. In those times, for certain repairs it was necessary to remove the metal floors and as well as frozen mats, the bolts used to secure the flooring would frequently become seized with rust. Many hours have I spent drilling or chiselling through these bolts.

Today's cars are considerably lower and their predecessors and as a result the actual floor area where we place our feet is a few inches lower than the door sills. When water does get through onto the dash carpets it becomes trapped in these steel "walls" and drying it away is difficult.

To locate a leak, close the windows tight and, with someone inside the car to check for leaks, play a water hose over the body and on the underside of the passenger compartment. Concentrate especially all around the door jamb. Another approach is to turn the heater on full and check each door for warm air escaping past the weatherstripping.

In stubborn cases it may be necessary to remove the carpet and head for a car laundry where high pressure jets pour water on the body at various angles. Remain in the car while it is being washed and check for the source of any possible leaks with a flashlight.

The following items can cause inside water leaks: windshield needs resealing, windows or vents not fully closing, moisture seeping through radio aerial lead-in wire passage, rain water leaking through lower section of fresh air intake grill, (this grill is located between the lower centre section of the windshield and the rear of the hood), a crack or hole anywhere in the metal under the carpeting, fluid seeping down through a minute leak in the car's heater, plugged vents in the lower sections of the body panels.

Damp carpets also stem from repeatedly stepping into the car with damp or snow covered foot wear, windows left open when raining, or doors not completely closed when driving on wet roads.

NOTE: Letters from readers with car problems are most welcome, but please include: Year and model, number of cylinders, mileage, standard or automatic transmission, power equipment, brief outline of previous repairs and a self addressed envelope.

Solandt Wants Armed Forces to Become Global Works Corps

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Omond Solandt, chancellor of the University of Toronto, says Canada should consider converting its armed forces into a global public works corps for underdeveloped countries.

Dr. Solandt, founder of Canada's defence research board, suggested in a weekend interview that building bridges, power plants, roads and harbors for have-not nations might contribute more to peace than spending money on military forces.

The chancellor, described recently by students as a militarist, also suggested that the conversion of the armed forces should begin with test projects in underdeveloped countries using armed forces personnel and part of the defence budget.

Dr. Solandt, chairman of the Science Council of Canada, is a former vice-president of research and development of de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd. and Hawker Siddeley Canada Ltd.

He said he does not believe that Canada should do away with its defence force entirely, although that might be feasible at a later date.

He also said public works could be considered Canada's contribution to peacekeeping "instead of her current role in NATO or NORAD.

"You would, of course, have to try to convince your partners that you were trying to promote peace rather than your own economy."

He said the plan would make Canada vulnerable to charges that she was relying on other countries for her defence.

"We should only do it if we think this would make as great a contribution to world peace as anything Canada's defence forces could make."

Neutrality Too Expensive - - - Sharp

TORONTO (CP) — External Affairs Minister Sharp said Sunday that Canada cannot pursue a policy of strict neutrality because it is too expensive to supply defensive power.

Mr. Sharp, interviewed on the CBC's public affairs program The Way It Is, said the type of defensive alliance Canada now has is "superior" to other methods because it leaves Canada independent of the United States when necessary.

U. S. Frees North Vietnamese Civilian Seamen

"Tough break on a State Visit — falling down the gangplank."

SAIGON (AP) — The United States today returned seven civilian seamen to North Vietnam and said it hoped the "action of humanity . . . will lead to further release of prisoners."

A U.S. spokesman said the release was negotiated in Vientiane, the capital of Laos, by American and North Vietnamese diplomats. He said the Hanoi representatives gave no immediate indication that North Vietnam planned to release any more American prisoners.

The prisoners were put ashore during the second ceasefire in two months along a strip of North Vietnamese coast. It was not immediately known how long today's ceasefire lasted.

The seven seamen were released about 12 miles northeast of Vinh, a coastal city 145 miles north of the demilitarized zone.

The U.S. command said the amphibious transport Duluth put the men into a 45-foot motorized fishing junk.

Last Oct. 21 the United States and Hanoi declared a 35-hour ceasefire during a 24-hour square-mile area along the coast to return 14 North Vietnamese Navy men. At that time the United States said it held no other prisoners-of-war. North Vietnamese prisoners usually are turned over to South Vietnamese authorities.

U.S. Navy spokesmen said the seven men released today were rescued in 1967 from "a small boat in international waters in the Gulf of Tonkin after an attack by U.S. aircraft on North Vietnamese cargo boats suspected of supplying the enemy in the South."

* * *

North Vietnam has released a few American flyers captured after being shot down in combat, but not on the scale of U.S. releases.

During the weekend Moscow radio reported that Radio Hanoi had said some captive pilots would be freed for Christmas.

North Vietnam had announced earlier arrangement would be made to forward Christmas packages from the United States to prisoners in the North.

B-52s Pound Invasion Routes

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B-52s continued pounding the so-called infiltration corridors north of Saigon today, seeking to blunt any Viet Cong-North Vietnamese winter offensive which some officials expect. But with only light ground fighting reported, it did not appear that any large-scale attack is imminent.

The B-52s flew four more raids against guerrilla jungle hideaways, troops and supply depots in an arc from 50 miles northwest of Saigon to 70 miles north of the capital. About 75 B-52s dropped 750 tons of bombs.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were reported manoeuvring through the jungle in groups of 10 to 30 men. B-52 pilots reported their bombs set off 10 secondary explosions, indicating hits on ammunition depots.

Since last Thursday, B-52s have pounded the arc north of Saigon with more than 5,000 tons of explosives.

In Washington, Defence Secretary Clark Clifford said Sunday there have been "some indications that there is a military buildup in 3rd Corps," the Saigon area, and "the enemy may be contemplating a winter offensive."

Powell Captures Heart Of Tory Rank-and-file

LONDON (CP) — Enoch Powell, the Ishmael of the Conservatives, turns out to be closer to the Tory heart than its leadership suspected.

The outcast from the Tory front bench in Commons—ostracized for his supposedly extremist views on colored immigration—suddenly has found an astonishingly strong current of support from rank-and-file party members.

Party leader Edward Heath threw Powell—Greek scholar, intellectual, former health minister and "shadow" defence minister—out of his prospective cabinet group last April because of a tough line Powell took against colored immigration in a speech.

Powell, who spoke luridly of "rivers of blood" flowing if immigration was continued at its present rate, had since been branded a racist by top figures in his party. His posh home in London is regularly picketed, minor riots have developed at his speeches and other speeches have been cancelled for fear of violence.

There have been accusations that non-conformist Enoch—the whole country calls him that now—is after the party leadership on the ground he knows more about the Tory mentality than Heath, but he has shrugged them off.

What will give the leadership pause now is a confidential report from the Conservative Political Centre on the result of a survey in 412 constituency study groups showing a strong leaning to Powell's views rather than the official party line.

Of the total, 327 groups favored an end to all immigration for a indefinite period. This is close to Powell's view and strongly counter to the official Tory line of not preventing dependents of immigrants already here from joining them in Britain.

A majority of the constituency groups were shown as opposing Britain's new Race Relations Act, also against party policy. The act, toughening measures against racial discrimination, was endorsed by the Tories officially but there were many Commons dissenters.

Deportation of unemployed emigres and a few other odds and ends along the Powell line are advocated by the constituencies.

The report as such is not likely to generate any public change in Tory policy, though it will add to pressure to take note of voter sentiment as 1970 balloting approaches.

Complex Substance Is Found in Space

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Discovery of a complex substance far out in space—a "first" that could enhance the possibility of life elsewhere in the universe—was reported Sunday by a University of California research group.

The substance is ammonia, believed to be a chemical ancestor of organic compounds and one of the ingredients vital in the origin of life as we know it.

Radio astronomers and physicists found molecules of ammonia gas "quite abundant," in several vast clouds of space dust out toward the centre of our galaxy, the researchers reported.

Ammonia has been detected in the atmosphere of the planet Jupiter, and there is speculation it also existed in the earth's early atmosphere. It is one of the substances, along with water and methane, which laboratory experiments have demonstrated can be combined into organic compounds necessary for the creation of elementary forms of life.

Police Check Students Attending Paris College

PARIS (Reuters) — Students arriving for classes at the suburban Nanterre College of the University of Paris today had their cards checked by officials and were watched by police standing by in case of violence.

The card check was part of a government plan to stamp out "a week of strikes and agitation" threatened by pro-Chinese rebel students at Nanterre, scene of unrest which led to nationwide industrial trouble in the spring.

It also was intended to enforce a ban on non-students and other unauthorized persons entering the college buildings.

More students than usual for a Monday turned up for classes, university officials said.

But they said the police, who were moved in overnight, would act only if violence broke out or serious damage were caused.

The education ministry warned in a communique Sunday that even isolated university disorders will not be tolerated.

The communique followed a government decree Saturday giving French university rectors special powers to suspend agitators—a decision formerly made only by university councils.

Observers said President de Gaulle apparently sees maintenance of order in the cities and the universities as a mainstay of his battle to save the franc and also as a matter of personal prestige.

The government probably believes that current university unrest is caused by a hard-core militant minority and that the majority of students were won over by a liberal reform program introduced by Education Minister Edgar Faure.

Nanterre strikers last week were estimated at 2,000 of the college's 15,000 members.

The strike was called to protest police questioning of college student Regine Martinez over a recent wave of bomb blasts in the capital.

Universities at Marseille, Clermont-Ferrand, Nantes, Lyon and Bordeaux also were recently hit by strikes and agitation.

Gun-smuggling Vessel Given Hero's Welcome

LARNE, Northern Ireland (AP) — An antique iron ship that smuggled guns to Northern Ireland half a century ago lay peacefully in port at nearby Carrickfergus Sunday after steaming back to a hero's welcome here during the weekend.

The Clydevalley, a creaky 476-ton steamer that has carried fish and timber for a Canadian company for the last 40 years, has been bought by the Ulster Constitution Defence Committee as a floating museum.

Thousands of Irishmen cheered as the ship sailed in harbor Saturday and bands led a parade through the town, where residents kept their doors tightly shut in case of violence.

The steamer had left St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 27.

The Clydevalley ran a blockade of British warships in 1914 and landed a load of rifles here for the Ulster Volunteers, fighting against Britain's efforts to force Northern Ireland to accept home rule.

On the bridge of the vessel as she churned into Larne was Rev. Ian Paisley, the Protestant extremist who has opposed recent civil rights demonstrations by Roman Catholics in the province. Paisley is chairman of the committee that bought the ship.

Paisley told the cheering crowds the ship was "a symbol of defiance, determination and dedication."

The Clydevalley, built in Belfast, is to be berthed as a museum 14 miles away at Carrickfergus.

Unger's Hat Trick Wins Wings Second

By SCOTT BUTTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings made a multi-player trade last March, the Maple Leafs reluctantly parted with a 20-year-old centre named Garry Unger.

Manager-coach Punch Imlach of Toronto worried aloud that Unger, the youngest of six players involved, might eventually give Detroit the best of the trade.

Imlach may have been right as Unger has been enjoying a fine National Hockey League season with Detroit. Sunday he had his first NHL three-goal game, pacing Detroit to a 5-2 victory over Minnesota North Stars.

In other Sunday action, Philadelphia upset New York Rangers 3-1, Boston Bruins downed Pittsburgh Penguins 5-3, Chicago Black Hawks outlasted Oakland Seals 7-4 and St. Louis Blues nipped Los Angeles Kings 3-1.

Saturday, Montreal Canadiens blanked Philadelphia Flyers 1-0, Toronto edged St. Louis 3-2, Minnesota trounced New York 4-1, Boston walloped Chicago 10-5, Detroit took Oakland 3-1 and Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 2-1.

Unger now has 13 goals this year. With five goals in 13 games with Detroit last season, the Red Wings seem to be getting plenty of mileage out of him.

Frank Mahovlich, who went to Detroit with Unger and Peter Stemkowski for Norm Ullman, Floyd Smith and Paul Henderson, picked up three assists for the Red Wings Sunday.

Gordie Howe and Alex Delvecchio scored the other Detroit goals before 11,171 Red Wing rooters. The goal was the 705rd of Howe's regular-season career while an assist credited to Delvecchio was his 600th, a plateau previously reached by only Howe and Montreal's Jean Beliveau.

Ray Cullen and Wayne Connelly connected for Minnesota against goaltender Roy Edwards, who played in both of Detroit's weekend victories.

Ken Hodge and Fred Stanfield scored the other Boston goals while Keith McCreary scored twice for Pittsburgh and Earl Ingarfield once.

The Black Hawks spotted Oakland a 2-0 lead and then roared back to gain the victory Sunday and increase their goal output to 112—tops in the NHL.

Stan Mikita, Dennis Hull and Doug Mohns each scored twice for the Black Hawks, while Jim Pappin added a single goal. Francois Lacombe, Gary Jarrett, Norm Ferguson and George Swarbrick connected for Oakland.

Maki's penalty shot, in the second period, was turned aside by rookie goaltender Chris Worthy who had replaced starter Gary Smith only a few moments before. Maki was given the shot after he broke loose in the clear and was pulled down by Lacombe.

The fights matched Jarrett and Chicago's Matt Ravlich in the first period, and Carol Vadnais of Oakland and Bob Schmautz in the second before a Chicago crowd of 15,666.

St. Louis' victory, watched by 12,663 at St. Louis, moved the Blues eight points ahead of the second-place Kings in the Western Division.

Mo-Hawks Stave Off Woodstock To Snap Losing Streak At Six Games

WOODSTOCK (Special) — Their third - period hex just about overtook Belleville's Sea- for A Mo-Hawks again hot yesterday, but this time there was a different outcome.

The Mo-Hawks went into the third period leading the last - place Woodstock Alcans 5-1 and hung on for a 5-4 win — their first in seven games — despite a three - goal outburst by their hosts in a one - minute span halfway through the final frame.

Combined with Kingston Aces' 6-2 setback Saturday at the hands of Galt's fast - rising Hornets, the Mo-Hawks' win kept them within four points of the Senior loop's sixth and last playoff spot held by the Aces.

Coach Davey Jukes' drastic line shuffling paid dividends, with the Belleville goals coming off the sticks of some of the team's lower point producers.

The Mo-Hawks had built their commanding 5-1 margin on first-period markers by veteran Eddie Marineau and rookie Andy Teeple and middle - stanza scorers by John "Shaker" Baker and Lionel Botly. Botly's goal was the first of the year for the easy - going Mo-Hawk defenceman - team captain.

Defenceman Al Blair's goal at 13.22 of the opening period, 16 seconds after Eddie Marineau had given the Mo-Hawks a 1-0 lead, was the only puck to pass goalie Larry Holmes until the third-period Woodstock spree.

At 8.59 of the final frame, Art Bacon narrowed the Mo-Hawk lead to 5-2, then 49 seconds later, he drilled the puck past Holmes again to make the score 5-3 for the visitors.

The Mo-Hawks began to worry when Mac Westgate popped in another Woodstock tally at 9.59, but hung on to preserve the 5-4 edge.

Holmes had only four shots to handle in the final period, including the three goals, and the Mo-Hawks outshot the Alcans 31-28 on the afternoon.

Hornets Swarming

Moe Galand, the high-scoring forward with Orillia Terriers of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series, continues to improve with age.

His three-goal effort Sunday in the Terriers' 5-2 win over Galt Hornets, combined with Oak-ville Oaks' 4-2 win over Barrie Flyers, has resulted in a tight race at the top of the nine-team group.

In one other Sunday game, Belleville Mo-Hawks nipped Woodstock A's 5-4 at Woodstock to hand the last-place A's their 18th loss in 20 starts.

At Galt Saturday, before a crowd of 1,399, the Hornets moved within a single point of first-place Barrie by bouncing Kingston Aces 6-2.

Sunday's win for Orillia over Galt in front of 1,008 fans, helped Barrie keep their season-long hold on the lead and advanced the Terriers just two points off the pace.

Galand, who played with East York Lyndhurst's 14 years ago in a world tournament loss to Russia, challenged for the league scoring lead with his three goals against Galt. Carl Hymers and Doug Kelcher completed the Orillia scoring while Pete Brennan scored both Galt goals.

"A WEIGHTY PROBLEM?" — Apollo Barbell Club member Bob Walt seems to have something on his mind, but his facial contortions are actually part and parcel of a normal performance. (Story on Page 14.)

Soviets Still Confident

MOSCOW (AP) — The coach of the world champion Soviet hockey team says his non-professionals are prepared to take on a Canadian professional team in an exhibition match.

"I believe in the Soviet players and I think we can win," said Anatoly Tarasov in an interview with Tass news agency.

The possibility of a Canadian pro team meeting the Soviet national team has long been discussed—most recently at a Moscow international hockey tournament here.

Tass quoted Canadian coach Jackie McLeod as saying then that he was pessimistic then because the Canadian pros are too busy and would demand too much money.

Tarasov said in the interview that time and money obstacles have been overcome.

The face and golfing exploits of this competitor are familiar to countless golf buffs. He's Ben Hogan, dubbed at times "The Wee Ice Mon," "The Hawk," and "Bantam Ben." At age 56, physical problems have limited his participation in competitive golf of late. Recent surgery on his shoulder has thrown a shadow over future plans. (AP Photo)

Up Three Points

St. Kitts' Juniors Swing Into Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two third-period scoring sprees during the weekend propelled St. Catharines Black Hawks into a three-point lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series standings.

The Hawks, trailing Niagara Falls Flyers 3-1 after two periods Sunday scored four unanswered goals in the third period for a victory before 2,312 fans, the largest St. Catharines crowd in 11 years to see a junior hockey game.

Saturday, before 1,943 fans in Oshawa, Marcel Dionne scored with less than four minutes remaining in the game to salvage a 6-6 tie for the Hawks against Oshawa Generals.

In other games Sunday, Montreal Junior Canadiens dumped Oshawa 7-3 and Hamilton Red Wings scored four third-period goals to beat Toronto Marlboros 6-4.

St. Catharines now has a three-point bulge over Peterborough Petes, although the Petes have two games in hand.

Although Kitchener Rangers are mired in the cellar with 10 points, only eight points separate the third-place club, Niagara Falls, and the eight-place Generals and Ottawa 67s.

Toronto plays at London in the only game Tuesday.

In St. Catharines, Rick Thompson, Bob Walton and Doug Brindley scored for the Flyers and Bob Sheehan for the Hawks as the Flyers took a 3-1 lead after two periods.

But two goals by Wayne Ego, Sheehan's second of the game and Doug Rombough in the third gave the Hawks victory and stretched their unbeaten streak at home to 12 games.

Saturday, Sheehan scored three goals for St. Catharines, while Dionne, Brian McKenzie and Rombough added one each.

Scoring for the Generals were Ivan Boldirev, who also had four assists, Peter Vipond, Bob Kelly, Steve Cardwell, Al Quinlan and Rick Kessell.

Montreal, playing their home games at the Forum, got two goal efforts from Guy Charron, Gilbert Perreault and Marc Tardif. The other Montreal goal went to Jean-Pierre Bordeleau.

Fred O'Donnell, Boldirev and Cardwell scored for the losers.

Montreal now has 24 points on 10 wins and two ties. They have only played 19 games. The Hawks, on the other hand, have 23 points on 14 wins and seven ties in 26 games.

In Toronto 8,665 fans watched as the Red Wings won despite the work of Doug Acomb and Frank Hamill who paced the Toronto attack with two goals each. Acomb has scored 10 goals in the last five games.

Morrisons Can Close Gap in Cobourg Encounter

The Belleville Morrisons get a chance tonight to pick up valuable points and close the gap in the Junior "B" standings when they travel to Cobourg to take on the Cloth Place Cougars.

Belleville is in the league cellar with seven points in 13 games, but they trail the Cougars by only three points and they have a game in hand over Cobourg.

A win tonight would put them right on the Cougars tail, and only two points behind fourth place Kingston Frontenacs in the race for the fourth and last playoff spot in the six team Junior "B" loop.

The locals have split two games with Cobourg this year, winning 9-5 in Cobourg, with the benefit of eight power-play goals, and losing 6-3 in Belleville.

The Morrisons are coming off a 17-2 drubbing a week ago Sunday at the hands of the league leading Oshawa Crushmen, who were reinforced by players affiliated with Oshawa's Junior "A" team, and this would be an opportune time to redeem themselves.

Walt Brothers Clash In Middleweight Battle

STAFF — You might say Bob Walt had "pressing" problems during Saturday's Eastern Ontario Teen-Age Weightlifting championships at Sir Mackenzie Bowell School.

The 19-year-old Apollo Barbell Club member's performance in the "press" competition was 20 pounds less than that of 16-year-old brother Art, and that was the margin by which Art took the middleweight class honors in the three-lift total score.

The brother-to-brother competition highlighted the meet, the 14th consecutive time the Apollo Club has played host to the event.

The only diversion for the hometown spectators was Russ Prior's new Canadian teen-age clean and jerk record. The husky Hamilton heavyweight's 325-pound performance accomplished that, and his other lifts aoc total of 940 broke all the existing Eastern Ontario meet teen-age heavyweight marks.

Art Walt's middleweight title came on the strength of a 215-pound press, a 215 snatch and a 285 clean and jerk. His 715 total was 25 pounds off the 163-pound youngster's Eastern Ontario record 738 total.

Meanwhile brother Bob, just breaking into middleweight ranks after establishing the British Empire Lightweight snatch mark, had to lift at a bodyweight handicap, only tipping the scales at 153 pounds, 12 below the allowance for the middleweight division.

Bob's 695 total came from a 185 press, 210 in the snatch, and a 290 clean and jerk, five pounds better than brother Art's ....

Roger Harris topped the "paperweight" 98-pound section with a 235 total. Jim Travers' 325 combination took 114-pound class honors, and Mike McMahon won the 132-pound division with a 430-pound, three-lift total.

Toronto's H. Goldberg took the 123-pound title with a whopping 460-pound total, and D. Beaie of Hamilton got the Eastern Ontario lightweight title with a 530-pound combination, 170 more than his nearest rival.

Bateman Rolls 410

Lugtenburg Tops Locals

Ed Lugtenburg's 1683 six-game total carried his team to a high finishing and the best local score in the fifth annual Ontario Masters' Association master-bantam five pin bowling tournament Sunday in Hamilton.

Lugtenburg started off with a sensational 355 score for three games and finished off with a very respectable 1683.

It was a ladies' tournament as the individual championship went to a woman and all three Belleville girls beat their main counterparts.

Lugtenburg's team scored 2822 for 12 games with Patti Robb rolling 577 for three games and Paul Baxter 569.

Jim McKenzie's team was the second of the three local teams with a 12 game total of 2674. McKenzie had a 1320 total for six games, Jamie Hutchison 664 for three games and Steve Whitney 556 for three games.

Bill Bateman's team was close behind with a 2637 total for 12 games. Bateman rolled 1317 for six games, Sharon Prudden 627 for three games and Glenn Andrews 313.

Bateman started slowly but finished in fine fashion with scores of 215 and a startling 410.

Green Bay Standby Quarterback Knocks Bears Out of Title Picture

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Horn started the day backing up Green Bay Packers' back-up quarterback and wound up throwing Chicago Bears for a fatal loss.

Activated Saturday night as a standby for Zeke Bratkowski, Bart Starr's relief pitcher, Horn smacked a 28-9 Packers' win over Chicago Sunday that knocked the Bears out of the National Football League championship picture.

Chicago's setback, coupled with Minnesota's 34-17 victory over Philadelphia Eagles, crowned the Vikings as champions of the Central Division.

In Sunday's other regular season finales, Baltimore Colts edged Los Angeles Rams 28-24, Dallas Cowboys thumped New York Giants 28-10, Washington Redskins lopped Detroit Lions 16-3, San Francisco 49ers nipped Atlanta Falcons 14-13 and New Orleans Saints trimmed Pittsburgh Steelers 24-14. St. Louis Cardinals upended Cleveland Browns 27-15 Saturday.

Dallas meets the Browns in Cleveland next Saturday for the Eastern Conference title and the Vikings and Colts collide at Baltimore the following day for the Western crown.

Horn, released from the army just 10 days ago, entered the game with Chicago leading 10-7 in the first quarter after Bratkowski, who had started in place of the injury-plagued Starr, was shaken up.

Green Bay's No. 1 draft choice last year uncorked a 67-yard touchdown pass to Jim Grabowski and then set up Chuck Mercein's one-yard scoring plunge with a 45-yard pass to Boyd Dowler as the Packers grabbed a 21-10 halftime lead.

Horn capped an 83-yard third quarter drive with a 25-yard TD strike to Dowler, boosting the margin to 28-10, before the Bears struck back.

Ronnie Bull's eight-yard touchdown run and Mac Percival's 38-yard field goal closed the gap to 28-20 and Dick Gordon grabbed a 51-yard TD pass from Jack Concannon with 3:38 remaining in the game. Percival's conversion left the Bears one point back.

Joe Kapp led the Vikings past the Eagles, firing a pair of scoring passes and running for a third touchdown.

He hit Bill Brown for a 37-yard touchdown bomb in the second period, tossed a 20 yard payoff pitch to Gene Washington in the third and wrapped it up with a two-yard scoring jaunt in the fourth.

Johnny Unitas, sidelined by an elbow ailment most of the season, engineered two second half touchdown drives as Los Angeles, leading the Colts to their eighth straight victory and a 13-1 finish.

He took over for Earl Morrall, who had thrown a 61-yard touchdown pass to Preston Pearson, and flipped nine yards to Pearson for one score before setting up the winning points with 37 and 11-yard strikes.

Raiders Force Issue On Bird Interception

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rodger Bird flew down the sideline with an intercepted pass to help push Oakland Raiders into a playoff for the American Football League's Western Division title.

"That put us ahead and pepped us up," coach John Rauch said Sunday of Bird's 22-yard touchdown run with the interception that put Oakland ahead of San Diego Chargers 17-13 and sparked the Raiders to a 34-27 victory.

Oakland finished its regular season with a 12-2 record and in a first place tie in the West with Kansas City Chiefs who trounced Denver Broncos 30-7 Saturday.

The Raiders will play Kansas City in Oakland next Sunday for the right to meet the Jets, Eastern Division champions, for the AFL title in New York Dec. 29.

Bird's clutch play was a regular schedule Sunday with a 21-7 romp over Miami Dolphins and, in the only other game, Houston Oilers trounced Boston Patriots 45-17.

After Bird's scoring theft of a John Hadl pass in the third quarter, Raider quarterback Daryle Lamonica hit Wargen Wells with a 55-yard touchdown pass.

Then after a pair of field goals by San Diego's Dennis Partee, Lamonica threw a 33-yard scoring strike to Charlie Smith and George Blanda kicked a field goal to put the Raiders ahead 34-19.

San Diego then got back into the game when Ken Dyer recovered a fumbled punt by Oakland's Nehemiah Wilson in the end zone for a touchdown and Hadl passed to Lance Alworth for a two-point conversion.

After Partee and Blanda traded field goals in the first quarter, San Diego went ahead on a 62-yard pass from Hadl to Jacque MacKinnon before Oakland tied it on Lamonica's 13-yard pass to Fred Biletnikoff. Partee's field goal then gave the Chiefs a 13-10 halftime lead which was wiped out by Bird's big steal.

Mat Snell, Emerson Boozer and Bill Mathis ran for touchdowns and Babe Parilli passed for one as the Jets rolled over Miami, Larry Csonka bulled one yard for Miami's touchdown.

Leading 21-17 in the third period, Houston broke its game open with touchdown runs by Hoyle Granger and Woody Campbell, a score on an interception by Ken Houston and Wayne Walker's field goal. Granger also ran for a touchdown and Don Trull passed for two more for the Oilers. Tom Sherman passed for both Boston touchdowns.

Great White Hope Gone

Giant Jess Willard Takes 10-Count

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jess Willard, the giant boxer who was cheered on by whites who wanted the world's heavyweight title taken from Negro champion Jack Johnson, is dead at 86.

The 230-pound Willard lost his title four years later to Jack Dempsey. It was 45 years after that before boxing experts, studying films, acknowledged Willard's greatness.

He died Sunday in Hospital of a cerebral hemorrhage following treatment for a heart attack. His wife Hattie was by his side.

In 1911, at the age of 30, Willard began a boxing career from which he retired 12 years later.

On a hot day in 1915 in Havana, Willard knocked out the 265½-pound Johnson in the 26th round of a scheduled 45-round match.

Controversy over the fight started five years later when Johnson, broke and living in Paris, sold a magazine article in which he claimed he took a dive in Havana.

Willard denied it.

In the Broadway play, the Johnson-like hero agrees to take a dive before the fight, but changes his mind in the ring and admits he was fairly beaten.

"I always said," Willard once commented, "if he was going to quit, why did he wait 26 rounds, one hour and 44 minutes, under a sun that was 115 degrees hot, to quit? Or wait five years to say he took a dive?"

Proof of Willard's skill came 45 years after the big bout because of a law prohibiting interstate shipment of prizefight films.

When experts viewed the movies in later years, along with films of Willard's other fights, they agreed that he was an excellent boxer with a punch, not the awkward giant some pictured him to be.

When Willard lost the title to Dempsey in 1919 more controversy ensued. Again it was a broiling hot day—July 4 in Toledo, Ohio.

Willard, who had never been knocked off his feet, was floored by Dempsey seven times in the first round. By the fourth round, Willard, with a broken jaw and cheek bones, one eye closed, was unable to get off his stool.

Films showed that Dempsey stood over the limp Willard and hit him before he could get to his feet.

"I'd say," commented Willard, "the referee didn't exactly give me the best of it."

All his life, Willard contended that Dempsey's gloves—or at least the left one which did all the damage—contained something more than the usual padding.

Fullmer Loses Benvenuti

ROME (AP) — The fight game's version of the Monday morning quarterback can legitimately wonder today:

"What if Fullmer had followed up his advantage after that seventh-round knockdown of Nino Benvenuti?"

A bruised, cut-up Don Fullmer was no doubt wondering, too, as he headed for a visit to Portugal on his way back to West Jordan, Utah. He had to leave behind the world middleweight boxing title that his brother Gene, who held it twice, had instructed him to bring home.

It was a roundish belt that Fullmer threw that rocked the Italian champ back on his heels in the seventh. Then Fullmer added a right cross and Benvenuti twisted away, sagged against the ropes and sank to the mat.

Referee Piero Brambilli waved Fullmer back and counted up to eight, the mandatory number, before sending a stunned Nino back to face Fullmer's gloves.

The champ looked puzzled and unsure of his balance.

The wiry challenger tried another of his bull-like body lunges. Benvenuti began moving back for the first time in the fight.

A few light rights, however, were all Fullmer could land before the gong.

In the eighth Benvenuti already had regained his spry footwork and was sticking that long, formidable left in Fullmer's face to keep the bull at bay.

NEW YORK (AP) — Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper have been named to Golf Magazine's all-American team for the fifth year while United States open champion Lee Trevino and George Archer made it for the first time. The magazine took a poll for the fifth straight year to select the outstanding golfer in each of eight categories. Palmer and Nicklaus repeated as best driver and best long iron player respectively, while Casper, the pro tour's leading money-winner, replaced Doug Sanders as best short iron player. Trevino succeeded Casper in the pitching wedge category while Archer was named best putter, replacing Frank Beard. The rest of the team consists of Gary Player, fairway woods; Dan Sikes, middle irons; and Julius Boros, sand wedge. All were repeaters.

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Bryan Field, 68, known to millions of horse racing fans through his broadcasts and radio and television of the Kentucky Derby, died Saturday. Field, a former sports writer, gained his greatest fame with his broadcasting and description of the Triple Crown races for three-year-olds, the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont Stakes.

MONTREAL (CP) — Herve Fillion of Angers, Que., moved one step closer to becoming the first harness racing driver ever to win 400 races in a single season when he posted one victory in six starts at Blue Bonnets Raceway Sunday. Fillion, 28, won with Adois Watts in the seventh race to boost his total victories to 398 for the 1968 season. He also had one second-place finish, two third-place finishes, one fifth-place and one seventh-place effort in his appearances Sunday.

Phillips' Rink Win Earns Provincial Berth

GUELPH (CP) — Alfie Phillips Jr. of Toronto Saturday took the first step to regaining the Canadian curling championship he won in 1967.

Phillips' Terrace rink earned a berth in the Ontario championships with a one-sided 12-5 victory over Tom Howat of Toronto's Tam Heather in the final game of the Ontario Curling Association challenge round.

It was the inaugural of the challenge round, designed to give rinks in highly competitive zones an added chance to reach the provincial finals.

Phillips and Howat went into the final game Saturday with one loss apiece, and Phillips now joins Stu Daw of Coleville, who won five straight games, as a qualifier for the provincial championship, to be played in London, Ont., in February.

Howat, who overcame a 5-1 deficit to beat Murray Roberts of Unionville 11-7 in the semi-finals earlier Saturday, fought a 8-0 deficit after four ends against Phillips.

It was too much to overcome against Phillips' sharpshooting rink, but Howat did manage to cut into the margin with two in the fifth and singles in the sixth and seventh.

Phillips took command again to open up a 12-4 lead in the ninth end. Howat counted his final point in the 10th and conceded the game in the 11th.

The Phillips rink comprises Dave Phillips, lead; Pete Phillips, second; Chris Johnson, vice, and Alfie as skip. They made it to Saturday's final against Howat with a 12-9 victory earlier in the day over Bob Harris of Unionville.

IT WORKS
BECAUSE IT
SWINGS!
That's the principle behind the pendulum clock, invented in 1657. Earlier clocks were found only in cathedrals and public squares; today it is rare a home that doesn't contain at least one time-keeping device. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are behind us. The modern world depends upon accurate clocks.
If the days of your older clock are gone in your house, chances are it's the only timepiece in this area would love to use

Eczema Likely Result of Allergy

By Dr. George C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My girl friend has a bad case of eczema, on the front of both hands and almost to the elbows. It's like pieces of raw meat in some parts. She went to a skin specialist but it did not do much good. She gets sick just looking at it. Can you help? — Miss L. L.

Maybe I can help if you (and your friend) will listen carefully.

First, "eczema" isn't a specific ailment. It is a general term which covers all sorts of breaking out of the skin that can't be attributed to some particular cause.

In babies, "eczema" very often is traced to allergy — sensitivity to some food item or sensitivity to wool or some other fabric.

In adults, allergy also is a very strong possibility. So-called "contact dermatitis" is something which often proves to be the cause — sensitivity to something that the person touches.

The fact that your friend's trouble is located in a particular area — hands and arms — raises a strong suspicion that the skin breaks out because of something she touches.

But what? There's the $64 question. It could be soap or detergent or fabrics or chemicals of some sort. Not everybody is allergic to the same things.

I have scant doubt that the skin specialist had this same thought in mind, and tracing down these allergies often requires a good deal of medical detective work. What is it that touches her arms and hands, where the eczema appears, but does not touch the skin elsewhere?

I've known of contact dermatitis cases which finally were traced to such things as nickel plating on scissors, nickel coins carried in a man's pocket, the paint on a broom handle, carbon paper in an office and so on.

Therefore my advice to your friend is not to go to a skin specialist with the idea that he can spread on some ointment and the whole problem then and there.

Rather, she'd better go to a skin specialist, or perhaps an allergist, and let him continue study of those broken-out areas until he can determine definitely what is bothering them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have such trouble with backache that I can hardly get out of bed in the morning. Then it goes away and I forget about it until next morning. What would cause it? I am 65. — Mrs. B.

This is not an uncommon complaint. The principal causes are: 1. — Arthritic changes in the spine. 2 — Muscle spasm occurring during the night due to faulty support of the spine.

In your case, with the trouble disappearing after you get up, the latter should seem to be the likelier cause.

Young folks can manage to sleep on anything, hard or soft, bumpy or saggy, but as we get older, our spines need more support. Many get relief from a simple bed board — a sheet of plywood, or similar stiff support, placed between spring and mattress, to minimize sagging. A stiffer mattress and spring can help.

If that suggestion doesn't help, a careful examination, including X-rays of the spine, would be in order.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have about seven blackheads in each ear. How can I get them out? — M.B.

At the drug store you can get a comedo (blackhead) expressor, a simple little gadget which lets you remove blackheads with gentle pressure instead of squeezing.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

New Arab Guerrilla Group Fights Israel East of Suez

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A new Arab guerrilla organization has emerged to combat Israeli forces on the east side of the Suez Canal, the semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram reports.

It said the Organization for the Liberation of Sinai, whose activities have been kept secret to date, will shortly issue military communiques and "assume responsibility for resistance actions against the Israeli imperialist presence."

Al Ahram says the Israelis have been "trying to hide" news of encounters with the guerrillas. These include seven Al Arab ambushes in Sinai in the last few months, presumably those blamed by Israel on regular Egyptian army units, says the Cairo newspaper.

The announcement apparently marked the beginning of organized guerrilla activity against Israeli forces in the Sues Canal Zone and promised to heat up the Egyptian-Israeli ceasefire line, usually the quietest in the Middle East.

Israel has been plagued by almost daily guerrilla forays from Jordanian territory, and the Israeli Army reported that two Arab saboteurs and an Israeli border soldier were killed in such incidents Saturday night and Sunday.

The Amman newspaper Ad Dastour claimed three Israelis were killed in Hebron and that "hundreds of Arabs" had been arrested as Israeli troops searched for the saboteurs. It said a curfew was slapped on the town, and military roadblocks sealed all access.

A Jordanian military spokesman in Amman also claimed the Israelis shelled the town of Wadi Safi, on the southern tip of the Dead Sea, for 25 minutes, killing a woman and wounding five civilians.

First Vote Since Independence Being Held in Guyana Today

GEORGETOWN (Reuters) — Police and troops were on the alert in case of trouble today as Guyana staged its first general election since gaining independence from Britain in 1966.

The voting follows a bitterly fought campaign marked by opposition accusations that the governing People's National Congress party was rigging the overseas balloting.

About 300,000 persons were expected to vote, including 67,000 Guyanans living in the United States, Canada and Britain.

Prime Minister Forbes Burnham dismissed the rigging allegations as the "bleatings of losers" and last week claimed a plan was afoot to disrupt counting throughout the country.

Special security detachments were sent to the interior to see that local counting stations received adequate protection.

In the capital, police have guarded candidates of the four parties since several politicians were stoned at meetings.

The prime minister gained control of the country after the last election in 1964 through a coalition with the right wing United Front of Georgetown businessman Peter d'Aguiar.

However, the coalition split recently and Burnham said he would not tolerate another agreement with any political party.

Chief opponent of Burnham is Marxist Cheddi Jagan, Indian leader of the People's Progressive party. Jagan is trying to regain some of the power he lost in 1964 when the PPP managed only 41 per cent of the popular vote, compared with 46 per cent for the PNC.

The UF candidates picked up only 12 per cent of the 1964 vote. The fourth faction in the race today was the Indian Action party, which was not expected to poll more than 1,000 votes.

Jagan told correspondents industrialization is the key to success in countries like Guyana and said his aim is to seek assistance where he could.

He criticized the price developing countries have to pay for American economic assistance, and claimed "they (Americans) want you completely lined up on the foreign side."

However, he said countries like Guyana could not develop unless they were free to trade.

He claimed that when he was in power prior to 1964, Britain, through its control over Guyanese foreign affairs before independence, thwarted attempts to get economic aid from Eastern European countries.

Employment News

By J. R. STAVELEY,

During the past week, the local labor demand levelled off, as is normal for this time of year. The demand was especially limited with regard to employment opportunities for unskilled and semi - skilled workers seeking either regular or casual work.

Over the past few months there has been an increased demand in this community for the skilled and professional worker. These positions have been difficult to fill, although at the skilled worker level the industrial complex has benefitted by the arrival of a number of highly skilled workers, "New Canadians," from several countries overseas. Therefore, at the administrative, professional and technical levels, Quinte is an import labor area.

In recognition of this vital professional shortage, the Department of Manpower and Immigration initiated in 1966 a program called "Operation Retrieval." Its objective is to put Canadians studying at universities in the United States, the United Kingdom and Europe in touch with Canadian firms and other employers such as the Federal and Provincial Governments who have professional labor requirements.

Some 15,000 young Canadians now attend various universities in Canada.

Operation Retrieval is designed to reduce Canada's loss of brainpower to other countries by keeping these Canadian students informed about developments and career opportunities at home.

At the present time, representatives from the Department of Manpower and Immigration, the Public Service Commission and the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada are speaking to these students at U.S. campuses from Harvard University on the East to the University of California on the West coast.

This coming academic year sees the facilities of Operation Retrieval being extended to volunteer members of the Canadian University Services Overseas (CUSO).

Most of these CUSO volunteers are engaged in teaching and should be welcome manpower resources when Canada develops a shortage at the primary and secondary levels.

Last year, the Department mailed kits of information about employment in Canada — including a resume form — to all known Canadians studying abroad. The 1,700 replies received heralded a gratifying response.

The resumes include pertinent information such as the history of each resume's degrees, experience, and his job and location preferences. A summary of each resume is then mailed to employers.

The list is being extended this year to include students studying medicine. In the past it covered the disciplines of business, engineering, sciences education and the humanities.

Employers can get the complete resume of students through local Canada Manpower Centres. In addition, a directory listing 650 Canadian employers and their employment needs is made available to students abroad.

From then on any dealings are between the employer and the employee. The Department of Manpower and Immigration is not involved in hiring or recruiting — it simply brings the student and the respective employer together.

Thus every effort is now being made to have these young Canadian professional workers return home to Canada to fill the employment vacancies so necessary for the increased activity of the Canadian economy.

Picturesque but Dangerous

Ice is forming on the Trent River and makes for a pleasant winter scene. However the ice is not solid enough to be safe. Members of the Trenton Fire Department have had to disperse many youngsters from this ice. The current undermining the ice makes it very dangerous, warns fire chief Cecil Ellis.

Music Lovers Hear Oratorio During Dedication of New Organ

By C. M. IRWIN

Last night lovers of church music not involved at their own churches turned out in goodly number to hear the second program celebrating the dedication of the new organ at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The senior choir, under the direction of Frank Martin, assisted by guest soloists and the Eastern Ontario String Quartet, presented Camille Saint-Saens' Christmas Oratorio. Guest organist for the occasion was Mr. Otto Seifert.

The Christmas Oratorio, undoubtedly influenced by Bach and Handel, contains much pastoral music appropriate to the Nativity story. Organ and strings combined beautifully for this music, especially in the Prelude — the muted violin in the final part was a delight to hear.

The string quartet contributed outstandingly to the entire program, even during the carol singing: the lovely tone and precise playing of these fine musicians is obviously the achievement of many months of playing together.

Much of the vocal side of the program was borne by the five soloists, two of whom, Mrs. Ella Saunders and Miss Jessie Cunningham, are members of the choir. In recitative and air, in trio, quartette and concluding quintette, these singers carried the burden of the text with varying success.

The strong singing of the the choir was ceary audible tenor was marred by tone which was too nasal at times and too open at other times, yet he made a good contribution in the ensemble and chorus singing.

Indeed, the Quintette, "Arise now, daughter of Zion" was quite impressive. The lovely melody was stated in a truly satisfying manner by the well-blended trio of female voices. Worth mention, also, is the demanding Duo, "Blessed is He who cometh" which tested the vocal skill of Mrs. Saunders and Mr. Rutherford, both of whom proved equal to the difficulties of the number.

Mr. Rutherford has a rich baritone voice which he uses with considerable skill and artistry. It was disappointing not to hear more of Barbara Newman's voice.

The choir gave close attention to their director and almost always produced what he wanted. The entries in the brief chorus, "He who was to come," however, were weak: the choir would probably have done better standing. More pleasing was the chorus, "Wherefore do the heathen clamor?", possibly because the choir was clearly audible throughout.

Perhaps because of the distance between choir and organ, and because of the position of the organ "voice" relative to the choir, the choir and soloists could not always be heard clearly. There may be a problem here to be solved.

Great credit should go to Mr. Martin and his choir for attempting such challenging music. Again we have ample evidence that Belleville is culturally alive and growing!

One final note: avoid seating latecomers during selections, and avoid seating children who talk throughout the performance!

Chamber of Commerce Joins New Committee

TWEED — The directors of the Tweed Chamber of Commerce decided at the December meeting, held at the Hotel Tweedsmuir on Tuesday, December 10, that they should join with the newly-formed Winter Carnival Organizers Commitee, and pay the annual fee of $25.

This organization will attempt to set dates so that neighboring winter carnivals will not conflict, also arrange for group insurance to cover liability for all member Carnivals.

Barry Hunter of Tweed was recently elected to the board of directors of this organization, and will attend a provincial wide meeting at Barrie, this coming weekend.

John Thompson, president of the Tweed Snowmobile Club, attended the meeting and gave an outline of the winter activities planned. The members will meet this week to draft a program of winter activities.

The first rally will be held at Gerald Johnston's farm at Stoco, on Sunday afternoon, December 15, 1968.

Barry Hunter was appointed to work with the Kinsmen Club for the sale of tickets on the snowmobile draw at the Tweed Winter Carnival. The prize offered is a Ski-Doo complete with cover and trailer.

The Santa Claus Parade committee presented lengthy reports. Donations amounted to $332, less the bank charges. Cost of candies and fruits was approximately $100. Prizes for floats entered in the parade would be $125. Total costs might run as high as $600, according to the directors. Ferguson Bros. Pulp Cockburn was authorized to pay Santa Claus accounts as they were presented.

The directors were well pleased with the attendance at the parade and the number of floats entered, although they freely admitted that a parade of this size was getting beyond the ability of the members to sponsor owing to the cost and the work involved. The entire parade program was given serious consideration by the directors.

While there was no intention of cancelling the annual visit of Santa Claus to Tweed, the welcome extended to the old be-whiskered gentleman from the North Pole, may take a different form another year.

The balance of Tuesday's meeting was devoted to planning the Winter Carnival on February 7, 8, and 9, 1969. A second carnival planning meeting will be held later.

A prize of $10, will be awarded to the person suggesting the best Winter Carnival theme. An entry form will be found at the front office of the Tweed News. The directors were most pleased to learn that a new magazine "Snowmobile and Snow Travel Illustrated" would be placed on the market later this month of December 1968; also that the Secretary had answered the publisher's request for information regarding the Tweed Winter Carnival.

Winter Weekend Cozy as a Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a winter weekend when a television set was almost as cozy as an open fire.

NBC's Bonanza had a remarkable story about the Cartwright's Chinese cook. His amazing knowledge of finger-prints as a means of identification—at a time when Alphonse Bertillon was a young man—got Little Joe out of a murder charge. It was one of the weaker tales of the Ponderosa.

The Smothers Brothers on CBS continue their merry comments. Their new feature, Minority Report, is played down the middle for comedy alone, and avoided expressing the political viewpoints of the stars, might be a worthy successor to Allen's Alley.

Happiest hour of the weekend was Down to the Sea in Ships Friday night through most of the country but Sunday in the New York area. The Project 20 hour on NBC was a love poem to ships and seas, and contained smashing photography of angry oceans, giant, curling waves, serene sunsets and quiet waters.

There was no big message except a sort of gentle regret that the sleek beautiful sailing ship is today an anachronism. The hour consisted of film, prose and musical score in fine harmony.

Recommended tonight: The Sunshine Patriot, NBC, 9-11 EST, Dina Merrill and Cliff Robertson in a made-for-TV spy film.

Casino Linked to Criminals To Be Listed on Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP) — The impending marriage of a Philippine gold mining company and a feudal-like Bahamas land development firm will put a lavish gambling operation, recently linked with organized crime, on the New York Stock Exchange.

Involved are Benguet Consolidated Inc., a Manila mining corporation already listed on the exchange, and Grand Bahama Port Authority, the development company tied to Bahama gambling, and partly owned by the Bahamian government.

The merged firm won't be the first casino operators with a stock market listing. Already available on the American Stock Exchange is Resorts International—formerly the Mary Carter Paint Co.—which runs its own Bahamas casino.

The U.S. grand jury in New York is known to be investigating suspected links between the underworld and the island casinos. And the Securities and Exchange Commission has been looking into activities of Resorts International for months.

The crime issue was raised last year by the British government's commission of inquiry into the operation of the business of casinos in Freeport and Nassau.

Among other things, the commission suggested that the original managers of the Lucayan Beach Hotel casino on Grand Bahama Island—Resorts Inter., Max Courtenay and Charles Brudner—"were not suitable persons to have been employed in the Bahamas venture." The three subsequently departed the island.

Courtenay and Ritter now face sentencing in New York after pleading guilty to gambling-related charges, and Brudner's trial on a similar charge is pending.

Two other men named in the British report were Frankie Fayrel and Emilio Pesaro. Identified as New York agents for arranging charter flights of wealthy gamblers to the Bahamas.

A key man in the Benguet-Port Authority merger dismissed the idea that casino profits might finally be organized crime as a figment of the imagination of the press."

"Despite all reports of tremendous profits, the gambling casinos lost money," said New York financier Herbert Allen in an interview. "It is the smallest part of the operation."

Stock exchange officials won't talk about the Bahamas operations for publication, but there are indications of concern over the implications of public trading in gambling-related ventures.

The American Exchange recently reviewed Resorts International but found no basis for removing the issue from listing.

Benguet stockholders approved acquisition of the Port Authority Dec. 5. But before the merger can be completed, the New York Stock Exchange must approve Benguet's proposed listing of additional shares of common stock. The Philippines government also must approve the deal.

Benguet was for several years the lowest-priced stock on the exchange. It climbed to $3 in early 1967 and has since gone to $17.50.

Mary Carter stock was selling at $7 a share on the American exchange in May, 1967. The shares now are in the $40 range, under the Resorts International label.

The Benguet deal has been directed by the New York investment banking house of Allen and Co., in which Herbert Allen is a partner with his brother, Charles Allen Jr.

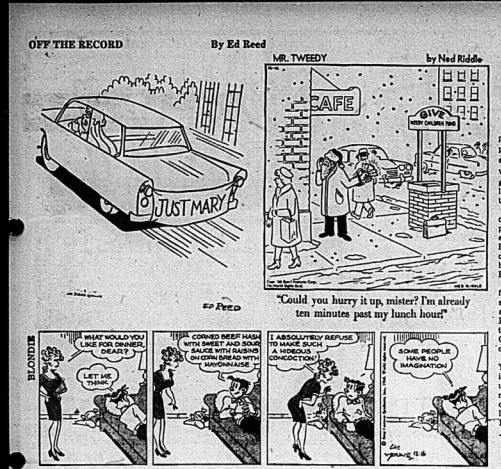
Charles Allen was described last May by Fortune magazine as "probably the most successful venture capitalist of modern times." The magazine placed his wealth at between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000.

Brother Herbert is a former board chairman of Benguet.

The Allen family interests were the single largest shareholders of Benguet and hold more than 10 per cent of the Grand Bahama Port Authority.

Allen and Co. also will receive about $2,000,000 from Port Authority stockholders for negotiating the deal with Benguet, says a Benguet proxy statement.

Biggest single stockholder involved is Georgette Groves, who owns nearly half of the Port Authority and will hold about 24 per cent of Benguet.



She is the wife of Wallace Groves, creator and present chairman of the Grand Bahama Port Authority. The Groves Groves to have a beneficial interest in her Authority holdings, but, the Benguet proxy statement says, "Mr. Groves disclaims any such interest."

Groves is a former Wall Street figure who was jailed in 1942 after being convicted of mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with a securities transaction made while he was a director of the General Investment Corp. of Boston.

In 1955, the Bahamas government made land on the island available to the newly-created Port Authority. While requiring the authority to provide schools and other public facilities, it also granted broad tax exemptions and empowered the authority to decide who would and who would not get licences to do business on Grand Bahama.

Development of Grand Bahama lagged behind expectations until April 1, 1963, when the Groves interests won a certificate of exemption from laws forbidding gambling in the Bahamas.

Anglicans Hit Haste For Union

TORONTO (CP) — The Council for the Faith of the Anglican Church of Canada, meeting here Saturday, passed resolutions condemning the "haste and secrecy" of plans to unite their church with the United Church of Canada.

The meeting, attended by about 50 Anglican clergy and laymen from across southern Ontario, condemned the timetable for union presented by the Anglican general committee.

It also stated its "vigorous" opposition to "the proposal likely to be made at the 1969 general synod of the Anglican Church of Canada that immediate intercommunion between the United and Anglican churches be established because it implies unity as an established fact." The synod will be held in August.

New Canadians Are Told They Can Act as Mediators

TORONTO (CP) — Ethnic groups other than French or English have the task of mediating conflicts between the two founding languages, says a University of Calgary professor.

Dr. Clive H. Cardinal of the university's research centre for Canadian ethnic studies told a weekend thinkers' conference on cultural rights:

"It is a generally accepted fact of human behavior that two opposing forces will act less stridently if a third force acts as a moderating influence."

In another speech, Claude Ryan, editor of Montreal's Le Devoir, said other ethnic groups should accept the priority of Canada's English-French problem.

He agreed that Canada is a multicultural society but it is also "principally and primarily . . . a bilingual and bicultural society."

He said each of the two communities is deeply rooted in the history of Canada and each "can claim that it forms a complete society in itself . . . a network of institutions and services that normally make a complete society."

Speaking along the same line, Dr. Cardinal said:

"The third element cannot exist as an economic, social, political factor, or what have you, unless the bicultural factor of Canada is maintained.

"Take the bicultural factor away and you will have a melting pot, sooner or later like it or not."

Ethnic Groups' Conference Rejects Bicultural Concept

TORONTO (CP) — Delegates to the thinkers conference on cultural rights Sunday "unequivocally" rejected the concept of a French-English Canada.

Spokesmen for 20 major ethnic groups favored the recognition of a multicultural society in Canada.

Leon Kossar, conference coordinator, said the conference was in favor of official bilingualism, but against official biculturalism.

In a resolution, the conference urged the federal government to set up an advisory body to assess the general needs and interests of Canada's ethnic groups, "to ensure their full participation in the cultural development of Canada."

Mr. Kossar said the resolution also called for two official languages is one thing, but to say there are only two cultures in Canada is a complete negation of the Canadian fact."

Other resolutions called the government aid for expanded work by the sponsoring Canadian Folk Arts Council, more coverage of ethnic groups' cultural activities and values by the CBC and National Film Board, credit courses in third languages to matriculation level, and Canada Council aid for "standardized history texts" reflecting factually the contributions of all Canadians.

Strictly Personal
Is English a Subject?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

As far as I can find out, the U.S. is one of the very few civilized countries in the world where the language itself is taught as a "subject" in school after students have already learned to read and write.

In England, there is no such subject as "English" in itself. Beginning pupils are taught to read and write, and then they study English literature, but no separate courses called "English" are given up through the later grades and into high school or college.

It is presumed in Britain that students will learn to speak and write their own language properly, and every teacher is an "English" teacher in a certain sense. The same is true in France, in Germany, in Italy, and most other countries.

Recently a history teacher here told me that he returned a paper with an unsatisfactory mark because the composition was so wretched. The student complained, saying, "This is a history class, not an English test — you have no right to judge the paper on the way it's written."

But how can one divorce what is said from the way it is said, when the method of expression so often determines meaning? Why should we have separate "English" teachers slaving away to instill proper writing habits if teachers or other subjects ignore them?

Deeply as I love English teachers (they pin up my columns on thousands of bulletin boards a day), in a rational school system they would be abolished. The time spent in teaching English (which is only a formal subject) could be used in teaching substantive courses, and teachers who are qualified to correct and strengthen the use of English as much as their own subjects.

But, of course, there's the rub. The teachers themselves are as much the product of our defective educational system as anyone else, and they too often are graduated from teachers' colleges with a sound grasp of their particular subject but only a hazy conception of the elements and structure of language. And this by the way, is one reason they may teach their own subjects poorly — if their communicative powers are weak, loppy, or in a sad state of neglect.

In many of our colleges, entering students have to repeat English courses in the first year, because their reading and writing abilities are too deficient for college level subjects. What a shameful waste of their time and the colleges' energies — at a time when students in other countries are busy learning foreign languages over and above their own learning to grapple with their own!

We envy and marvel at foreign students who come here and turn out to be several years ahead of our own; why shouldn't they be, if they take their own language as a matter of course, while we make it a "subject?"

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

Your birthday today: This year you pursue the grand dream of what you might be. Leave no possibility unexamined. The biggest problem is to distinguish between insight and wishful thinking. With any realistic effort gains are feasible. Seek quiet religious retreats when you can manage. Today's natives are exposed to peculiar fates.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): You might try out some of the fresh ideas you've been hearing lately. Do it in such a way as to protect ownership of the idea.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Our beautiful world looks a bit better or a bit worse than it actually is, depending on you personally. In material matters, the influence is toward misjudgment.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Details elude you. Double-check just to be sure. Your imagination soars; work becomes fascinating. Romance and sentiment carry you along in the evening.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): New methods are indicated for any mechanical chores. Redeem your obligations to family and community. Speak gently but clearly.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): New ideas require revision. Some travel and re-education are involved. Decisions should be postponed at this point.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Surprising twists of happenstance, most of them interesting or favorable, shake your decisions. Wait for more facts before committing your resources.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Aside from the necessity of finding a fresh approach to all issues, the day is rather easy. Moderation in spending is essential. Add something to your savings.

Biafran Troops Oust Invaders

LAGOS (AP) — Heavy fighting was reported on several fronts in Nigeria today, and television cameramen reported Biafran troops have re-entered Owerri and virtually encircled Nigerian troops there.

The cameramen from Sweden, France and West Germany visited the Owerri front Sunday. They said Biafran troops closed in on the town from four sides and fought street fighting was in progress. The federal troops had taken it in September.

A Biafran war communique Monday reported Biafran troops had pushed Biafran forces out of two locations captured earlier in Owerri. It gave no details. But the cameramen said the Nigerians had been pushed back 13 miles on the Owerri-Onitsha road, to the Biafran airstrip at Uli-Ihiala.

The Biafran communique said Biafran forces repulsed a Nigerian counter-offensive in Ikot Ekpene, killing 75 federals. It also claimed Biafran forces had driven the Nigerians six miles in two days in Abagana, but heavy fighting was raging in the Asumini and Afrikpo sectors.

A joint British-Nigerian communique issued here Monday said the federal government is willing to accept observers from the Organization of African Unity to check on relief operations into Biafra. Secessionist Biafra has rejected both a land corridor and daylight airlifts for relief supplies, but the presence of OAU observers could alter this stand.

Apollo Crew Tested

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The Apollo 8 astronauts are using a spacecraft trainer to sharpen skills for their scheduled launching Saturday toward an orbit around the moon.

Col. Frank Borman, Capt. James Lovell Jr. and Maj. William Anders plan several hours in the simulator today, mainly rehearsing what they'll do as they circle the moon for 20 hours on Christmas Eve and early Christmas Day.

Critical events during this period include the firing of the Apollo 8 engine to place the ship in a lunar orbit ranging from 69 to 196 miles above the surface, a second firing to circularize the path at the 69-mile altitude and a third ignition to shoot the astronauts out of orbit and start them on the 58-hour trip back to earth.

Meanwhile, the lengthy countdown for the launching of the Saturn 5 rocket proceeded smoothly toward Saturday's scheduled liftoff of 7.51 a.m. EST.

Saigon Is Firm On Table

PARIS (AP) — The Saigon government's negotiators in Paris say they will yield no further in the dispute over the shape of the table for the Vietnam peace talks.

The South Vietnamese delegation "has gone far enough" and "cannot diverge from the formula of a two-sided conference," delegation officials said.

Hanoi negotiators started with a proposal for a square table. Their latest offer is an undivided round table. U.S. negotiators have gone from a long rectangular table to a divided doughnut shape, their most recent compromise proposal.

Burnham Leads In Guyana's General Election

GEORGETOWN (Reuters) — Prime Minister Forbes Burnham's Peoples National Congress party today widened its lead in Monday's general election in Guyana.

A computer analysis predicted a majority of 28 seats for the party in the 53-seat National Assembly.

This would be one more than Burnham held when Parliament was dissolved.

The prediction gave Dr. Cheddi Jagan's Peoples Progressive Party 20 seats; the United Front party, former partners in the coalition government, three seats, and two seats undecided.

The election was the first since Guyana gained independence from Britain in 1966.

Monetary Pledge Will End

OTTAWA (CP) — Announcement is expected today that Canada has been released from a five-year-old commitment to the United States to maintain an upper limit on its holdings of foreign exchange reserves.

Canada has been negotiating with the United States throughout the fall about the reserves-limit agreement, which some authorities say has unnecessarily limited Canada's freedom to manage its own economy.

The negotiations reached a climax Monday during an Ottawa visit by Henry Fowler, retiring U.S. secretary of the treasury, and senior U.S. officials. Mr. Fowler flew home today.

Potter Chairman Of Health Group

TORONTO — Dr. Richard Potter, MPP Quinte, today was elected chairman of the Legislature's standing committee on health.

The Belleville physician says a major committee task will be to examine provincial hospital and medical care programs.

The committee, says Dr. Potter, has set itself an itinerary "looking into all aspects of hospital accommodation in Ontario."

The committee hopes to hear from "all qualified and interested persons" during its sessions.

It will seek a goal reiterated in the Legislature by Dr. Potter since his election last year: "More efficient and economical ways of caring for the sick."

The committee meets while the Legislature is in session — which means its main activities will start in February.

However, said Dr. Potter, he hopes the committee will have a report prepared for presentation in the Legislature in the spring.

Rates Planned To Hit Wealthy

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton said Monday Ontario is prepared to establish a provincial income tax unless the federal government makes significant concessions in fiscal affairs.

Mr. MacNaughton told the legislature the only way a provincial income tax can be averted is for the federal government to turn over a greater share to the province from federal income tax now collected in Ontario.

He said while a separate provincial income tax would fragment the Canadian taxation system, Quebec as well as many states in the United States now are operating successful income tax systems.

Speaking in the throne speech debate, Mr. MacNaughton said "establishing our own income tax system must be taken seriously."

The treasurer said the ultimate decision on a provincial income tax must await the result of the federal-provincial fiscal conference which starts Thursday.

He said if Ontario brings about an income tax, it would take a less lenient position with wealthy people than "our federal counterparts" appear to take.

Mr. MacNaughton said he does not believe wealthy people are overtaxed.

"We are convinced that the burden of taxation must be lifted from taxed families with low incomes, especially those on fixed incomes which have shrunk through inflation." Mr. MacNaughton said.

He said a separate income tax

Brazil Purge Likely

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil's military-dominated government is expected to launch a sweeping purge, stripping hundreds of its opponents of their political rights, after president Arthur da Costa e Silva's first major speech since the suspension of Congress last Friday.

The President told the graduating class of the army staff school and top military leaders Monday night that the housecleaning undertaken following the 1964 revolution "unfortunately" had not been completed.

Hundreds lost their political rights after the army overthrew President Joao Goulart in 1964. The leftists were the chief targets then, but now it appears that critics of the military and of the status quo in Brazil are likely to be the marked men.

Things are apparently not as busy at the North Pole this time of year as one would expect because Santa Claus finds time to stroll hand-in-hand along a beach in St. Petersburg, Fla., with pretty Janet Molly. Supreme Court Bans Draft As Punishment cause of his political, racial, or religious views, Justice William O. Douglas said in the 6-to-3 decision.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Supreme Court Monday reduced the power of draft boards to punish Vietnam war protesters by mustering them into the army.

Draft boards cannot operate as "free-wheeling agencies meting out their brand of justice in a vindictive manner," the court declared as it ruled in favor of a Wyoming divinity student.

When a man is exempted from the draft by federal law -- a minister or service, for example -- his draft board cannot take away the exemption be-

$6,600 Needed

Belleville's first co-operative Christmas Fund was formed yesterday when community organizations pointed out the need for $6,600 to enable Christmas boosts for the community's 2,000 persons in need.

College Sit-Ins Banned

PARIS (AP) — With student unrest on the rise again in France, Premier Maurice Couve de Murville said Monday night the government will tolerate no more university sit-ins.

Four hours after France's largest student organization called for a countrywide boycott of classes, Couve de Murville asked in a television address for students, teachers and the government to work together.

"Contention must be ended," he said. "This signifies that politics has no place in the high schools. This signifies that first of all no occupation will be tolerated in the universities."

The student strike call was not considered a serious threat to public order since the Christmas holidays are about to begin. But new campus control measures touched off fist fights and other confrontations between students and police.

Newfoundland's Fish Crisis To Be Discussed

OTTAWA (CP) — Newfoundland's fisheries minister puts his case before his federal counterpart today in a bid to avert a crisis in the province's fisheries industry that could put thousands out of work.

Aidan Maloney, Newfoundland's minister of fisheries and community and social development, comes here in the midst of an almost-daily barrage of Commons questions by Newfoundland MPs about the troubled industry.

War and Peace: There's A World of Difference!

There's a world of difference between war and peace — pointed up by these two scenes. At left, a Viet Cong soldier weeps bitterly after his capture — just another incident in the world's latest armed conflict. Meantime, thousands of miles and a different society away, war is an issue for dispassionate scrutiny. So much so, young history students can take time to painstakingly recreate their idea of its results — like the students of Loyalist College. The realistic scene (right) was part of a simulated World War I exercise staged by communication arts students on the campus yesterday. (For details see Front Page, Second Section.)

Mail Volume 'Down a Little' In Belleville

Like everyone else, Belleville postal officials are watching their Christmas mail today.

But the vigil is strictly business.

It's the last day for mailing Christmas cards for guaranteed local delivery before Dec. 25.

Today's volume will reveal whether Belleville has joined a downward trend caused by mail cost increases.

A Canadian Press survey today showed Christmas mail volume is down as much as 35 per cent in some parts of Ontario.

In one area, the increase to five from three cents for Christmas cards has resulted in layoffs in postal personnel.

In Belleville, however, postmaster Roy Wainwright says he is standing pat for the moment before making any personal decisions.

Christmas mail volume has been "down a little — but not that much" and Mr. Wainwright says any staff decisions depend on what happens today.

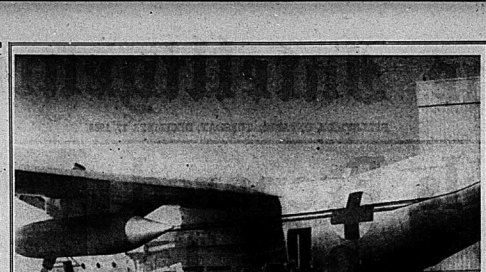
"You can never tell if people are mailing late," he said.

"But if they don't make today's deadline we'll know the volume is going to be down."

Earlier some 140 extra personnel were hired to help sort the Christmas mail rush and, as yet, there have been no layoffs, said the postmaster.

K. I. Vessala, postmaster at Sault Ste. Marie, said his office usually hires 200 for the Christmas rush.

"This year we only hired 150 and Monday we had to lay off 32," he said.



J. C. Lang, Niagara Falls postmaster, said the current revenue is below that of 1967.

"People checked their lists more closely this year and eliminated many names from their previous lists."

Postmasters in St. Catharines, London, Peterborough, and Kitchener also said volume of cards was well below normal.

Raymond O'Brien, Kitchener postmaster, said Christmas card delivery is down 35 per cent from last year.

Meantime, a Toronto post office spokesman said Monday that many Toronto offices are sold out of six-cent stamps because of Christmas mailings.

Ground crew at CFB Trenton load up the last Hercules which last night returned from Biafra. The plane left at noon today for Edmonton. The aircraft which carried 32 servicemen home marks the end to Canada's aid to war torn Biafra.

Final Hercules Back in Canada

TRENTON — The finish to Canada's attempt to aid the starving people of Biafra was marked today when the last Hercules left Trenton and headed home to Edmonton.

The 32 men landed here at 9:40 last night and it was a shivering crew that descended from the plane. The men were dressed in light tropical clothing and near zero temperatures came as quite a shock.

Canada had put three of the giant Hercules aircraft at the disposal of the Red Cross. Two returned last month and the third last night.

Of these three the plane which was stationed at Fernando Po made 11 flights to Biafra's Uli airstrip.

All of these flights were made at night under what has been termed as "wartime conditions."

The remainder of the crew except for two Ottawa personnel, were all from 435 squadron in Edmonton.

They included Lt. W. D. Verch, Sgt. J. E. Graves, Cpl. D. K. MacDonald and Cpl. D. Paluck.

Chief Warns Parents

City police chief Douglas Crosbie today made a plea to parents in the vicinity of the CN tracks to keep a sharp eye on their children.

His warning followed an incident yesterday when two four-year-olds were found playing on the railway at the time the new turbo train went through the city.

The children said strayed away from home unknown to their parents and were sighted by the turbo train engineer. He contacted railway police by radio, who investigated and in turn called city police.

The children were returned to their home unhurt, but a similar incident in the future could have a tragic outcome.

"With the new fast train going through the city regularly, parents will have to be extra vigilant," the police chief warned.

Eliminate Crossing: CPR

The Canadian Pacific Railway wants no part of leaving a pedestrian walk across the tracks, at the present level crossing after the new Bay Bridge Road overpass goes into operation.

In October council voted to ask the railway its reaction to a pedestrian walk remaining at the crossing so that residents of this area would not walk up the Devil's Elbow Hill and cross the new overpass to get to Zwick's Island.

The company view was that the crossing must be eliminated.

Sidewalks are provided on both sides of the new bridge but there is no walk along the overpass approach to the south.

Council agrees that curb-side walks will have to be provided.

But as one councillor put it "there aren't going to be too many people walking to Zwick's Island this winter."

The new railway overpass is scheduled to go into operation for vehicular traffic sometime later this week.

Artificial Ice Pads on City School Properties A Possibility

City property owners at the Dec. 2 municipal election voted against spending a cool million for the construction of a new arena but one or more artificial ice pads in the city may still be a reality.

The need for additional ice facilities was raised by Mayor J. Russell Scott as a general business item at yesterday's council session.

"There just isn't ice time for from 1,400 to 1,600 kids at the Belleville arena," he said. "Something should be done about it."

He suggested consideration be given to the establishment of artificial ice pads at school properties with school washrooms and other facilities being used to avoid duplication of services.

He said it would not be necessary for the ice pads to be covered. They could be used for tennis during the summer.

Alderman Richard Ellis said he would bring in a motion at the next meeting of council to provide an artificial outdoor ice surface to be operated in connection with the new recreational building at the fairgrounds.

And the new fairgrounds building also came under discussion from a different angle.

Alderman Douglas Boyle asked council if it felt the city got its money's worth from consulting engineer J. H. A. Lassing of Trenton, retained to do the inspections during the construction of the building.

He said he had been disappointed in the services given and asked if there was any possibility of an "out" from the payment contract.

"I don't think we got value for our money," he said.

The city took formal possession of the fairgrounds' building only two weeks as the result of the consulting engineer questioning the structure's safety and his refusal to give a safety certificate until certain remedial work was done by the contractor.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds told council contract with Mr. Lassing called for payment of $800.

However, he said a bill for only $700 had been tendered by Mr. Lassing with "no reason given."

Mayor Scott admitted that the alderman's remarks were "well taken" but said in fairness Mr. Lassing had been put on the spot.

But Alderman Boyle claimed the consultant had not been on the job at the crucial time.

Alderman David said it was his understanding that the consulting engineer had notified the city regarding the questioned safety of the building.

Alderman Kenneth Soden, chairman of the parks board, said his board had been informed a few days before the Belleville Fair but the board could not confer with Mr. Lassing as he was out of town.

Under the circumstances, the alderman said he would be inclined to "go along" with the bill tendered by Mr. Lassing.

Here the discussion ended although Alderman Douglas Boyle later offered a public apology to contractor Maurice H. Rollins for comments made at a previous council meeting.

Tenders for the construction of washrooms, installation of plumbing and painting at the fairgrounds' building have been called by the city. Closing date for the tenders is Dec. 30.

Museum Receives Help

As was the decision of Hastings county council last week Belleville city council yesterday decided to come to the financial aid of the Hastings County Historical Society.

Council yesterday voted to increase its 1968 grant to the Society to $1,500 from $1,200.

Early this year council voted a grant of $600 to the county museum, then later added another $600 to assist in refurbishing the Cuddery collection.

The latest request was for $400 to help the Society meet its 1968 commitments.

City Approves Purchase

City council and officials of the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club have finally reached a mutually satisfactory agreement on the city's long proposed purchase of the club property.

Council last night approved "that the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club be purchased as a community centre by the city at a price of $4,000 free of all encumbrances, and that tennis and skating programs be maintained in the city to the extent of the funds provided for said purpose by city council and the recreation and arena committee, or through voluntary efforts of the skating and/or tennis executive groups.

The wording of the resolution was arrived at following consultation by the city manager with the city solicitor and club officials.

Proposed Railway Overpass Could Be Delayed: Scott

The construction of the proposed Dundas Street bridge over the Moira and the rebuilding of Dundas street between the river and the Devil's Elbow could be a two-stage program after all.

Earlier this fall when final plans for the bridge project were presented by consulting engineers Damas and Smith, it was recommended that the bridge and roadway project should be completed in one stage next year.

The reason behind this line of thinking was that the new bridge would be of little use without the completed roadway.

But that was before the provincial government's austerity program indicated a cut-back of municipal capital works programs across the province.

Yesterday Belleville Mayor J. Russell Scott assured council that there would be cutbacks in capital expenditures and it would be up to council to decide on works which should have priorities.

He said there was a possibility that construction of the proposed railway overpass at the northern extension of Haig Street scheduled to be built next year would have to be delayed.

Yesterday the construction bylaw for the proposed Dundas Street bridge and Dundas Street reconstruction was before council.

The over-all estimated cost of the bridge project is $740,000 with $185,000 as the city's share, while for the roadway reconstruction the estimate is $787,000 with the city share to be $276,000.

But with only so much money available, council decided to temporarily delete the roadway section of the bylaw.

As a result there is assurance only of the bridge phase of the project going ahead next year.

Less Than Assessed Value

Rollins Buys Land Parcel from City

Should city owned land be sold for less than its assessed value?

A majority of city council agree, under certain circumstances, but the feeling is not unanimous.

Alderman Douglas Boyle raised an objection yesterday when a motion to sell a parcel of land near the North Front Street railway overpass for $6,900 to Maurice H. Rollins came up for approval.

He said the land had an assessed value of $11,000 and felt it should not be sold below this figure.

And Alderman Paul Russell held the same view. He said it was a mistake to sell the land for less than it was assessed.

But Alderman Gerald Joyce pointed out there was sometimes a difference between assessed value and market value.

Market value, he said, was the figure at which property could be sold.

Mayor J. Russell Scott pointed out the land had been city owned for several years during which time no taxes had been collected. The offer of $6,000 was the highest of three bids received by council and the sales would carry a covenant for the construction of a building within one year.

City Rents to City

The city of Belleville is going to charge rental to one of its city hall departments but in the process it will pick up something like $316 in added revenue.

Yesterday in a move to assist in the need for increased city revenue, council voted to charge the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board rental for space used at city hall. Space rental will be $1,600, with $400 for a share of caretaking services and another $200 for use of council chambers, or a total annual rental of $2,200.

But as the city pays 85.6 per cent of the planning board budget it will pay the same percentage of the rental figure.

Thurlow and Sidney townships pay the 14.4 per cent balance of the planning budget so the city will benefit by $316.

Mayor J. Russell Scott said it was merely a "business-like way" of handling the city's affairs.

A memo from city manager James R. Reynolds pointed out that the county welfare unit and the county health unit both have entered into lease arrangements with the city.

Loyalist Gets Monument

Loyalist College campus on the western outskirts of the city is going to have a monument honoring the Quinte district pioneers who gave birth to the Loyalist name.

The Bay of Quinte Branch of the United Empire Loyalists Association has received city council permission to move the Loyalist monument from its present location at the Firemen's Park on Lower Front Street to the Loyalist College campus.

The Loyalist monument, fashioned after a log cabin, was erected on Firemen's Park about 40 years ago but now stands in the path of progress.

But with the construction next year of the new bridge across the Moira the monument to Quinte district Loyalist will have to be moved.

The monument is owned by the city and yesterday council voted in agreement to have it moved to the Loyalist College campus.

TRAINS DRIVERS

SASKATOON (CP) — More than 9,000 high school students are taking part in the education department's driver training program. Education Minister J. C. McIsaac said the program will be extended to include Indian and Metis schools.

Housing Starts Soon

Mayor J. Russell Scott and city council members had expected the accommodation to be ready for occupancy by this time, but the Ontario Housing Corporation will soon advertise for the construction of additional family units and senior citizens housing for Belleville.

An information item read at last night's meeting of council indicated it will advertise a builder's proposal call for the construction of 90 family and 45 senior citizen units on land owned by the proponents.

Alderman Douglas Boyle said he was pleased that the Housing Corporation had acted so rapidly on the city's request for additional family and senior citizens housing.

"Rapidly?" asked Mayor Scott. "We were promised these units would be completed by the end of this year. There is a lineup and long waiting list for this accommodation."

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids ... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very satisfying improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were lasting thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

B. C. 's Brief

Premier Bennett of British Columbia, conspicuously absent from previous federal-provincial conferences, has made public a stimulating brief by his province on the subject of Canada's economic disparities.

The brief would have been the western province's contribution to the conference in Ottawa postponed because of the illness of Quebec Premier Bertrand. It was released with the approval of Prime Minister Trudeau who had been informed in advance by Mr. Bennett.

The British Columbia brief would involve a re-drafting of the map of Canada, as outlined in this newspaper last week. Very much in the style of the present tendency toward integrating school administrations — only on a much larger scale — it would have the Maritimes consolidated into one Atlantic region, and the Prairie provinces as one unit stretching from the United States border to the Arctic Ocean and taking in most of the Northwest Territories. British Columbia itself would be expanded likewise through acquisition of the Yukon and part of the Northwest Territories. Ontario and Quebec would remain as they are now.

Significantly, the B.C. brief placed most of its emphasis on the economic needs of Canada, and ahead of such things as language, culture and constitutional review. It suggested rejection for instance of a constitutional amendment making French an official language.

Here in part is what the brief said on the economic situation: " . . . unless the problems of the glaring discrepancies in standards of living and economic opportunities for low-income citizens . . . are met, then the consideration of many of the matters which are being discussed during these days may prove to be little more than academic."

The brief from Victoria certainly merits attention. Undoubtedly it would have inspired lively discussion, if it can still be a talking point when the conference is held eventually. Whether the boundaries are changed or not, Canada's economic problems are of sufficient complexity that a merger of existing provinces into larger economic regions could be beneficial.

Highway Safety

When it comes to highway safety the British can be counted on for some effective safety programs and suggestions.

Note for instance that only a month after the introduction of breathalyser tests in the latter part of 1967 the fatal accident and injury rate in Greater London had dropped by 42 per cent from the same period in 1966. In addition, the number of people killed in the same period dropped by 34 per cent — from 82 to 54 per cent.

In this connection, the Canadian Highway Safety Council points out that breathalyser tests could effect a similar reduction in accidents and fatalities here. For instance, 34 per cent of total traffic fatalities in Canada in 1966 represents 1,787 people.

And here is another safety check, this one from the British Motor Corporation of Canada. It has to do with the not so inoffensive sneeze.

We have all heard of course that when a person sneezes the heart stops beating momentarily, and that is bad enough. BMC says also that if a motorist sneezes while driving at 70 mph he will cover 330 yards dazed and semi-blind. Medical analysis found that a sneeze involves about 15 seconds grimacing and snorting.

How do you stop a sneeze? BMC says you should press a finger hard against the upper lip or slap the thigh. Well now, how about that?

The 'In' Accent

English accents seem to be the "in" thing on U.S., television these days. There is the one in which a very proper, precise, gentleman in bowler hat and carrying an umbrella advertises a watch — only he insists on calling it a "timepiece." And when Big Ben in the background chimes noon another 50 seconds early, he looks at his . . . er timepiece and observes: "you know, they really ought to do something about that." Then there is the Oxford-style accent heard over New York State radio stations now and again. Its owner was advertising an oil company's products the other day. A while ago it was English secretaries who were all the rage in New York and neighboring U.S. cities. Now the suave and well-modulated British accent is being put to work on television commercials.

Government Clamps Down On Soviet Propaganda Sheet

By GREG CONNOLLEY

OTTAWA — The Soviet Embassy in Ottawa has been rapped over the knuckles by the Department of External Affairs for the boldness of its propaganda offensive in Canada.

The Russians have always been pretty cocky in this country but their propaganda efforts have reached new heights in recent months.

The latest offence which brought a reaction from External Affairs, stemmed from the Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia. The USSR press office in Ottawa distributed a pamphlet which, apparently, was to offset the black eye the Soviet earned through its intervention in Czechoslovakia.

The pamphlet was widely distributed on Parliament Hill. The parliamentary press gallery was flooded with copies.

The booklet purported to present "facts, documents, press reports and eye-witness accounts" of the events in Czechoslovakia.

It boldly charged that branches of a mysterious and dangerous "Club 231" which had aimed at seizing power in Czechoslovakia had been established in Canada.

The Soviet publication declared that in Canada Czech emigres from among "political criminals, turncoats and traitors" were recruited and money collected for this notorious Club 231.

The club organization in Czechoslovakia, the USSR affirmed, was made up of the usual collection of "former Nazis, Heinlein fascists, ministers of the puppet Slovak state and reactionary clergy."

Oddly enough, despite the slanderous comments about Czechs now living in Canada, the protest by External Affairs against the pamphlet was not made on this account.

External Affairs did order the USSR press office to stop distribution of the booklet in Canada. But the main motivation for this action stemmed from protests by West Germany.

The pamphlet accused West Germany of interventions in the Czechoslovakia affair and spoke of that country "attracting the greedy eyes of German imperialists."

Many harsh accusations against the Bonn government appeared in the Soviet publication and these resulted in a message to External Affairs from the German embassy.

The Soviet officials in Ottawa have complied with the External Affairs instruction and the offending document is no longer distributed.

The External Affairs department advised the Soviet embassy that it was contrary to diplomatic practice to disseminate propaganda which might be offensive to the host country or to countries with which the host country had friendly relations.

This was not the first time the Canadian government has had to restrain distribution of propaganda in Canada by the Soviet Union. The USSR press office is a very active organization with a great stock of material.

By Canadian standards the USSR publications are rather dull and heavy-handed but apparently they do rouse the ire of other embassies and of new Canadians from Europe.

External Affairs however tends to play it cool and not to get too excited when it has to remonstrate with the literary output of the USSR press office.

The propaganda of the Soviet is carried on at home too by some of the stories filed by the USSR correspondents accredited to the parliamentary press gallery.

There is a certain reassurance though when these articles do appear. There is a widespread belief that Soviet newsmen in Canada are often engaged in forms of espionage. But even derogatory stories about Canada give credence to the credentials of these journalists.

However all is not hostile in the Soviet propaganda spread in Canada. The USSR press office puts out a picture magazine which Canadians may subscribe to and it has a friendly tone.

The magazine carries articles on Canada—its cultural and scientific exchanges as well as accounts of the good life in the Soviet Union. The publication is not likely to dazzle the mind, but it will never get shut down by External Affairs.

"And don't give us any hogwash about our 'duty to the children of the world'."

Answer to Student

Citizen Suggests "First Things First"

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Being one of the present taxpayers and an advocate of drawing the public's attention to the right or wrong of our city, I beg to differ with the Grade XI student's letter printed Dec. 14.

I went to Grade XII in this city and dear me it was hard to understand why the older people were so lacking. However after a few years away from school they seem to have improved their status a lot.

The Grade XI student will no doubt have to settle down to a family who will need food and shelter, work, transportation, clothes, development and many other things but that is as he says two and one half years off.

He no doubt has the same trouble as our city fathers, "lack of foresight", but he surely does not lack the selfish instinct of want which allows us to survive.

Today we already have students who have graduated, others have taken their place in society and no doubt others need help.

Water pollution as we know it is a vast thing starting North west in the Peterborough area and north of us. Well, just who is willing to admit it? To correct water contamination will be a long and costly project.

The Mall as it was termed is a costly project, costing many times more than a whole sports complex. We can be thankful we did get a good rough cast on an arena.

I have never seen any long range plan on development for our city. However, it would be quite possible that there is. We are involved with a circular transportation system, and the CNR must be crossed at least twice very shortly to save lives. Sports must be developed as an outlet for energies and fair play.

An adequate sewer system must be extended north up the river bed to enhance industry, and subdivisions developed.

My young friend will find these and other contingencies are his livelihood and a step to the drain of our youth. To stop youth from migrating you must attract other youth. He and our older counselors should wake up to work and develop their vast city of tomorrow.

Our possibilities are much greater than those of our neighbor Trenton and many other areas. The increase in theirs is not just in one's pay envelope, as development and reward go hand in hand.

WILLIAM R. CHAPMAN.

Danger To Cyclists

Windsor Star

It was no coincidence that the name "suicide bars" was adopted for the high, wide handlebars once popular on motorcycles but now outlawed in Ontario.

It is impossible to estimate how many accidents were caused by the clumsy handlebars. But one accident would have justified their being banned, since they were only a faddish form of decoration, with no advantages except for show.

The Ontario legislation unfortunately failed to extend the ban on this type of handlebar to bicycles, although there seems no reason why a danger on a motorcycle would not be a danger on a bicycle.

Now a coroner's jury, investigating the accident death of a bicyclist, has condemned the use of "suicide bars" on bicycles. The recommendation should be heeded by provincial authorities, and until provincial action can be taken, parents could well impose their own family ban on an unnecessary danger in the already dangerous business of riding a bicycle.

Now—the Child Demonstrators

Montreal Gazette

Party leaders in the Quebec Assembly have deplored the presence of school children in the mobs that marched on the Legislature to protest the proposed languages bill. They are right.

This is the era of demonstrations. Almost every day some group is demonstrating for or against an issue or an action.

But organizing a demonstration has become a job for professionals. And in many cases questionable methods are used to put pressure on so-called "demonstration". The use of 12 and 14 year old school children is surely one of the most questionable.

These children will do what they are told. In this case, they marched to the Legislature as they were ordered to. They cheered or jeered as they were told to do. They became part of the "spontaneous" demonstration.

The legislative leaders have been joined by others deploring these methods. One who has deplored them most vehemently is the president of Quebec City Branch of the St. Jean Baptiste Society, Emile Jacob.

Mr. Jacob called for the "appropriate disciplinary measures" against those who incited the children to demonstrate.

"We ask the Quebec authorities to take all necessary measures — while respecting the right of people to express disagreement publicly and peacefully — to prevent little groups of extremists from sowing disorder and anarchy in our country," Mr. Jacob said.

There is an investigation being launched by the Education Department to find out who whose authority the children were let out of school.

Whatever feelings Quebecers may have about the issue of linguistic rights school children should not be used as a battering - ram for the views of one side.

Old Rivalries Come to Surface In Northern Ireland

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Pure democracy may be a long time coming in Northern Ireland.

Prime Minister Terence O'Neill has promised action to implement a "one-man one-vote" policy for his trouble-torn six counties.

And the strong vote of personal confidence he received from his long-entrenched party would suggest he now can call a free hand in providing full enfranchisement for Ulster's minority Roman Catholics.

But the smell of sulphur still hangs heavily over the northern enclave. Old friends turned enemy wait in the shadows. O'Neill knows he must move carefully. At any time Northern Ireland can turn into another Vesuvius.

In terms of its size, the publicity Ulster's political crisis is attracting appears almost humorous. The total population is less than 1,500,000—two-thirds Protestant and one-third Catholic. The majority of Ulstermen turn their backs on the republic to the south. The form of extremism many of them practise also tends to separate them from most British mainlanders.

But regionalism and separatism are grounded issues in British political life. Prime Minister Wilson talks of taking action against Irish "zealots" and "bigots" if O'Neill is unable to move quickly to alleviate conditions for the largely suppressed Catholics.

While he has the power to take such action, there are doubts that Wilson would dare use force. Such force could be interpreted in Wales and Scotland as weapons which might render certain circumstances be also used against them.

Wilson has other weapons. Northern Ireland is heavily dependent on Westminster for subsidies to make ends meet. It is highly dependent on British markets for the sale of its farm production.

Wilson might threaten to hold back subsidies or shut down markets. But Britain still faces delicate economic problems of its own and it is unlikely that Wilson would willingly add to them through new regional explosions.

While O'Neill must move slowly and carefully, it appears the extremists in the North eventually will be subdued or more of Ulster's young population will leave.

Critics maintain that Irish generations tend to look back instead of ahead. The vote of confidence given to O'Neill suggests a majority realizes there is no future in a form of extremism that is archaic and no go and cannot live forever in northern isolation.

Marijuana A Problem

Teen Drinking Increases Crosbie Tells Rotarians

There has been a serious increase in teenage drinking in Belleville according to Police Chief Douglas Crosbie.

Mr. Crosbie told the Rotary Club yesterday there had been 27 cases this year involving use of liquor by young people aged 16 and under. Last year there had been 16 cases of this nature.

The chief called for greater public support of the police in the fight against crime and for stricter parental control of young children.

He quoted a report by Toronto Police Chief James Mackey that there had been more than 100,000 criminal occurrences in that city this year, an increase of 13 per cent.

Ontario in 1967 had experienced an 11 per cent increase in crime over 1966. In the same period the United States crime rate had risen by 16 per cent.

Mr. Crosbie cited Belleville's position between the two largest centres of population in Canada — Toronto and Montreal — as a factor in the incidence of crime. He referred also to use of the drug marijuana and said this was a "problem."

The emphasis of parental concern and discipline over children, the chief said, should be during the developing years of eight to nine.

Mr. Crosbie said crime involved all of North America. Canadians, he said, must be prepared to suffer the same problems of law enforcement that were being faced in the United States.

Pupils Win Prizes In Industry Contest

TWEED — The teachers and pupils of Plevna Public School have reason to feel proud of themselves, just last week Mrs. McKinnon, principal, received word that some of the pupils had won prizes in the Cross Canada Educational ABC's of Industry Contest.

This is a contest open to all elementary school pupils from Grade 3 and up, and entries are received from all schools across Canada. Barbara Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lyons, Fernleigh, and now in Grade 9 at Shurbot Lake High School, won $2. for a booklet on the story of chocolate' Heather Card, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Card, Plevna, won $5. for her essay on the Orange Growing Industry. There were many different types of competitions, but the Plevna school pupils entered in the project competition, such as the booklet and the essay competition.

The school also won $10. for the quality of the material they sent in and the prizes was in competition. This is the second year the school has entered in this contest, and last year won some smaller prizes of $2.

The school is already making plans to enter the competition again next year. All material has to be ready and in by the end of April each year.

The First and Last

Public school chairman Macdonald Smith used gavel for first time in three years last night. He signalled final formal board session after 118 years operation.

One More Meeting

City Board to Disband

Belleville's public school trustees prepared to liquidate themselves out of a century-old enterprise that once flourished on 50 cents a month.

That's how much it cost to educate a student back in 1294, school superintendent Lawrence Wells reminded the trustees as they prepared to disband. It was their last formal meeting before amalgamation in 1969 into the new county school system.

It completes total government grants of $1,109,680 on a budget of nearly $2,000,000.

The contrast in costs added a note of nostalgia to the meeting, touched when Mr. Wells produced correspondence from files of the school board — descendant of the Common School Trustees first convened in 1850.

The trustees chortled as they heard the 1894 complaint of school inspector John Johnston that students were receiving free tuition.

In that year he found 30 non-city pupils in Belleville schools "every few" of whom had paid the 50-cents-a-month fee.

In 1895 the board turned down a request to build a new school house in the city's Bleecker ward because it was unnecessary to increase the city's indebtedness. Cost of the school was $5,000.

Then in 1903 there was a notice of motion calling on the provincial government to abolish the ward system and elect trustees on a city-wide basis. The government also should reduce the number of trustees by half.

The move was defeated by the trustees of the day.

For the trustees, the brief history lesson ended when board member Harry Fast moved an adjournment.

There likely will be one more brief meeting Dec. 30, but it will be a perfunctory business session — calling only for a bare quorum to trim up any lingering details, the trustees decided.

Then, for the first time in three years, chairman Macdonald Smith picked up his gavel and rapped it once on the board table.

After 118 years of expansion the Belleville public school was ready to dissolve.

Enrolment Down In Public Schools

Among teachers "unnecessary absence scarcely exists" and Mr. Kells says school staff are "conscientious".

Total percentage of loss time has been about the same for both years — 2.4 per cent of total staff days worked.

"To bring it down to the individual teacher the average loss is less than a half day per month," reported the superintendent.

This average has been achieved despite several lengthy individual absences caused by serious illness.

Enrolment is down slightly at Belleville public schools.

Registration statistics presented the city's public school board last night showed enrolment had edged lower to 5,294 in 1968 compared to 5,370 in 1967.

"The drop is not significant in any part of the city, and on total, is only about half of one per cent," reported school superintendent Lawrence Kells.

Attendance has been about normal — 93.94 per cent this year, compared with 95.84 in 1967.

Distinct Benefits

Provincial Income Tax Supported by MacNaughton

could also offer "some distinct benefits to the province and our people" in the conduct of fiscal affairs.

"Under the existing collection agreement we are denied any opportunity to design and use the income tax to meet our objectives," he said. "Property tax relief, for example, could be handled much more efficiently through exemptions from the income tax base.

"Allowances for home mortgage payments could be provided to lower-income families."

He said with its own income tax system the province could also develop new tax fields involving capital gains and gifts.

Mr. MacNaughton said the regressive feature of the federal social development tax, introcial development tax, introduced in the last budget, or any other undesirable aspects of federal taxation could be offset directly by changes in province's income tax rates.

He said a five-year forecast of provincial expenditures and revenues showed that spending would rise 74 per cent and revenues by only 40 per cent.

In other legislature business: Premier Robarts said he hopes that by next spring Ontario will have new legislation setting rules on conflicts of interest involving holders of public office.

Replying in the legislature to a question from NDP Leader Donald MacDonald, the premier said the government hopes to have a report on the subject from a four-man team of senior civil servants within "the next few weeks."

Agriculture Minister William Stewart said inspectors from his department may have "breached the regulations" by not insisting that the place of origin be marked on imported grapes.

He said inspectors have applied the regulations only to grapes competitive or of a lower quality than those grown in the province.

Mr. MacDonald, NDP leader said California grapes were sold last weekend without identification by 41 of 81 stores in Metropolitan Toronto.

—Education Minister William Davis said members of this year's school boards may be asked to continue as committees of Ontario's new divisional boards at daily rates equal to payments made in the past.

He promised to seek legal advice as to whether members of 1968 school boards, elected to municipal councils in December, are eligible to serve on a committee of the new divisional boards in 1969.

Exams Eliminated

Grade 13 Students Attend Extra Week

TORONTO (CP) — The current school year will be four days shorter but Grade 13 students who do not have to write final examinations will be kept in class five days longer than last year, Education Minister William Davis said Monday.

"The cost to the public for secondary schools is $2,500,000 for each legal school day," he told legislature opposition members who peppered him with questions about an announcement that regular classes will end June 13, 1969.

"The cost is borne whether the schools are open or closed," he said. "Teachers, for example, are paid for 10 months' teaching whether or not students are present."

The final day of school for all grades is officially June 27, 1969. It was June 28 in 1968.

The year actually is four days shorter than 1967-68 because of a longer two-week Christmas holiday.

Mr. Davis said that in the five years before departmental examinations were eliminated for Grade 13 students, the date on which the last papers were written varied between June 21 and June 29.

In 1968, the first year without final examinations, students with an average of 60 per cent were excused from school June 3.

"This in effect reduced the school year to nine months for secondary schools, leaving 179 days for instruction compared to 198 days for elementary pupils."

This year, classes will continue until June 13, when students not required to write final examinations will be excused.

This means 184 days of regular classes, five more than last year.

Students who have to write locally-set Grade 13 examinations will begin writing June 16.

City Students Protest Decision

Students protesting the department of education's ruling for an expanded term walked out of classes at Centennial Secondary yesterday.

Ignoring sub freezing temperatures 75 students walked a mile to Quinte Secondary school and milled about the front entrance during the noon hour.

None of the students at Quinte followed the Centennial protesters although they were called upon to join them, a spokesman for the Bay of Quinte Board of Education reported.

Commenting on the walkout at Centennial assistant superintendent Les Reid said "I do not know what they hope to achieve. It is a department of education ruling and has nothing to do with us."

While Mr. Reid spoke on the telephone from his office next to the Quinte school he also referred to Centennial students' presence in the area.

"I understand they made the trip in an effort to induce some of the students at Quinte to go out with them. Perhaps it would be better for them to register a formal complaint with us so that we could send it to the minister in Toronto."

This morning Mr. Reid said he had heard some students from BCI have planned to march on the board's headquarters tomorrow.

The student leaders at Quinte Secondary organized a petition against the longer term and expect to persuade 800 of their classmates to sign it, grade 13 student Steve Glover a spokesman for the group said.

The main concern of the student protesters objecting to the extra two weeks in school is that the later closing will make job finding more difficult. They will have less time to compete for summer employment with university students.

On the other hand the philosophy of the department of education is for teachers to place more stress on day to day work and less on final exams.

Inflation Strikes Cities

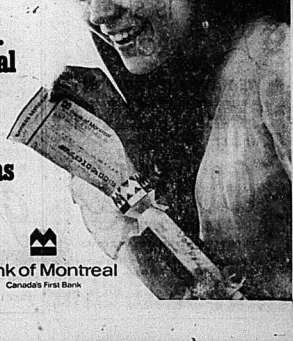
Consumers in St. John's, Nfld., Edmonton, Calgary and Ottawa encountered the steepest advances in prices during the past year.

The leaders in monthly and yearly price increases showed up in city-by-city consumer price indexes released Monday by dominion bureau of statistics.



The survey covers a dozen major cntres. The indexes, based mainly on 1949 prices in each place equalling 100 points, are not strictly comparable in determining whether it costs more to live in one city than another.

But in percentage increases during the month to Nov. 1, Winnipeg Montreal and Ottawa led the way with advances of seven-tenths of one per cent—Winnipeg moving to 153 from 151.9 points, Montreal to 154.4 from 153.3 and Ottawa to 156.2 from 155.1.

The Newfoundland capital record the biggest percentage increase since November, 1967, moving up 4.6 per cent to an index of 136.8.

Home and School Association News

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

The December meeting of the King George Home and School Association took form in an open house with the association members, teachers, students and their parents all contributing to the successful outcome.

During the meeting, cakes donated by the mothers of students were placed on sale in the school's auditorium in support of a fund raising project by the school's Home and School association. The teaching staff remained in their respective home rooms to host visiting parents and to advise them concerning their students' work habits and progress. Home and School association members were posted at each room to welcome the visitors and to arrange their interview with the teachers.

Something new was introduced to the meeting this year, as students took an active part in the proceedings, working in the classrooms and presenting short plays in English and French. The student choir sang several Yuletide renditions in the school auditorium. These activities afforded parents an opportunity to observe teaching techniques and student progress in action.

Coffee and cookies were served to parents and teachers throughout the evening, while hot chocolate was prepared and served participating students in the home economics' room.

Horticultural Society Reviews 1968 Activities

Pride in their gardens and grounds was revived in the many trilliums awsed winners who saw their 1968 achievements again, as they admired the slides shown at the recent meeting of the Belleville Horticultural Society in Tabernacle United Church Sunday School auditorium.

In addition to showing these pictures, president Bob Patterson gave an illustrated report, "1968 in Review".

During the year, the society has held ten meetings and sponsored two bus tours, one to Hamilton Spring Gardens and the Rock Gardens and the other to Allan Gardens and the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. A visit to the Toronto Garden Club display next February, is being considered.

Three members attended the Ontario Horticultural Association convention in Windsor where the Junior Club display won first prize. The delegates found Jackson Park most attractive. Here, an attractive formal bedding garden had been designed and planted by the Windsor Parks and Recreation Commission to mark this 1968 convention.

In 1967 the Belleville Society presented a bed of Miss Canada roses to Corby Park and, in 1968, two beautiful markers were placed on this bed.

A float, "Mary, Mary How Does Your Garden Grow?" was entered in the Santa Claus parade.

Two study groups were formed, one on African violet culture and the other on landscaping.

A successful Rose Festival '68 had been held in Centennial Secondary School with over 1,000 exhibits from over 100 participants. Besides the roses, other displays were summer bouquets, African violets, garden equipment and urn arrangements.

After Stan Smith and Harry Smith conducted the election of officers, Stan Smith expressed the appreciation and thanks of the Society to president Bob Patterson for his energy and technical "know how" in carrying out his duties.

Columnist's Advice Draws Ire of Readers

DEAR READER: The wet noodle comes out of semi-retirement. I goofed. Your letters, thousands of them, have persuaded me to change my advice.

I remember the wife who wrote that her husband was in Vietnam and she planned to join him in Hawaii for R. and R.? (R. and R. stands for Rest and Recreation — a seven to 10 day break for men who have served at least six months in a combat area.

The wife's in-laws announced they were going to Hawaii, too. She was sick at heart and asked if she should tell them to stay home. I said it was not her place to do this, that her husband would write his parents and invite them to Hawaii "for three or four days." I added "Don't forget they love and miss him, too."

My advice was based on the erroneous impression that R. and R. was from two to three weeks. Shame on me! People who give advice should have the facts, not erroneous impressions.

So — to all you in-laws out there who are packing to join your sons in Hawaii — please unpack and stay at home.

Here is a sample of the mail that changed my mind:

From Chicago: Dear Ann Landers: I used to think you were smart but after that advice you gave to the service wife who was planning to meet her husband in Hawaii for R. and R. I think you are dried up old prune with no romance in your soul. Why don't you give up and go to an Old Folks Home?

Fredericksburg, Va.: Your suggestion to the G.I.'s wife that he invite his parents to Hawaii for three or four days" floored me. Don't you know R. and R. is only five days, including travel time? Look who calls other people dummy!

Springfield, Mass: My husband and I had our second honeymoon during his R. and R. and it was better than our first. How in the world could you suggest his parents be included? Are you out of your mind?

Washington, D.C.: Any married man who would want his parents around during R. and R. is not grown up enough to have a wife. If my husband expressed such a wish I'd let his folks have him for keeps.

St. Petersburg, Florida: My in-laws, God bless them stayed with our children so I could go to Hawaii to join my husband for R. and R. (My own mother didn't offer.) Is it any wonder I love my in-laws so much?

You've made your point, people — again proving that everybody knows better than nobody. My thanks and my apologies.

Child Dentistry Clinic Opens in Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — A child dentistry clinic, believed the most advanced in Canada, was opened at the Winnipeg Children's Hospital early in December.

"This department will make it possible to treat those who are so ill or crippled that the ordinary dentist has neither the training nor the equipment to deal with their complaints," says Dr. Donald Duperon, 31, acting director of the clinic.

He said the clinic could save the hospital up to $150 a day by taking pressure off limited operating-room space.

The clinic, much of it built by the hospital maintenance staff, cost about $40,000 to set up with $10,000 for special equipment coming from the federal government.

Space in the hospital was allocated by gradual phasing out of a nursing school, allowing the clinic 750 square feet for working area.

Dr. Duperon, also acting chief of pediatric dentistry at the University of Manitoba, said prevention of dental and oral disease will be one of the prime functions of the clinic.

A young patient will not find the large, frightening machines and fore'odine'ed chairs of earlier dentist offices.

Instead the clinic uses chairs that resemble padded astronaut couches, serviced by a compact box on a swinging arm which houses the air and suction devices required.

Dr. Duperon says the only factor that might slow development of the clinic will be limited staff faced with a rising demand for their services.

There is one resident dentist, two full-time technicians and a part-time employee on the staff and "we urgently need one more technician and a hygienist," says Dr. Duperon.

The clinic has plans for expanding into 1,500 square feet when a new children's hospital is built.

Mother of Four Goes Back to School

By DORIS CLARK

Doris Clark

Many a housewife has said, "I wish I'd completed my education, but of course it's impossible at my age." Is it really impossible?

Mrs. F. gets the family's breakfast, sees her husband off to work, then leaves the house at 8.30 with her four children. She and the eldest part company with the three younger children and head for the high school. Mrs. F. is a student there, completing grade 13 so that next September she can enter a school of nursing. "I get home a little early, at 2.30, so am settled into household routine by the time the younger children arrive home from school. The only time they miss me — if at all — is at lunch-time."

What about problems at school? "Scarcely any at all, says Mrs. F. "At first I had trouble remembering to put my hand up when I wanted to say something in class. I have one hundred percent co-operation of both students and teachers. The kids are wonderful. They even invite to bring my husband to the Sadie Hawkins Day Dance, and insisted that I have my individual photo taken along with the rest of the class so that we could exchange pictures. I am on good terms with the teachers, too, but try not to be familiar with them. That would set me apart from the other students."

What does she wear to school? "Flat shoes, and the most inconspicuous clothes I can find. I love the kooky new fashions like texturized stockings, but don't wear them to school because I don't want to look as though I'm trying to look like a teen-ager."

Dear Doris: For the mother of the little girl who vets the bed at the age of five — could you suggest a simple exercise I picked up for my bed-wetter some years ago in Good Housekeeping? I've passed it on many times and it has worked.

Ask the child to try to empty her b'der but to stop just before wetting. 10 times. Do this two to three times a day. In a week (or less even) no more bed-wetting!

This was described in Good Housekeeping as a delayed message reaching the brain. It wouldn't hurt to try. Hope it works. — A Reader.

Dear Reader: So do I. And to "Still Hoping": Would you write and tell us how you get along with this?

• • •

Dear Doris: At the age of 16 I had an illegitimate child. I would like to know if I can wear white to my wedding or not. If not, what other colors may I wear?

I am marrying the same man who made me pregnant and he would like me to wear a white gown, even though it is a symbol of purity. — Hap-Day.

Dear Happy Day: Better settle for an off-white, cream color or pastel pink. Not that what you wear makes your marriage any less effective or happy or legal.

The thing is, people know about that baby. They will admire the tacit recognition of her existence implicit in your avoidance of virgin-white.

We do care what people think. You yourself care, or you wouldn't have asked me about this.

Colonial French Chicken for Six

By MARY MOORE

Letters come pro and con wine cooking: "Why don't you cook more with wine?" or "I don't save your recipes that call for wine — can't be bothered with that fancy stuff."

We were having guests who do French cooking in their own home and I had a recipe that fitted into my meal plan. We all liked it so well it won a place in this column.

COLONIAL FRENCH CHICKEN (serves 6)

3 lbs. chicken breasts or legs (or one cut-up 3½-lb. chicken)
½ cup flour
2 tsps. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. paprika
¼ cup butter
½ lb. fresh, scrubbed, sliced mushrooms
1 cup heavy cream, scalded
2 egg yolks, beaten
½ to 1 cup sliced ripe olives
½ cup sherry

Into a strong paper bag measure flour, salt, pepper and paprika. Shake chicken pieces in them to dredge. Melt butter in heavy frying pan and brown chicken pieces in it. Transfer browned chicken to casserole that may be carried to table later. Add mushrooms to frying pan and saute until limp but not brown. Add to chicken in casserole. (Do not wash frying pan.) Cover tightly and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 45 min. Remove from oven and drain off ¼ cup of the liquid in casserole into frying pan. Beat yolks and add cream and olives to them and stir into fat in pan until slightly thickened. Stir in sherry. Heat but do not boil. Taste to see if this is salty enough for you. If not add some salt. Pour all over chicken and serve. This is love ly served with or over noodles or rice.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "The toaster is broken and doesn't pop up, and Jennie tried to get the bread out with a fork the way I do. She got a terrible shock."

Set an example of safe conduct. You know it is risky to spear bread from an electric toaster and so you do it cautiously, but your child may not realize the danger.

Children will take the same kind of chances you do. Recognize potential hazards and guard your child against them.

"How come you're never witty and amusing at home?"

Bill Would Not Give English New Privileges

MONTREAL (CP) — The language bill which is causing such uproar in Quebec province would give nothing to the Anglos that they haven't had for many years.

"All it does is guarantee the status quo, but switches it to another level," said Robert Doble of the Provincial Association of Catholic Teachers.

Some English-speaking authorities see it as a backward step.

Thus, they say, some opponents of the proposed legislation are fighting not to prevent the English-speaking Quebecers from attaining new Anglo educational rights but to take away privileges they have long enjoyed.

The controversy involves basically the shift of power from the English-speaking minority to the French-speaking majority.

Spokesmen on both sides of the linguistic fence, revealed in interviews that French Canadians, for the first time in a position of real power, now are showing their attitude toward minorities in Quebec.

English-speaking Quebecers have fared far better here than French-Canadian minorities in other provinces. But this was primarily due to constitutional factors and their own economic power rather than to the Quebec majority's goodwill, these spokesmen maintained.

Their views were underlined from Quebec City by violent reaction against a language bill introduced in the legislature by Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand just before he became ill.

Now the government, under acting premier Jean-Guy Cardinal, education minister, has shunted to a committee the bill which would ensure parents the right to choose French or English schooling for their children. This right had been respected in Quebec until last summer when a Roman Catholic school board in suburban St. Leonard began to phase out English instruction in a bilingual school.

The board accepted the right of "Anglo-Saxon" children to be educated elsewhere at public expense but denied this privilege to "immigrant" children.

Religious rather than linguistic educational rights were specifically safeguarded in Quebec province by the British North America Act, instrument of Confederation, resulting in two separate educational systems.

The educational rights of English-speaking Protestants were thus indirectly enshrined in the constitution and in the last 40 years or so an English-Catholic system has evolved.

In the opinion of Laurier LaPierre, director of French Canada Studies at McGill University, this came about because the Roman Catholic church was "not prepared to turn the English Catholics over to the Protestant system." But the provincial government has largely taken over education in the 1900s.

Today, Quebec's non-French minority of 1,000,000 remains as at Confederation roughly 20 per cent of the total population but it has changed in makeup and relative power in Quebec's Quiet Revolution.

The term English Catholic, which once was almost synonymous with Irish Catholic, now embraces a wide range of races, notably Italians, and it is the swelling of the English Catholic school system that bothers French-Canadian nationalists in Montreal—where the whole problem is concentrated. The majority of immigrants since the Second World War are Roman Catholics.

While French militants say Mr. Bertrand's bill doesn't do enough for French-Canadians, some English Catholic critics are protesting in the same terms.

English-Catholics said that while the bill would permit the government, to instruct immigrants in French, it makes no comparable mention of English instruction.

Historian Dr. Michel Brunet sees the St. Leonard affair as a manifestation of popular feeling of a type that was stifled for many years in Quebec.

Dr. Brunet maintains that the French-Canadians were dominated for 100 years by an alliance involving French- and English-speaking political leaders, economic bigwigs and bishops.

But that alliance has been broken—the change began even before the Quiet Revolution—and now the French-Canadians were operating from a position of real majority power for the first time.

Federal Aid Rejected

TORONTO (CP) — Premier John Robarts said Monday federal financing of extra costs involved in giving French-speaking Ontario students instruction in their own language would be "a financial intrusion into the constitutional rights of this province."

He was replying in the legislature to Liberal Leader Robert Nixon, who asked whether Ontario would press for such aid, recommended in the recent report of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

"I am a little leary of shared-cost programs with the Federal government at the present moment," Mr. Robarts said.

"I might really prefer that it (the Ottawa) are going to get into the question of financing any form of education in this province we might simply go back to the time-honored and hallowed method of Quebec and ask for a fiscal equivalent, and then we will deal with the French-speaking Ontarians as we see fit . . ."

The premier said Ontario already has under development a system of French-language schools."

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse; The stockings were hung by the chimney with care, In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there; The children were nestled all snug in their beds, While visions of sugar-plums danced in their heads; and Mamma in her kerchief, and I in my cap, Had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap, When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter, I sprang from the bed to see what was the matter. Away to the window I flew like a flash, Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash. The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow Gave the lustre of midday to objects below, When, what to my wondering eyes should appear, But a miniature sleigh, and eight tiny reindeer, With a little old driver, so lively and quick, I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick. More rapid than eagles his coursers they came, And he whistled, and shouted, and called them by name: Now, Dasher! now, Dancer! now, Prancer and Vixen! On, Comet! on, Cupid! on, Donner and Blitzen! To the top of the porch! to the top of the wall! Now dash away! dash away! dash away all!" As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly, When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky, So up to the house-top the coursers they flew, With the sleigh full of Toys, and St. Nicholas too. And then in a twinkling, I heard on the roof the prancing and pawing of each little hoof. As I drew in my head, and was turning around, Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound. He was dressed all in fur, from his head to his foot, and his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot; A bundle of Toys he had flung on his back, And he looked like a pedlar just opening his pack. His eyes—how they twinkled! his dimples how merry! His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry! His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow, And the beard of his chin was as white as the snow; The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth, And the smoke it encircled his head like a wreath; He had a broad face and a little round belly, That shook when he laughed, like a bowlful of jelly. He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf, And I laughed when I saw him, in spite of myself; A wink of his eye and a twist of his head Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread. He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work, and filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk, And laying his finger aside of his nose, And giving a nod up the chimney he rose; He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle, And away they all flew like the down of a thistle. But I heard him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight, Happy Christmas to all and to all a good night

Mrs. Selma Bochnek
Only Eight Days to Go

Co-operative Christmas Appeal Needs $6,600

By ELMER BONTER
Staff Reporter

Unless help is forthcoming within the next eight days some 200 Belleville families may go hungry on Christmas.

Their plight was brought to the attention of the community at a meeting yesterday attended by representatives of the Salvation Army, the Christmas Exchange and the Belleville Firefighters Association.

The three groups, which in past years worked independently yet in a co-operative fashion to resolve the plight of the city and area's unfortunate families, took the first step by agreeing to form a co-operative Christmas Fund.

Target for the first year's operation was set at $6,600 — a figure arrived at by counting funds available at the moment and the estimated totals needed by each group to fulfill its accepted obligations.

"We've got to look after everyone in need at this time of the year," said Captain June Dwyer of the Salvation Army.

"We want to do our part," said Reg. Christopher firefighters association representative. "However, we have been hampered by a loss of revenue from sources available in other years and we are $750 short of our goal."

The city's firemen, in a program which dates back fifty years, provide new and used toys for youngsters in the city who might otherwise not receive a Christmas gift.

"Actually, we have a complete master list," said Mrs. Selma Bochnek, who took over the Christmas Exchange operation last year.

"The exchange correlates the giving of all groups or individuals in the city and works with such organizations as the firemen and the Salvation Army to see that every one gets a Christmas boost."

The number requiring assistance this year is one third less than in 1967, she said.

However, the higher cost of living is responsible for an increase in the amount of money necessary to meet the expense Belleville's less fortunate residents total approximately 2,000. Up until Monday donors and groups concerned with their welfare have provided for 600 of them.

Mrs. Bochnek said toys, clothing and food for an average family of six costs $20.

There are larger units seeking assistance and one family of 13 has asked to have their names added to the list, said the director.

All donations are gratefully received according to Mrs. Bochnek. Collections are delivered in the form of a hamper or cheque.

The recipients from past experience express their thankfulness for gifts that made their Christmas happier.

"Many of them offer apologies for having had to seek out help when they ask to have their names crossed off this year's roll. They explain they are back on their feet and looking forward to a good Christmas without our support.

"We find any repeaters are absolutely in dire circumstances."

Donors to Date Give Boost to 800

Up until Monday, some 40 individuals and groups have volunteered aid to Belleville's first co-operative Christmas Fund.

Their donations of money and commitments to supply toys, clothing and food will enable the three primary groups involved in the fund appeal to supply Christmas boosts to 200 of the city and area's 2,000 needy.

Involved in the fund appeal are the Salvation Army, The Belleville Firefighters Association and the Christmas Exchange, the volunteer branch of the United Community Services which co-ordinates the civic appeal.

Donors include: St. Michael's Church, Belleville General Hospital Accounting office, Alpha Lambda Sorority, Gamma Mu, Christ Church, Maira Keyettes, Brownie pack No. 6, R. Knight, BCI Keyettes, Quinte Keyettes, the Campbell family, Mrs. Thibeau, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Bridge Street United Church, Brownie pack (Mrs. Galaman), BCI Library Club, the Jaycettes, and St. Thomas' Anglican Church.

Walker, Moira Library Club, Nicholson college, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cameron, Canadian Arthritis Society, anonymous and the Legion poppy fund.

Also Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Smith, Mrs. Foster, Brownie pack No. 16, Mr. J. B. Leslie, Mrs. H. Daniels, St. Columba Brownies, Guides No 9 and the church school and Christian Reform Church.

War Scene Re-enacted at Loyalist To Provide Insight to History

For a while yesterday near Belleville it looked like the hour of Armageddon had struck for education everywhere.

The smoke of battle blew around Loyalist College and through it swarmed armed and uniformed students, supported by their own machine gun.

But the youthful troops were engaged in no maelstrom of ultimate student protest.

All they were trying to do was fight a world war without firing a single shot — and in the interests of higher education at that.

The simulated holocaust, involving World War I battle scenes, was created by students of Loyalist's communication arts course.

It was part of a new venture to animate history of the World War I era now being studied in the course.

Live recreation demands research, total involvement with the personalities and products making up the culture of an era.

Such a project pays educational dividends by helping students identify comfortably with the living environment of history's phases.

For their re-enactment, the students copied, borrowed and rented the articles of war — uniforms, weapons, ammunition.

Throughout the day they with acts of professional conflict — trench-storming ambushes, enfilading, grenade-throwing — as they recreated scenes for still photographs to be used later in the course.

They also received an unexpected educational bonus in war's realism — thanks to the weather.

Throughout the shooting (by camera) a bitter breeze whipped the campus biting through uniforms with below - zero temperatures worthy of a Russian Front in any war.

The presence of a smokepot, simulating the smoke of battle, did little to warm the frigid atmosphere.

Finally, chilled to the core, the students lit a bonfire. Taking turns to keep warm between battles, in a war that never heated up.

Misery Is A Matter of Makeup

Personal hardships of war were simulated during Loyalist College history exercise yesterday. Here, arts communication course instructor Sly Gilchrist emphasizes plain misery of battle — by painting enemy soldier's beard with water. In below-zero weather, beard instantly froze.

The British Are Coming!

This war is more or less a game but it's to be taken seriously as a history lesson. There's a chilly realism to this scene staged by Loyalist College as part of World War I simulation yesterday. Tim Goheen looks suitably apprehensive as he leads weary, nervous patrol of British Tommies through imaginary enemy lines.

It Looks A Lot Like War

Captured German prisoner is marched back for questioning in this scene that might have been typical of world war front line. However, weather at least was realistic during Loyalist College history exercise yesterday. Students had to carry on — just like troops — despite biting below-zero breeze.

Christmas Baskets Provided To Tweed District Families

TWEED — This Christmas, several of the service clubs and churches of Tweed, will be getting together to provide Christmas baskets for those who may need a little extra help at the holiday season.

In years gone by, some families have been helped by two or even three different organizations while some families in dire need have not received any help. In order to avoid this duplication of service as far as possible this year, the Kinette Club, the Salvation Army and others will co-operate in providing only one generous basket to each family in need. Several other organizations interested in this project are expected to be heard from within the next few days.

In order to make these baskets of as much value as possible, those in charge of the project would like to have available to the parcels some good used clothing and toys as well.

Anyone wishing to donate clothing is asked to leave these at the Knights of Columbus Hall anytime on Monday, December 16 and Saturday, December 21, or on the evenings of Tuesday, Dec. 17 and Dec. 23.

NEW YORK (CP) — Moscow's bid for a hockey showdown between the best players of both countries may bear fruit sooner than anyone expects—within two years, says Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president.

"A game between the Russians and all NHL team is getting closer all the time," said Campbell, who appeared to favor sending an all-star professional team against the best players collected from the Soviet Union's 235,000,000 population. He thought a home-and-home series might be arranged.

Campbell strayed from briefing the press about a one-day meeting of the NHL's board of governors to voice his views on Canada-Russia hockey.

He gave no indication that the matter had come up at the NHL meeting.

"The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has expressed a wish to be relieved of its responsibility of providing a national team," he noted.

He thought that Soviet hockey officials, who have voiced a desire to play better teams than the Canadian national squads they have been beating in recent years, might be accommodated "in the next two years."

There might be "complications," Campbell said, in arranging for a single NHL team to take time off in mid season to play what he visualized as a two-continent series.

"But if it's a team representing the entire NHL, we could make arrangements to accommodate it."

Campbell said he expected the Russians would want more than one game—possibly one in Europe and one in North America.

"I would be amazed if the Russians did not ask for a reciprocal arrangement," he said.

Hockey's drumbeaters in Moscow have been busy issuing challenges to Canada's pros. Soviet coach Anatoly Tarasov said last weekend, in an interview with Tass news agency, that the only obstacle is a game between the Soviet all-stars and Canadian pro teams is failure of the pros to accept all invitations. He expressed confidence that the Russians could beat the best the pros had to offer.

How competition against professionals would affect the European amateur status of the Russian squad, winners of six consecutive world tournaments and the last two Olympic hockey gold medals, was not clear.

But Tarasov appeared eager for a match.

"World hockey would only benefit from such encounters," he said.

Campbell said differences between amateur and professional rules—mostly having to do with bodychecking—would be no obstacle.

"There isn't any real difference now," he said. "The only time European teams claim amateur rules is when they play against Canada.

Yes Anatoly, there is a North American hockey team (maybe even two) capable of beating your steppe-sont.

(Mr. Tarasov, in case you haven't been reading the hating headliners lately, is the not-so-misguided Soviet hockey lutor who says his Russian bladesmen are ready to play — and beat — the best hockey talent we think there is, a National Hockey League club.

Eight years ago, when Canadians last tasted the success of world "amateur" hockey supremacy, most of us laughed at those in our ranks that told us the Russians were coming, the Russians were coming, in the sport we deemed our own.

But now, Anatoly, our espionage unearthings have given we in hockey's smuggest haven some cause for concern.

We have learned, for example, that there are some 450,000 youngsters playing the sport from Moscow to Vladivostok — nearly double the number of Canadians involved in the game we gave the world.

And them ain't slim caviar pickings, comrades.

With a base like that on which to build national-calibre team representation, small wonder the Soviet puck-chasers have long since scoffed at the has-beens or college whiz kids we send abroad as our hockey emissaries.

Sure, we can swim in the self-knowledge that "they couldn't beat-us playing our rules," but the day of smooth-passing, cry-baby European hockey clubs is as dead as the straight-bladed stick.

Canadian Nationals' coach Jackie McLeod recently said the Russians are not only playing the best "amateur" hockey he has ever seen, but also the "dirtiest."

And if that doesn't rate them ready to meet NHL opposition, we don't know what does.

It shouldn't give us any more satisfaction, either, to rest on the knowledge that, for the Soviets, athletics are a full-time occupation — if you're a Russian hockey player, you live a hockey player's life 12 months a year.

But don't our amateur and professional teams have the same option? The comparatively recent attempts to operate a Canadian team strictly geared for international competition is an idea we have, in effect, adopted from the Russians.

If there is something we can fault the Soviets for, it is their continual claim that their hockey teams are amateur when, in fact, they are the best in the country and are paid as such.

But how often do we find ourselves in glass houses standing on the foundation of an antiquated Olympic code? We do pay our amateurs, too. The fact that the team we send to represent us in the world's hockey championship is not our best is no-one's fault but our own.

If for no other reason than to get us off our complacent bums, the Russian call-to-sticks is good for hockey.

And if a Calgary Stampeder supporter is permitted a prediction, we say the Soviets right now could ice a team capable of regularly beating eight of the existing NHL teams.

Like their national beverage, vodka, the Soviets can sneak up on you.

Stars Want Win for Third Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The in-and-out Oakland Seals and Minnesota North Stars take each other's measure tonight in a National Hockey League game that could settle for a time third place in the Western Division.

It also could churn up the division's steering leaders.

Minnesota, currently a point behind Oakland, beat New York Rangers of the Eastern Division Saturday and then lost 5-2 to Detroit Red Wings. Oakland, who lost a couple of weekend games, trounced Detroit 6-0 last Thursday.

St. Louis Blues, the division leaders, have the top scorer in Red Berenson, who has 34 points. But the Stars boast the second-place point-getter in centre Ray Cullen, with 30 points.

Third is Ted Hampson of Seals with 28 and fourth is Bill Hicke, also of Seals, with 26. Claude Larose of North Stars is fifth with 25.

These are the only Western Division players among the top 20 NHL scorers. Los Angeles Kings, in second place, haven't a man in the top 20.

In tonight's other game, Philadelphia Flyers meet Pittsburg Penguins, losers in their last two starts. Philadelphia, who lost by narrow 1-0 counts last week to Toronto and Montreal, beat New York 3-1 Sunday.

The Rangers, who have lost five and tied one in their last six starts, recalled centre Dennis Hextall Monday from their Buffalo farm team in the American League.

New York is expected to have the son of one-time New York great, Bryan Hextall Sr., in Wednesday's home game against the Chicago Black Hawks.

Hextall is Buffalo's current leading point man. The Winnipeg native has scored five goals and collected 26 assists in 24 AHL games.

The Rangers also sent right winger Wayne Rivers back to Buffalo. Rivers was called up when Rod Gilbert suffered a broken ankle.

In other NHL news Monday, veteran winger Murray Williams of Boston Bruins entered a Boston hospital to undergo surgery for repair of torn ligaments in his left knee. He was injured when checked by Chicago's Howie Young as the Bruins beat the Hawks 10-5 Saturday.

TWO TO TANGO? — BCI senior basketball forward Ken Richardson looks like a ballroom dancer in this manoeuvre to try and block a Tweed player in possession of the ball during a pre-season exhibition game. Richardson is a senior rookie this year on a collegian team out to match its undefeated Quinte District Class "AA" regular 1967 season.

No Pity Required

BCI Basketballers Always in Running

By MALCOLM JOHNSTON
Staff Sportswriter
(Seventh in a Series)

Belleville Collegiate is not as old as the hills, but it is steeped in traditions, one of which is championship basketball, and this year should be no exception.

The defending Bay of Quinte champion senior squad has been depleted by graduation and age disqualification, but the quality of the replacements should discourage opposing coaches from dismissing B.C.I. as a title threat.

The junior league looks to be very strong this year, but one needn't pity junior coach "Red" Townsend who has six holdovers from last year's Central Ontario championship team, plus six bantam graduates and one player who was first string senior last year and is still of junior age.

Bantam coach Al Brown has only two holdovers but he is optimistic and one cannot discount a team from a school with a basketball tradition as rich as that of B.C.I.'s.

A fourth consecutive Bay of Quinte championship is the goal of senior coach Wally Beevor, whose squad this year will feature three holdovers and four graduates from last year's COSSA junior champs.

Ball-handling, jump - shooting guard Brian Harder will make his task easier, and playing with him will be guard Ted Shaw and centre Bill Mindenhall, both holdovers, plus forward Ken Richardson and Bob Wright, two junior graduates. Bench strength will be provided by Gord McCreary, Jim Wright, Terry Clarke, Jim Spinks and Ed Cox.

Coach Beevor said "We won all 12 league games last year, but we're considerably weaker this year and the league is much more even. We'll use a freelance type offence and play man-to-man most of the time."

Junior coach "Red" Townsend lacks an overpowering centre, but he has a fine forecourt in Dave Wright and Brent Gallupe. Both are tall, good shooters and strong rebounders. Supporting them will be centre Bob Stirling and guards Mike Le-Baron, Tom Gill and Mike Scarlett.

Reserve strength will be supplied by Bill Buchanan, Jim Drummond, Ron Huiser, Bob Woodley, Al Gallupe and Rick Hewson.

Last year's squad won 11 games and lost only one while capturing the Bay of Quinte title before going on to sweep the COSSA crown.

Coach Townsend is a believer of the man-to-man system and his teams are noted for their excellent fast break.

"We're not a team yet - we haven't jelled. It's a very well balanced league this year and Moira, Quinte and Centennial will be exceptionally tough, but we'll give them a fight."

B.C.I.'s bantam squad has only two holdovers but coach Al Brown said "We've got 13 players out and some of them have played before. They have a lot of poise and we have some good ball handlers and shooters."

Comets Soaring

The Comets clawed the Bear Cats 7-4 and the Flyers took the Jets 4-2 in Northern Electric hockey league.

The Comets triumphed as A. Jones potted a hat trick and T. Rapell, J. Jones, S. Hatfield and T. Ford each added a single goal.

M. Rivers, R. Totten and R. Rosebush replied for the Bear Cats.

Doug Bolte's hat trick and J. Brunette's goal paced the Flyers in their win over the Jets, who got goals from P. Ford and T. Soules.

Collegians Net Berth In Queen's Hoop Tourney

Belleville Collegiate's senior basketball squad was hit hard by graduation losses, but you wouldn't have known it last night as the" Collegians overcame arch - rival Quinte Secondary by a score of 66-57 to win the right to represent Belleville in the annual Queen's University Golden Ball Tournament.

The victory gave senior coach Wally Beevor a chance to win an unprecedented four straight Golden Ball tournaments during the upcoming Christmas holidays. The invitational tourney includes one team from each of a number of eastern Ontario Secondary School districts.

The Collegians who played man-to-man all the way, jumped off to a 22-9 first quarter lead. They led 42-29 at half - time and widened the gap to 57-41 at the end of three quarters.

The senior Saints played man-to-man until the fourth quarter when they used a zone press to narrow the final margin to nine points.

Play-making guard Brian Harder was the big gun or B.C.I. hooping 30 points. Ted Shaw netted 12 points while Bill Mindenhal and Ken Richardson added ten points each.

Wayne Casselman was the top scorer for Quinte with 17 points, while Eric Emerson added nine, Leo Baker and Paul King eight each and John Mywaart seven.

Cougars Claw Locals

Belleville Morrisons ran into a team of wildcats in the form of Cobourg Cougars last night and fell behind 6-0, before rallying to close the gap as they suffered a 7-4 defeat in a Junior "B" hockey game at Cobourg.

The locals missed a chance to gain ground on the Cobourg crew, who moved into sole possession of the fourth and last playoff spot in the six team loop.

Cobourg started the onslaught with four first period goals, the first coming from Paul Gutteridge at 1.07. Mike Kelly made it 2-0 at 8.16 and just 35 seconds later Doug Campbell beat Belleville netminder Paul Hopkins to make it 3-0.

and the tide didn't turn until 16.07 of the second stanza when Dennis McCormick beat Cougar netminder Mike Caine to make the score 6-1.

Belleville came out in the third and outshot Cobourg 17-14 getting goals from Ray Summers at 4.44, Ron Fuller at 5.48 and Gord Donaldson at 9.39 to narrow the count to 6-4.

The Cougars wouldn't turn tail however and came back with an additional insurance marker by John Lunn at 18.37 to complete the scoring.

Cobourg picked up six of the eight penalties handed out while outshooting the locals 39-32.

The Morrisons are off until Sunday when they play host to the league-leading Peterborough Don Byes at the Belleville Arena.

WHEN A COWBOY HITS THE SNOW TRAIL — Fans bundled in the freezing weather watched Bob Hayes, (23), Dallas Cowboys' speedy end, tangle with a little giant of a snowbanks after scoring a touchdown against the New York Giants at the Yankee Stadium. The temperature dip didn't dampen the enthusiasm of the Cowboys, Capital Division champs, who won 28-10. They will meet the Cleveland Browns Sunday in Cleveland for the title in the Eastern Conference of the National Football League. (AP Photo)

Argo Imports Seek to Boost Canadian Game

TORONTO (CP) — Dave Mann and Bill Symons, a pair of football imports from the United States, are out to prove that Canadian boys can play the game just as well as Americans.

"The key to playing football, like any other sport, is a sound background in fundamentals," says Symons, all-star halfback with Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference.

"Canadian boys have the same abilities, but American boys begin playing organized football before they reach their teens and Canadians don't," says Mann, punter and place kicker with the Argos.

So, Mann and Symons are setting up what they believe will be the first indoor football school in Canada and possibly North America which will open in the borough of Scarborough, Jan. 11.

The school in fundamentals—kicking, throwing, blackboard work and calisthenics—will be held in the 22,000 square-yard, second storey of a curling club.

Each course will consist of 10 classes—each Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.—over a five-week period. Cost of the five-week course will be $100.

It will begin with a "this is a football" introduction. Each student will write an examination and be graded at the end of each day. The school is open to any boy over eight years.

"I was the poorest athlete on my block at age six," said Mann. "My dad set up a net in the garage and made me kick the football into it for about six months.

"I started to play organized football in the city parks when I was seven and I could punt a ball with my eyes closed."

Symons says he started to play organized football at age 12 and "nobody taught me about the psychological aspect of the game."

"I was playing professional ball a couple of years before I learned to think on the field. I wish someone had taught me that when I was a kid."

Mann and Symons hope that high school instructors will take the course. They believe it will improve football over-all in the area.

'Not Me, George'

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau begged off Monday from a suggestion that he promote games by Russia's national hockey team with Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens.

In a Commons exchange, he thanked George Hees (PC-Prince Edward-Hastings) for his "concrete and obviously constructive" suggestion.

But "I'm not much more knowledgeable about hockey than I am about football," he added, apparently referring to his less-than-sensational ceremonial kickoff at the recent Grey Cup game.

Kicking Briefs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Steelers, who won only two National Football League games this season, fired coach Bill Austin today. Austin produced an 11-28-3 record during his three-year contract. Austin, 46, played offensive guard for New York Giants for seven years before becoming a coach.

* * *

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — End Mike Ditka of Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League said Monday he is fed up with his second-string status and has no intention of playing again for owner Jerry Wolman and coach Joe Kuharich. "I'm not Kuharich's type of player," Ditka said in a telephone interview from his home in Downers Grove, Ill. "I respect him as a man, but as a coach, I don't get along with him." In two years with the Eagles, Ditka caught only 39 passes — far below his spectacular performances with the Bears.

Christmas Shoppers Busy

Business Booms But Lack of Snow Cools Some Cash Registers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Business was booming from coast to coast as Canadians started their last week of Christmas shopping today, but unco-operative weather threatened to take the jingle out of some cash registers.

Parts of southern Ontario, the Maritimes and of British Columbia reported little or no snow Monday and a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press showed that lack of the white stuff was having an effect on both Christmas preparations and sales.

Christmas tree sales in the green areas were lagging behind last year's figures and many merchants reported buying dropped off as temperatures soared to the 40s and 50s.

But a howling snowstorm that dumped eight inches of snow on Montreal Monday is expected to filter into the Maritimes today and provide a white covering in time for Christmas.

Snow or no snow, pre-Christmas celebrations moved into high gear Monday with private, public municipal and provincial festivities planned in all provinces in the next eight days.

Most provinces have initiated police spot-check systems to curb drinking drivers during Christmas and New Year holidays.

In Toronto, 1,448 charges have been laid since police started spot-checks Dec. 9 and RCMP in New Brunswick are using unmarked cars. Patrols in most areas will be intensified in the next two weeks and police in Edmonton have already praised a campaign by the Alberta Motor Association launched to stop drinking drivers during the holidays.

Canadians are also on the move by bus, train and plane.

Spokesmen for both CNR and CPR in Toronto said bookings are the heaviest in history on runs east and west and CPR has a waiting list. This week is booked solid on both railways and CNR reports a heavy demand on its Northern Ontario run.

Air Canada, meanwhile, says demands for Canadian flights are slightly heavier than usual, but seats are still available. Canadian Pacific Airlines is booked nearly to capacity on Canadian runs and also reports heavy bookings to Mexico, Hawaii and Italy.

Bus lines have scheduled extra equipment and hired extra staff to cope with the rush.

"Monday was a big day," said a CNR spokesman. "It will be like that now until Christmas and then slacken off until New Year's Eve."

The CP survey showed clubs and lounges in most provinces will close early Christmas Eve and open again Boxing Day. New Year's Eve is the big night for most and reservations are being snapped up.

In Halifax, rain and mild weather has washed away most of the snow received last month and Christmas decorations look a little dreary. The weather was also mild in New Brunswick, but shopping plazas and major city streets were illuminated.

Montreal stores reported they were passing Christmas quotas and streets were full of Christmas shoppers Monday despite the storm.

Flights south from the city are booked solid for the holidays, but some seats were available on in-Canada flights. CNR reports 30 extra trains have been laid on for the Christmas rush and the new Input-train, running between Toronto and Montreal, is already booked up through the holiday period.

CNR is using a computer this year for its holiday travel arrangements and a spokesman in Moncton said accommodations for 1,000 more passengers a day are being added to trains running in and from the Maritimes.

Major department stores in Toronto were clogged with shoppers Monday and some managers predicted it could be the biggest Christmas in history.

But a lack of snow in the city put the damper on some activities. Snowmobiling and skiing in Toronto parks and golf courses was out as a pre-Christmas activity this year and ski resorts in southern Ontario reported poor conditions.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"You'll have to admit, at least I'm a responsible, professional-type fool-lifter...You should see the crummy way Harvey Berkuist lifts HIS feet."

Quebec's Premier Is Out of Hospital

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand Monday was permitted to leave the hospital he entered with "heart troubles" seven days ago.

A statement issued by the premier's office said "his doctors are satisfied with the results of tests and examinations."

The 52-year-old premier will take "a complete rest" for the next three weeks.

The statement said Mr. Bertrand would rest at "his home."

The Bertrand family maintains residences at Quebec City and at Cowansville, Que., about 50 miles southeast of Montreal, in Mr. Bertrand's riding of Missisquoi.

Mr. Bertrand entered the Quebec Cardiology Institute in suburban St. Foy Dec. 9. His illness forced postponement of the constitutional conference that had been scheduled to begin at Ottawa Monday.

IT WORKS
BECAUSE IT SWINGS!

That's the principle behind the pendulum clock, invented in 1657. Earlier clocks were found only in cathedrals and public buildings, today it's in the home that doesn't contain at least one timekeeping wonder. The days of the sundial and the hourglass are gone and the modern world depends upon accurate clocks.

If the days of your older clock are gone in your house, chances are that a home somewhere in this area would love to use it.

Foot Defect May Cause Leg Cramps

By Dr. George C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been plagued with leg cramps all my life. I am now 40 and in the past year they have got far worse. Two doctors both prescribed quinine but it does not seem to make much difference. Many nights I get little sleep and the next day my legs are very sore. Could this be anything serious? — Mrs. A. S. B.

It's quite possible that in your short letter you told me more than you told the two doctors.

Quinine helps a great many people who develop leg cramps in middle age or later when the circulation isn't as good as it used to be. Quinine, indeed, is one of a variety of useful remedies that I describe in my booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps And Foot Pains." (Booklet available to any reader; send 35 cents and a long self - addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158 Dundee Ill. for a copy.)

But in the booklet I warn emphatically, leg cramps can be caused by more than one condition. Hardened circulation, dietary deficiency, spasms resulting from continued strain are due to some structural fault of feet or legs.

It is also true that a single type of treatment cannot always bring relief. Sometimes several different methods, when combined, will succeed, however.

In your case, Mrs. B., the fact that you have had leg cramps for many years indicates that something was wrong years ago — and now at 40 the trouble is growing worse.

Might you have had some foot defect that developed as a child that put unwarranted strain on the leg muscles? This is entirely possible. Have you wear high heels even though, because of some weakness in the feet, you can not tolerate them?

In your case, rather than hoping that taking quinine will be a solution, I would have an examination by an orthopedic surgeon to find if and whether some structural fault has been causing trouble all these years and determine whether it still can be corrected.

Of course, faulty circulation also may be present — may perhaps have been present for a long time or may only be starting to add to the trouble now. Diet also deserves attention.

For many thousands of people, simple remedies can work wonders in putting an end to leg cramps, but there are also cases in which some more extensive examination is necessary before there is much hope. Mrs. B's problem, having persisted for so long, is one of those which needs thorough examination rather than experimenting with the simpler methods which can be so effective in those that develop later in life.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband was told that he has cirrhosis of the liver and not to take another drink as long as he lives. He did not stop. He drinks at least half a quart every day and says he feels fine. What is going to happen to him? He is 54. — Mrs. M. P.

What's going to happen to him? He'll keep on drinking until, with his liver failing, he doesn't "feel fine" any longer. Unless he quits liquor, it's a downhill slide to the point of no return.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can be determined by a biopsy when a growth is suspected of being malignant? Is there a possibility that by cutting into the lump the cancerous cells will get into the blood or metastasize to another area? — L. S.

A biopsy consists of removing a very small portion of the suspected tissue. By microscopic examination, pathologists then can determine whether the tissue is or is not malignant. Metastasis, or migration of cells to start growths in other parts of the body, occurs regardless of whether one "cuts into" a cancer. Taking the small amount of tissue needed for a biopsy does not cause such spread.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials and western oils were slightly lower in light mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Golds were firm.

The industrial index lost 30 to 190.37 and declines outnumbered gains by a wide margin.

Canadian Tire A fell 1 to 70, OSF Industries ¾ to 26, Skyline Hotels ¾ to 10¾ and Shop and Save ¾ to 23¾.

Among the most active stocks, Inco dropped ¾ to 40 and Canadian Breweries ¼ to 10. Labatt gained ½ to 20½.

Canada and Dominion Sugar rose ¼ to 40¼ after reporting higher annual earnings. Transprairie Pipelines rose ¼ to 12. Nine-month profits were down 25 golds. Done advanced 1 to 81, Giant Yellowknife ¼ to 12½ and Cinnflo 15 cents to $5.80. The price of bullion was higher on the London and Continental free markets.

Asamera jumped 1¼ to 18¼ after reporting an oil discovery in Indonesia which the company will share with an exploration group.

Dynamic dropped 27 cents to $2.55, Mill City 35 cents to $2.80, New Continental 5 cents to $3.50 and Permo 4 cents to $5.80. The group has been climbing in heavy trading recently on news of a uranium discovery in northeast Saskatchewan.

On index, golds rose 3.50 to 227.01 and base metals .04 to 112.79. Western oils fell 1.34 to 242.82. Volume by 11 a.m. was 909,000 shares compared with 1,241,000 at the same time Monday.

The industrial index slipped 1.17 to 190.37 after setting an all-time high shortly after the market opened. Base metals and golds also were slightly lower.

Trading volume shrank to 4,274,000 shares from 5,640,000 Friday. Brokers said the reduced turnover and general weakness was due to the decline in New York.

Bank of Nova Scotia and Calgary Power lost 1¼ to 36¼ and 27¼, Noranda ¾ to 32¾, Toronto-Dominion Bank ¾ to 23 and Cominco ½ to 38.

Among the most active industrials, Huron and Erie gained ¾ to 16¾ and Slater Steel ¼ to 17¼. Base Metals Mining developed fell five cents to $2.20.

Canadian Breweries advanced ¼ to 10¼. A company official said he knew of no "big" developments that another firm might make a takeover bid.

Brazilian Light dropped 1¼ to 18¼ on news of martial law and a political purge in Brazil, where the company supplies electric power.

Oshawa A declined 2 to 42½, although the company reported higher profits for the latest 40-week period.

In golds, Done advanced 1 to 81, Giant Yellowknife ¼ to 12½ and Cinnflo 15 cents to $5.80. The price of bullion was higher on the London and Continental free markets.

Humble Oil to Test Feasibility of Alaska Run

HOUSTON, Tex. (CP) — Humble Oil and Refining Co., Atlantic Richfield Co. and B. P. Exploration U.S.A. Inc. said Monday they will test the feasibility of sending oil from Prudhoe Bay, on the north slope of Alaska, by tanker through the Northwest Passage to the United States east coast.

Humble, a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Atlantic Richfield made the Prudhoe Bay oil discovery earlier this year.

The tests scheduled to start in June, will be carried out by the S.S. Manhattan, 115,000-ton weight-ton tanker. The ship will have her hull strengthened and her propulsion power installed in order to carry out the Arctic service.

Tests will continue through the break-up period in July.

Oil officials say the tests, if successful, could mean establishment of a new commercial shipping route through the Arctic.

Canadian autorities are being asked to co-operate in the project.

A study being carried out for Standard Oil by Northern Associates Limited of Calgary and Norman and Milne, a Montreal naval architectural firm, is part of broad program of studies being conducted by Humble, Atlantic Richfield and B. P. Exploration for transporting crude oil from Alaska.

Other studies include one on environmental factors affecting shipping and overland transportation, pipeline construction and operation by Arctic Gas, and the design of special tankers, terminal and mooring sites by Alaska interests.

German and Milne are chief developers of the alaskow which would transport oil by ship.

William H. German, senior partner of the Montreal firm, said the alaskow is a kind of ice-breaker with a ground effect machine at the front. The machine would ride up on the ice and then crush it by its own weight.

"A six-foot sheet of ice may be a formidable barrier to a 10,000-ton ship with 20 feet draught, but less of a barrier to a 250,000-ton ship of 70 feet draught," Mr. German told Dr. Gordon, the industry's trade magazine.

Tankers have increased from a maximum size of 47,000 tons in 1955 to 312,000 tons and even larger ships are being provided for.

A harbor with a depth of 100 feet and dock space to accommodate six ships at once would have to be completed at Rotterdam, The Netherlands, in 1972.

With the increase in tanker size there has been a corresponding reduction in the barrel-mile cost of transport. With a 50,000-ton tanker costs are seven to eight cents a barrel-mile and with a 300,000-ton ship 70 cents for a 200,000-ton vessel.

Mr. German said construction of a ship to move through the polar ice cap would cost about $35,000,000, double the cost of an open-water ship of comparable size. Operating costs would also increase because of slower speed and the necessity to overcome ice problems.

The chief advantage of the Arctic route would be the reduced distance to market.

Prudhoe Bay, N.W.T., on the eastern edge of the oil exploration area, it is 2,700 miles to Western Europe and 4,700 miles to Japan.

From the Persian Gulf, at the centre of the oil producing regions of the Middle East, to Western Europe the distance is 13,000 miles around the Cape of Good Hope. The Suez Canal cannot handle ships of draught greater than 36 feet.

An alaskow, mounted on a tug-driven barge, was tested on the Arctic coast in August and showed it could effectively handle ice up to six feet thick. It could be more effective mounted on a giant tanker with increased horsepower.

Average thickness of the polar ice cap is 14 feet, building up to 125 feet in places, but Mr. German said there are small and many-mum thicknesses means little because the polar ice cip is not level ice.

"Even at the centre, there is as much as 10 per cent open water."

Oil reserves in the Arctic islands are estimated at 35,000,000,000 barrels on the Mackenzie River delta at 50,000,000,000 barrels, upper Mackenzie River 20,000,000,000 barrels and in the Arctic regions of the United States, including the Prudhoe Bay discovery, 45,000,000,000.

TO BUILD SHIPS

TOKYO (Reuters) — The Japanese cabinet today approved a five-year program to build more than 20,000,000 gross tons of ocean-going ships which would more than double Japan's merchant fleet. The program will start in April, 1969, and is expected to help the Japanese government an estimated equivalent of $300,000,000 in subsidies.

Rice Takes Over

BRAMPTON (CP) — Larry G. Rice, 43, has spent exactly 17 days in his presidential office at American Motors (Canada) Ltd., since he became the company's chief. Sept. 1, succeeding Earl Brownridge.

For the remaining time he has been criss-crossing Canada and the United States, meeting AMC dealers to put across his plans for marketing the company.

Widely-known as a sales marketing expert, Mr. Rice has just returned from two years nursing the ailing Rootes Motors Ltd., the English company which Chrysler Corp. acquired in 1967, back to health.

After losing more than $30,-000,000 in 1966, Rootes was back in t-e black 10 months later.

"They have good products good plans and modern facilities. They've disposed of their problem children and they've cleaned up their loans. They're bound to go ahead fast."

He does not expect AMC will make the spectacular comeback Rootes did.

"There'll be no great leap forward, nothing exciting," he said. "But we will have slow, steady growth."

"Our plan is not to take the giants (General Motors' Ford and Chrysler) head on, but aim at where they don't have complete segments of the market."

Mr. Rice said American Motors can learn from Volkswagen, which "badly outsells us in Canada."

'Not A Bumper Year'

Few 1968 Films as Innovative as The Graduate

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — 'Tis the season for trade-paper ad salesmen to be jolly and for film critics to be sullen. The reason: the Oscar race has begun.

The trade papers are starting to bulge with ads calling attention to this performance and that.

The film critics are cursing the film companies' habit of glutting the holiday market with top attractions. The purpose is two-fold: To lure customers during the lush Christmas season; to meet the Dec. 31 deadline for academy consideration.

A glance over the Oscar possibilities indicates that 1968 was not a bumper crop year. There were some acceptable entertainment films, but few that were as innovative as last year's Bonnie and Clyde and The Graduate.

Here are the films which the companies hope will win best-picture nominations: The Lion in Winter, Rachel, Rachel, Isadora, Rosemary's Baby, Oliver!, 2001: A Space Odyssey, The Odd Couple, Funny Girl, The Sea Gull, Romeo and Juliet, The Subject was Roses, Star!, Faces, The Fixer, Hell in the Pacific, Planet of the Apes, Candy, Chitty Chitty Bang Bang, Finian's Rainbow.

A lengthy list, including some titles that won't be seriously considered. With some of the contenders still unseen, it appears that The Lion in Winter is the leader thus far.

Best actress —

It shapes up as a three race with characterizations ranging from a Pope (Anthony Quinn) in Shoes of the Fisherman to a mass murder (Tony Curtis) in The Boston Strangler.

Also in contention: Peter O'Toole, The Lion in Winter; Jack Albertson, The Subject Was Roses; Walter Matthau and Jack Lemmon, The Odd Couple; Cliff Robertson, Charly; Lee Marvin and Toshiro Mifune, Hell in the Pacific; Rod Steiger, The Sergeant; Ron Moody, Oliver; Alan Arkin, The Heart is a Lonely Hunter; Kirk Douglas, The Brotherhood; Julian Mayfield, Uptight; Patrick Mcgoohan, Ice Station Zebra; Alan Bates, The Fixer; Charlton Heston, Planet of the Apes.

The leaders: Robertson, Matthau, O'Toole.

Best actress—

The year saw a number of strong female performances although the movies are predominantly a man's world. Katharine Hepburn is a good bet to win her second Oscar in a row for The Lion in Winter. If she did, it would be the first time that a star has won three awards.

Providing strong contention are Joanne Woodward for Rachel, Rachel; Barbra Streisand, Funny Girl; Mia Farrow, Rosemary's Baby and Secret Ceremony; Patricia Neal, The Subject was Roses; Vanessa Redgrave, Isadora and The Seagull; Beryl Reid and Susannah York in The Killing of Sister George; plus Anne Heywood, The Fox; Julie Andrews, Star!; and Joanna Shimkus, Cita.

Booming Israel Needs Peace To Meet Its Labor Demands

TEL AVIV (AP) — Military action and guerrilla raids are frequent on the borders of Israeli-held territory, but within the country things are booming.

Economic heights unprecedented in the country's 20-year history have been reached, even though the areas under Israeli command as a result of the 1967 war are only 20 miles from Amman, Jordan, 40 from Damascus, Syria, and 80 from Cairo, Egypt.

It is evident that factories are handicapped only by a chronic shortage of skilled labor.

To maintain maximum efficiency, the armed forces demand that every fit reservist spend at least one month a year on active duty. That means one fewer hand to operate a lathe or push a pen.

"Only peace—a true, watertight agreement—with the Arabs can change this," said a finance ministry spokesman.

Although Israel's army is farther afield than ever before—raising the tactical problem of long lines of communication and supply—the nature of the 1967 victory over the Arabs was such that the miles it must man are shorter.

Before the war the Israelis kept watch on 600 miles of land frontier; now it is 405 miles, due chiefly to straightening of the wandering line between Israel and Jordan.

The present ceasefire lines provide excellent defensive positions:

— With Egypt: The Suez Canal is a natural moat, tipped by sandy marshland in the north and based on sea in the south. Along 130 miles Israeli troops are dug into the sands of the Sinai Desert opposite the Egyptian army.

—With Jordan: The 350 miles of border and ceasefire line is again water, with the River Jordan—flooded and muddied by this time of year—meandering 157 miles from the Sea of Galilee to the Dead Sea. Only in the Negev wilderness south of the Dead Sea is there no natural frontier.

—With Syria: Israeli troops on the heights of Mount Hermon see the lights of Damascus as they man the Golan Plateau, commanding 45 miles of ceasefire line.

Meanwhile, more than 20,000 Arabs from the west bank of the Jordan and Gaza Strip work in Israel, but they do not provide the skilled manufacturing labor needed.

Thirty per cent of Israel's working population is tied up in the social services.

The percentage in military work is secret, but Israel's defense budget takes 18 per cent of the gross national product.

Set against this are the "great quantity"—the figures are classified—of oil drained from the occupied Sinai and the revenue from trade between the occupied west bank and Jordan. But that is a drop in the ocean of defense where every jet fighter plane can cost at least $1,000,000 and a tank more than $150,000.

Behind the booming factories, the busy stores, life in Israel surges ahead.

The Israeli hears radio bulletins of fresh clashes with saboteurs, demonstrations in the Gaza Strip, artillery duels along the Suez Canal, of the air force in action against Jordan.

But along the busy boulevards of Tel Aviv fighting seems far away. The sidewalk cafes are alive with talk, the movie theatres bustle, the roads choke with family automobiles headed for a quiet Sabbath in the country.

Netherlands Bluff Fails

OTTAWA (CP) — The Netherlands has lost in its attempt to force Canada to give KLM (Royal Dutch Airlines) landing rights at Toronto, informed sources said Monday.

The air agreement between the two countries will expire Jan. 8, 1969, but The Netherlands has quietly told Canada that its arrangements can continue until April 1 at least.

Landing rights are one of the highest-stake poker games in the world.

Sources said The Hague in effect tried to bluff Canada with a weak hand. Canada called the hand and an embarrassed Dutch government threw it in.

Under the so-to-lapse bilateral agreement, between The Netherlands and Canada, KLM had landing rights at Montreal and Canadian Pacific Airlines landing rights at Amsterdam.

KLM, however, wanted to tap the rich Toronto market and gave notice a year ago that the agreement would be allowed to expire unless it got landing rights at Toronto.

The trouble with this gambit, officials say, is that the Dutch had nothing to offer in exchange for Toronto rights.

As a result, Canada told The Netherlands it could go ahead and scrap the agreement.

A big concern here was that if KLM got landing rights at Toronto, many other major airlines would seek the same privilege.

Officials say Canada intends to hold out on Toronto for the highest price possible—that is, comparable landing rights for Air Canada and CP Air in other countries.

An these countries, unlike the Dutch, have something to offer.

The Netherlands has informed the Canadian government that after Jan. 8 CP Air can continue to land at Amsterdam. In exchange, Canada has told The Hague that KLM can continue landing at Montreal while negotiations continue.

Pearson Starts Study Of Underdeveloped Lands

MONT GABRIEL, Que. (CP) — The World Bank's new commission on the problem of underdeveloped countries, under Lester B. Pearson, began its initial task Monday of global assessment.

Seven international experts, with the former Canadian prime minister as chairman, opened a two-day meeting in this Laurentian community to consider schedules and guidelines for study programs.

News media were excluded from business session of the commission.

Among those attending the meeting are Douglas Dillon, former United States treasury secretary; Robert Marjolin of France, former vice-president of the European Common Market; and Sir Edward Boyle, Conservative member of the British Parliament.

Although there is no deadline for the commission to hand in its report, the general target date is late next year when technical experts will have submitted their findings.

The idea for a commission to study the needs of underdeveloped countries was first proposed last year by George Woods, who was succeeded as World Bank president by Robert McNamara, former U.S. secretary of defence.

Now It's Official; Nixon Wins Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon carried the Electoral College on Monday. The outcome was a sure thing, but it made Nixon's Nov. 5 United States presidential election victory official.

The 538 electors met and voted in the 50 state capitals and the District of Columbia (Washington) in what could be the last meeting of the Electoral College. The new Congress will consider changing the venerable system by constitutional amendment.

Nixon and his Republican running-mate, Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, got all but one of the 302 electoral votes of the 32 states they carried in November.

The electoral tally thus wound up: Nixon 301; Vice-President Hubert H. Humprey, 191 from 13 states, and third-party candidate George C. Wallace, 46 votes. A total of 270 votes are required to elect.

Strictly Personal

Facts on Education Unknown

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Speaking of education, as I was yesterday, reminded me that recently I heard a noted researcher in the field remark that "we have no reliable data on the general level of education in the United States."

For the first time, a study is beginning to be made, through private agencies, of true educational aptitudes, at different ages, in different parts of the country, and of different socio-economic groups.

Until now, all our comment and criticism and analysis and evaluation have been mostly guesswork and patchwork. There has been absolutely no overall assessment of the level of schooling in the U.S. even though education is our largest "industry", in terms of public expenditure.

And this is the only area in which we do not have such figures on which to base future action. In public health, we know almost all the relevant facts about cancer and heart disease and other important ailments — how many have them, how they are spread in the population, and therefore the best way of mounting prevention and therapy to combat them.

We have a wealth of demographic facts, of economic and production facts, of statistics in agriculture and employment and infant mortality and family structure and marriage and divorce and crime and accidents.

But in the most basic and crucial area of all — in knowing how well, how fast, and how evenly we are educating, or not educating, our children — we are little better off than the under-developed countries, in terms of hard facts and valid comparisons. We are working in the darkness — a darkness of our own contriving.

For one of the main reasons we are so backward in making an objective national evaluation of our educational standards is the fear and competitiveness on the part of the school systems, in the towns, the counties and the states.

Even though this new study will not "grade" schools or school systems individually, the officials have been frightened that the results might reflect adversely upon them, or that some enormous discrepancies and deficiencies in our educational structure might be disclosed.

But this attitude is as much blind folly as a community refusing to co-operate in a survey of venereal disease for fear that its high rate might bring shame or obloquy upon it. We have largely got over that old taboo, and we recognize that social disease can be attacked effectively, until we know where it is and how widespread it is. Exactly the same is true of public education, which will remain a subject of ignorant and impassioned debate as long as we do not have the facts for a fair, rational and constructive dialogue to take place.

Whitby Wants Airport

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — Residents of northeastern Toronto do not like having an airport for a neighbor, but Whitby's mayor said Monday he would love one in his town.

Desmond Newman, mayor of this community just east of Toronto, said town council has approved the idea of an international airport and he will meet with Transport Minister Hellyer Jan. 7 to discuss the plan. He wants Mr. Hellyer two weeks ago proposing the meeting.

Mr. Hellyer announced he will make a decision this week between expanding Toronto International Airport and the construction of a new airport in the Toronto area.

Residents of northwestern Toronto oppose expansion but Mississauga Township has approved extension of one runway.

"I believe Whitby is the first town to offer to build the airport and I hope we stay that way," Mr. Newman said.

"Whitby has three things going for it: We have about 55 square miles and only about 150,000 residents with little urbanization. We are willing to rezone to permit construction and we are willing to finance the airport although we would agree to regional ownership."

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For December 18

Your birthday today: The coming year is spent digesting your life experience. Opportunities recur for discarding habits and relations. Imposed limitations become thresholds. Try to add some activity in fine arts. Do not make a move to exert leadership in your community. Today's natives have abundant tact.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Self-improvement, new training are promising. Make definite plans rather than amorphous moves. Business conditions remain unsettled.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Your methods of figuring joint financial matters are promising. Enter or challenge work agreements now . . . while the time is right. Watch your words carefully, especially in writing.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Your associates cannot keep up with your rapid word flow. Wait for them to digest. Co-operate.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Unscheduled incidents at home precipitate differences. Travel is not likely to work out as expected. Personal power is good (once you get home matters eased.)

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Drastic changes seem very easy to make on sudden impulse today; modify the drive. Advance things for children, elders.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Use your talent for knowing what you want. No point in entering to others by retreating. Stay with your position (no substitute will do anyway).

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): For once the status quo is desirable, at all costs. Use your gift of charm.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Co-operate with older people, friends you've worked with for years. Earnings can be improved through consistent efforts. Without arrogance, put in a good word for yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Circumstances beyond your control suddenly arise, possibly involving losses. Social relations are personal, favored.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Look after those postponed or belated items and get them back into good order; Let decisions wait for a time when things are less impulsive. Take the trouble to let your loved ones know how you feel.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Anything you explain becomes a battleground. Fewer words, and less justification, are in order. Romance peeps around the corner this evening . . .

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): If you are an agent . . . make some affirmative bid today. Business proceeds normally. Defer detailed commitments for further study.

Liberals Let Opposition Do Talking on Rules In Hope of Vote Before Recess for Christmas

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal government appears ready to let the opposition talk itself out in the controversial rules debate under way in the Commons in hopes of bringing the issue to a vote in time to start a Christmas recess this weekend.

Ray Perrault (L—Burnaby-Seymour) was the only Liberal to speak in the debate Monday and he capped his speech with an attempt to extend the sitting to midnight from the usual 10 p.m. adjournment.

Members of the three opposition parties objected to the proposal so, under House rules, the motion could not be considered.

Mr. Perrault started out expressing support for the tradition of a strong, responsible parliamentary opposition. But he ran into good-natured heckling when he quoted former prime minister Diefenbaker and NDP Whip Stanley Knowles in favor of parliamentary reform.

In 1960 Mr. Diefenbaker, as prime minister, had expressed his "frustration" at the delay in approving government spending estimates.

"That was after 56 days," shouted one Conservative.

"The rules have been changed since then," added another.

Debate on proposed changes in the rules of procedure began last Tuesday with a government motion for approval of the report of an all-party, special Commons committee.

There is almost unanimous agreement on all the proposed changes except one—a provision that gives the government the power to set time limits in advance on all debates.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield has proposed an amendment to send the report back to the committee for redrafting the offending rule change. All opposition parties have vowed to fight it to the end.

A government statement of willingness to amend some of the provisions of the time-allocation rule, read to the House Friday by Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson, was dismissed by the opposition as "a meaningless gesture."

Asked outside the House what would happen with the time-allocation rule, one Liberal MP replied: "I guess we'll be debating it over turkey dinner."

Mr. Perrault said the question is whether government and opposition are working together effectively for the good of the people.

He expressed the general government approach to the rules reform when he asked:

"What industry or trade union would be content with procedures enshrined in the status quo a century ago?"

Mr. Perrault said that if the government is being unfair, it will reap the wrath of the voters in the next election.

The same was true of the opponents of the change if the voters objected to them "resting on the big, fat, overstuffed procedural status quo."

Short Parley Likely

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Edgar Benson is planning a full-scale review of the economic outlook for 1969 and 15 prepar d for hard bargaining on tax division when he meets Thursday with provincial treasurers, a government source says.

Sources say the conference might last only a day.

The conference, originally scheduled for two days, was in follow a meeting of provincial premiers with Prime Minister Trudeau on constitutional and other questions. But the premiers' conference was postponed because of the illness of Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand.

Officials in the finance department said postponement of the premiers' meeting is not affecting plans for the finance ministers meeting. But an attempt is being made to complete it in one day, with forenoon, afternoon and evening sessions planned.

Newly-added to the conference agenda is a preliminary look at the government's policy paper on wage and price reviews. It will be outlined to the conference by Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford about the same time as it is expected to be tabled in the Commons by Mr. Trudeau.

The federal and provincial finance ministers normally meet about mid-December each year to hear a confidential outline of economic prospects by the Bank of Canada, and to discuss informally their tax plans for the coming year. This is not a conference that normally makes hard-and-fast decisions, but is one in which ministers have their celebrated "exchange of views."

Added this year will be further discussion of dividing tax revenues between federal and provincial treasuries. Mr. Benson suggested at last month's federal-provincial finance and health ministers' meeting that Ottawa drop out of shared cost health and welfare programs and, in effect, give the provinces an additional 17 percentage points of personal income tax revenues.

Kierans Wants Lot More Facts

OTTAWA (CP) — Postmaster-General Eric Kierans served notice Monday night that Bell Canada and others in the telecommunications field will have to supply a lot more information to the government in future.

Mr. Kierans said it is clear to him that insufficient data now is available from the telecommunications industry as the basis for sound policy decisions by the new federal communications department.

Mr. Kierans has been designated to head the new department, now being formed.

Mr. Kierans made the statements during a Commons adjournment debate in response to a bid from John Gilbert (NDP—Toronto Broadview) who suggested the government oppose Bell's application for a phone rate increase and investigate nationalization of the company.

The minister said the government has no right to intervene in the decisions of the Canadian transport commission to which Bell made it rate application.

By ELMER BONTER, Staff Reporter

However, there are still 150 families in provide for, she pointed out.

Biggest boost so far to this year's appeal came from the students at Centennial High School.

They proposed a plan for two classroom groups to sponsor one family. In this way they hope to

Flu Situation Called Disaster

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Red Cross calls the Influenza epidemic in the United States a "disaster situation," and the health commissioner in New York, the hardest-hit city, predicts it will even be worse there by New Year's Day.

Health Commissioner Edward O'Rourke estimated Tuesday that 300,000 New Yorkers—one in every 16—had recovered from the flu in the last two weeks.

O'Rourke said 300,000 persons were currently in the most critical stage of the disease. And he predicted that the city's epidemic would peak during the first week in January.

Mohawks Blockade Bridge

CORNWALL (CP) — About 100 Mohawk Indians today blocked the Seaway International Bridge joining Ontario and New York state and first reports said about 20 men, women and children were arrested.

The Indians, from the nearby St. Regis reserve, blocked the bridge crossing the St. Lawrence River with automobiles. Several marched to the bridge with arms locked.

The blockade was in protest against the recent imposition of customs duties on goods they buy in the United States and bring back to Canada.

Trudeau Is Cool To Solandt's Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Conversion of the armed forces into a kind of "global public works corps" has been looked at, Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Tuesday.

But under questioning he displayed little enthusiasm for the idea. He remained silent when asked whether he would request elaboration of the idea from Dr. O. M. Solandt.

Tighter Money Here for While

OTTAWA (CP) — Credit is harder to come by and the tight-money trend is here to stay for a while.

The Bank of Canada, national monetary authority, raised its own, largely-symbolic prime lending rate by one-half per cent to 6½ per cent effective today, thereby confirming that recently-rising interest rates are more than a passing, pre-Christmas phase.

The bank's action Tuesday night followed hard on the Washington announcement that the counterpart United States rate was up to 5½ from 5¼ per cent because of "a resurgence in inflationary pressures."

Canada normally follows fluctuations in U.S. interest rates to make sure investors south of the border find the payoff in Canada slightly more attractive than at home. That way, the capital funds essential to Canada's economy keep coming.

Canada's proportionately-larger increase indicates concern also to damp down credit and spending in order to curb inflation.

Louis Rasminsky, governor of the Bank of Canada, expressed the "concern of the central bank over the persistence of inflationary forces and the cost it creates in recent months."

"He noted that interest rates had recently risen in Canada and other countries," the bank announcement added.

The central bank usually tries to stay ahead of private lenders when interest rates are climbing, and trails when rates are declining.

The bank rate had been declining in sympathy with an easy-money trend since July 2, when it dropped to 7 per cent from the peak 7½ per cent that had prevailed since mid-March. It declined twice more at monthly intervals in the summer.

Dollar Moves Down

LONDON (AP) — The price of gold shot up to a six-month peak on European bullion markets today on the basis of speculation that President-elect Nixon's administration may raise the official price for the metal.

Successive American governments have fiercely resisted any increase above the $35 an ounce the United States has been committed to pay since 1934.

An increase in the official U.S. price of gold would tend to force the value of the U.S. dollar down, in relation to other currencies.

But the refusal Tuesday of Treasury Secretary-designate David Kennedy to commit himself to defend the present official gold-dollar rate was taken by bullion dealers and speculators hint of changing thinking in Washington.

The price of gold jumped 60 cents at the morning fixing in London and .50 cents in both Zurich and Frankfurt. The London free market price was $41.825 U.S., the highest level since June 12, when it reached $41.90. It was $41.70 in both Zurich and Frankfurt.

London dealers said turnover was small. Demand was extremely heavy, but sellers were hanging on for a still higher price.

The U.S. dollar moved downward on all European foreign exchanges.

In London, the pound moved up to $2.38535 from Tuesday night's closing $2.3850.

In Zurich, the dollar was quoted at 4.2952 Swiss francs against

Dear Santa, Drop Dead!

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — "Dear Santa, drop dead!" says a Methodist minister who thinks the jolly symbol of Christmas is getting too much publicity.

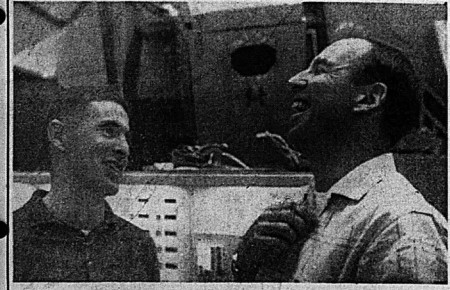
"Santa's omnipresence from before Thanksgiving has gone beyond the bounds of even mystic decency," Dr. John H. McCombe Jr., dean of the Hendricks Chapel at Syracuse University, said in his Christmas sermon.

Santa Claus, Dr. McCombe said, "is a ho-ho phoney whose jingle is the bell of a cash register," and, because of him, "many people are ready to overhaul their observance of this mid-winter bash."

"Overexposure, I guess you'd call it," the minister said. "His picture is every where—literally. Stores, shops, billboards churches—even a funeral parlor. How much is too much?"

"The jolly old elf has become a pest," he said, "as have his legions of 'helpers' in red baggy pants with their banging, begging bells."

Russia Fulfills Pledge To Withdraw Soldiers



PRAGUE (CP) — Military experts say the Kremlin apparently has fulfilled its pledge to get the majority of the troops it invaded Czechoslovakia out of the country by today.

The Soviet-Czechoslovak treaty legalizing the occupation was ratified by the National Assembly Oct. 18. Premier Oldrich Cernik said then that the pact provided for the withdrawal within two months of the majority of the troops who invaded Czechoslovakia Aug. 20. No numbers were disclosed.

Military experts who estimated the invasion force at more than 600,000 men now estimate that all but about 70,000 occupation troops have left the country.

Most of the remaining troops are reported camped outside major cities in barracks of the Czechoslovak army. The experts say there is no evidence of unusual troop concentrations near the West German border despite much Moscow talk about Soviet troops being needed to defend Czechoslovakia against West Germany.

Residents of Milovice, 25 miles northeast of Prague, say two divisions of some 50,000 officers and men are still at a base there. Military experts say this is one of the largest Soviet camps in the country.

TV May Show Apollo

NEW YORK (AP) — If Apollo 8 orbits the moon Christmas Eve television viewers may be able to witness this historic event through a telescope.

The spacecraft would look like a white dot travelling across the darkened portion of the first quarter moon.

To try to show the three-man Apollo ship in circumlunar flight, NBC will hook into the telescope at the Denver Museum of Natural History.

"We might get lucky and catch them around the edge of the moon," Jim Kitchell, in charge of NBC's coverage of the flight, said Tuesday. "There's less chance of seeing them on the lighted side.

Hearings Start

Marmora Fights to Keep Its Railway Station

The village of Marmora is going right down the line in its fight to keep its own railway station.

Reeve William Shannon, as representative of 1,400 villagers, today took up a battle station before the Canadian Transport Commission as it began hearings on a CN move to close out 10 rural railroad stations in the Rideau area.

Seven of the stations are in the Quinte district and Marmora, so far, seems to be the only municipality prepared to hotly contest the railroad proposal.

Reeve Shannon this morning joined legal and management spokesmen before the commission to personally conduct the fight himself.

However, moral suppor may be in the offing from oth er Hastings County council ors.

The group of county muni cipal representatives intro duced itself to the commis sion as the hearing begun and included County Warden Cal vin White, Reeve Clarence Graham, head of the county industrial committee; Stirling Reeve Donald Rogers, Delor Reeve Charles Gordanier and Marmora-Lake township reev John Wilkes.

Reeve Shannon was expect ed to launch opposition criti cism of the CN scheme — calling for centralization of rural agency operations in Belleville — at this after noon's session.

The CN scheme to concen trate freight, express and passenger services at a Belle ville terminal would also see stations closed at Newcastle, Colborne, Madoc, Campbellford, Stirling, Wellington, Frankford, Marmora, Strathcona and Forfar.

Strathcona is in the Napanee area and Forfar north of Smiths Falls.

Madoc, a village of 88, is the only other community openly opposing the plan and local township representatives join ed Mr. Shannon on the opposition side of the chambers at Ramsay County Court House when the hearing opened.

The village of Madoc also registered an objection earli er, revealed H. J. G. Pye, CN lawyer, but no representative from the municipality was pre sent at the opening session of the commission.

Key witness for the railroad is Rideau area manager Harry Fast, who must place every detail of the CN plan on the record.

The task is a lengthy one and Mr. Fast was still testifying when the hearing adjourned for lunch two hours later.

Centralization was a necessary outcome of a speedup in railroad operations to meet stiff competition which whittled away freight and express business in the 1950s, Mr. Fast explained.

The plan, which would withdraw station agents close stations in smaller communities, has been operating on trial since November, 1966.

Local operations are withdrawn into central terminals with clients linked by free, long - distance telephone.

Private carriers are appointed to replace station agents at local points of delivery.

Mr. Fast denied the railroad was hopeful of drying up express traffic altogether.

"Our whole effort in establishing these master agencies is direct evidence we're here to stay in this type of business," he testified.

Neither does removal of a station agent affect a community's potential for industrial growth, he claimed.

The CN maintains active contact with industrial growth in all its regions of operation and the presence of a station "in my experience ... has no bearing whatsoever."

Since the plan was launched two years ago labor disputes in service industries and a change in rates have complicated clearcut results of the new program.

But, said Mr. Fast, 'the railroad has "held the line" against further erosion of its business.

"The signs are it will increase," he added.

Hunting Pop Bottles Can Create Problems

A woman watched a boy running along the roadside at Glen Miller yesterday, followed by a slow-moving automobile.

Suddenly the car stopped, the boy climbed inside and the vehicle took off.

Suspicious, the woman phoned provincial police at Belleville giving them the car's licence number.

Checking the licence, officers hurried to a house in Glen Miller — and, shortly after, departed empty handed.

It turned out, the officers explained, the car was driven by the boy's father. He was obligingly standing by while his son hunted the roadside for empty pop bottles.

Trucks Headed South

These Canadian-built trucks are headed for the USA. Under the terms of the Automotive Trade Agreement, International plant in Chatham now builds the total North American requirement of the cab-over Loadstar trucks. Access to the huge U.S. market has brought higher employment to Chatham.

Board Rejects Separate Principle

TORONTO (CP) — The Metropolitan Toronto school board rejected Tuesday night the principle of a separate secondary school for French-speaking students in Metropolitan Toronto. Instead, the board endorsed the establishment of French-speaking wings in existing school.

The boarrd was acting on a report from a committee which recommended beginning oral French in kindergarten. This was approved, but no timetable was set.

Rejection of the separate French school was bitterred by the French-Canadian Association for Education in Ontario, a group claiming to represent all French-speaking parents in Toronto.

The association said it will try to get the provincial government to force the school board to establish a separate school under the provisions of recent legislation.

Andre Lecuyer, a member of the association, criticized the committee's convention that French-speaking wings in present schools would be in keeping with the spirit of bilingualism.

"This is assimilation," said Mr. Lecuyer, an executive secretary of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

Gone from our home so quiet and still,
But memories linger on.

The one we loved so very much,
The one we called our own.
— Sadly missed by daughters Mary and Helen and families.

Council Won't Object

Individual subscribers will likely do a bit of bee'ing but the city of Belleville will make no official objection to the application of Bell Telephone to the Canadian Transport Commission for an increase in rates.

The matter came before city council at this week's meeting, but the general view was that in view of the number of local people employed by Bell, it would be unwise to oppose the rate increase.

Elks Host 30 Children

The Elks of Belleville lodge 255 played host to 30 children from OSD and several from the Children's Aid Society as a special Christmas project this year.

For the first time the Order of the Royal Purple joined their brothers in a united effort.

The annual Christmas party was highlighted by a visit from Santa Claus himself followed by a showing of appropriate films and a singsong with everyone joining in.

Each of the visiting children received a present and a bag of "goodies". Then they were served chocolate milk and chips before climbing aboard the bus for the trip back.

Mishap Causes $500 Damage

Mrs. Ethel Milligan, of Napanee, parked her car outside Black's Wholesale on Dundas Street East in Belleville Tuesday morning and came back after shopping to find it gone.

The late model car had rolled backward out of the parking lot, south across the four lanes of Dundas Street, down the embankment, through a snow fence, across North Street, and through a hedge before coming to rest against a telephone pole on the lawn of 72 First Street.

About $500 damage was done to the rear of the vehicle, and $25 damage to the fence and shrubs.

A resident of Pine Acres voices his opinion against the Riverview speedway in the court of revision held in Murray Township municipal offices yesterday. Residents claim their assessments should be lowered because of the detrimental effect of the speedway and the reeve has been criticized because of the affair.

Pine Acres Residents React: Speedway Issue

TRENTON — The Murray Township court of revision has reserved judgment on an appeal by residents of the Pine Acres sub-division for a reduction in assessment values because of the operation of the nearby Riverview Speedway.

At yesterday's court of revision, 17 Pine Acres property owners asked for assessment reductions ranging from 10 to 25 per cent.

In deferring decision on the assessment appeal, court of revision official Read Budge admitted that any board decision would be but a temporary solution to the problem. No date was given as to when the decision could be expected.

There are 35 homes in the Pine Acres subdivision and early in October when the speedway first became an issue a petition with 70 names was placed before council. The petition demanded the track be closed.

Yesterday, William Ellis president of the Pine Acres Association, claimed the operation of the speedway track had reduced the values of homes in the area.

"Noise, dust and fumes, racing until early morning, have all had a detrimental effect on the value of our houses and property," he said.

He said also that the spectators use home owners' driveways as parking lots and cut through lawns and hedges to get to the track.

Frank Nemec, another Pine Acres resident whose home is only 800 feet from the track said "the noise is so bad my family can hardly sleep."

Members of the delegates cited examples of racing that began Saturday and continued "until one o'clock Sunday morning and some time later later."

Another resident, Donald Gates, attested to the fact that racing went on throughout the week and was not limited to weekends.

It was claimed that spectators attending the races were "turning the area into a garbage dump."

"And who wants to live in a garbage dump!" asked one resident.

Association president Ellis said in his opinion the best solution to the problem was to move the track.

However, it had been earlier established by the township council solicitor that it was too late to move the track. Comcil has no bylaw prohibiting the operation of a track and as a result it could not be moved.

Mr. Ellis said he had been to see the department of municipal affairs and they had advocated "very restrictive measures."

Mr. Budge said that while the delegation might not be enjoying the same living benefits as before the track was put into operation he claimed nothing had been put forward to substantiate lowering of assessment values.

In reply Mr. Ellis said only one house had changed hands since the track began operation but he produced a letter from James Day, president of the Trenton Real Estate Board which stated that property values in Pine Acres were going down.

The letter added that a professional study would substantiate the lowering property values.

Water Issue

City Breaks Long Term Policy

Belleville city council broke with a long standing policy this week to permit a resident outside the city limits to connect up with the city watermain.

Specifically council voted to notify the Belleville Public Utilities Commission that it had no objection to Gordon Brown, Avonlough Road, hooking into the city water supply.

For Mr. Brown the motion ended a lengthy quest to have his home served with city water.

He made the original request some months ago after the well on his property went bad and could no longer be used.

A privately owned watermain already passes his property but before he could hook in he first had to get around a city council ruling of many years ago which decreed that no more water services be allowed for properties outside the city limits.

Mr. Brown has received consent from Sidney township and from Sidney Shores Development Ltd. (owners of the watermain) to hook into the line which crosses in front of his property, but there was still a question in some councillors' minds whether service should be provided.

Alderman Enos David asked whether a precedent would be established if Mr. Brown's request were granted,

But Alderman Paul Russell took a different View.

"Mr. Brown has done all we told him to," he said. "If council was not going to approve he should have been told."

Alderman Kenneth Soden took the same view.

"Rules don't last forever," he claimed. "Council can change the rules."

In the end council went on record as not objecting to Mr. Brown being provided with water service, but according to Mayor J. R. Scott no precedent has been established and the city's policy still stands.

"It is a change of policy in the case of one person only," he said.

Marlbank Road to Be Extended

TWEED — Approximately $541,000 will be spent on the developing of the Marlbank road and West-Branch Bridge, on County Road 13, near Stoco, and just south-east of Tweed and highway 37.

R. Clarence Graham, chairman of the Hastings County Council Roads and Bridges Committee told his fellow-councillors at a recent meeting.

Expropriation by-laws were passed to acquire land for the development of the road from Marlbank to the Lennox and Adding boundary near the Pine Grove School, a distance of approximately two miles.

Lennox and Addington has completed arrangements for the construction of the road from Highway No. 41 to the Hastings County boundary, according to Mr. Graham.

The cost of the road will be approximately $294,000, with the bridge to cost something like an additional $247,000. These estimates were approved by County Council and forwarded to the Department for approval, states Mr. Graham.

Mailing Peak Over This Year

With yesterday the last mailing date for Christmas cards with assurance of pre-Christmas delivery, Belleville postmaster Roy Wainwright said today that the mail volume was down approximately. 10 percent as compared with yesterday.

"We're down a bit today but still going strong," was the postmaster's comment.

On the over all picture Christmas mailing has been down a bit his year with the high peaks of other years just not being reached.

"Mailing has been spread out more this year with no real peak days. With Christmas this year at mid-week possibly the extra mailing weekend had something to do with it."

But aside from the regular Christmas mailing, all regular first class mail is going through without interruption.

To segregate and clear all first class mail every day," Mr. Wainwright said. "The only possibility for a delay in first class mail is with a train being late or for some other such reason."

Fire Causes $1,000 Damage

Overheated wiring has been listed as the cause of a fire that caught between the ceiling and the second storey floor of the M and M restaurant last night resulting in an estimated $1,000 ir property loss.

Local firemen arrived on the scene on Bridge Street West shortly after 7.22 p.m.

Considerable smoke was encountered by firemen while they removed parts of the ceiling and flooring to reach the source of the trouble.

Fire Chief Ted Poste said a hydro inspector was called in to examine the condition of the remainder of the wiring on the premises.

Picton's Problems

The atmosphere of suspicion and controversy that today marks everyday affairs in Picton is a continuing blemish on the Prince Edward scene.

Now the prospects of an Ontario Municipal Board investigation into the town's local government appear to be nearer realization.

What began with the strike at the Proctor-Silex plant and evolved through open hostility and anonymous advertising by a "Citizens' Information Committee" has grown into a monster that must be slain before the townsfolk can breathe easily again.

The spectre of municipal controversy, and particularly of a community divided, is not an attractive one. The statement of an area resident last week calling for an OMB investigation into town government because "people in Picton walked in fear of the establishment" is one that of necessity must be clarified if the already charged atmosphere is not to become even more tense.

This is an unhappy period for the town, if only because much of what is feared and suspected may be simply a case of chasing shadows that are not there. An investigation could clear up much of the doubt that exists and pave the way for a brighter day in Picton.

Childhood

That was a television program to remember the other night — the one in which youngsters of many ethnic origins sang and danced their way through an hour of Christmas music.

Danish-born Victor Borge was master of ceremonies and narrator. He has just the right touch for this kind of program. The children were absent but they knew the languages of their parents.

This was a program about humanity as well as about Christmas. It showed the other America of children and wonderment and innocence. And in the singing of the Vietnamese group in particular there was all the poignancy and hope mankind can muster even in the face of turmoil and conflict.

When the youngsters of the Danish group gathered around plank-comedian Borge for the final number they said, "Let's sing it in American." And so they did, and in their singing of it there was more of the beauty that is childhood than of nationalism or of one country or another. It was the essence of purity that the world somehow has lost.

Beau Geste

The plight of British correspondent Anthony Grey, held under house arrest in Peking for nearly 17 months, is one that is causing deep concern. Grey, arrested in retaliation for the jailing by Hong Kong authorities of communist agitators, is reported close to mental breakdown.

Now a veteran French journalist, in what surely must be regarded as a selfless and magnanimous gesture, has offered to exchange himself for Grey. He is Jacques Marcuse, who spent 15 years in China, saw the communists take power in 1949 and is the author of The Peking Papers, a work strongly critical of the regime of Mao Tse-tung.

The Chinese are unlikely to take up Marcuse's suggestion, particularly as there have been hints lately that Grey may be released soon. Still, as a humanitarian gesture, the Frenchman's offer is one that commands respect.

Hong Kong recently released 22 persons imprisoned during the Communist-backed disturbances protesting British rule last year. However, nearly 400 others are still in custody and it may be Peking will try to exact further pardons before considering Grey's release.

Historic Vessel

Political considerations aside, the return to Northern Ireland — to the same port it entered on a gun-running mission half-a-century ago — of The Cyldevalley makes shipping history.

The 1,600-ton freighter, launched that the Clydevalley, a creaky 476-ton steamer that has carried fish and timber for a Canadian company for the last 40 years, has been bought by the Ulster Construction Defence Committee as a floating museum.

As an historic event, it makes one think also of such venerable means of transportation as the old tri-motor German Junkers aircraft that were used in the North Ontario mail fairly recent times. In an age of jet aircraft and modern ocean-going freighters, ships like The Clydevalley are something of an anachronism.

UN Success Stories: Cyprus And Mekong Delta Hydro Plan

By STEPHEN SCOTT

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — This week's extension of the mandate of the United Nations peacekeeping force in Cyprus provides a succinct, easily-explained success story for those who may sometimes wonder whether the UN is an effective instrument in world affairs.

Often the UN must be explained in an almost negative fashion.

For instance, it is true that the world organization has been unable to find a long-term settlement in the Middle East.

But who knows what the world situation would have been if the UN had not taken the steps it has taken over the years?

The mission of Gunnar Jarring as special UN Middle East envoy cannot be called a success. But, again, who knows what would have happened if the Security Council had not passed the Nov. 22, 1967, resolution setting out basic terms for political settlement and calling for his appointment?

The Security Council this week extended the mandate of the Cyprus force for another six months, after hearing requests for it from Greece, Turkey and Cyprus.

Representatives of all three countries and Secretary-General U Thant said Turkish- and Greek-Cypriots were taking initial steps toward reconciliation, but that the force still was needed to assure peace during negotiations.

The force, which includes a large number of Canadians, was created in 1964 to separate the hostile Greek and Turkish factions on the island republic. The situation had deteriorated to the extent that there was a danger of a serious confrontation between Greece and Turkey.

It took time, but slowly a semblance of normalcy returned to the island. At the same time the UN representatives on Cyprus helped get talks started between the two groups.

Across the world there is another facet of UN effectiveness. The UN is in charge of enterprise aimed at making use of the huge Mekong Delta system for electricity and irrigation.

The operation requires the co-operation of Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam, ordinarily bedfellows in any operation.

Many countries have given assistance to the development, including Canada.

Letter to the Editor

Students Concerned About Extended School Year

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

On Thursday, our principal announced there would be a change in the final date of the school year. This year school will end June 13 and exams start the 16th. If a student must write all his finals, he will leave school after the third week in June.

The new closing date hacks three weeks off our summer vacation. We are not concerned with this because it robs us of three weeks of "summer fun." Instead, it robs us of three weeks of summer employment or maybe a chance of any job at all. When a student applies for a job, sometime in April or May, the employer asks him when he can start. "End of June" the student tells him. The employer just smiles and says, "Sorry, I can get a university student at the end of May." The chances of a student obtaining summer employment have been steadily decreasing but this recent development kicks our chances all to shreds. Even if a student does manage to get a job, he will lose some three weeks pay or about $125 - $175. He could have purchased his college books for that money.

Summer employment is the only means we have of sponsoring our education. These extra three weeks have been termed as progress. What kind of progress that deprives a student of a chance to further his education?

But, you say, we are making this summer work issue seem more important than it really is. What about the Student Loan Program? Can't the student sponsor his education in that way? It will be more difficult this year to obtain a loan because of tightening up by the government. Still another point — Allow me to quote from the Student Loan Brochure "the student is expected to contribute towards his educational costs through the proceeds from summer work." Standard figures for expected earnings range from $250 to $650. Where can a student without summer work hope to get at least $250 in order to get a loan? These additional three weeks will mean for many the inability to procure employment, mainly because someone else got there first.
